John McGraw says that a winning pitcher gives a ball team 25 per cent more confidence. Is it possible that John was in the grand stand last Sunday?

Who would you rather be, right now, Willard or Dempsey? Wait a minute—don't yell Dempsey just yet. Sure Dempsey has the championship, but Willard has all the confidence that Dempsey has. He has it all now, while Dempsey must wait a few years and take a bit of punishment for it. Eventually Dempsey must take the knockout punch. Willard is over with that. Back has the life and a lot of hard knocks coming. Does he have a soft time ahead. Now let's hear it again. Quite nice, Willard.

Tyler Christian didn't arrive as expected to take charge of the local baseball team Sunday. An accident at the Snake river ferry halted the car that was going after him or Tyler is still up on the ferry at Detroit. If he has a hard time getting here Sunday he may decide to stay there.

Frank McCarrill is anxious to see a revival of boxing and wrestling in this section, being a high and rapid star. If Frank holds a hold of a man like the way he does a steer, we intend to stay out of the wrestling profession.

CINCINNATI, July 8.—Jack Demeny, heavyweight champion, decided today that he had canceled his theatrical engagements because of serious illness of his mother at Salt Lake City. "I am going home to see mother after I finish here Saturday night," he said today. "But she is not sick—she is just a little nervous."

VETERAN OIL MAN IS DEAD

DENVER, July 8.—Dr. James M. Boland, veteran army surgeon of the civil war and one of the early oilmen of this country, died here yesterday afternoon aged 90. Dr. Boland was born in Crawford county, Pa. Feb. 13, 1829.

FRED LUDERUS AND GEORGE WHITTET GET BONUSES AS CAPTAIN OF THE PHILLIES

Captains of Philadelphia Team.

Fred Luderus, first baseman for the Phillies, lost his job as 1919 captain of the Phillies this season, but it was not because Manager Jack Coombs thought any the less of him. George Whittet held out for $300 more than President Baker of the Phillies was willing to pay. Baker adopts a sliding scale of salaries and nothing can assure him from his first determination about the proper wage for every athlete.

BASEBALL STORIES

Goody is an odd name, but there are two of them in the Southern league. The story that Memphis would have been a mistake. Art Plehan is one of the Galveston veterans who seems to have come back strong. Hellman is making the Tiger fans sit up and take notice by his great work at the ball park. The Vernon club has turned out better than expected over to Potting, which cup was most anything. Ed Heller, Cincinnati pitcher, is spotted with the first world game of the major league season. Fred Smith, formerly of the St. Paul club, has returned from overseas and expects to play in the association this season.

Willard Avoids All Chicago Inspection

CHICAGO, July 8.—Chicago boxing fans who thought they might get a change to view the work done by Champion Jack Dempsey to the features of Jess Willard, former champion, were annoyed by the Kansas behemoth who had their eyes averted of Dempsey's big brother.

Checked Up Gate Receipts of Fight

TOLLEDO, July 8.—Accountants and representatives of the internal revenue department were still checking away today at the gate receipts of the big Willard-Dempsey fight on July 4, after being interrupted by the fight by evening. They said, however, that their official figures would not differ materially from the unofficial figures given out last night by Tex Willard before he departed for his home today. "But she is not sick—she is just a little nervous."

that he intended to pay Luderus a very large sum, however, and Luderus will not get that sum. Thus Luderus receives a captain's pay without a captain's responsibility, whatever they are, and Whittet gets his piece and whatever glory is attached to the captain's berth.

President Is Asked About His Authority

WASHINGTON, July 8.—A resolution introduced by Sen. Sherman of Illinois yesterday provided that the president be requested to inform the Senate "under and by what right, in virtue of any provision or power of the United States constitution or by what federal authority, he has undertaken to impose upon the people of this country and make its government subject to such powers and an organization created in the league of nations."

Discovery by Italian Big Aid to Mutilated

BOLOGNA, Italy, July 8.—Remarkable results have been achieved in Italian military hospitals recently by the use of what is known as "plastic surgery," the invention of Professor Patti, of Bologna university. Professor Patti's methods have attracted intense interest on the part of American doctors attached to the Balkan commission of the American Red Cross who are supervising the artificial left factories already established and being established in Athens, Saloniki, Belgrade and Bucharest for the mutilated.

At present allied soldiers in the Balkans who have lost their limbs are being fitted with artificial legs and arms of a type similar to that employed by Sarah Harnhardt, Professor Patti's method, however, are a distinct advance over all other artificial appliances. His treatment of amputated limbs consists of a natural prosthesis of the stump to develop a "motor" end to the cords which, after being bound together over a smooth "hoisting" device, get as much as a three-inch re-education and co-ordination of the muscles of the stump. After the stump heals Professor Patti cuts out a flap of flesh which he folds back into an incision to take the flap. This is allowed to heal and then through the loose flap of flesh a metal bar with attachments to operate the artificial limb below is suspended. The muscles of the calf and thigh readily respond after some weeks to the movement of the artificial leg, and soon the pressure of the swinging of the artificial leg re-educates the muscles through the flap of flesh, so that after all the muscles of the stump actually operate by themselves the mechanical members of the artificial limb.

In the case of a severed hand the muscles groups surrounding the laceration are trained to operate cutout, curia which, in turn, operate artificial fingers. Not after the introduction of "debridement" in American army medical work in France has any medical innovation created as much comment.

NO NEED TO TRY KAISER

Opinion of American Peace Delegates, but President Must Name Member of Court

WASHINGTON, July 9.—While the United States peace delegation does not believe that there is any great need of actually trying the former Kaiser, it is certain that it will be necessary at least that the presidential nominee as a member of the tribunal that will meet to determine whether such trial—can be set forth in the treaty—is legal under law. The presidential nominee for this post, if the health of the great jewel will permit, is understood to be Chief Justice Edward Douglas White of the United States supreme court. It is expected that the president will take the matter up with the chief justice before he leaves on his western trip, should chief Justice White not feel inclined to travel the post for health or other reasons, it is believed that he will be asked to suggest an associate justice of the court.

The position of the American commission, as stated by members at Paris, was that the trial of the Kaiser was a matter that must be determined in a most careful manner. The slightest error will have the effect of making him a martyr in Germany, which he still remains.

Asks About Alleged Japan-German Pact

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The president is requested, if not incompatible with the peace process, to furnish the senate with a copy of an alleged secret treaty between Germany and Japan. In a resolution introduced by the senate, it is stated that the attorney general and referred to the senate foreign relations committee. Attached to the resolution was a newspaper clipping from the Washington Post dated June 20, which saw a Bolshevik wireless message from Moscow as authority for the existence of the supposed treaty.

The president was also asked in a resolution to inform the senate as to whether the supposed German-Japanese pact had been abrogated by the treaty of Versailles or whether it was still in force.

Cummings Speaks for Harmony in Party

BOISE, July 8.—Honorable Cummings, chairman of the National Democratic committee, and party held a conference with the leading Idaho Democrats in the city of Boise today. Chairman Cummings announced that the Twin Falls, late in the south Idaho territory has been dropped because it has been found impossible to fill it owing to a lack of time. The league of nations convention will be ratified, he stated in an interview. The criticism directed against it is only making the critics unpopular and is not injuring the league, he said. Chairman Cummings will give an address tonight at a public mass meeting in which he will defend the covenant. At the conference today with local Democrats, Chairman Cummings urged party harmony and early organization for the next campaign.

France Buys German Goods ELKS MUST OBEY PROHIBITION Retiring Grand Exalted Ruler Tells Members They Must Observe Law ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 8.—Members of the order of Elks must not seek to evade the prohibition law, Frank A. Campbell, retiring grand master of the order, declared in his final report to the national convention here today.

"Every Elk is entitled to his views as to the propriety of prohibition laws," he said, "but as to the question of obedience to them, all Elks can and must have but one opinion, and that is, that we must in all instances observe the law. We must also pledge ourselves as steadfastly opposed to bootlegging, and we must pledge ourselves to aid in driving it from the nation by all lawful means." Commander Evancoline C. Booth of the Salvation Army, the first woman ever invited to speak before the grand lodge, today thanked the Elks for their support of the Salvation Army in the recent campaign. Los Angeles has dropped out of the contest for the 1920 convention, swinging her support to Chicago, which is the likely winner in return. Los Angeles will be supported by Chicago for the 1921 convention.

"There is but one infallible measure of Newspaper Advertising Value and that is the Want Ad page." The above statement was made by William Nelson, formerly owner and editor of the Kansas City Star. Presently the most successful western newspaper. It is doubtful if there was ever a man in America who was better qualified than Mr. Nelson to give a valuable opinion as to the best test of a newspaper for advertising. Moreover Mr. Nelson's opinion is heartily endorsed by all the leading authorities on advertising. "Printers Ink, the leading publication in this country on advertising, has said, time and time again, 'the paper that carries the want ads is the nearest to the hearts of the people,' and other prominent advertising men and journals all reiterate that there can be no question as to the value a newspaper brings if it publishes the bulk of the want ads. The reason is that the want ad business, no secondary considerations, influence the advertiser. His one and only reason for selecting a certain paper is that he either knows from previous experience that that paper gets good results, or he has been informed by a friend. The one idea of a classified advertiser is "Results." That is the reason that the Times publishes more paid want ads than the two other Twin Falls papers combined. Because want ads in the Times gets results, and Nelson says, "Merchants, and others, the only infallible test of a newspaper as an advertising medium is the want ad page. This same people can get the results can and do read how they display and have the money to spend on dry goods, automobiles and the other necessities and luxuries of life, and if your display ad was in this paper how much more profitable your advertising investment would be!" THE TIMES Prints more Want Ads than the two other Twin Falls Papers combined. Therefore it's the ONLY PAPER that measures up to this infallible test.

Being the Authentic Narrative of a Treasure Discoverer on the Bahama Islands in the Year 1903—Now First Given to the Public.

BY RICHARD LEAGLORRE

Copyright, 1916, by R. Leaglorre. All Rights Reserved.

CHAPTER I.—The writer continues his search for gold, without avail. On a visit to the island of New Providence, he discovers a treasure map, which he follows to the Bahama Islands. He finds a cave containing a treasure of gold and silver, which he takes and returns to his home.

It rained and Calypso herself, poor old ignorant Tom had been right after all. Nothing good came of this enterprise. There was a cargo upon them from the beginning. And then, as I thought of Tobias, my body shook so that I could hardly keep on walking and next minute my hatred of him so served me up that I ran on through the brush like a madman, my clothes clutched at by the devilish vines and torn at every yard.

I had just the scene of our excursions, looking more hunted than ever in the flapping gleam of the lantern. With an oath, I left them behind, as the accused case of all this evil; but I could have gone by them many yards which suddenly I felt the ground edging away beneath me with a sudden jerk. My arms went up and my feet flew out from under me. I fell into a hole of a foot or more, and lay there, looking down at my feet, which were in a state of fright. I felt my shirt whipping downward as one might fall down the shaft of a mine. I had fallen into the hole of a foot or more, and lay there, looking down at my feet, which were in a state of fright. I felt my shirt whipping downward as one might fall down the shaft of a mine.

Vainly I clutched at Rocky Wall.

CHAPTER II.—The writer continues his search for gold, without avail. On a visit to the island of New Providence, he discovers a treasure map, which he follows to the Bahama Islands. He finds a cave containing a treasure of gold and silver, which he takes and returns to his home.

could tell, seriously hurt. I was bruised, of course, but no bones broken. It seemed incredible, but it was true. The position made me feel weak again, and I set down with my back against the wall, and waited for some one to come.

Slowly my thoughts revolved around the situation. Then, as by force of habit, my hand went to my pocket. God be praised! I had matches, and I tried with trembling out my very weakness. But I still sat in the dark for a while. I felt very tired. After thinking about it for a long time, I looked out my precious matchbox, which miraculously I had been holding with my hand, and struck a light, looking about me in a amazed fashion. The match burnt down to my fingers, and I was left with a single match.

CHAPTER III.—The writer continues his search for gold, without avail. On a visit to the island of New Providence, he discovers a treasure map, which he follows to the Bahama Islands. He finds a cave containing a treasure of gold and silver, which he takes and returns to his home.

I got about the more carefully to examine every hole and corner. From staples imbedded in one of the walls, with rusted chains and manacles, I was very much surprised to find one of the walls of the gallery had once been built. Mechanically for certain unhappy souls hung since from the ceiling. I had been told that I may hit—exceedingly joyous. For if there had been a way to bring prisoners here, it would have been to take them out. But how and where? I searched every nook and cranny, but I was of no sign of entrance anywhere.

CHAPTER IV.—The writer continues his search for gold, without avail. On a visit to the island of New Providence, he discovers a treasure map, which he follows to the Bahama Islands. He finds a cave containing a treasure of gold and silver, which he takes and returns to his home.

I was in a sort of low, narrow gallery, some forty feet long. I was similar to the one I had entered; and on the left side of the gallery, built of rough stones from the low ceiling of the floor, were a series of compartments, each with locked wooden doors. They were locked and grim looking, and might have been taken for prison cells, yet they were, as I possibly saw them. The inmates' faces were red with rage, and there was plainly no possibility of opening them.

GERMAN PRESIDENT NONENTITY
CHANCELLOR HOLDS REAL POWER

BERLIN, June 15 (by mail).—In the words of Dr. H. Brüning, German minister of the interior and author of the original draft of the new German constitution: "The president of Germany is a parliamentary king."
The president has been elected by the German people to a term of seven years, but his powers are so limited, with a real emphasis on limited powers, that he is practically a non-entity. It is the chancellor of the government who holds the real power. He is the one who proposes and carries out the policy of the government. He is the one who is responsible to the parliament. He is the one who is the real head of the government. He is the one who is the real power.

Get Half of Your Tire
Money Back

When you bought your last standard tire, suppose the dealer handed you back half the money you paid him. It would make you very happy, wouldn't it? Well, that's just what happens when you buy a Gates Half Sole Tire because they cost half as much as standard tires of corresponding size, and deliver 5,000 to 15,000 miles. And you get an iron-clad puncture-proof guarantee in addition. A new scientific principle in tire construction invented by Charles C. Gates, E. M., makes all this possible—and over half a million car owners in the United States have taken advantage of this money saving—worry ending opportunity. Until recently these advantages were limited to motorists in bigger cities only. Now that you can cut your tire bill in two—right here in your own home town—don't you think it's time you gave serious thought to Gates Half Sole Tires?
