HOUSE OF COMMONS ALSO ADOPTS PACT FOR DEFENSE OF FRANCE

First Nation to Give Official Approval to Work of Peace Conference—Proposed Trial of Ex-Kaiser Brought Up, but No Neutral Nation Cares to Accept Doubtful Honor.

LONDON, July 22—England today formally stands side by side with France to repel any future attempt to invade the hour of common having unanimously passed the Anglo-French treaty bill. It now remains for the French chamber and the United States senate to adopt ratification of the "triple defensive alliance" complete.

The Anglo-French pact, which honors the peace treaty with Germany, was passed in the house of commons on Monday a bill recognizing the ratification of the pact was passed 136 to 4 votes.

The proposed trial of the ex-kaiser was also brought up, which led the premier to say, in reply to a query, that he knew of no neutral country that wanted to be the seat of the trial.

RACE RIOTING IN WASHINGTON RESULTS IN NIGHT OF TERROR

Four Are Dead, Two Score Injured, and Police Stations Shelter Motley Crowd of Prisoners, Black and White, Taken In Wholesale Lots by City Force

WASHINGTON, July 22—The riot which was started by the burning of a law in the District of Columbia to end the race riots here, by resolution introduced in the house this afternoon by Representative Emerson, of Ohio.

WASHINGTON, July 22—With four dead and two score wounded in negro riots that continued through the night, the possibility of a racial "capitulation" being under virtual martial law loomed large today.

At every police station in the city were gathered multitudes of negroes, some of whom were shouting and waving their fists, and some of whom were shouting and waving their fists.

The police and the military forces, which were called out in wholesale lots, were unable to control the rioters, and the rioters were taken in wholesale lots by the city force.

Will Bring Up Question at First Meeting of League of Nations, Says Delegate

PARIS, July 22—Japan intends to raise the issue of racial equality at the first meeting of the league of nations, a member of the international news service today.

"We have never changed our views on this point," the delegate said, "and we will not make any concessions on this point." He said that the Japanese people are inclined to be opposed to the Shantung clause.

The Japanese mission is attempting to show the strength of the opposition in the United States to the Shantung clause and to bring it up at the first meeting of the league of nations.

CASIER MAKES AWAY WITH $900,000 CASH

PHILADELPHIA, July 22—A complete confession that he had made away with approximately $900,000 from the North Penn bank, of which he was cashier, was made today by Ralph T. Moyer. The cashier appeared at city hall and surrendered himself.

According to affidavits, Moyer has admitted taking the money over a period of two years. He had conscientiously covered his operations by subjecting false books in ledgers, whenever the state examinations were made by an inspector.

NEWS OF FRESH OUTRAGES STIRS UP WASHINGTON

Bandit Activity in Mexico Indicates Carranza Has Not Full Control of Situation

WASHINGTON, July 21—While the state and navy departments were today awaiting reports that might give details of the Tamez river bandit activity, a dispatch from Mexico City today stated that Carranza's control of the situation was not full.

On July 16 according to a dispatch from Mexico City, a band of 100 Mexican bandits robbed the head office of the Atlantic Refining company at Puerto Lajas, in Tampico. The loss, consisting of $150,000, was intended for the company's payroll. The dispatch failed to give any other details.

The news of the latest activities of Mexican bandits in the Tampico region, which is a hot spot of the Mexican revolution, has stirred up Washington.

THE FRUITS OF LABOR

Writing on "Everybody's Business," in the Saturday Evening Post, Floyd W. Parsons has this to say of the new attitude of workmen toward their work:

"As for the lessons the war-taught labor, none exceeds in value those that have taught workmen generally to abandon old ideas of restriction of output. Even in Europe the union leaders themselves have taken a decided stand against these old theories. Only the radicals are seeking to revolutionize society continue to hold to the belief that increased production is wholly for the benefit of the capitalist. The level-headed workers are spreading the gospel that the nation must produce in order to live. They have mastered the most important fundamental principle, that the employer cannot have in view what he is not prepared to do. It is dangerous to cultivate the idea that by doing less one can have more."

It is true that the old policy of organized labor generally seemed to be based on "the idea that by doing less one can have more." Stated now in an angry words, the fallacy is self-evident. It was not so evident, however, in the old days, when it was generally believed by the workers that all the profit went to the employer. Holding that belief, it was not unusual for the workers to advocate halting down production, partly with a view to providing more days' work for themselves and partly through desire to cut down the employer's exorbitant profits.

There has been enlightenment on both sides. Employers are becoming more willing to share with their employees, and employees are really gaining a new view of the essential partnership of labor and capital in industry.

It is a partnership which, like every other, will not work unless both partners play fair. The first step, generally speaking, is for the employer to make it perfectly plain that he is going to play fair. If the workmen they do his part, then there will certainly come such a revolution in industry as few capitalists or workers have expected—a peaceful revolution, resulting in an amazing increase in production, and a corresponding increase of commodities for the use and pleasure of the workers.

DO YOU CARE?

In an article on "The Ugly City" in the July Atlantic, Henry Justin Smith tells why Chicago deserves that title. The city, at first too busy to care for beauty in its surroundings, has bred a generation of natives who have known no other way to live. They take indignity for granted, and lack imagination to desire beyond it.

That some day Chicago as a whole will awake, as isolated individuals and small groups have already awakened, to the knowledge that their city is ugly and need not be so, Mr. Smith prophesies. He says he lived there forty years before he saw it himself.

Others are fairly certain that the city, perhaps through some event as profoundly moving as the war, it will be revealed to our people that they live in an ugly city, and that there is no need of it. They will make a clean sweep.

The same strictures which Mr. Smith draws about Chicago are applicable in smaller respects to every city in America. Not one, not the newest or most beautiful, but has its ugly streets, its back alleys, its localities where children grow up taking ugliness for granted as a part of life.

No more than Chicago need be ugly in its greatness, need these little cities have their little uglinesses. The same reason always applies. The people do not care.

Do you care that Twin Falls has its ugly spots? Do you just take them for granted, or do you care enough to pull yourself out of your laziness and do something to clean them out? It takes thought and effort to replace ugliness with beauty, but they are thought and effort always well repaid.

THE INCOMPARABLE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Senator Fall yesterday in the senate charged that the Associated Press "distorted and misrepresented" the real news regarding conditions in Mexico. Indeed, he charged that it was "as unfair in its treatment of Mexican news as it was in its treatment of other subject matters."

Coming from a man who is in position to know conditions in Mexico, and to know the distortion of those conditions by the Associated Press, the statement will carry weight among the American readers who care not so much for the source of the news as they do for its accuracy. A news gathering agency may be forgiven for mistakes, but for deliberate distortion and misrepresentation there is no forgiveness. And when a news gathering agency has a "policy," and when distribution seems always directed to the maintenance of that policy, without regard to accuracy, the agency becomes almost as useless as a source of accurate news as a newspaper that is similarly afflicted with a "policy."

WOMEN WANT ACTION, NOT INVESTIGATIONS

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Action, instead of investigations, is being demanded by the women of the National Consumers' league, representing thousands of housewives throughout the United States. Wary of endless congressional hearings, the league in a letter today, declared the crisis has been reached.

The letter, written by Miss Jessie H. Haver, Washington representative of the league, was addressed to Representative Thomas W. Hanchett, who recently introduced a bill to appropriate $300,000 for an investigation of the food situation. "We should like to remind you that a very thorough investigation took place last winter, during which astounding facts were brought to light," Miss Haver wrote. "As a result, the Keegan-Anderson bill had drawn with it the cooperation of growers, farmers and consumers. This bill seems to strike at the root of the evil, namely, the monopoly exercised by the five great packers of the country. We are convinced that sufficient facts have been brought to light to warrant passage of the bill. Things have reached such a crisis that nothing short of this program can meet the situation, and we are hoping that such a program would immediately be pushed by congress."

OBEYED HIS WIFE, BUT NOT THE KING

LONDON, (By Mail).—Queen Mary is a woman of true feminine resources, George Cadbury was allowing the king and queen the model village to built near his factories to accommodate his factory hands.

Queen Mary, noticing this, said: "Put your hat on Mr. Cadbury, and I will not mind," said the manufacturer, respectfully. "Then the Queen tackled Mrs. Cadbury with the question: 'Do you think King directed Cadbury to be covered, adding: 'It is a royal command'."

AMOSITY TO CHRISTIANS

TOKYO 4th month. New anti-religious law directed Christian workers in Japan is being delayed by heads of the Buddhist sects. This was made apparent when chief priests of Buddhist partied a resolution stating they did not like to be invited to functions with Christian representatives. The following day, they attended Home Minister Tokomichi's luncheon to representatives of Christian and Buddhist religions, but refused to participate in the program.

Shuler, 3410 Cherry street, Kansas City, Mo.; Corporal Edward M. Keslar (deceased), Cheney, Kan.; Andrew J. McKeown, Matamoras, Pa.; Private George W. Garmon, Leno, Ark.; Captain Alvin H. Walters, Okla.

LABOR WILL HOLD WORLD CONVENTION

LONDON, July 19 (United Press).—Labor leaders representing many millions of workers in the larger part of civilized world were gathering today at Amsterdam for the meeting of the International Labor Federation.

To labor leaders of the world the coming meeting is next in importance to the peace conference. They will outline labor policies during the reconstruction period, with the expectation that these policies will have a great effect on the welfare of workers in Europe and America and will strengthen the sentiment for the league of nations. For the first time since the war began delegates will be present from Austria and Hungary and will be represented besides the United States, France, Italy, Spain, Holland and Scandinavia.

ETERNAL TRIANGLE IS AGAIN CAUSE FOR DIVORCE

LONDON, July 21.—A husband's infidelity on another woman living in the same house as himself and his wife was mentioned in the Divorce court here recently when Mrs. Eva Fattie Avenell was granted a dissolution of her marriage with Captain A. Walter Avenell.

In New Zealand they made the acquaintance of a Mr. and Mrs. Harke, and learned that Mr. Harke eventually turned his wife out of the house owing to her relations with Mrs. Avenell.

The latter took lodgings for her and in February, 1911, sent his wife and children home. He was in England in May, 1911, and the wife arranged to go back to him if he broke off his relations with Mrs. Harke.

He took a house called Sweetbriars, near Gainsboro, and when the wife met him to go there Mrs. Harke was with him. He insisted on Mrs. Harke accompanying them, though the wife protested. They all stayed in the country house for some time.

In 1911 he wrote, saying: "Our marriage has proven an utter failure, perhaps through the direct and indirect fault of myself and others, and I decline absolutely to live with Fattie any longer. I have been living with the lady indicated and nothing that anyone can do or say, or any influence or inducements of any kind, will make me leave living with this lady as my wife. I offer no reason, except that I care far more for this lady than I ever cared or will ever care for anything in this world."

Spray to Destroy Second Brood of the Codling Moth

Just at this season orchard owners make inquiry when is the best time to spray to check the work of the second brood of codling moth.

It was reasonable after this year we got a much better price for our apple crop than has been received during the previous five years. It is therefore wise to take the usual precautions against the work of the second brood of the codling moth and have our fruit, if possible, as free as possible from the worm.

Mr. J. E. Hirst of the Mendocino Fruit company was asked by an inspector, and during that period made very careful study of the habits of the codling moth. According to his observations the life of the larvae of the first brood is usually 22 days. The larvae then enter the stage called pupation, changing from a worm to a moth, twelve days; from in the air and mating for egg production four days. The eggs hatch, according to temperature, in from seven to fifteen days.

Butler touches the moth to deposit her eggs on the young tender leaves nearest the cluster of apples. The larvae may have ten or a dozen days to travel to enter an apple. The orchardist should thoroughly spray the trees a little before the hatching of the larvae from the eggs. If the foliage is covered with arsenate of lead just in advance of or during the time when the eggs are being deposited there is a strong probability that the larvae will feed upon the leaf and be destroyed before reaching the apple.

While the codling spray should be applied in a carrier stream and driven into the inner calyx of the apple just after the blossom falls, the space around the second brood should be supplied with high power in the form of a fine mist to increase the probability of wetting the upper and under surface of the leaf.

In the latitude of Payette spraying is in full headway this week. A few huggins late last week, in Ada and Canyon counties this week and possibly all of next week, depending on elevation, exposure and local conditions, may be in time to successfully guard against the work of the second brood.

MAKING DISTRIBUTION OF WAR CERTIFICATES

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The plan, automobile and motor-boat dealers in a will dash to catch a small boat out of Seattle tomorrow.

Robert E. Smith, director of the national organization of the Twelfth reserve district, is making the dash in a small boat out of Seattle tomorrow.

Receiving the securities this afternoon Smith caught the ferry to Blackland, boarded an airplane piloted by Lieutenant William C. Gundersen of Mariner field and flew to Bellingham, arriving there early in the evening.

Smith, again in civilian transportation and boarded a train.

An all night ride will carry him to the coast. One local (Goldendale) will meet him there in the afternoon and carry him to Portland, it is expected, by 5:30 p. m. From Portland, Smith will be whisked by motor launch to Quatman, where a fast motor boat is waiting to carry him across the Columbia river to Kalama. The trip from Kalama to Seattle will be made by automobile.

Smith expects to reach Seattle by five p. m., where he will relay war savings certificates to Alaska by fast mail steamer.

REMINISCE TO YANKS OF HUN AIR RAID

LONDON, July 17. (By Reel Air Route)—The question which is interesting the leading officials of the Air Ministry possibly more than any other, is the flight of the Hun in America in whether or not the Americans, on seeing it, reading the descriptions in the newspapers and viewing the moving pictures will get on Mr. Benish was better maker for issue bits of what we in England felt when the giant Zeppelins came over—Cly. Ma. Mr. Benish owns his own this country, not on a peaceful home in Kansas City, which he states the Hun and destruction in our large cities.

"During the past year and a half," "America has a large airship of the type," said Lieutenant C. E. Hatcher of the Air Ministry Department of Information. "It has been impossible for the Americans to properly realize just how much they could have been done—and was, in a few instances—by airships of this character loaded with bombs."

"There is no doubt that had the war lasted a few months longer the Germans would have tried their best to get a Zeppelin across the Atlantic. It is certain that they were preparing to send airships—hundreds—across by sea routes and it might not have been so absolutely impossible as it seems for them to send one of their airships."

"When the Americans see, directly or by means of the moving pictures, the airship floating over New York and this are able to grasp something of its size and immense capacity for destruction, they will much more readily appreciate what a Zeppelin raid meant to us here."

Without attempting to detract in any way from the feat performed by Commander Head and his gallant crew of the R-1, the British airman very readily over the fact that the first non-stop transatlantic flight was made in a British aeroplane—under the operation of an Englishman and an American—and that the first trip from east to west is being made in a British airship.
