SOLDIER-SETTLEMENT LEGISLATION

Representative Addison T. Smith of Twin Falls yesterday expressed the opinion that the appropriation of a hundred or two hundred million dollars for soldier-settlement work will be passed as a part of the sundry civil bill by the first of July. If he is correct in his opinion, Idaho will be in line for its share of the federal appropriation for the last Idaho legislature passed a bill appropriating $100,000 for soldier-settlement law to become effective in case of favorable congressional action on the lines suggested by Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the interior department.

Most of the states that have had opportunity have passed favorably upon the plan, and those that have not had opportunity doubtless will do so when their legislatures get in session. California actually referred a proposal for bond issue for $10,000,000. Nevada passed a bill appropriating $1,000,000 by sale of bonds. Montana appropriated $250,000 in two acts, one for $50,000 providing for cooperation with the federal government, and one for $200,000 for relief of soldiers, containing provision for soldier-settlement work. New Mexico appropriated $400,000 for the work. Oregon appropriated a nominal sum for immediate work and submitted to referendum a bond issue of $5,000,000. Utah appropriated $25,000 and authorized a bond issue of $1,000,000. Washington provided for a tax annually until 1928 to provide a fund of $5,000,000, appropriated $5,000,000 of that fund, and also $200,000 for immediate use in soldier-settlement work. Wyoming authorized a loan of $200,000 from the state school funds for this work.

In addition to this activity by western states, the legislatures of states from New England to the gulf took similar action. The appropriation of $100,000 by Idaho, considering the vast opportunities for soldier-settlement in the Gem state, therefore seems hopelessly insignificant. If Idaho is to get the full benefit from this enterprise, the citizens will have to knuckle down, forget their local differences and get ready for a pull together. This not for Idaho alone, but for the benefit of the returning soldiers, who are entitled to the best there is in the country to offer. That best is in Idaho, on the vast tracts susceptible of irrigation and requiring only a small percentage of the cost that was displayed by the boys on the bloody fields of France. Here in the sunny fields they can enter into a great construction work, building up the inland empire, profiting not only from their labor but, from the natural increase in value which will follow.

Idaho, and southern Idaho particularly, should get together in concerted effort to see that the plan of the interior department is put through congress without any more delays by filibuster or otherwise. Everybody knows that the last congress failed to pass this bill on account of a filibuster in the senate, perpetrated for no other reason than that the Republicans wanted the measure passed by a Republican congress, so they could claim the credit—to slow the nation what the Republicans are doing for the returned soldiers. The delay thus caused will likely work against the patriotic endeavor of the politicians.

The political aspect, however, should be forgotten, and every effort made to get the bill through without further delay. And after it is passed, Idaho should be in position to take full advantage of the provisions. It is not only important to Idaho, but it is a duty Idahoans owe to the returned soldiers to give them the best to be had in the nation—and that is an irrigated farm in the Gem state.

CLEAN UP WEEK

With building of some kind of other going on in nearly every block of the city, with citizens busy at war gardens as an addition to their regular duties, with a thousand and one details of ordinary life to be attended to, the clean-up period designated by the city council for next week might be regarded as a burden. But time ought to be found by every householder to clean up his own back yard.

It is an inspiration to see vacant lots planted to vegetables, and front yards in lawn. The corners of all cities is in the back yards where everything not desirable is permitted to accumulate. In this Twin Falls is no exception to the rule. There are a lot of places whose appearance could be vastly improved, some of them being visible from the main streets. Broken-down wagons and discarded automobile parts here and there, piles of stones and old iron, grass and weeds detract from the general appearance of property and happiness of the city. Under the instructions of the council the citizens should remove all these.

And while the clean-up campaign is on, let not the value of paint be overlooked. A little paint judiciously applied not only adds greatly to the attractiveness of houses, garages and barns, but it adds to their value, because it lengthens the life of whatever is protected from the elements. A few hours of labor applied, and a few dollars spent in beautifying the city by half of the citizens of the city would make Twin Falls stand out even more prominently as the most desirable place in Idaho, hence the most desirable place in the United States, to live in.

GLOATING OVER GERMANY'S DISCOMFITURE

It is hard to refrain from just a little satisfaction in seeing the late important Hun coming down off his high horse and groveling in the ground. He hates it like the mischief. Defeat was not in the Hun program when the grand armies started out on the Hun destruction and liquidation. That was one of many details the Hun overlooked when he started out to win domination over heaven and earth. And not having prepared for defeat, he doesn't know how to take it gracefully.

It is his wish to create pity. Then he laments to arouse fear. Then conceals new madness by declaring that it is better to lose all in the confusion of madness than to give it up as tribute to the victors. It all serves to develop the yellow streak until it covers the nation—and yet they call themselves Caucasians.

Compared with the terms proposed in Berlin, which were to be presented to the allied nations if Hunism should triumph, as the militarists and all Germany verily believed it should triumph, the terms presented for signature at Versailles, instead of being so harsh that no nation could endure them, present an example of mildness that the Germans might well try to emulate. After all the bluff and bluster, Germany will sign, and in her heart she will hold the desire for revenge, which she must be forbidden to exercise until the people return to a sadder state of mind. That will come only after a generation or two have passed away and the present ill nature and sting of defeat are forgotten.

BOOKING THE UNIVERSE

One more book has been placed in the way of freeing child labor from the curse of labor. Federal Judge James E. Boyd of North Carolina, who last year declared the federal child labor law unconstitutional, has made the same decision in regard to the tax on the products of child labor in the new revenue law.

His decision need cause no surprise. The aims of a good many people in every state whose children are exploited seem to work that way.

Naturally, every one who is interested in children as children, and everyone who has any sane view of the economic waste of killing the goose that lays the golden egg, hopes that this decision may not be sustained by the supreme court.

But whether or not the tax is upheld sooner or later the reform will come. The aim of the law is against the employment of children under 14 years to the detriment of their health, education and future usefulness. The labor charter adopted by the peace conference is evidence of that.

A few reformers may make such a fuss that they halt for a few moments the procession of the race toward its goal. Eventually they are thrown into the ditch by the roadside. The oncoming tide of forward-looking humanity is too much for them.

One may be disgusted at the cruelty and lack of vision of the people who are trying to prevent the passage of child labor laws. One may feel poignant regret for the children who will suffer which the fight is on. But there is no despair in the situation.

Bookings the universe does not pay, and even the short-sighted people will have to find it out some time.

PETTY LARCENY OR BUSINESS?

There are tricks in all trades, except our own. Some tricks are little, and involve only self respect and a few pennies.

There is an amended regulation to the federal pure food and drugs act which requires the labeling of weights on small packages of fruits and drugs. The old regulations required packages containing more than two ounces to be labeled with the correct weight. The new regulations require labeling of packages contained as small as a half ounce to show the correct weight on the outside of the package.

The reduction was made because manufacturers—barest manufacturers—can you imagine it—often placed as little sugar and two ounces of spices in packages that would hold four ounces if filled, and in other instances filled the package so as to appear full, or fitted it with a sifting device which made it impracticable for the consumer to determine whether it was full. The new law is intended to protect the consumer from the deceptive practice of slack filling.

Isn't it a beautiful commentary on the Christian virtue of honesty which is disclosed by the federal government's efforts to protect the consumer from the sharp practices of profiteers? And wonder is expressed of the startling growth in the last few years of "radicalism."

UNCLE SAM AS LIGHTNING ROD AGENT

Lightning in southern Idaho is an almost unknown phenomenon, so far as serious damage resulting from electrical storms is concerned. Nevertheless, it will be interesting to know that loss from lightning in the United States is around $8,000,000 a year. It is interesting because virtually none of this loss is suffered here. Further, it is interesting because the government of the United States has set itself to the task of reducing this annual loss by a campaign of education, regarding the value of lightning rods, and how to install them and all about them. Farmers' bulletin #242 by the department of agriculture tells all about modern methods of protecting against lightning. Uncle Sam's business in southern Idaho is likely to be small, however.

House Leaders Do Not Want Berger

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Plans to prevent Victor Berger, socialist, convicted in the federal courts of Illinois for violation of the espionage act, from taking his seat in congress were put under way by house leaders today. It is expected that he will appear Monday, when congress goes to an extraordinary session, which attempt to qualify. His case will be referred to a special committee which was expected to report, spelling Berger as a man who is a threat to the court records. The house leaders said, would make out a prima facie case against Berger's fitness to take his seat. Berger is now on the 10th floor of the house, drawing his $25 a month.

FEDERAL BUILDING PROGRAM REACHES NEARLY ALL STATES

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Despite the failure of numerous important appropriation measures in the sixty-fifth congress, because of the Republican filibuster, the federal government is getting a large amount of building and construction work under way. It will serve the purpose of accomplishing important developments, which will be the result of the war and the reconstruction work which will follow. It will also mean the employment of thousands of workers, a very great many of whom have been in the army of the war.

By the end of the fiscal year 1921, there will be available for federal aid for state highway construction more than $245,000,000. More than $20,000,000 is available for river and harbor maintenance and construction work and there is also an amount of $20,000,000 for new hospitals and improvements to old ones needed by the public health service for disabled war veterans by the end of this year.

The spending of the $245,000,000 appropriated for federal aid for state highway construction more than $245,000,000. More than $20,000,000 is available for river and harbor maintenance and construction work and there is also an amount of $20,000,000 for new hospitals and improvements to old ones needed by the public health service for disabled war veterans by the end of this year.

The failure of congress to make an appropriation to care for the treasury department's building program has held up about 100 needed projects, this particular, and it is certain that most of them will take advantage of the opportunity to get government aid.

The river and harbor improvement program takes in almost every section of the country. More than $1,000,000 will be spent along the Mississippi and approximately $2,000,000 along the Ohio river and about a half million along the Missouri river. This work will go forward regardless of current labor and material costs, and will prove an important factor in improving business and labor conditions in the localities affected.

The building program of the public health service, to meet the needs of the millions of soldiers and sailors awaiting their discharge, will be the most important of the war risk act, for remodeling and additions to hospital projects at Camp Cook, New Mexico; Camp Johnston, Georgia; Camp Joseph E. Johnston, Florida; Camp Des Moines, Louisiana; Camp Logan, Texas; Camp Fremont, California, and the nitrate plant at Perryville, Maryland. A hospital will cost $350,000. A sanatorium at Dawson Springs, Ky., $400,000.

The failure of congress to make an appropriation to care for the treasury department's building program has held up about 100 needed projects, most of every state in the union is represented in this list of deferred projects, which would involve an expenditure of about $20,000,000. The next congress is expected to make this money available.

Despite the handicap which the Republican filibuster in the last congress threw on the government departments, they are straining every nerve to get necessary construction work under way, in order that the country may catch up with its delayed development program and provide employment for thousands of discharged fighters and released war workers during the period of readjustment.

War Poster Wins Artist a Bride

NEWARK, N. J., May 14.—For Home and Country's victory loan poster painted by Alfred Eric Orr won him a bride. The bride was Ruth Wyckoff, beautiful Los Angeles girl, who posed as the wife in the poster.

Miss Wyckoff was waiting in the east shortly before the last loan campaign began. She contacted the "For Home and Country" idea and suggested it to Orr, who promptly picked her as his model. Friendship ripened into love while he was painting and they were married last Saturday. They will live in Los Angeles.

Something You Should Know About Tires

This Tire Solves Your Problems too

When Charles C. Gates, E. M., discovered the scientific principle that reduces tire expense one-half, and embodied it in his great invention, the puncture proof Gates Half-Sole Tire, his next problem was to build an organization of dealer experts that would bring this tire economy to the door of every car owner.

Keen-minded men were carefully selected in each locality, and trained to meet the requirements. Today more than 1,000 of these experts are located all over the United States conscientiously serving ever increasing numbers of car owners.

Motorists in localities where dealers have been established are enthusiastic. Three years' experience has proved to the satisfaction of Gates Half-Sole Tire possible to get 5,000 to 15,000 more miles out of their tires than ever before—and without puncture, at only 1-2 the cost of ordinary tires.

500,000 users including the largest business houses in the country now know why Gates Half-Sole Tires can be sold under a stronger guarantee than any other tire on the market.

With five acres of modern factory building with activity night and day to take care of the demand, The Gates Rubber Company is now erecting additional factories to triple its output. When these are completed new service stations will be opened, and eventually guaranteed puncture-proof tires will be available to every motorist.

Today there are 1,115 authorized dealer experts who will gladly show you how you can run your tire bills in half, and how you can avoid the trouble and expense of tire trouble. Those located in your territory are listed below.

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE MEETS IN-CHICAGO TO PLAN CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Announcement of the detailed program of the two days' meeting of the Democratic national committee in Chicago, May 22 and 23, was made at the committee's headquarters. The committee is to assemble in response to a call issued by the national chairman Homer S. Cummings.

At this meeting there will be present for the first time members of the new women's auxiliary committee, which represents women voters in all the states of the union. The members of the auxiliary—secretary, treasurer, chairman and attorney general—will be present at the meeting and speak at the final session.

The purpose of the meetings, in addition to the transaction of business, is to form a compact, interlocking, co-ordinating organization for the campaign of 1920. The women's auxiliary will have a large part in marshaling women voters hereafter, and will select party nominees for the national convention. Heads of the national committee and the women's auxiliary committee, there will be present chairman, secretary and publicity directors of state organizations. They will participate in the discussion and formulation of campaign plans.

Mrs. George Davis of Illinois, chairman of the women's bureau of the Democratic national committee, will preside at the session at which the committee's plans for organization among women will be considered. The committee will also be addressed by well-known women leaders. These are Mrs. Alexander D. Campbell of Oregon, Mrs. Charles Campbell of New York; Mrs. Henry Shattuck of Montana; Mrs. "Billie" Wilson of Indiana; Mrs. Florence E. Allen of Ohio; Mrs. Gertrude A. Lee of Colorado; and Miss Mary Toy of California.

FEDERAL AID BOOMS ROAD CONSTRUCTION

Thirty-eight States Take Advantage of Government's Offer to Help Build Public Highways.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—From the expiration in 1916, when Congress appropriated $25,000,000 for a period of five years to aid the states in the construction of post roads, federal aid has developed into a magnificent enterprise, resulting in the appropriation of $299,000,000 by the last congress, to be placed at the disposal of the states whenever they meet this condition, at least dollar for dollar to build roads.

In March alone, the states submitted 117 new projects, involving a total expenditure of $147,550,000 for the miles of improved highway. In this, the federal aid allotted by the secretary of agriculture, who administers the federal aid road act, was $73,575,000. Thirty-eight states are represented in this boom in road building. There are approximately 2,200,000 miles of highways of all kinds in the United States. Of this, 10 per cent, has improved. The war demonstrated that highways have become one of the greatest essentials in the commerce and prosperity of the nation. The national highway act of 1916, which authorized the states to receive federal aid for the construction of highways, was the first step in the development of the highway system. It was followed by the federal aid road act of 1916, which authorized the states to receive federal aid for the construction of highways, and the federal aid road act of 1919, which authorized the states to receive federal aid for the construction of highways.

COURT CRITICIZES "HEAVENS" UNDER THE SLEEVES

Charter, Va., May 14.—"Heaven" cannot be worn underneath the new night dress. Every woman knows this, and at least one man. He is a judge, too. Not only a judge of women's clothing, but a judge of fashions.

Mrs. Millie Flinch staged a "living model show" in an effort to discount the ability as a dressmaker of Mrs. J. W. Weinstock for the benefit of Magistrate Olin T. Panscott—in the Magistrate's office. Mrs. Flinch declared the dress which she, Weinstock had made for her did not fit, and she wanted her money back.

"Why judge, look how tight these sleeves are. I could bend my arm," said Mrs. Flinch, as she exhibited the "outpour of a pump arm. Magistrate Panscott flustered and stammered slightly and nervously whispered to Mrs. Flinch that the sleeves of her dress were "all right," and she was to wear them.

The modern Slovenian declared that both defendant and plaintiff were somewhat at fault and divided the case between them.
