SAM LANGFORD LIKES WILLARD

Says Boy Who White-Hoped It Over Jack Johnson

-Jesse Boxes Himself

(By Ted)

TOLEDO, June 28.—Sam Langford is among these parts making friends with the boxing public. He has come in the Brad and that it is a shame to send him against Willard.

"My goodness," said Sam, "this Mr. Willard is the greatest man I ever saw. He is a real fighter. I am glad he is here. Well, just when you see him once, once, once, never again will that man want a great fighter. I will tell you that, every time I think of Willard kicking him I have to take my hat off to him.

Willard was in a kidding mood yesterday. He was sitting in the Seurat hotel lobby here and laughing with Willard. "Waiter, I think that I am sort of old," he said.

They say that a champion at my age never successfully defended his title. Well, Willard said, "After I think I am old, I'll go away on a ranch for a few years. I will take a trip around the world later and when I am fifty years of age, if they have any new white hopes, why just when you see him once, once, once, never again will we start in training again. I will smash all records on this one thing."

Some one has defined old age as death of enthusiasm. Sports here are worrying over his outer lack of pep, but the boys are still worrying over his condition.

Willard worked out again yesterday afternoon, but he was just about as excited over his afternoon's work as he was over his morning's. He sat out of the window at a game on the lot. If the death of enthusiasm is old age, then Mr. Willard is a white-haired, round-jowled centaurian. He is the original "that's good enough for me."

Of course he should know his own business better than we do. He should know how he feels and everything like that. Maybe the speech experts are right. He probably thinks that Jess should drop down like a grasshopper, sing like a thrush and clap his hands with joy. He doesn't.

Oh, no, my boy, nothing like that. Just as well as about his home in business like this. He boxes just as fast as he likes. He sets the pace. He boxes just as long as he likes, and he does not care a whit whether he wins or loses.

Some days he enjoys it. Some days he laughs all the time that he is in the grind. On these days the sore-heads say, "Well, he should laugh, he's giving $10,000 for his wife." One day he is a champion and that Willard in his own box. There was a time when he listened to a very of truthe. That was before he was champion. Then he had to go out on the road. He had to box a certain number of rounds daily. He had to eat and sleep less. Those days are past, though. Angus.

Now Jess does just as he pleases. He has given up a suggestion or two, but it is up to him whether to accept them. Two weeks ago he accepted a soft road map, which he shook out too much. Now he has stopped work on the puttyhe. He says that his hand muscles are right. He has nothing to say for all his important battles.

NEW YORK, June 28.—It is Willard's turn to be the boxer. He has got to be a good athlete physically at the really look-out. We don't know who will advise him in the ring itself. He is monarch of all he surveys in Toledo.

OLD TRAINERS

SHAKE HEADS

Look Upon Mr. Willard and Bighorn Deep Sighs in Anticipation of Things to Happen

(By Frank G. Meigs.)

TOLEDO, June 26.—Legends of Willard and shouters arriving in this city, while true to some extent, were far from being conceivable. In his workouts and then there away shaking their breath rapidly and sluttishly and shouting no more. It was all because of the great fear that the killer would not have the right condition for the basing, training battle with cyclone Jack Dempsey is sure to wage.

Willard laughs at these fears. And Willard laughs every man in this city. It is half past five now and he will sit in his room on the Fourth of July. They won't figure it out either way. Every man who has worked out with the great champion who is in the best and soundest physical and mental condition. They assist in unshakable terms, that Willard today needs just another week to fit him for an overwhelming victory over Dempsey.

Willard worked out again yesterday afternoon, but he was just about as excited over his afternoon's work as he was over his morning's. He sat out of the window at a game on the lot. If the death of enthusiasm is old age, then Mr. Willard is a white-haired, round-jowled centaurian. He is the original "that's good enough for me."

old legend planned to skip through the last week's training at a lonesome clip. All of his energies will be bent towards hardening his resistance power and speeding his attack—on the course. Willard's form was excellent, though, and he was in the best position to start slowly. His training is better but far from what it and Jess Willard, strong though he is, is not particularly muscular, seems to tire with battling with his partners. The punching power of the mighty champion perhaps is as great as in the years of his prime, but his muscles are not able to stand the long, hard pull. He is not a runner, but a fast fighter with demand. After a soft-punched champion never yet won a fight unless he was lucky enough to drive home a chance wallop early in the fray.

Willard laughs at these fears. And Willard laughs every man in this city. It is half past five now and he will sit in his room on the Fourth of July. They won't figure it out either way. Every man who has worked out with the great champion who is in the best and soundest physical and mental condition. ## Fifty Known Dead In Minnesota Tornado FORTRESS FALLS, Minn., June 25.—This city is burying its dead today and twelve thousand persons mourned at the graves of those who were killed in the most violent tornado of this section Sunday night. Plans for a community funeral service for the victims, which were under consideration, were abandoned and individual funerals were held.

Five hundred who were spared by the tornado responded today and business has gradually been reestablished.

Recovery of more bodies today brought the known dead to fifty, and the count of the ruins is still to prove.

Governor Burnquist, it was learned today, is considering calling the state calamity board and sending to discuss means of aid for灾区 Falls to rebuild the damage done by the storm.

POUCH VICTIM DISCOUNTED

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Reporters that Marshal Foch would sail on the George Washington and with President Wilson review an Independence day parade in Washington were disappointed when he came to the office of the secretary of war to say that he would not do so. If the supreme commander of the allied military forces planned to visit America, officials believed the fact would be known to him, and he would go to the court and state:

"I was born in France. My mother is still in China. She has never been in the country. I am a foreigner, not a citizen," murmured on the court. "Paris is capital."

"Well, you see," said Gow, "you were born in France."

"Yes, I was born in France."

"Exactly," said the veracious Gow.

"And Gow got two witnesses to prove they had been present in San Francisco at his birth."

REPUBLICANS SPLIT ON FALL RESOLUTION

Four-on—Committee Vote With Democrats Against Declaring War Is Over.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—A split in the Republican majority controlling the Senate foreign relations committee resulted in failure to report to the Senate the resolution to declare war on Germany, which was passed by overwhelming vote in the House yesterday. The bill, which would have declared war between the United States and Germany, no longer exists, and therefore the president immediately signed it into law. All American legislation on foreign policy will be delayed until the fall session.

By a vote of 12 to 4, a motion by Senator Swaine, Democrat of Nevada, acting on the fall measure was carried, and the committee voted to postpone the resolution.

Senator Lodge, the chairman, and other Republicans voting with the Democrats, insisted that Germany had officially ratified the peace treaty.

The resolution, however, was voted against the motion. They favored the resolution being reported to the Senate without delay. Their Republican opponents contended that the Senate should not act on the measure until the committee has officially ratified the peace treaty.

EMPLOYES AS PARTNERS

John P. Frey, one of the most influential leaders of the American Federation of Labor, has been strongly urging that "workers be given a voice in the determination of their industrial fortunes." By this he means giving the employees of any concern a place on the board of directors or other governing body, and letting them co-operate with the employers in determining working conditions, wages and the policies of the industry in general.

Mr. Frey was asked whether he thought the organized workers, if they were "taken into the business," so to speak, and given a chance to examine the books and help run things, would not take a selfish, one-sided attitude. "Would they be willing, for example, to abide by the result in hard times as well as in prosperous times? Would they accept cuts in wages, when profits go down, just as they would demand raises when profits went up?"

"Positively yes," he answered. "By the very fact of the employee's granting a position of partnership in industry to his employer, the latter is given a sense of loyalty which he did not feel before."

"He will stand the paff as well as the employer. If I did not believe this I would not believe in the future of America. If the character of any concern's employees is such, as regards intelligence and fairness, that they will not be good sports in good times and bad times, then the workers of this country are not worth bothering about."

Many other labor leaders take the same position. Their wives are said to be indoctrinated by the conduct of the workmen in various concerns where such a policy has already been adopted.

The plan so far is still new. It has had strong support, however, from clear-headed thinkers of all classes, and is winning its way so rapidly in practice, that it will soon be possible to discuss the matter from the standpoint of actual experience.

It seems quite in keeping with the American idea of democracy, and surely will work in America, where the spirit of fair play is so strong, if it will work anywhere.

If it does work, it may prove to be the long-sought solution for the biggest of economic problems, ending the age-old warfare between capital and labor.

TRAVELS AT HOME

It is not possible for every one to take long vacations or protracted journeys, but a lot of pleasure can be got out of traveling at home. This does not mean poring over the atlas by the evening-light. It means taking little jaunts to places in one's own town or the near vicinity.

Nearly every town and village and city has interesting and beautiful scenery within short walking or riding distance.

In the big cities the east side of the town is frequently unknown to the west, and the south to the north. Many a dweller in a country village sighs for the advantages of travel and long to gaze upon the beauties of nature far away, when he has only to take a fifteen cent trolley ride to find himself in a ravine as charming as anything in Europe, or beside a little body of water which for elegance and rippling beauty is not excelled by any Italian lake.

There are historic places scattered all over this country, little cemeteries, old battle-fields, sites of Indian celebrations or other interesting spots. Pleasure and information can be gained from visits to local manufacturers or days spent watching or chafing the foreign population.

The more fact that one cannot travel all the world around is no reason why she should be dull or provincial. There is beauty, culture, education everywhere, within a few miles of home, and some, perhaps, in the home.

PARACHUTES FOR FLYERS

England is enforcing a rule that all flyers in the royal air forces shall carry parachutes of certain tried types, and it is intended to extend the ruling to English flyers generally.

This is an eminently wise ruling. There are many designs of parachute which have proved themselves trustworthy under tests, and it is absurd to set upon an air voyage without some sort of safety equipment in case a sea voyage without life-preservers, the Germans have used parachutes, and deaths among their flyers has been less among those who have used them for that reason.

"Safety" which might have been the hurry of war and lack of interest in the present. But to continue a like rule of safety appliances should be the world-wide law too many years ago.

It costs fifteen cents a day to have the prints of people right to my head!"

SIGNING WILL NOT AFFECT HOME COMING

American Soldiers Will Continue to Sail as Fast as Conditions Permit.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The signing of the peace treaty will have no effect upon the policy of the war department in regard to the return of the American troops from France, General Pershing told Congress yesterday.

After the signing of the armistice, General Pershing explained, "we must get our men back home as quickly as possible. As to the array of occupation, he added, that was a matter in the hands of the Interallied council, to whom we have referred the question of what to do with the troops that units may be retained for a time.

For a time it was believed a number of units would have to be retained in France to guard American property, but General Pershing said yesterday alone in the section occupied by the United States, troops however, the American property in France is being disposed of rapidly, so much so that it is believed, the general staff will remain in the U.S. until the last of the troops are ready to leave.

General Pershing pointed out American soldiers have been returning to the United States through the submarine route, through the employment of German prisoners of war.

American property that cannot be disposed of abroad will be brought back to the United States, and any American who wants to go home can be permitted for the short time necessary to men now enlisting for overseas service, it was stated.

—In view of the war department's policy of returning the men as soon as possible, it was decided today that the recent order under which regular army officers who had not seen overseas service would be allowed to remain, has been rescinded.

General Pershing said the decision to still individuals who have enlisted in the regular army to remain in the regular army to the end of the war.

ASK PUBLIC TO LOAD TABLE FOR MOTHERS' DINNER

Committee Issues Call for the Food-Supply-Power-Wide
Open to the Men

That the Mothers' Day Dinner to the service men of the county will probably be held in the M. E. Church, that place having more convenience, was decided by the committee. It will be found in the church was the suggestion today of C. L. Loupier, member of the committee in charge of arrangements.

The committee today issued a call for food contributions from the public, with a request for anyone who can contribute to notify Mrs. T. H. Irvin promptly. Mrs. Irvin's telephone number is 1482. Following is a list of supplies wanted for the dinner, all of which is expected to be contributed by the public:

100 pies.

50 cakes, all frosted.

50 roast chickens.

2 large hams, baked or raw.

20 gallons salad.

2 cases sweet pickles.

20 gallons olives.

20 cans cantaloupe.

75 glasses jelly.

29 gallons milk.

6 crates of cherries.

100 boxes cake.

100 boxes of fruit.

100 boxes of cake.

"We have seen nothing recently that is quite so successful a blend of scenic beauty, humor and human tenderness." —Moving Picture World.

"Vivid presentation—beautifully done. Its intense story will hold you to the end. The Authors are to be congratulated upon the success of their achievement." —N. Y. Evening Telegram.

"We didn't know that anyone save Griffith could direct so effectively." —New York Tribune.

"Wonderfully mounted, splendidly acted, altogether beautifully done." —Moving Picture World.

"If I were an exhibitor, I would hesitate a fraction of a second in booking 'The Heart of Humanity.' It takes rank with the great masterpieces of the screen." —Exhibitors' Trade Review.

A Ten-Part Production—Wonderful

There are one hundred points from which its merits can be praised. It is the peer of "THE BIRTH OF A NATION" which was considered a masterpiece. What more can be said or expected of this picture. Tremendous is a big word, but not too big for "THE HEART OF HUMANITY."

Showing today, tomorrow and Saturday, special Matinee Prices 15c and 25c. A slight raise in admission for evening performance. Not a war picture, but a big human drama with the war as a background. Be sure and see this wonder drama of today.

HOME-COMING CELEBRATION AT CAPITAL

Soldier Boys Will Get Welcome
With Blow-Out of Three Days' Duration.

Special to The Times
JULY 25. Home is planned the biggest celebration, the largest homecoming of the year, to be held in Idaho. The plans complete three days' celebration July 24 and 25, with practice for parade Sunday, July 26. The White City has been open various special features during the anniversary day to all men in uniform. This over Sunday 31st. During the morning of Thursday, July 25, the boys will be held in Idaho City, the day thereafter.

Parades will be organized and managed by the Salvation Army, the American Legion, V. F. W., A. A. U. and others. At all of these hubs the public in uniform will be the regular visitors and free entertainment.

There will be a baseball game, dances and special amusement features, and the public may attend the various performances after noon on Sunday, the chautauqua for Thursday, Justice being purchased by the community will be free to the public.

There will be a particularly attractive feature, featuring Clever's Freshlook, in a grand concert also Miss. Cata-lynn, White City girls, chosen especially for their beauty, special features during the anniversary day to all men in uniform. This is a special celebration planned to be uniform in all parts of the management of the White City.

In addition there will be many other features, which committees are still working on, and the public will be advised.

General Information Headquarters have been established at the Y. M. C. A. rooms, where "Dick Flanigan" will be in charge, which assures that all officials will receive very prompt and courteous treatment.

This will be the place to find accommodations, hotels, room, meals, etc. In fact it will be general information headquarters, where all the details of the celebration should get in touch with the Y. M. C. A. or "Dick Flanigan."

It is suggested that those desiring to make reservations should do so at the earliest opportunity, as the demand for lodgings is likely to be extremely large.

Attention is called to the unusual number of men in uniform, and the large number of women and men engaged in various city water facilities for washing cars and laundry. The location is within three minutes' walk of the stores, where groceries and produce will be easily obtained.

It is suggested that the public bring a beautiful camp equipment with all of those "rounded off" accommodations to the campers—right on the bank of the Snake River.

TWIN FALLS DAILY JOURNAL, JULY 27, 1919

LONDON, July 21.—A heavy thunder storm and a prancing wind, the Spanish influenza, the checkered front, says a lighter dispatch from Kew, today. On Sunday the allies attacked and forced the Bolsheviks to retreat, and allied soldiers, who had been encamped in a wood through which the British lay.

The Twin Falls Daily Journal, 7 days ago, said: "It is certain, will do its job to the full satisfaction of themselves and the boys. It will be a day of rest, relaxation and recreation for the boys, and a day for people making the trip on the express that will meet the soldiers.

An announcement has also been made of a country wide reception to service men and their families. It will be held on July 26, at the "Mother's Union," the day will be set aside by the Red Cross for the soldiers and every service man will have a key to the city in his pocket.

The Twin Falls reception committee, Dr. L. M. Maesher chairman and A. J. Peavy secretary. The following committees were named:
