First Jess Willard put a Jim Jeffries and then the Twin Falls ball club puts a Jess Willard. Isn't it enough to make one dizzy?

The Twin club after its celebration has awakened with an awful head. You have heard of those long, hard winters, but they are nothing compared to a long, hot summer in the S. L. L. with a club like the Twin Falls. Most of our temporary handprint fans will be taking to drink if relief doesn't come quickly.

Without doubt there is going to be a beautiful race in the second half of the season between the Bullets and Paul Lewis, with Twin Falls a party to it if the club summons its nerve for a rally. Although hardly more than one or two of the outfit were playing ball Sunday, some other reason than natural weakness must be sought to account for such a beating to a club which showed so brilliantly against the tough Hunters team a week before. Most of our temporary handprint players will be needed, especially Steve Aronson, has left the club, but with him gone we are still ready to pin our shingles on the Twin Falls banner. Give the local club good pitching and it will take care of the rest. There is enough psychology in baseball to make such a dramatic, spectacular type of event interesting and fascinating to the fans in other departments. The league clubs are doing the same thing every day.

In Aronson, the club is losing one of its ball players that you would not only miss but is a real cranking good player. He leaves today for the east.

HE LOST LOVE, SHE SHOT HIM

Chicago Attorney Had Three Women to Look After Him—Mrs. Dead in Hospital

CHICAGO, July 8.—Three women who agreed in the triangle that led to the slaying of Benjamin E. Burr, an attorney, will face each other today before a coroner's jury impaled to investigate Burr's death. One of the women is 17-year-old Margaret Sotheran, who killed Burr by firing five shots from a tiny pocket handkerchief revolver. The second is Mrs. Tillie Sawyer, Burr's fiancée to whom he was to have been married next week. Mrs. Sawyer, the common law wife of the slain attorney, is the third. It was because she thought Burr had loved her that Miss Sotheran waited for him in his office yesterday with her half sister, Mrs. Marie Hernandez, and shot him as he entered Burr's car at 4 1/2 hours after in a hospital.

Testimony at the inquest is expected to reveal further details of Burr's tangled love affairs. Miss Sotheran expressed no remorse today over the killing of Burr and laughed when informed that he had died of the wounds she had inflicted.

"He got what was coming to him," she girl told the police. "The man is a dog and then cast me aside when he no longer cared. I wanted him but he would not listen."

WINNING HURLER IS PENNANT CONTENDER

So Declares John McGraw, Manager of New York Giants.

Hugo Bedeck, leader of Pirates, declares Club Must Have More Than One Winning Pitcher—Problem Open for Discussion.

Baseball managers do not long the possibility of a ball club in the pennant race. At the January session in New York one of the major league pilots were discussing pennant and pennant chances. John McGraw of New York started a discussion which he designed as winding other managers into a ball game out of an otherwise mediocre club. McGraw's views were shared by some of the hurlers, but Hugo Bedeck of the Pittsburgh Pirates, does not accept the McGraw doctrine.

McGraw pointed to the success of the Giants when he had more other than Matthews in depend upon for mound duty. He also recalled the John McGraw.

Washington club's success each season for the last few years with only Walter Johnson to star on the mound. These cases, according to McGraw, are good grounds for his argument.

Bedeck declared a ball club must have something more than good pitching from one pitcher, and he backs his argument with the story of Walter Cooper's work for the Pirates last season. Cooper lost nearly all of his games by one run simply because the Pirates did not have the necessary punch to aid him with a run or two, says Bedeck, and the speech sounds reasonable, too.

The argument was not ended in the one session, but there is much evidence on both sides that is deserving of serious consideration. McGraw's contention that a winning pitcher gives up 25 per cent more equipment than is logical, but as Bedeck said: "It is a tough proposition to ask one pitcher to keep a club in the race, and my manager who follows this course is traveling on a narrow path." Like many other problems in baseball, this one was made for discussion.

WAR SAVINGS STAMPS MAY BE CONVERTED INTO BONDS

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The War Savings Administration has just been authorized to convert into bonds the savings stamps which have been accumulated by the public since the beginning of the war.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The farm school of the American army and navy established in Boone, Penn., for members of the A. E. F. has an enrollment of more than four thousand soldiers. In one week of April, twenty specialists from agricultural colleges at home lectured or gave short-course talks to more than 35,000 of the soldiers. In most of the military units reached by these speakers, farmers' clubs were organized. In one regiment, the enrollment was more than 2,000.

Conversion may be made at all first and second class postoffices and at all banks and trust companies that have qualified as agents of the second class. The treasury savings certificate are to be issued in registered form and will bear the names of the owners. They will also bear the name of the company which issued them and will be counted quarterly as to the war savings stamps. The bulk of the individual investment still remains at $1,000.

Ollie Chill, one of Dan Johnson's new American league surprises, or rather a comeback in the junior major league, for he missed three seasons back, was once a mighty good buzzer. So he doesn't have to stand much sass from the players.

Britain Pays Homage to Heroic Skipper

LONDON, July 8.—England today paid honor to the memory of Captain Fryatt, the famous British skipper who was put to death by the Germans in Belgium for trying to run a "rat boat" with his unarmed merchant ship. Scenes recalling the funeral of Miss Edith Cavell, heroic English nurse, were enacted just before noon when Captain Fryatt's body arrived at the Charing Cross station and was borne along the "Tinian" embankment to St. Paul's church, where solemn services were conducted in the presence of a vast throng. The body was then taken to the church and laid with heretofore in a crypt.

ENGLAND DEMOCRATIZED BY WAR; LABOR IS NOW DIRECTING FORCE

LONDON, July 8.—The powers that guide the nation, or progressives of sentimentality to the reader to his own selection of terms—have undergone a significant change during the months since the armistice.

Very many will be content and written about in the gradual or sudden democratization of England which is sure to come, in greater or less degree, within a few months.

A year ago there was a big three—Henderson, Snowden and Macdonald. These are replaced today by three new names—Arthur Henderson, Philip Snowden and Ramsay MacDonald. These are the new leaders of the labor party, for their continued leadership of labor, they fought for their right to a time when it was triumphant. They were more than hard-headed politicians who wanted power. They were men who laid themselves open to the charge of being "defeatists." Later, the prime minister, on the day before the general election, branded them a bolshevik element, and they went into the parliament to fight for the return of the labor party.

It was a hard blow to the political prestige of the labor machine, for the men who went down to defeat were the party machine managers.

Then there arose a spirit of labor criticism, the result of a struggle between non-political fights by the laboring men for betterments. The result has been a new spirit of labor criticism, the result of a struggle between non-political fights by the laboring men for betterments. Scotchman, has made history by questioning the right of hereditary tenure in milk and peckbooks of the nation by drawing royalties for coal found under the lands or covered in distant ages for favors of courtesy to kinship forced. "Cost probe" at which questions of cost and ownership were laid before the public gaze by governmental order, and he may yet force nationalization of this product of lands which has passed downward through generations unchangingly.

"John" Williams, transport worker leader, is the most radical of the big three, who if Williams had his way would be dictators of the destinies of a nation. Thomas has a certain rough polish and a keenness that has won him the confidence of the government and his union allies; Smylie does not accept the "things as they are" dictum of the average Englishman, and he has revealed an incisiveness in thought and action and a biting method of speech not altogether pleasing to his opponents, but Williams is a "cut-and-out" and does not know it.

When Henderson and his followers (nationalistic, political, national and international) were masters at the time of the war, they were masters of the situation. Thomas, Smylie and Williams have gradually become imposed upon public consideration as a new element in the labor movement, built for and having power for direct action. Neither has the aliphatic title of the politician about him; each has the natural elements of leadership that appeal to men who care little for the debates and delays of Westminster. The war was hampered, rather than helped, by its political strain. Today, although the parliamentary representation of labor has been increased, the real power for advancement rests in the labor unions themselves. Of these the three greatest, "for the so-called triple alliance, are railroads, coal and transport, and the dictators of direct action are Thomas, Smylie and Williams.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—A corporation of American lumber on the scale likely to result from the European situation will seriously deplete the supplies needed by home industries, unless protection is made for rough-hewn lumber. Henry S. Graves, chief of the United States forest service, said today. Prior to the war, the United States exported about 400,000 cubic feet of lumber and saw-logs, or about 10 per cent of the total supply. The European situation, however, shows the consumption in normal times is put at about seven billion feet a year for the near future.

There is but one infallible measure of Newspaper Advertising Value and that is the Want Ad page.

The above statement was made by William Nelson, formerly owner and editor of the Klamath City Star. He is undoubtedly the best qualified man in America who has better qualified than Mr. Nelson to give a valuable opinion as to the best test of a newspaper for advertising.

Moreover Mr. Nelson's opinion is heartily endorsed by all the leading authorities on advertising. Printers Ink, the leading publication in this country on advertising, has said, time and time again, "the paper that carries the want ads is the nearest to the hearts of the people, and other prominent advertising mediums and journals all reiterate that there can be no question as to the results a newspaper brings if it publishes the bulk of the want ads."

The reason is that the want ad business, its secondary considerations, influence the advertiser. His one and only reason for selecting a certain paper is that he either knows from previous experience that that paper gets good results, or he has been so informed by a friend. The one idea of a classified advertiser is "Results."

That is the reason that the Times publishes more paid want ads than the two other Twin Falls papers combined. Because want ads in the Times get results, and as Mr. Nelson says, Mr. Murdoch and others, the only infallible test of a newspaper's value as an advertising medium is the want ad page. The same people who read and want ads can and do read large display ads and have the money to spend on dry goods, automobiles, and the other necessities and luxuries of life, and if your display ads in this paper how much more profitable your advertising investment would be!

THE TIMES Prints more Want Ads than the two other Twin Falls Papers combined. Therefore it's the ONLY PAPER that measures up to this infallible test.

ETHEL'S LEGACY

Ethel is a lucky bird. To be specific, she is a lucky parrot. All parrots, being what they are, are lucky simply to be alive; but Miss or Mrs. Ethel, as the case may be, seeing that she may be a widow far might we know—is especially fortunate.

Mrs. Phoebe Griffith, a New York widow, her friend and benefactor, has left Ethel with in the good old days, her will to call a "competency." She has $1,500, to be duly administered by a reputable law firm, for the sole purpose of keeping Ethel in crackers for the rest of her natural life.

That may seem like a good deal of an undertaking, when one considers the traditional longevity of parrots and the gross cost of victuals nowadays; and the moralist's prophesy of economists that prices are not going to drop. Still, $1,500 at 6 per cent will bring $30 a year, and if the lawyers do not take too many crackers out of Ethel's purse there ought to be enough to keep the undertaker from the door indefinitely. And if by any chance Ethel happens to outlive the principal, and become alarmed for her old age, she might be able to purchase an annuity from some insurance company, or buy her way into an old ladies' home.

Only, one feels like whispering a word of warning in Ethel's ear, that: "Be careful what you say, Ethel! Talk your head off if you like, but don't talk any bolshevism or anarchism or I. W. W.ism. If you do, you may find yourself in the line of your native land, and your income cut off, and maybe your food bowl with it. For these are perilous times for parrots."

U. S. CLOTHING SCHOOLS

The scene was the waiting room of a railway station at Sahuarita, Ariz. That place was chosen because there is no other available. Before the affair started, a committee of women gave the room the thorough scrubbing and cleansing it needed. Then work began and the room became a scene of industry and instruction for a week.

Three sewing machines and two work tables were installed, and a home demonstration agent taught sewing to as many women as could attend. The first afternoon found 12 women earnestly at work. Instruction was given in dressmaking and millinery.

Clothing schools are held in other localities as well. The work is under the direction of the home demonstration agents of the department of agriculture. It is not often necessary to meet in a railway station, but so interested and eager are the women that they will meet anywhere gladly for the sake of the help the agent can give them.

During the week at Sahuarita one woman made a coat dress, aingham dress, a skirt, a hat and a baby cap. The total amount of work accomplished by the class was surprisingly large.

Women who find it necessary or preferable to do their own sewing and to make most of the family wardrobe can of course learn by painful experience about the way to cut and sew and fit a garment. But there is a saving in time and goods and energy—not to mention how much and happy happiness—in the right kind of instruction, intelligently applied. The work of the home demonstration agents in this field should be as productive of good results as it has already been in food conservation and other lines.

GOOD RIDDANCE

The spectacular attempt made to assassinate Attorney General Palmer and many other public men in various parts of the United States had at least one good effect. It hastened the long-contemplated deportation of dangerous aliens.

It is announced that dozens of anarchists, I. W. W. and bolshevist agitators and other internal enemies have been sent out of the country during the past month. Others are going right along. This is in addition to the big shipment of alien enemies interned during the war and recently exported to their native lands.

The deportations are carried out in compliance with a law enacted last October, which provides that "Aliens who are anarchists, aliens who believe in or advocate the overthrow by force or violence of the government of the United States, or of all forms of law; aliens who disseminate or believe in disseminating, or who are opposed to all forms of organized government, aliens who advocate or teach the assassination of public officials; aliens who advocate or teach the unlawful destruction of property; or aliens who belong to organizations which advocate or approve any of the above crimes, shall be deported from the United States."

The law thus far has been applied gently rather than rigorously. There is little danger of its being applied the spirit of American fairness and tolerance will see to that in the future as it has in the past.

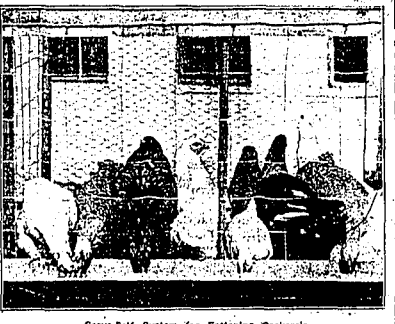

It is to be expected that the offenders and their friends will raise vigorous protests, but the public must be on its guard lest it be deceived. It is time to rid the country of this plague, and the behavior of the government should be upheld by the active support of the public in every community affected.

This is a free country, which can preserve its freedom only by stern vindication of foreign fanatics and malefactors who seek to destroy its free institutions by violence and crime.

The Kaiser will celebrate a safe and sane fourth by savoring a few cords more of wood and saying less than usual.

Grapes are being used as trimming for women's hats. Prohibition or no prohibition, it's the same old grape—goes right to the head.

CONVERT SURPLUS COCKERELS INTO CASH AND GIVE EGG-PRODUCING PULLETS ROOM

Serve-It System for Fattening Cockerels.

Overseen by the United States Department of Agriculture.
Because their room is more desirable than their company, the cockerels in the flock during the June spring and early summer are about as profitable as the appearance of Jack Frost during peach-blooming season. That is why it pays the average poultryman to start a clean-up campaign in his yards which will result in selling all the surplus cockerels as soon as they reach marketable size. This disposition of the male birds will provide more commodious quarters for the pullets which are to be raised to maturity. Furthermore, as a general proposition, the earlier the cockerels are marketed, after they are raised to maturity, the higher are the prices they will bring, other conditions being equal, while on the other hand, the longer they remain on the farm, the less the smaller will be the net profit they will yield when finally sold.

It is desirable that each poultryman retain the choicest, most vigorous and best-grown cockerels in his flock for breeding purposes, leaving the surplus to be sold in lots to high local markets or to a larger size stock birds on his premises for the family table. The common practice, to remove the surplus to sell the cockerels as soon as they attain marketable size, in sections of where several and four markets are available, cockerels of the lighter breeds, such as the Leghorns, may be sold as squab leaders before reaching the weight of three-quarters of a pound to one pound apiece. On the more general markets where frying chickens are desired and with the larger breeds, especially, the cockerels may be fattened to weight from one and one-quarter to two and one-half pounds apiece before being sold.

Coverity for the Cockerels.
The cockerels which are retained for breeding purposes should be kept apart from the rest of the flock. In the case of the male birds designed for market it is best to separate and preferably to fatten them for a few days before selling them. This extra attention given to the birds in this condition, and even to some the difference between marketing them with the fussy trade, which is willing to pay premium prices for well-sold to consumers who derive gains of millinery quality because they absorb.

The following ration may be fed profitably to cockerels which are covered by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Aviation Hampered by Lack of Landing Fields

NEW YORK, July 8.—The deployment of landing fields, or even places where aircraft can land with any degree of safety, about one-third of cities in the State of New York in the way of flying, including common airports, has been a serious handicap to the way rank as hazardous, unsafe, but extremely thrilling.

Two days ago when Philip A. Barker, a visiting aviator, landed in Van Cortlandt park and took up a few feet of turf. His engine had "conked" while flying to Albany and he was forced to descend in the middle where he could. Van Cortlandt park happened to be in the subject's path as he flew north toward or East Second Street and Broadway, or Broadway bridge, and the subject's plan to land in the city was frustrated.

The landing, got out and was readily accepting the machine. It was the first time in the history of the State of New York that a plane had landed in the city.

"They, watch me means by leaving it at a safe distance, the engine of the plane, and that for the first time in the State." Barker explained that he had a few landing, and that so far as he was concerned it was unavoidable, but he certainly hadn't wanted to land in the park at all.

"I'm very glad," said the man in the subject's path as he flew north toward or East Second Street and Broadway, or Broadway bridge, and the subject's plan to land in the city was frustrated.

The first person to handle the aviator was a woman before August 1st. Ten Eck for "unlawfully" describing the grass as a grass plot of Van Cortlandt park without a permit from the park authorities, again, the great dignity of the state of New York and the municipal ordinance in such cases, the male and female.

Aerial Mail Service Extension Proposed

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Airplane mail service between Cleveland and Chicago has proved so successful that its extension to St. Louis and Omaha in the fall is now planned. This would reduce correspondence time between the Atlantic and Pacific coast from 10 to 24 hours.

The service between Cleveland and Chicago has proved highly successful. Figures show that 18 consecutive trips of 325 letters each between Cleveland and Chicago have been made without a single trouble or more than 10 minutes. Some of them were in weather which a short while ago would have been regarded as prohibitive. Daily, each way, the ships carried 100 pounds of letter mail, or about 16,000 letters.

Even in bad weather, the planes, equipped with Liberty motors, maintained an average speed of 58.6 miles an hour.

The Cleveland-Chicago service has been the means of relieving railway mail congestion, as one distributing car each way each day has been cut from that division, at a saving of $25,000.

Experiments are now being conducted looking toward the delivery and taking of mailbags while the planes are in flight. Not many years ago, it was regarded as a remarkable feat to get a mailbag to take a mailbag without stopping or slowing down. But it is now possible for lightly loaded airplanes to come close to earth and snatch mailbags from existing railway department mail boxes. This will be attempted with the larger multi-engine planes for which the most development will shortly take place. This scheme is proposed for dropping mailbags and promptly taking them on from the roofs of tall buildings. If this proves practicable, it will be possible to have mail-bags run on such routes as that from Washington to New York, passing both Baltimore and Philadelphia.

Another important development is the construction of freight planes between the mail compartment and the engine and gas tank. This has practically eliminated danger of destruction of the mail by fire.

LETTERS OF A-L-I-Y SPELL SE-LE-FA-RE FOR INSECTS
WASHINGTON, July 8.—To the land of trees the letters A-L-I-Y spell SE-LE-FA-RE for insects, say the student from the American Forestry association, Charles Lathrop Clark, president of the association, in an article on that subject in the American Forestry magazine, estimates the annual cost of enemy insects cost this country $200,000,000. To check this annual feed the association makes these suggestions for July:

To destroy caterpillars drive carpet sweeper early into a long alkali bed, which you can at highest point and start turning in until you have the alkali then plunge into any liquid that will kill them.

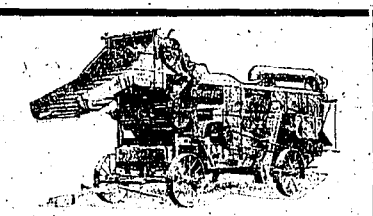

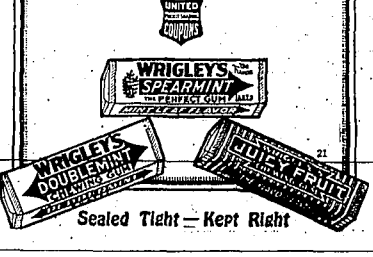

Spray fruit trees with Borax lead. Spray citrus for elm leaf beetles with arsenate of lead, one pound to ten gallons of water. Spray for forest caterpillars with arsenate of lead (same proportion). Spray truck and other leaf eating insects with arsenate of lead (same proportion). If woolly aphid is found on under side of beech tree leaves, spray with the white oil soap, one pound to ten gallons of water. Use the same combination on the red spider that may be found on prostrate junipers.

Get the black fly off the apple tree by found in the shape of a whitish woolly mass on the under side of leaves causing them to curl and wilt. Get the black fly off the apple tree by one pound to eight gallons of water. More detailed instructions on the care of trees will be sent free to anyone asking the American Forestry association for information.

OPEN AIR DANCE IS ASSAILED BY NEIGHBOR FOLKS

Lyons Pavilion Is Fought Over at Council Meeting—No Action Taken

A petition presented to the city council last night asking suppression of the Lyons open air dance pavilion on Second street, because of public nuisance precipitated a spirited and lengthy argument between barrens neighbors of the pavilion on one side and supporters of Lyons on the other. The questions of sanitation, morals and the fine distinction between music and noise were some of the issues introduced into the debate. When all was over it was found that the council had wasted their energy, the petition having no authority to act.

Dr. White presented the petition with 24 names attached, in support of it he presented the following resolutions adopted by Rev. H. H. Francis, H. H. Friedhelm, and others who complained that the noise disturbed their sleep and that the sanitary conditions were also involved.

Lyons arrived in time to defend his dance and its music, also the other charges. Arguments and resolutions were passed back and forth until the matter was finally passed up to the city attorney for an opinion. He immediately advised that he declared that the city had no authority to suppress the pavilion. An ordinance was passed covering the situation. It did not believe, he said, that there was any such ordinance at present, but would investigate to be certain.

PRESIDENT WILSON IS HOME

from first, arrived off the high seas yesterday morning at 10:30 a. m. from Philadelphia, Utah, Delaware and North Dakota, which formed two lines through with the transport passed.

The big command of Pennsylvania, commandant of the Atlantic fleet, roared in salute as the George Washington came abreast with the presidential party all on deck. The Utah, Delaware and the North Dakota broke forth with a twenty-one gun salute.

President Wilson returned to the salute with one of 19 guns to Secretary of the Navy Daniels, "whom I regard as the George Washington commander with the presidential party all on deck. The Utah, Delaware and the North Dakota broke forth with a twenty-one gun salute.

The weather was delightful during the afternoon. A brilliant sun shone from blue skies and a cool breeze blew in from the ocean.

The president and Mrs. Wilson spent their time on the bridge as the transport moved slowly up the harbor to her Hoboken dock. The president and Mrs. Wilson spent their time on the bridge as the transport moved slowly up the harbor to her Hoboken dock.

The president was a gray cast when he removed his glasses and was a light coating of tan on his face.

As the George Washington and the presidential party moved up the harbor, the "Star Spangled Banner" broke into the "Star Spangled Banner."

The Pennsylvania, carrying Vice President Marshall, members of the cabinet and a delegation of Democratic congressmen headed by Champ Clark, swung about the George Washington and the Ambassador Bayard Rustin, heading up the upper bay toward ward quarantine.

Several outgoing vessels blew their horns to salute as they passed the procession making its way up the bay under sunny skies with more than 2000 aviators "doughboys" hanging from the rigging and sides of the presidential transport and responding to the salutes with wild cheers.

In addition to the president and Mrs. Wilson, President Ambassador Bayard Rustin and Mrs. J. M. J. Rustin returning to the United States aboard the George Washington. The transport is bringing 2,644 soldiers.

DAMAGE CLAIMS STILL DELAYED

Council Postpones Matter Again to Hear From Pipe Company—No Legal Liability to City is the Opinion of Attorney.

Arising on the damage claims resulting from breaks in the city water mains was delayed another week when the city council last night decided to wait for a reply from the American Cast Iron Pipe company of Birmingham, Alabama, which is expected to send damages.

Attorney Shad Holden, representing the city, was present to state some preliminary action, but City Attorney Holden stated that he was not sure that the city was legally liable for the damages and had no more right to pay the claims and then attempt to collect from the pipe company. Mayor Edinger then suggested that in that case it might be a matter of attorney and the elements and the city attorney and that time was being wasted in bringing it before council.

The city attorney stated that he would give a written opinion on the matter.

Other Hushes

A request from the O. S. L. that telephone poles be installed along the harbor pier after the way to the city was a light coating of tan on his face.

George M. Dow was given permission to close the sidewalk bordering the property at second avenue north and second during construction of a new building there.

Reports from several city officials were heard informally, dealing with matters in their departments.

Appointment of Chief Officer Hays to the fire station, with a salary of $175 a month was favorably discussed.

W. E. Nixon appeared to request $100 for the public library and was successful in his quest.

E. A. Moon stated that he would like to buy for an alley through the lot in the East Law addition, No. 14750.

He desires to build on the lot which blocks an alleyway desired by other property owners back of him. An attempt will be made to get both sides together on the offer.

WILL PROCEED WITH CURBING THIS SUMMER

That and Eighth Avenue Lateral Will Not Await Paving of the Streets

Suggestion of City Engineer here that the city proceed with all curbing contracts and the covering of the Ninth Avenue canal this year in advance of the street paving, was adopted by the council last evening and instructions given that plans be prepared at once.

It is believed that all curbing in the two new paving districts can be finished this year and that part of the improvement program will be ready to proceed with work upon it.

The curbing and lateral improvement can be done independently of the paving, so that the city can hold it up for that work. Engineer Dorr also reported last evening that sewer extension plans were proceeding satisfactorily and that the sewerage lateral might be called for shortly.

Work on the sewerage lateral of the city is at present occupying attention.

MUST ANSWER TO CHARGE OF MURDER IN THE FIRST DEGREE

Autopsy on Victim Will Be Held Today. Eriqson, Shipley's Night Haunted by Visions of Dead Girl's Face—Shows Deep Interest in Mechanical Construction of Gallows.

COMPLAINT CHARGES MURDER

LOS ANGELES, July 8.—Harry S. New, Jr., confessed slayer of his 20-year-old fiancée, Miss Freda Lesser, in Topeka Kan., early Saturday morning, today was charged with murder in the first degree in a complaint issued by Deputy District Attorney Eriqson at the request of Police Detective Herman Clinis. He will be arraigned in justice court late today.

LOS ANGELES, July 8.—Harry S. New, Jr., confessed slayer of his 20-year-old fiancée, Miss Freda Lesser, in Topeka Kan., early Saturday morning, today was charged with murder in the first degree murder today.

The complaint will be asked for, following the autopsy on the body of Freda Lesser and the inquest this afternoon.

New spent another sleepless night, haunted by visions of the dead girl. He is near collapse and may not be able to stand the ordeal of the inquest as he had slept little or none since she was arrested at 3:30 Saturday morning when he brought the body of the victim to the police station and calmly announced he had murdered his sweetheart.

"Owing to threats that have been made against the life of New by the friends of the dead girl, a special guard of detectives has been asked for him today at the autopsy and inquest. New is not afraid, however, declaring he would swallow death if he said today that he was sorry he had not turned the gun upon himself after shooting his sweetheart dead."

"During the night he continually consulted the jailer and special guard that is kept with him, always to prevent him taking his life, about matters how they are constructed in California and how long it takes death to come after the trap is sprung."

New was represented by an attorney.

Detective Has Puzzling Quest for Large Roll

NEW YORK, July 8.—Seen a woman running around with $3,000 in her pockets?

If you have, and will notify Detective Morgan Callahan he will be awfully nice indeed.

Miss Alice Dudley, of Haleswift, Tex., arrived here to attend a summer school and received a trunk she had checked at Kansas City she found it was accompanied by a revenue officer. The trunk was opened and in it was found eighty pairs of whips.

Miss Dudley denied ownership and explained that a porter in Kansas City, whom she had checked her trunk, must have made a mistake. Her trunk, she said, was a summer trunk with the one sent here was a large green one. Her father was supposed to solve the mystery.

FACTS WORTH KNOWING About Horse Collars

The collar should be just large enough to permit the hand to pass inside it, either between the lower end of the collar and the neck or breast of the horse. If the collar is too tight it will choke the horse, and cause sore withers. Test the fitting of the collar by lifting up the horse's head.

The harness should fit the collar; if too long, they will probably be bucked too tight at the top. In this way the collar will be made to pinch the horse at the top. Sores thus produced begin by a pinna or very small hole, often overlooked because the horse covers it.

Examine your horse carefully, and if there is any sore spot, adjust the collar so that it will not touch that spot. If the skin is merely scratched, rub it with white lead or liniment. If the skin is broken, bathe it with clean water, containing a little salt.

If the collar "rides up," it can be kept down by a martingale running to the girth, or by an extra girth running from trace to trace, back of the foreleg.

The best collar for a mature horse, whose weight does not vary much throughout the year, is the leather collar. But for most horses, the best collar is one stuffed with hair, and covered with it. With this collar, if the horse's shoulder becomes sore at any point, the lining of the collar can be ripped, and the hair removed, so that the pressure will come on the sore place.

Collar pads are much used, but they keep the collar dirty, cannot easily be cleaned, and thus cause many sores. Still it is said that making the collar is better than using an ill-fitting collar without a pad.

By all means, clean the inside of the collar every night. If you wash with soap, the collar will become dirty, and the horse's shoulders as soon as the water is removed. The salt sweat drying on the skin is what does the mischief.

The monitors had been lying among a group of islands in the Danube south of Budapest when the uprising collapsed.

GIRL SIGHTS ATTORNEY

CHICAGO, July 7.—Benjamin E. Harp, an attorney, was shot and seriously wounded in his office here today by a 27-year-old girl who told the police she was avenging dishonor he had brought her. The girl gave the name, but she refused to identify when taken to police headquarters.

NO DOUBT OF IT

AKRON, Ohio, July 8.—Curtis Pack, who married Miss Minnie Wilcox in the office of Mayor J. E. Myers here, meant every word he said when the mayor put the questions.

"Do you take this woman to be your lawful and wedded wife, to love, honor, cherish, and obey?" asked the mayor.

"I say I do," replied Parks with emphasis.

English Soon Replaces French As Common Language

ISLAND OF CRETE, July 8.—The English language promises soon to replace French as the language of Crete. This is due to the fact that the Anglo-American influence has resulted in thousands of elementary schools instituting English as a compulsory language. Even in the Mediterranean, instruction in the English language has been arranged for.

And the Judge is Still Pondering the Matter

NEW YORK, July 8.—"It's" said Detective William Kelly, a plainclothesman from Central office, "I'll just follow this bird and nab him the minute he starts." The sleuth had been watching a man in the subway who kept eating alone in prosperous-looking people with his eyes on his pockets.

For two hours the game of hard and bunnie was pursued through the maze of New York's subways. The suspect changed trains twenty times during that period, always with the panache which is his habit. The game began to get tiring. The suspect would edge right up to a waiting pocket, by some sixth sense, "I'll take him," anyway," he'd say. He did.

WATERING FARM HORSES

Walter Moore, a well-known writer, says: "It is a common thing for farmers to work their horses in the hayfield from morning to night, watering them only at noon. This is done on days of excessive heat. The other usually has two or more refreshing drinks in the middle of the morning, and again in the afternoon, but the horses, who are equally thirsty, go without. This sort of watering is not only distasteful, but it can increase their yield of crops."

Major C. G. Hopkins, of the Illinois Agricultural Department, and Lieutenant C. J. Boyce, a native Greek, or Cretan, in America and a former instructor in Michigan agriculture, both are in charge of the agricultural survey of Greece and Crete.

WATERING FARM HORSES

"The American scientific agriculturalists are now conducting a survey of the soil possibilities of Crete in the name of the Greek mission. Crete is somewhat exhausted by centuries of cultivation without replacement of soil, but with an abundant supply of water supply in the mountains and available fertilizer, it is believed much of it will respond to proper treatment."

"American farming methods and up-to-date methods are needed, and arrangements have been made to systematically educate the farmers of Greece and its largest island so that they can increase their yield of crops."

Major C. G. Hopkins, of the Illinois Agricultural Department, and Lieutenant C. J. Boyce, a native Greek, or Cretan, in America and a former instructor in Michigan agriculture, both are in charge of the agricultural survey of Greece and Crete.

Maxwell: advanced by fine engineering

FIVE decided improvements have been made in the Maxwell. One makes it look better. Another makes the electrical unit far more efficient. A third makes the engine run sweeter, steadier, and gives it advanced economy. A fourth adds a comfort in seating. A fifth produces increased durability in the top.

But it isn't a new model Maxwell. For this car is merely the chassis of five years ago with all the advances made in fine engineering.

This is the original chassis model of which 300,000 have been built to date—300,000 all alike basically, but each one better than the previous one.

Thus you get a sound, safe, extremely reliable car, refined to a degree, and at the same time you get the new improvements, and the price is only $985 f. o. b. Detroit cost.

You get a Maxwell now with the famous Hot Spot and Ram's-horn and you find a rare delight in more power and more mileage at the old-time cost.
