Father Ryan Urges Roosevelt Re-election

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Taking direct issue with the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, the right Reverend John A. Ryan of Catholic University tonight advocated the reelection of President Roosevelt and said students of communism against the new deal are "ugly, cowardly and flagrant calumnies."

In broader and surer auspices of the Democratic national committee, Monaghan Ryan said Father Coughlin's explanation of economic maladies "is at least 50 per cent wrong and his monetary remedies are at least 100 per cent wrong."

In NRA days, Monaghan Ryan was a member of the industrial appeals board which heard complaints from small business.

"Cooked coffee on camp stove... Fine!"

said under party of six people

A user writes: "Last week we drove in Lake Merritt for a picnic supper and one of my M-J-B friends had coffee on our camp stove and every member of the party, six in number, remarked on its quality."

Yet—wherever M-J-B goes, there's bound to be good coffee! It makes no difference whether you like coffee mild, medium or strong—M-J-B is the way to full flavor at any strength.

This remarkable "Strength Essential" feature is developed by an expert blend of world's finest coffee plus a richer roast which brings out flavor-qualities that you may not have tasted in coffee heretofore.

It means a constant richness of true coffee-character in every grain of M-J-B. You get more flavor in every cup. It's a real coffee requirement that all women should try.

How today that you can make much better coffee in this simpler and more certain way.

SECRETARY HULL DEFENDS TREATIES

Cabinet Member Replies to Landon's Criticism of Trade Agreements

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 8 (AP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull replied to Governor Al M. Landon's recent criticism of trade treaties last night with the assertion "our agricultural exports have increased steadily since 1922."

"The most serious accusation which our critics make against the trade agreements program is that under its operation the American farmer has been sold down the street," he declared in an address prepared for delivery at the municipal auditorium, where the Republican presidential nominee made one of his major speeches.

More Figures

"Governor Landon and the Republican national committee have exaggerated in the execution of the trade program the Roosevelt administration has done," the secretary declared. "The American farmer out of the foreign market and put the foreign market in the American market."

"The unannounced truth is just the opposite."

Hull contended "our foreign market has been increased under the Smoot-Hawley tariff and we are being rebuilt under the trade agreements program."

"From a level of slightly over $1,600,000,000 in 1922, and 1923, he pointed out, it has risen to $2,000,000,000 in 1935 and continues this year on the upward trend."

Stephan Target For Taylor's Verbal Blast

BOISE, Idaho, Oct. 8 (AP)—W. Taylor, associate executive attorney general, charged yesterday that Frank Stephan, Republican candidate for governor, was fastidiously collecting fees he collected as agent for banks that failed during the Hoover administration while people were being hungry in Twin Falls county.

Stephan is a Twin Falls lawyer, and former Idaho attorney general.

"Stephan, Hoover and Landon are of the same ilk in their thoughts and ideas," Taylor said. "Stephan is the common man in the common man."

Taylor continued:

"In 1922 Herbert Hoover told the people the Republican party abolished poverty—in 1932 the poverty told Herbert Hoover that he was back on the Republican party."

Bartlett W. Clark of Idaho Falls, Democratic candidate for governor and Herby Hoover, Democratic candidate for re-election as auditor, toured Gem county today with Taylor.

Laid against a background of modern war-torn China, Paramount's "The General" died at Eden's which opened at the Orpheum theater yesterday, is a timely fast-moving action drama of high adventure among those little known but highly colorful characters who make a business of international intrigue.

The growing spirit of resistance on the part of modern China against the predatory war lords who have subjugated the country is the basis of the story, which presents Gary Cooper again in a soldier-of-fortune role.

BORAH HITS BANKS' POWER OVER MONEY
Idahoan Advocates Monetary Authority Under Control of Congress

MOSCOW, Idaho, Oct. 8.—In a blast against central banking interests' power to regulate the nation's money, Senator William E. Borah (R-Id.) advocated last night the formation of a monetary authority under control of congress.

He did not go further into details of his prescription for the monetary system.

Before a crowd stimulated by Republican leaders at 300, Borah denounced the gold standard as a money basis for the third successive night of his north Idaho campaign tour for his sixth annual term.

"Depression came as a result of price failures, and that because of monetary conditions," Borah declared.

He cited 23 nations now off the gold standard and on managed currency, and said England since leaving the gold standard in 1931, has climbed nearly out of the depression and now is enjoying the greatest volume output in history.

"In 1929 there was about enough monetary gold in the world to run the automobile industry," Borah said.

Championing protective tariffs, Borah said there is an undue bias just set for men manufacturing it and who would recognize it, and proper protection for the farmer was provided that market.

Establishing the supreme court as the protector of an independent people, Borah said he believed it is the most important principle of the constitution.

Miners' Bodies Brought To Surface

AS waiting relatives and fellow workers stood by in the dawn, the bodies of nine miners who fell 300 feet to their death in a shaft of the Morning mine, near Bluffton, Idaho, were brought to the surface. The photograph shows the emergency of first, each containing a body, being hauled from the shaft building to hoarves waiting outside. A cable snapped, plummeting the cage upon which the men were preparing to come to the surface from the 3050-foot level, to the bottom of the shaft.—(P) Photo.

Championing protective tariffs, Borah said there is an undue bias just set for men manufacturing it and who would recognize it, and proper protection for the farmer was provided that market.

BOARD TURNS DOWN WOMAN'S PETITION

Recommendations of Senator and 11 Jurors Fail Mary Hanson

BOISE, Oct. 8 (AP)—The recommendations of United States Senator William E. Borah (R-Idaho) and 11 jurors today to deny a pardon for Mary Hanson, 28-year-old Twin Falls Negro, who slew her lover a few months ago.

The board composed of Governor C. Ben Ross, Attorney General Bert H. Miller and Secretary of State Franklin B. Knapp, voted "no."

The woman is serving a 1-to-10 year sentence in state's prison for manslaughter.

"I understand that a Mrs. Mary Hanson, colored, formerly of Twin Falls, Idaho, now in the penitentiary, is making application for a pardon."

Members of jury in Twin Falls and at Hazelgram called my attention to this case sometime ago. I hesitated to do anything then, but upon further urging I made such investigation as I could of the facts and record of this case.

"Without going into details, I believe to me that, assuming she was properly convicted, justice has been administered fully and that she is entitled to the favorable consideration of the board of pardon."

The board continued today to hear pleas of friends and relatives for the release of prisoners. Many of the 174 applications, including the case of Hanson, were referred to the board.

The action will continue tomorrow.

GOODING, Oct. 8.—With the five highway districts of the county making their 1938 levies, the levy of Gooding county is now complete, showing considerable decrease in state and county, lowering in levies of seven county school districts and raises in four, and raises in four highway districts. Other levies remain much the same, with (tuberculosis and abortion levies by the state being completely eliminated this year.

Independent school districts: Gooding, $170, Miles, $140; Wendell, $155; Hazelgram, $130. Highway districts: Gooding, 77 cents; Miles, 72 cents, Hazelgram, 73 cents; West Point, 75 cents, and Wendell, $1.05.

City and village levies are: Gooding, $2.25; Wendell, $2.35, and Hazelgram, $1.85.

Preparatory animal control and sheep inspection levies remain the same, totaling 60 cents on the $100. Taxes for this year will be less than in 1937, although in some districts where both city and highway levies have raised, these rates will tend to offset lower levies in state and county levies.

ten tonight," he said. "I'll mark the note and look at Mahony suspiciously. "Wait here a minute," he said. Mahony waited. After about half a minute the front door opened again and the man beckoned Mahony inside. Mahony entered this time was more civil and conciliating. "Mr. Brown says you're to come and see me in his room," he said. "He won't keep you longer than he can help." Mahony's hand was in his coat pocket; he was ready for anything that might happen. But though he strained his ears to hear the faintest sound near him he could hear nothing except his own footsteps and those of the old man; the house seemed as if it were empty, almost deserted. Mahony, every nerve on the alert, he followed the old man up a dark, tumble-down staircase to a bright room. The man stamped the door of a room. "Wait in here," said the old man, "Mr. Brown says you're to come and see me in his room," he said. Mahony waited. TRIPLET TRAPPED

"Here you will get the note," said Mahony of the shabby man. "Yes, I think so." The shabby man fumbled in a breast pocket and produced a crumpled envelope. "Here is, I'm supposed to deliver it to ten tonight. I want that job, but 'T'm not taking' any. I rather pick pockets or try my hand at it," said Mahony. Mahony considered for a moment. He looked the shabby man up and down. "I'll give you a liver for that note," he said. "What?" exclaimed Mahony. "But, surely you're not thinking of trying for that job, are you?" Mahony did not answer the question. "Do you want that liver?" he asked. Mahony shrugged his shoulders. "Of course I want the liver; I always want livers," he remarked. "And if you don't mind taking a job like that, I suppose that your liver. Here you are; deliver it to ten tonight. I'll be waiting for you at ten tonight. And good luck to you." Mahony handed over the liver and received his note. He declined Mahony's urgent invitation to come somewhere and have a drink, and left the shabby man.

When Mahony was out of sight Mahony entered the nearest telephone box. The man he telephoned was Ambrose Lawson. "He fell for all right," he stated. "That was all he said. Then he hung off." Mahony was not altogether right in saying that Mahony had fallen for it. At the beginning of their conversation Mahony had been ready to believe that he might have met Mahony in the Shanghai Bar and forgotten meeting him. "Then there had come a little discrepancy in Mahony's story - the mention of KNOOT. Mahony had never known anyone in Shanghai. But he had mentioned the name of Ethel as a dope trafficker at the 'Hilo' that morning. And the fact that she had been a newspaper correspondent in China might easily be known to Lawson. Mahony might have mentioned it." It occurred to Mahony that Lawson had just said he knew about Mahony's career in China to try to lure him into a trap. Mahony had to walk into that trap, not blind and unaware, but with his eyes open, expecting trouble and ready for it. One precaution only he took - he wrote a note to Lee-Hamden, telling him what he proposed doing, and the address he was going to.

That note would reach Lee-Hamden by the first post in the morning and Mahony asked Lee-Hamden to communicate with Inspector Kennedy if he should not ring him up before eleven last night morning. Just before ten that night Mahony rapped at the door of 137 Jamaica Road, which was half shabby, half respectable house, in a row of dingy tumble-down houses. The door was opened by a thin, shrewd old man, who looked at Mahony and out of heavy eyes. Mahony handed him the note. "I was told to bring this here at ten tonight," he said. "I'll mark the note and look at Mahony suspiciously. "Wait here a minute," he said. Mahony waited. After about half a minute the front door opened again and the man beckoned Mahony inside. Mahony entered this time was more civil and conciliating. "Mr. Brown says you're to come and see me in his room," he said. "He won't keep you longer than he can help." Mahony's hand was in his coat pocket; he was ready for anything that might happen. But though he strained his ears to hear the faintest sound near him he could hear nothing except his own footsteps and those of the old man; the house seemed as if it were empty, almost deserted.

Very puzzled, Mahony glanced round the room. So far as the room for the moment; the window was inaccessible from the road, the door was closed, there were no pictures or ventilators in the wall through which he could be shot at. He had a good look at the man who had walked into the trap prepared for him, but what was the nature of the trap? "What is the drink or the cigarette on the table?" Everything was very quiet except for the slow tick-tock; tick-tock of a clock on one of the walls of the room. Minutes dragged by very slowly while a man's nerves are strained and alert, waiting for something to happen. Five minutes passed, ten minutes passed, and still the house remained quite quiet. "Mahony smoked," he walked-up and down the room, he glanced anxiously at the articles on the desk. At last, very softly, he pulled at one of the drawers.

It opened, and inside were a number of thin paper packets. One of the packets had been pulled out and was lying on the floor. Mahony picked it up and from it had spilled a little shiny, white powder. Mahony wetted one finger slightly, and tasted the powder. "It's the powder," he said. "I'm not Mr. Brown," replied Mahony. "Are you not so?" said the man. He took a quick forward stride and brought his huge right fist down with a loud crack into the palm of his left hand. "What in hell do I care what you're after calling yourself tonight?" he called ferociously. "Isn't it enough trouble you're after causing me, with the cops looking for me and all, without standing there arguing the case about what name you'd be passing? Give me me fifty quid and let me go or have I got to squeeze the money out of you with me bare hands?" It was obvious that he was in a real Irish temper; nothing would have pleased him better than a fight. The last thing Mahony wanted was a fight with a stranger at that moment. "Don't be a damned fool," he said sharply. "I've told you I'm not Mr. Brown. I'm waiting for him myself." The Irishman made a gesture of disgust. "Do you think you'll write out of paying me that way, re-tying churlishly?" he demanded angrily. "I'll have the tip that you'd be here at ten tonight? Warn't you supposed to come in at ten? Didn't the quid fellow below tell me you was here?" (Copyright, 1936, Hugh Clevely)
