TEXAS SITUATION IS REPORTED CRITICAL GOVERNOR ASKS FOR TROOPS TO PROTECT LIFE AND PROPERTY

Says Emergency May Arise at Most Unexpected Moment Requiring Strong Military Force—War Department Without Any Information Asks General Cabell if Necessity Exists.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Army officials expect a report within forty-eight hours from Major General Cabell, commanding the southern army department as to the necessity of mobilization of two Texas national cavalry brigades, requested by Governor Hobby of Texas.

Reports are expressed in official circles tonight over the Texas situation. Secretary Dyer has ordered the First and Second Texas Cavalry brigades to be placed in readiness for the "critical" Mexican situation.

There are no hostile Mexicans, and no intelligence reports have shown any hostile intent of United States territory.

Regulars stationed in Texas, it was said, are able to cope with any situation that might arise.

They are now cavalry regiments, two of which are stationed at Fort Bliss, Arizona, and the other at Fort Hancock, Texas.

FROM THE PRESS BOX JUG

The next several days will be a test of the Press Box Jug for the Twin Falls crowd that should prove or disprove their claim to being champions. The team is admittedly up against a trying situation—the disorganization resulting from the loss of the catcher. If he pulls itself together and sticks to the race well, Dynamite Team is able to spring and hit the plate again there is every reason to hold it a sure-jam winner this fall.

Needless to remark the lunch understand the job expected of them and to earn their. It is possible that the Paul club will receive rather rough handling this afternoon. Considering all circumstances, though, it looks like a tough battle.

GIANTS' RECORD

In 12 seasons the New York Giants have won a total of 2,820 games and lost 2,269. They have a percentage of .557. They won eight pennants and in 1920, they finished first. They have had 12 different managers. John J. McGraw led the club in 1903 and leading the club ever since.

GARDENERS GOOD AS BASEBALL MANAGERS

Some Experts Declare Outfielders Fall as Leaders.

Fred Clarke and Pudge Jones played Teams to Champions While Playing in Field—Hansen Also Successful.

One companion question to Amalgam is: Why don't outfielders make good managers? Apparently the only answer is: the people who are answering this question remember John, who led the White Sox to the championship, and Pudge Jones, who led the Giants to the championship, and the Kansas first baseman, who led the Cardinals to the championship, and the White Sox to the championship, and the White Sox to the championship, and the White Sox to the championship.

He probably did as much outfielding as catching.

When the Red Sox were sweeping things before them in 1903 and 1904, Jimmy Collins' lieutenant was Chick Stahl, a wonderful outfielder. Chick was in line to succeed Red Sox manager John J. McGraw, but he was passed over by a few days before the season opened.

Paul Donovan, clever outfielder, failed as a manager in Pittsburgh, and "Doc" Barker, catcher, failed here. He had one season in St. Louis and never had more than the American League last year. He was a slugger and pitched all his stars.

MAY NOT SIGN TILL AUGUST PREDICTION

Three of Big Four Agree on Oral Discussions, but Clemenceau Is Opposed

PARIS, June 1.—The date of signing the German peace treaty, once again, "Bavaria Bazaar" on the reply to the German counter proposal to its presented before June 15, apparently has remained, any chance of the treaty being signed before the end of the month.

Added to the possible cause for delay is the well backed report that Wilson, Premier Lloyd George and Premier Clemenceau are in agreement to such a course. Some authorities argue, however, that oral discussions might result in saving time on the theory that any system might be quicker than the exchange of notes.

Reports have been received from Strasbourg that the Austrians will follow the German lead and present a series of counter proposals to the treaty which they received Monday last. The Austrians, however, and public are thoroughly dissatisfied with the terms, according to Vienna dispatches, but are confident that presentation of the treaty is only an opening step in the negotiations, which are expected to result in extensive modifications. Chancellor Bismarck, head of the Austrian delegation, returned today from Feldkirch, near Innsbruck, where he conferred with Baron Munnich and other members of the Austrian cabinet.

LABOR'S POSITION ON LEGISLATION

The convention of the American Federation of Labor will be held this month in Atlantic City. It will draft a series of demands outlining the position of the federation along numerous progressive legislative lines. While the war was the members of labor unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor did here lean work to win the conflict. This work was unanimously commended by men high in the councils of the nation, and promises of industrial reform to follow the conclusion of the war were numerous. Indeed, it was hope of better conditions—higher wages for an enhanced purchasing power for their dollars—that kept hundreds of thousands of men on the job. They were not looking in particular to better wages by this time. Their hope is for a country so economically superior as a place in which to create a living that 50 million or more of nations would dare attack it. It is in the fulfillment of this hope and these promises that the federation will formulate its demands.

The more conservative organized labor of the country has almost without exception the opinion that it will stand as a barrier to making the labor under which the workers must live. Henry Street, legislative arm of the federation, is of opinion that labor will not be satisfied merely to take a few seats in the legislatures of state or a few seats in the congress. Labor wants action in a score of fields of legislative need, and it expects that the "law-making monopoly" of the state and national legislatures, will never in this generation catch up with the crying wants of the people.

So labor is going to raise a racket in favor of the initiative, the referendum and the recall. Particularly is it interested in the initiative. It would apply this to amending the federal constitution, as well as to amending the state constitution. What Union King of the National Popular Government league calls the "gateway amendment" to the constitution, which will permit the people of six or eight states to bring forward a proposed amendment to the constitution, to be voted upon and approved by a majority of the people in a majority of the states, is wanted at the outset.

The convention will not doubt present its program of demands among which will be one providing for an easier method of amending the constitution, an inquiry into the effects of the federal judiciary of the United States, and the removal of the problems which confront the demands of labor come from the very backbone of the nation. That backbone has been stiffened by the experience of the war, and it is going to have something to say about the future policies of the nation in dealing with men and women and children. Human rights are going to be extolled above the demand for dividends and dollars if the federation of labor and its thousands of adherents have the power to exact.

THE RETURNED SOLDIER AND HIS JOB

Efforts are made now and then to draw a parallel between the present-day soldier and the man who came after the Spanish-American war, or even after the Civil war. Of course, they come back as heroes, but the conditions they meet are entirely different from those that confronted the veterans of those other wars. When the civil war broke out the railway development and the traveler in the United States was so limited that thousands of the soldiers had never been outside of their native country until called away in the service. When they returned to civil life, there was a vast unmet need that took up their inviting arms. Special legislation permitted them to be held on homesteads under most favorable terms. At the present time no few west beckon the boys on. So conditions are not in any way similar, and the efforts to show a parallel are futile.

Those who have been privileged to know personally boys who went away and came back safe and well, know that the boys after a season have put aside their uniforms and entered the civil life in about the same place they left. The discipline of the army is something very different from the discipline of industrial life, but if it proved irksome, the return to the humdrum existence of working for a living was equally so. But after a week or so, with old habits returning, nobody can tell by looking at a returned soldier the day he left, whether he was or was not a hero. For this reason it is well that the boys should go, not only to perpetuate the memory of the war for future generations, but that they might more effectively deal with problems that confront them, and hence, the nation. For this is their government, as it is the government of the rest of us. Their problems are our problems, and will be solved only when they are solved right.

AN ERA OF COMMERCIAL EXPANSION

That the nation is entering upon an era of commercial expansion, that many conceivably at many new precedents, each succeeding week's advances make plain, is a very important fact in as yet unexplored territory in the forward movement, but some records have already been broken, both in the number of transactions, and in the existing foreign uncertainties, with the delay in the actual adoption of the peace treaty, have not prevented a further bounding of demands from overseas markets. What is particularly significant in the domestic situation, apart from the free operation of natural economic forces as war-time regulations are lifted or modified, is the diminishing likelihood of any general commodity price increases, and the active efforts of many buyers to provide against future requirements, says Dan's Review. This reversal of purchasing disposition, contrasting sharply with the former policy of limiting commitments, almost exclusively to the barest necessities, has been especially produced in hides and leather and footwear and textiles, and it thus becomes more apparent in the great iron and steel industry since the abandonment of price-fixing measures in that quarter. The fact is, that many wants which had been suppressed in anticipation of price declines that failed to develop to the extent expected, continue to remain unsatisfied, with the result that consumers continue to buy heavy and many styles of raw materials and manufactured articles in imperative need of replenishment, and the point has now been reached where some producers are either unable to accept all of the contracts offered or are resuming night work in order to meet the unusual calls made upon them. While such features are the exception, conditions are steadily assuming more of the characteristics that were so conspicuous before the armistice, some plants being booked months ahead and some prices rising rapidly as supplies grow scarcer, and the present business advancement is the more wholesome because it does not result from the artificial stimulus of war pressure.

WHAT IS TO FOLLOW SURPLUS?

Secretary Redfield of the department of commerce appeared yesterday before senate committees and told them that the United States is now producing a vast deal more of manufactured products than the nation is consuming. To stimulate foreign trade, the only hope of taking care of the surplus production, he recommends legislation looking to the establishment of two free zones in the United States. Specifically, the establishment of foreign credits can do nothing more than put off the inevitable collapse of industrial production, for no matter how greatly foreign trade is expanded, the time will come when that market will be supplied.

Industrial Germany, freed from the burden of the military man's hand, the German tycoon that ever hung on the heels of any people, and the United States, or any other nation, to monopolize markets. So that the vast overproduction proven by statistics of governmental departments, and viewed with alarm by politicians in Washington, will inevitably be followed by a period of depression. The length of that period and the severity of the unemployment problems which will arise during that period will depend entirely upon how long the cost of producing will be permitted to go on.

When the war closes are that, if the future will be judged by the experience of the past, there will come reductions of wages of workers, followed by further reductions until the men are forced to strike. Then the factories will close, and while the workers go around the country looking for jobs, will not enough money in their pockets or bank accounts to buy back the surplus piled up in the warehouses which was produced by their skill and labor, the goods will be forced slowly to consumers. Hunger and riots in industrial centers will follow, and when conditions have reached desperate, the benevolent owners of factories will pull their hands together, and they will open up the factories to a limited production. If the boys are willing to go back to work at wages satisfactory to the numerous firms.

The boys, or the men with families who have gone through a siege of poor starvation, are tamed by their long suffering, and are willing to accept anything. And they do. This industry revives, with low production. Then the demand grows, and stimulation is given to industry, and the overproduction begins again. So it has been through the centuries. So palliatives like protective tariffs and foreign credits are applied, which give temporary relief—and then the larger measure than ever before the eternal circle starts its revolution.

Senator Sumner of Utah declared he is heartily in favor of legislation directed to the establishment of foreign credits. Senator Owen of Oklahoma said the Republicans must act quickly or "the blame for any state will be with them." Secretary Redfield said if there is no action created which will maintain a fair rate of exchange, there is likely to be an industrial collapse. So again we are likely to have a legislative platform applied to a condition that is intrinsically wrong, in the hope of staving off the inevitable—and so is an unending period is supposed to learn something from the lessons of history. Truly history repeats itself.

THE IMMIGRATION QUESTION

The anarchoistic method, a few days ago is certain to bring up the question of tighter immigration laws in the present session of congress. If the immigration laws are in any way responsible for the strike, certainly they are due for revision. On the other hand, it is likely the law may be stringent enough, but it has been found impossible to enforce those laws. Senator Kuyper, speaking a few days ago before the reconstruction conference of the National Women Suffrage association, said he favored a two-year embargo against immigration. The department of labor reports that the general movement of aliens from the United States back to Europe is steadily increasing in volume. It appears that many hundreds of thousands of wage-workers from the steel plants, munitions plants, coal and iron mines and logging camps are packing up their personal belongings and going "home" to the new Europe.

If Europe in its present war-torn condition is more attractive to the aliens who have been laboring in the steel plants, munitions plants and coal and iron mines, than the United States, the department of labor reports, certainly there must be something wrong with the conditions of employment in those places. If Europe is more attractive to laborers than the freedom they have enjoyed in America, it might be well to supply, what particular objections they have to their employment here. Heaven knows nobody will object to their departure from America, but the reason for their going might be enlightening. We might be able to get a point of view that will permit us to make some improvements in our industrial conditions, so that the aliens who have filled the laboring positions would prefer America to Europe as a place to earn a living.

It has always been the assumption that foreigners came to America to better their condition. Are they going back "home" for the same reason? Or have they piled up such magnificent fortunes in America, as some American-born citizens have done in the past, and are simply going to Europe to enjoy the superior culture that attracts them?

An investigation of the reasons for the return of foreigners to their native lands, as reported by the department of labor, would be enlightening.

Senator Hitchcock finally got under the hide of the venerable senator from Massachusetts, although such a thing had long been held impossible. And he did it merely by repeating Lodge's words about having held the peace treaty in his hands. It wasn't the words, but the way they were spoken.

Merchants by Advertising Can Help to Get Business Going Once More

By ROGER W. BADSON, Department of Labor

Business is reviving after a long, but the process is slow. Irresistible stimulation is highly desirable in order that unemployment and business stagnation may not threaten. There are opportunities in foreign trade and in the rebuilding of Europe, to say nothing of the restoration of our own stocks which were depleted by the war. America is short of almost everything except articles manufactured for war uses, but legislation about wages and prices is preventing action.

English economists agree with Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale and with the experts of the department of wages and prices. There will probably be reductions, but they may not be large. The opinion of these economists is that we have reached a new price level, just as we reached a new level when the aftermath of the Klondike rush brought a great mass of gold into this country.

If we have reached a new price level obviously there is to be gained by delay, and a great deal may be lost. Furthermore, reductions in wages cannot be seriously considered, particularly when prices are remaining so high. Wages, according to department of labor figures, have not increased by any means with prices. Some wage earners received no increase at all during the war, and the average was only 28 per cent. On the other hand the average increase in commodities making up the family budget—the cost of living—was 65 per cent. These figures speak for themselves, and direct serious attention to the fact that wages in goods are real, while wages in dollars are often deceptive.

To revive business there must be a market for goods. Business is a matter of buying and selling. If people have no money they cannot buy. If wages are low purchasing power is diminished.

It will be no disadvantage to anyone if wages and prices stay about where they are. To my mind the solution of the business problem now is this: Let the public buy more things it needs; there are plenty of them; however during the war the government would not let us and to devote all their energies toward winning the war. Let the manufacturers go ahead as rapidly as it is safe to do so with production. And let every man who has anything to sell tell his neighbors about it by judicious advertising.

Only by advertising can a demand be created and only through advertising are people enabled to buy wisely and well. Advertising is heavy, but it can't be too heavy so long as legitimate goods are advertised. In the long run everything depends on the consumer. If the consumer creates a demand business will go ahead. Merchants by advertising can help create the demand that will get business going once more.

English Army Nurse Decorated by America

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The army nurse and twenty-one officers and crew by the commanding board of the distinguished service cross by General Brehm, in the name of President Wilson, the war department announced today. The nurse, Miss Jeffrey, although injured during an air raid on a hospital, refused to leave her post until the patients had been cared for. Her home is in Newark, England. Among the officers and men honored were: Colonel Harry S. Brinkley, Paul Carter, Capt. First Lieutenant Harrison A. Hickox (deceased), Springfield, Ill.; Second Lieutenant Henry J. Cook, Kansas City; Rear John C. Leary (deceased), Chicago; Corporal Joseph A. Wray (deceased), East St. Louis; Privates Robert W. Lindsay, Morris, Ill.; Harry E. Hampe, Waterloo, N. Y.; Zappa, "Red," Ill.; and Harold W. Williams, Urbana, Ill.

Tried to Scald Officers Looking for Hidden Booze

TACOMA, June 7.—Charged that an attempt was made to scald E. J. Carter and A. E. Atherton, U. S. customs inspectors, after they had been trapped in a night room at the steamer Jack, Tacoma, by a party while searching for liquor they afterwards, were being investigated today.

It is alleged that Chinese members of the crew opened the steam cook's "hot" room where the officers were hunting for liquor. About 25 quarts of whiskey are said to have been found.

ADVERTISERS NOW MAY KNOW CIRCULATION

Audit Bureau of Circulation Provides Proof of Who Is Telling Truth

Newspaper circulation, the heart of every advertising value, the much manipulated, carefully classified skeleton in the closet of the newspaper publisher, is now set side open, black and white plain where every advertiser may see it as he desires to. It is because there is no circulation to show him, or no figure that he will turn elsewhere for truth.

The solution of the problem of which newspaper has circulation and which has not, has been found in the Audit Bureau of Circulation. It is no longer necessary that the advertiser go to the Auditor's report to its circulation. Newspapers all over the country are becoming members of the Audit Bureau of Circulation which conducts its own expert audit of its members' circulation and places its findings at the service of the advertiser. Any newspaper that evades its duty to the advertiser is weak circulation. Some editors find the recognition with the expert of leading their competition to the foreign advertiser. The Audit Bureau of Circulation for public and advertising newspapers not covered by it. The newspaper which makes no audit and neither the advertiser nor the advertiser's representative can be sure of their circulation figures. The Audit Bureau of Circulation has joined. The Audit Bureau of Circulation is a non-profit organization and is not a business. It is one of the great organizations of the world for proving its pronounced superiority of circulation in the United States. The Times is proud to have circulation figures shown in local advertisements from a membership which cannot be questioned. Something of the position occupied by the Audit Bureau of Circulation is shown in the following tribute paid by the Kansas City Post:

Audit Bureau of Circulation, 1215 N. Adams St., Chicago, Ill. Gentlemen: I don't know who was the originator of the Audit Bureau of Circulation, but whoever he is I want to stamp him as a big man to whom every newspaper should pay homage. He was one big, splendid life and the manner in which the Audit Bureau of Circulation has worked out the scheme proves its efficiency. It is the best and the only job of having the Bureau audit the newspapers is that it relieves the newspaper of a most difficult task which is making the other editors believe you have it. He absolutely won't let any newspaper stay off-hand about circulation, but if you are a member of the Bureau of Circulation and you tell him what the audit gives you then it's different. He just naturally says: "Well, I'll be darned, that's a genuine circulation" and he believes it.

Yours truly,
THE KANSAS CITY POST.

Good Roads Has Not Kept Pace With the Growth of Industry

America has been "very busy and somewhat foolish" in the development of her highway system. While she has amazed the world as to her progress in the automobile industry she has not kept pace in the matter of good roads building. This is the contention of K. S. Kautler, Salt Lake store manager of the B. P. Goodrich Rubber company.

A comparison of road building and motor vehicle progress during the past five years vividly presents the necessity of enormous highway mileage. The number of automobiles in use has increased in 1918 approximately 75 per cent of the country's highway mileage. The number of automobiles in use in 1918 is estimated to be 1,000,000. The number of automobiles in use in 1917 was 700,000 by a comfortable margin.

UNCLE SAM TRAINED 76,000 DRIVERS FOR DIFFICULT TASKS DURING THE WAR

Goodrich Vehicle announcement of more mileage adjustment on Goodrich tires—about 200,000,000 miles—has made it a fact that every dealer and automobile owner in this territory, according to K. S. Kautler, Salt Lake City store manager of the Goodrich Rubber company.

This new adjustment stands back of all Goodrich tires, including tires already purchased in the hands of user or dealer.

With this new Goodrich Adjustment figure in your mind—1000 miles for every 1000—2000 miles for 2000—instead of the 500 and 1000 miles respectively heretofore.

Goodrich's tires in "constant" usage on all Goodrich tires are today uniformly available in the hands of every dealer and automobile owner in this territory, according to K. S. Kautler, Salt Lake City store manager of the Goodrich Rubber company.

United States Motor Transport Used in Carrying Supplies to Front Line

When Uncle Sam's motorist finished the war the motor transport corps comprised a force of roughly 150,000 trained drivers of motor trucks, cars and motorcycles.

Of this great force, only about half were trained drivers when they were sent to the front. It was necessary in order to have this force of men to train 76,000 men to drive motor vehicles in the hands of the military.

The automobile train, supply train, auxiliary train and special motor vehicles which were trained in the hands of the military were trained in the hands of the military.

Use Right Size Tire and Cut down Spares

WASHINGTON, June 8.—A nationwide campaign to educate automobile makers and dealers in the importance of equipping cars with the right size tires is being conducted by the tire industry.

The movement was inspired by reports of the Commercial Council on Motor Vehicle Tires that one out of every ten cars examined in a test only seven were equipped with tires of the size recommended by rubber manufacturers.

Car makers rapidly are recognizing the principle that tire mileage is governed almost as much by the weight of unprung parts that bear directly on the tire as by the total weight of the car.

The manufacturers will endeavor to drive home to the makers and distributors of cars that the thing of first importance in the selection of tires is the weight of a loaded car and not the weight of the car itself. The distribution of weight between sprung and unprung parts.

Since the report of the Commercial Council was made public, several tire manufacturers are advertising their own "right size" tires.

The report of the Commercial Council is that the production of "oversize" tires is the cause of the "oversize" tires in the hands of the public. The report of the Commercial Council is that the production of "oversize" tires is the cause of the "oversize" tires in the hands of the public.

Fraternal Feeling Much in Evidence

George H. Wainwright, advertising director of Dodge Brothers, has just returned from a trip to the coast. He declares that one of the most striking things to notice in his motor car building in 1918 is the fraternal feeling that exists among the owners of Dodge Brothers cars.

There has always been a bond of good fellowship between the owners of similar makes of cars, says Mr. Wainwright. "But this seems to be the strongest fraternal feeling that exists among the owners of Dodge Brothers cars."

Out on the Pacific coast, to drive a Dodge Brothers car is just like being in a big society. At least one point I learned that it is customary for motorists and dealers to be arranged to be participated in by those driving Dodge Brothers motor cars who are found there regular clubs being formed in some cities.

"This is not only true of the West. In Rochester and Syracuse, N. Y., there are clubs of Dodge Brothers owners, and it is only a few months ago that a parade of Dodge Brothers motor cars, driven by the owners was a feature of Dodge Brothers day in Boston. When Mr. Philip, our general sales manager, visited New Orleans a few weeks ago, Dodge Brothers car owners actually gave a banquet in appreciation of Dodge Brothers, at which Mr. Philip was the guest of honor."

"This situation is very gratifying and we are glad to see the idea spread, as it means that the owners of Dodge Brothers cars are proud of their purchases."

Car Owners Want Beauty in Tires

There was a time when a motorist laying in a supply of tires gave thought only to the subject of their durability. In those days the building did not reach its present state of perfection and most of the highways were so bad that the driver was constantly filled with anxiety as to whether he could finish his journey without tire trouble.

But the construction has improved to such a degree and good roads have become so common everywhere—the country that an automobilist who is equipped with good tires seldom worries today about blow-outs or punctures. With the knowledge of dependability, satisfaction and safety which a hand-made car now is becoming particularly as the looks of his tires. He wants a tire that is representative of the harmonies with the beauty of his car and has in its appearance that clear-cut look of quality which stands it as a tire of the highest grade.

To the fact that it meets these requirements of beauty and dependability, the United States Tire Company attributes the tremendous popularity of its Royal Cord tires.

CARING FOR VACUUM TANKS

Exp. Feed System Should be Cleaned Every Three Months—Take Inner Chamber Out

The tank of the vacuum feed system should be cleaned out at least once in three months. The operation is not hard to carry out. The top of the tank should be removed and the inner chamber cleaned by taking out the inner chamber, from which all dirt should be removed.

Waterproof. Monthly is sometimes encountered with water through the rubber top. If the top is thoroughly rubbed with boiled linseed oil it will be made practically waterproof.

Remove Dust from Motor. A motor's brush that is dirt and soft will be found better than waste for removing dirt from the motor.

THE TALKER BY MICHELL

"We hear a lot about the tire that is not a tire, but I don't think we should be too hard on the tire that is not a tire. The tire that is not a tire is the tire that is not a tire. The tire that is not a tire is the tire that is not a tire."

Lord Highly Pleased With Indiana Trucks

A. J. Lord, who recently purchased two Indiana trucks, writes a letter to the Lord-Dealey publishing the performance of his trucks very highly. The letter follows:

Monteville, Nevada. Idaho Auto and Supply Co. Twin Falls, Idaho.

I hauled the first loads with the Indiana trucks on April 20. I find that they handle their capacity loads on these mountain roads with no strain. So far—I have never found that the motor is put on three trucks for.

I have a seventy mile round trip, an eight hour haul of gasoline and oil to the trip and find that each truck averages the same.

And for these trucks are certainly delivering the goods, and I am very well pleased with the Indiana.

Yours respectfully, A. J. LORD.

Carless Planning Causes Heavy Loss

In calling the roll of essential to successful motor truck delivery the operator should make sure that a planning system is present. After selecting the correct truck for the particular haulage, establishing an efficient cost system and installing the most efficient device for the truck operator still has a problem to solve of prime importance.

TO PROPERLY CUT GASKETS

Plain, which will be found convenient for Owners of Cars, Trucks, Edges Avoided.

Everyone who owns a car has had trouble with cutting gaskets. The difficulty the most. Put the gasket on the paper, cover the hole for which it is being cut. Take a ball-headed hammer and place it on the margin, strike the hole. Then tap this first hammer gently with another hammer, and the gasket can be cut without the frayed edges that are so annoying.

FIXING BOUNDARIES SET WITH TROUBLES PAIRB. June 7.—Perhaps the greatest difficulty in the preparation of the treaty in the German counter proposal was over the Siberian, Polish and East Prussian boundaries, according to authoritative information. This has practically been smoothed over. It was said tonight. It is understood the principles of a plebiscite were agreed upon and that popular votes will be held in certain portions of East Prussia and perhaps Lithuania to determine the future disposition of those territories. While the Siberian east fields will not be returned to Germany, it is regarded as possible that she will be "scrubbed" out from "iron" under certain conditions. All the allied commissioners have been ordered to turn in their reports Monday to enable the four to formulate their reply before the end of next week.

NO ATROCITIES AGAINST JEWS SAYS MINISTER

Feeling Against Certain Classes Dictated by Economic Rather Than Religious Reasons

WASHINGTON, June 7.—There have been no atrocities against Jews in Russia, according to a statement by the British minister here. This was the burden of a lengthy dispatch received by the state department this afternoon from Lord Gibson, British minister at Warsaw. Mr. Gibson said, included in the dispatch, including the Jewish people, the American belief in religious freedom, representatives of other parts of Poland; representatives of the Russian government have talked freely with me on the situation and various other subjects. The information was given, Gibson added, that there is a feeling against certain classes of Jews, largely due to economic reasons, which might be regarded as representative of the nation of Poland. Another Jewish element is hostile to the government. Vilna was captured by the Polish forces on April 2, in a house-to-house fight, and some of the local population were killed during the occupation. However, no Jews known to be suspected of being communists, it was stated, were deported as hostages as a result of the capture of the city. These cases have been under investigation by a commission and, found to be citizens of good repute, are being returned to Vilna; without delay, Gibson stated. Col. Gordon, attached to the American legation at Warsaw, his assistant, Lieutenant De-Wald, and American newspaper correspondents were in Vilna on May 3, Gibson added, and talked with Jews and others regarding the situation. Later representatives of the relief administration met and also a general staff officer attached to the mission in Lithuania and a representative of the Jewish relief distribution committee, were in Vilna. Information has been given, Gibson concluded, that all of these persons were "amiable in the report that there was 50 Jewish masters in Vilna, and that statements in the Jewish newspapers of Warsaw confirmed this view."
