SENATE PHOBIA CHARGES REPUBLICANS WITH TRYING TO BLOCK IRISH VOTES

DETROIT, June 27.—Prussian War Minister Hentschel yesterday issued a manifesto to his open staff officers and naval leaders to allow to their jobs the entire list of their children has nothing to do with the war.

"We soldiers cannot reconcile these terms with our honor. This we must never forget. Nevertheless, I urge that officers and men remain at their posts until their terms of enlistment."

Hentschel added that he agreed with Gustav Noske, who was minister in the German cabinet, that Prussia's government may apply for discharge without formalities until July 1, so that he could be free to make his own arrangements.

"The government's right of decision over their applications."

The government's appeal for every soldier to work was only answered by a few new recruits this morning. The Berlin railway depot officials had begun to ration the food rations before the end of the day.

A spokesman said yesterday today and tomorrow would look about the clock this afternoon.

GERMAN GOVERNMENT THREATENED ON EAST BY REVOLUTION AND ON WEST BY ARMIES OF THE ALLIES

PARIS, June 26.—The Allies will hold the Germans "strictly responsible" for any disturbance in Germany, if Germany attacks Poland, Poles. The text of a new allied note to Germany, telephoned last night, was made public today.

The note reads: "The allied and associated powers feel it necessary to affect the attention of the German government to the fact that the Polish authorities, have come into possession of the city of Danzig, and the port of Gdansk which states that while the German government means to take the heavy steps intended to prove and defend its support by all the means in their power, they feel compelled to insist upon the establishment of Polish autonomy in the territories allotted to Poland and Posen and to the creation of a Polish state, which shall have an independent existence. In view of this information the allied and associated powers think it necessary to inform the German government that they will consider such a step as a violation of the treaty, all troops and all officials indicated by the allied commandos are withdrawn, and that in the event of any further aggression in the area of the new frontier Poland is allowed to pass across the new frontier in Poland."

Ratification of the peace treaty, signed and sealed in final form, was to be the chief relation of the Senate's return, could it be pointed out, confront the senate with facts.

Principals and opponents of the League of Nations were to be faced with the bulky document with the league forecast interviews with it would have to "get down to hand hand."

Senate was to be concerned by demands of the League of Nations for an actual condition, not, as at present, prospective action to be demanded by speech making and fact finding. April 19, the League will bring the international organization into existence, and thereafter will peace-wise regard proposed amendments, modifications or reservations with respect to the permanent international organization and peace and security agreements to day as to the effect the president's return would have on regular legislation.

The question, quite naturally, will be "What will the president do?" A portion of the report of the senatorial report that the president will call war-time prohibition off and that the Senate will be asked to ratify and representatives more deeply concerned with re-enforcing and peace legislation centered their interest on what the president would probably have to do to get back to the White House, with:

"The bill for the restoration of the country's telegraph and telephone lines to private ownership, which was passed by the Senate and passed by the House as amended from conference.

The daylight saving repair legislation, and special tariff measures.

Altered and merchant marine legislation.

Luxury and other forms of taxation and excise taxes, including hearing aids and radios from "back home."

Labor, immigration, soldier employment and equally important problems.

The objectives "bill cost of living," which has raised the cost of living, and the purchase value of about forty cents on account of gross profiteering of American business men.

From present indications, the Senate, too, seems to credit itself with the congressional stage with the League of nations fight. They will be other contests going on in the Senate, but the most important will be the vote, said from his well-known determination to "put across" the League, with the simplest possible bill, tried to get a bill making it easier for the American people to finance their contribution, will have plenty to keep him busy after he reaches the barbershop, the train home to the White House.

drove 18 miles on rim to get a BARNEY OLDFIELD tire, Illinois man driving through country, over all kinds of bad roads says that the BARNEY OLDFIELD WAS THE ONLY TIRE THAT GAVE NO TROUBLE.

HE PUT BARNEY OLDFIELD'S ON ALL FOUR WHEELS BEFORE LEAVING CITY.

READ WHAT HE SAYS ABOUT THE OLDFIELD TIRE.

Tire, Fall, Va. Co.
Tire, Fall, Idaho.
Glenwood.

I want to hand you a written statement, to confirm my conversation with you Tuesday morning.

I believe that I think at least fifty car tires of my own and I use all the prevention possible to hold down upkeep expense. (However I have figures on the yearly expense.) My home is in Perris, Ill. was driving through the hills of Illinois and the mountains of Indiana and had tire on the left side burst. So I stopped at the only tire place there, old Barney Oldfield tire, I drove for 18 miles and purchased the tire from you, and went through the town, and I was running on the rim all the time but I want to buy tire that have a layer of cushion gum between each layer of canvas, I want a tire with life, one that will last. I know that the grip of a trip is fixing tires on the road, but when you have one of Barney's tires on the wheel, you know you are going to go where you have started for, if any tire will make the trip it will, you would not have any trouble in convincing every user that Barney's tire is the best tire.

John T. Thompson, 1000 N. Main Street, Salt Lake City, Utah, has been buying Barney Oldfield tires for over 10 years and has never had any trouble with them. I have had a Barney Oldfield tire exploded and with all the last roads not especially I have to fix the car again. With the life, with the wish, and assuring you that I know feel insured against tire trouble since being equipped with Oldfield Tires. I am yours truly,

JOHN T. THOMPSON

RETURN OF PRINCE FREDERICK

Although reports that the clown prince of Hindland had suddenly departed from his detaining home into Germany lacked confirmation yesterday, they were generally accepted as true. The development caused very little surprise in official circles in Washington or in the capital of Europe.

Accepting the reports as reliable, the move is replete with political significance. With the militarists the clown prince is a favorite. It was he who made the decision which plunged the world into war, according to fairly well-authenticated reports. It was he who directed several野蛮 drives of Hun forces into the jaws of death in futile assaults on the allies. He is a revolting militarist, hence is popular with the military party. In others, the reappearance of the clown will appear as a defiance to the allies.

The pseudo republic which has been formed has never appealed strongly to The Times as a perfect representative government of the people by the people. Too many of the old military masters have been too close to the head to impress the world with the honesty of the effort to establish representative government. The people have been too acquiescent in its doings. The demand has been too strong for acceptance of the terms. That condition, reported persistently from Germany by Americans who have an interest in the German government, naturally raises the suspicions in minds which have tried to estimate the German psychology that they had still another card up their sleeve ready to be pulled at the proper time. That card may be the clown prince, or his royal father, the citizen-kaiser, returned to a distrusted country to restore order by force of arms and based upon the adoration which the German people have bestowed upon their ruler.

The world's peace will not be settled by the treaty negotiated at Paris until the kaiser meets his Waterloo. That the German stage is being set for another world tragedy involving the after-defeat and capture of the kaiser and his immediate advisers is the indication of the news of yesterday. The kaiser is another world conqueror of the same stripe as Napoleon, and will be a disturbing element until he is banished or meets his death.

The present German ministry will last only so long as it can be used by the militarists to further their own ends. Then it will fall. The militarists are still the masters of Germany. Remove the camouflage from the news from Hindland, and no other conclusion can be reached.

HUNS HAVE ANOTHER SCRAP OF PAPER

The world was astonished at the effrontery of the German military autocrats when they declared the treaty respecting the territorial integrity of Belgium was mere scrap of paper, and its every provision violated. The world knows the Hun character better now than it did four years ago. When the scuttling of the German fleet by their crews was accomplished, the world's estimate of the true character of the German people was verified and confirmed. The sinking was a direct violation of the terms of the armistice, and it had been pretty well established that the work was done "on orders from Berlin." When the fleet surrendered without firing a shot, no doubt the officers carried the orders which provided for the sinking of the boats immediately upon the expiration of the time of the armistice or at some other stated time which would furnish justification for the over-tightened German mind.

It is not surprising, therefore, to read from the semi-official organ of the majority socialists in Berlin, that the present treaty terms, forced upon Germany by an outraged world, are valid only so long as the power which dictated them exists. It is a contract entered into under compulsion, argues the newspaper spokesman, and is, therefore, valueless. That other treaty was not entered under compulsion, so the excuse for its violation is "military necessity."

No matter what may be promised by the Hun, when occasion arises whether it is more profitable to violate that promise, no computations of conscience shall prevent that violation. Paraphrasing, a good Hun is a bad Hun, and the sooner the whole world is ready to recognize that fact, the easier it will rest.

THESE EARN THEIR SALARIES

Much criticism is indulged by the general public that there are too many persons holding office whose principal duty is to draw their salaries. It comes as a relief to find some whose jobs are such as to refute this general charge against the public office holder. In a dispatch from Washington the ascription is made that the stenographers who report the proceedings of the United States senate are required first to make stenographic notes of the utterances of the worthy senators and afterward to speak the speech into a dictaphone.

Surely with this information before the public the sweeping charge that public officials do not earn their salaries will be less likely to be given credence. No better word than these follows glib, the presumption is inadequate. Hardly anything less than the salary of the president of the United States could be sufficient to repay these patient laborers for the trying job, not of reporting the speeches of the great in stenographic hieroglyphics, but of being compelled to listen to the speeches, and afterward to repeat them.

It is insufferable even to think of it, especially during the heated season when the senators are delivering hot campaign stuff for the next presidential campaign, which started when congress convened last month.

These substitute drinks haven't any "kick" in them. The patron is expected to furnish the kick.
