

IDAHO'S TEACHERS GATHER AT BOISE

Education Association to Thresh Out Variety of Problems

BOISE, Nov. 26 (AP)—Three hundred delegates to the 21st annual convention of the Idaho Education Association began arriving tonight for a three-day session of important business, professional standards and revenue-raising measures.

First consideration being legislation, approximately $2,000,000 annually with which to complete the state's education finance plan, said John L. Hillman of Boise, executive secretary.

Most of the sales tax recently reduced the school fund income approximately $400,000 yearly.

George W. Wright, Idaho superintendent of schools, will preside at the two-session which opens at 10:30 morning.

Speakers include Superintendent John W. Condit, Superintendent of Schools of Pocatello, Dr. R. D. Russell of the University of Idaho, Idaho director of Health, Dr. J. H. Snyder of Elkhart Normal, and Dr. John H. Nichols, secretary of Idaho, southern branch.

On the discussion program: Proposed legislation on the participation of endowment lands and funds.

Proposed legislation to allow school building programs to be financed with funds accumulated prior to the launching of a building program.

Administration problems in education and finance.

Survey.

Provision for a complete survey and charting of school districts under the supervision of the state board of education.

Elimination of overlapping in the teacher-training course of the state institution.

Special training for elementary and high school principals and superintendents.

Three-year minimum normal school education for elementary instructors.

Proposed legislation to take the steps of county superintendent of schools.

Study of teachers' salaries and means of establishing more equitable remuneration.

U.S. OBTAINS ASSURANCE OF SHIP STRIKERS' HELP

Government representatives worked out plans for using two fishing vessels and one government ship to maintain mail service between Seattle and the northern territory.

The holiday interrupting negotiations between two groups of shipowners and the unions.

The plight of strikers in the territory remained to be considered. Government spokesmen said they would take up the land problem as soon as they could observe the results of the Alaska arrangement.

Boise, Oct. 26 (AP)—

Colonel O. F. Ohlson, manager of the government-owned Alaska railroad, announced the completion of arrangements with the unions but said the necessary contracts would not be signed until tomorrow after the unions reached the details.

The arrangements were made by authority of President Roosevelt, who recently authorized government chartering and operation of emergency vessels to the northern territory after representations had been made that many Alaska communities were in need of fresh foods and other necessities.

Thanksgiving menus were allotted to Alaska and Hawaii as well as in the strikers mess halls. A few citizens in the northern territory managed to secure turkeys at 75 cents a pound, and others normal.

Resort to Cannopans.

Hawaii stood out holiday meals with the help of cannopans and native foods. There was plenty of young roast pig, chickens and ducks but turkeys sold at 70 cents a pound.

Hawaii's 800 strikers had corned beef and cabbage.

Nine thousand San Francisco strikers, fed at the job's strike committee's kitchen, had roast lamb.

Children Hurt In Theater Stampede

COALDALE, Pa., Nov. 26 (AP)—More than 100 children were injured, at least one seriously, in a stampede for seats after a cry of "fire" rang through a crowded theater during a special children's performance today.

Seven were hurt seriously enough to require hospital treatment and one was reported in critical condition from a fractured skull.

Various first reports indicated one of the children fell to his seat near the wall and turned back a radiator wire. His scream escaped close to several rows of seats, alarming their occupants.

An estimated 3,000 maritime men were fed by the unions at San Francisco. The strike committee failed to state the exact number and did not divulge the menu.

"21 Chevrolet Sedan" for $1,500 on trust beef, chicken and some turkey. Seattle's 800 strike headquarters diners had no special menu.

BROUGHT PROSPECT LIFTS CROP PRICES

Dust Storms in Wheat Country Cause Fresh Fears Among Traders

CHICAGO, Nov. 26 (AP)—Dust storms in the wheat country have caused fresh fears among grain dealers that drought, again, may threaten farm crops in 1937.

Crop news stresses reports that dust winds have been kicking up dust in the broad domestic wheat belt. To grain men, dust storms mean that the soil is dry, probably too dry to nourish the roots.

Men thought of another serious dry spell, analysts said today, was cause for alarm with grain supplies already depleted as a result of successive years of drought culminating in last year's crop.

H. C. Donovan, Chicago crop expert, said he feared the "dust bowl" in the southwest would be in evidence again next spring, although somewhat diminished on the eastern extremity.

West in 30 Years

"Overbalancing this decrease," he said, "is the threatening soil moisture shortage (because of western Nebraska and the similar situation all along through wheat acreage) of both the United States northeast and western Canada."

"Moisture deficiency in these areas is said to be the worst in 30 years, making the whole situation more alarming than did the bad condition that existed a year ago at this time."

Deerons drew an outline of the dry areas of the winter wheat belt, where grain now is growing. On the map it was a rough rectangle, touching eastern sections of the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles, eastern Kansas, southeastern Nebraska, western Colorado and northwestern New Mexico.

Fields spoiled.

The Cattle Grain and Elevator company reported that in the dry area of western Kansas and surrounding territory crop prospects were poor. Many fields that germinated did not have sufficient moisture to carry plants through the first trying period and fields were spoiled, it said.

The northern plains states have practically no soil moisture and dry weather since late August has caused apprehension.

Grain speculators' interpretation of such reports were believed by many traders to have been reflected to some extent in the price for wheat delivered in a box of 60 bushels contracts next July. This delivery, the only one quoted representing wheat, was in growth, sold yesterday at a peak of $1.04 1/2 a bushel, highest since June, 1934, and only 1/4 from the top established then.

He estimated 3,000,000 farm employees would be affected by the amendments to increase the act's scope.

HOLIDAY DINNER ARRANGED FOR FRIENDS

Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Paine arranged a Thanksgiving dinner for a number of guests yesterday afternoon. California flowers were used for attractive room and table decorations. Guests included the Misses Annie Laura and Marie Paine and E. K. Ewing, manager of the Hollywood studio.

PRETTY WEDDING SOLICITING HERE

Miss Norina Webber and R. B. Owen, both of Twin Falls were united in marriage by Reverend E. L. White at a pretty wedding yesterday at the J. P. Kaplin home on Fifth Avenue North.

The initial party stood before the fireplace banked with roses and chrysanthemums, which were also used throughout the house.

The bride wore a Carolyn model of Alice blue chiffon and carried a large bouquet of pink roses. Mrs. Kaplin, dressed in yellow, attended as matron of honor and carried chrysanthemums. Mr. Kaplin acted as best man.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served. Places for numerous friends were marked at a table centered with a large reflector with miniature swans on it and flanked by bowls of red and white sweet peas.

Immediately after the dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Owen left on a wedding trip. Mrs. Owen selected a gray

FDR's Son Suffering From Sinus Infection

BOSTON, Nov. 26 (AP)—An acute sinus infection today confined Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., to a hospital bed and disrupted the Thanksgiving plans of the presidential family at their Hyde Park, N. Y., home.

Mrs. Roosevelt, mother of the Harvard senior whose engagement to Miss Ethel DuPont was announced recently, hurried to Boston after hearing that her son was ill. She abandoned arrangements for a holiday family dinner.

Young Roosevelt went to Phillips house of the Massachusetts general hospital, where he is being treated. The hospital declined repeatedly to report on the condition of the president's son. Henry Oulston, whose sister is married to James Roosevelt, the president's eldest son, said tonight he did not consider the infection serious.

The boy will leave the hospital probably within 24 hours, Oulston said, "though possibly he may remain for treatment over the weekend as long as he is already there."

Mrs. Roosevelt stayed with her son during much of Thanksgiving afternoon.

WELL-KNOWN LOCAL WOMAN SUMMONED

Mrs. L. A. Warner Dies at Rochester, Minnesota, Clinlo

Mrs. Elizabeth Warner, 51, wife of I. A. Warner, and pioneer resident of Twin Falls, died Wednesday at Rochester, Minnesota, where she had been the past several months receiving medical treatment at the Mayo clinic.

Mrs. Warner came to Twin Falls in February, 1906, to become the first instructor of music in the city schools. In 1908 she married and the family made their home here for a number of years before moving to a ranch west of the city. She was a member of the First Methodist church, Chapter D. P. E. O. and Achema club and other social organizations.

In addition to her husband she is survived by a sister, Mrs. Helen Doodas of San Francisco, and three children, Mrs. Dorothy and Bill Warner, another child, Martha Dillon, died in infancy. Mrs. Warner was born April 1, 1885, at Bonad, Iowa, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. G. F. Shanker.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete pending the arrival of Mr. Warner from Minnesota.

While one day holiday is given for Thanksgiving, an order of the war department will allow a five day leave of absence to be taken, either over the Christmas or New Year holiday, Captain Gallogly said.

There are now 168 enrollees in the Hagerman camp, this being about the full quota. The men are engaged at present in building reservoirs for the benefit of stockmen who use the range across Snake River west of Hagerman.

Plans now under way for winter activities in the camp include organization of a drum and bugle corps of 12 or 16 pieces and establishment of a complete educational curriculum embracing all branches from first grades to college work. In addition there will be vocational instruction that will include diesel motors, radio, engineering, truck driving and maintenance and other work along that line. Instructors will be Phillip R. Rite, educational advisor, technical service foremen, company officers and specialists.

The camp infirmary will be redecorated and rooms in the building made more comfortable for occupancy. Building of a large stone fireplace is planned for the recreation hall and a room is to be provided for reading. A modern laundry has been established to take care of personal laundry and will be operated by enrollees. A number of gold medals have been received by Captain Gallogly, one of which will be presented each month to the enrollee grading highest in appearance, conduct and general deportment.

The camp was recently inspected by District Commander Eleanor D. Tierney and pronounced in excellent condition. A visit was also paid the camp by Captain H. O. Lane of the ninth corps inspection department.

Wings For Sally

by BILLY WOLFE

Warren's Sally Warren, attractive young beauty, did not get a warm-up. She was a member of the Warren Club, because she was engaged to Terry Warren, brother of the late Warren, who had been killed in the war. Sally had no idea of what she was getting into when she needed a home, especially to help her father, headstrong and stubborn. She was a young girl, and she had a lot of things to think about. She had a lot of things to think about. She had a lot of things to think about.

Tip Learns To Fly

As the plane passed for intermission, Philip Page turned to Sally. "Shall we go out for a while and see how it goes?" he asked. "I don't know what you mean," she said. "I don't allow Tip to do it." "You take your responsibilities more seriously, don't you?" said Philip Page. "Perhaps I do." "As I remember you are the one who was ever in the 'Meds' on things." "For instance, you jumped out of that haycock I dared you to jump from, when I was in the 'Meds' has done it myself."

well off," said Mrs. Warren, coming from the kitchen. "I'm as scarce as jobs are, they ought to be thankful they got work, instead of being out on their feet." "There's going to be more excitement than usual over this troupe," said Mr. Warren. "It's going to be the best thing since the war." "I'm going to be more excited than usual over this troupe," said Mr. Warren. "It's going to be the best thing since the war." "I'm going to be more excited than usual over this troupe," said Mr. Warren. "It's going to be the best thing since the war."

ter wariness, Sally put her head down on the desk and closed her eyes against the glare of the setting sun through her unshaded window.

Dinner in a Rural Retreat "I'm sorry," said Philip Page, standing in the doorway, hat in hand. As she lifted her head, he came toward her. "I'm sorry but I've had such a hard day—but will probably have more of them." Then he added abruptly, "I'm driving out to a farmhouse to see a doctor. Will you come along?"

"Like this?" Sally pushed back her hair, and looked at the cramped blue lines. "I'm sorry, I haven't time to wait for you to dress," said Philip. "I'll be back in half an hour." "I'm sorry, I haven't time to wait for you to dress," said Philip. "I'll be back in half an hour."

There was a chorus in the bottom lands. Sally, in spite of her galling curiosity could not help enjoying every moment of the show.

Philip Page drove Sally home and left her a briefcase of good-nights. She could not be sure whether he was glad or sorry he had "kissed her."

Drama on the Porch As she climbed her own front steps, she heard voices behind the vines on the side porch. Terry and Tip were laughing and talking. Sally was immensely relieved. Terry did not, sound angry any longer.

"Hello," Sally called them, rounding the corner of the porch. "I'm glad to see you. They had been sitting together in the swing. At sight of her, they stopped talking and stared in surprise at her.

"What's the matter?" queried Sally. "Hello," "Secret?" "No-no, of course not," Tip got up and moved away from Terry. "I'm not jealous," laughed Sally. "Don't run away."
