Yesterday's game in the S. I. L. indicates that the pennant is still looking around for a place to light. Evidently it is not to be won by any particular bridge on the rest. The downfall of Paul before Ruth Evans' energy left, prevented the chance that was held to be a probable. The renowned Turkey outfit beat Build only through a show of raw luck. Whatever else all this may mean, it proves that anybody may hit the flag.

Miller kept up his hitting yesterday making a good figure for himself in the two games since he pulled the head club. And Miller was hired more for his hitting than for his hitting.

Andy Lathrop, the smiling Fielder, has won his support from the local fans with his remarkable playing. In a game full of strong catches, Lathrop stands out as a star. His good nature has completed his popularity.

Christian was in uniform on the coaching line yesterday and kept prodding his team. There has hardly been time for results. As for the others, were up on their toes more than they have been for some time.

The financial question is still a burning issue in ball circles. The sports are reminded again that something is expected of them as well as of the team.

The local team has a break double-headed from an earlier, slumping list. Paul and Walter won for them in the first round.

That the Canadian Pacific irrigated farms are selling at $5.00 per A. with $5 per A. cash and 20% down on the balance.

That interest is only 2% per annum for the first two years where improvement work is done, and 4% from then on.

That the altitude is 2100 feet to 2900 feet (1400 feet lower than Twin Falls) and that the average annual rainfall is 17 inches?

That the Dominion government controls all water rights in Canada and guarantees two acre feet for this particular tract?

That the water is measured and delivered on your land, and not 2 or 4 miles up the ditch?

That this body of rich land lies down the Bow River valley about 100 miles southeast of Calgary and is only 320 miles from the U. S. line?

That wheat, oats, barley, field peas, beans, alfalfa, clover, beets and all grains do as well there as in Southern Idaho?

That the C. P. R. will loan you $2000 for improvements on same terms as land?

That there is no tax on personal property or improvements and only 17 cents in Property District tax on 160 acres?

That you should join one of our parties, spend a week's time, and see, and investigate the proposition?

Greater Mileage at Less Expense

You can add 5,000 to 10,000 more miles to the tires now on your car (granted they've already gone 4,000 to 6,000)—at half the cost of the original set.

And in addition to this heretofore unheard-of economy you get an ironclad puncture proof guarantee.

This unusual reduction in tire mileage cost and gain in convenience and comfort, has been made possible by nationally known engineer, Chas. C. Gates, who invented and perfected a tire that is now being used by over 600,000 motorists throughout the United States.

Since you too can take advantage of this money saving—worry ending opportunity, don't you feel that you should investigate Gates Half-Sole Tires, without delay?

GOVERNMENT NEWSPAPERS

William J. Bryan suggests that "some day all news will be issued through government channels, and will have the approval of the press and editors before it is printed."

Mr. Bryan will probably have trouble in winning any large number of American citizens to his point of view. If there is one principle which, more than any other, characterizes American institutions and expresses the American attitude toward public affairs, it is freedom of the press.

American newspapers have their faults, as editors know only too well. But generally speaking, these faults are the "defects of their virtues"—they merely represent the overlooking of things which are in themselves too valuable to be sacrificed.

This fact was so clearly recognized during the war that there was no censorship imposed on the American press, in the European sense. Whatever censorship existed was voluntary. It was the only instance of the kind on record. The newspapers censored themselves. And they did it so thoroughly and honestly that the government professed itself more than satisfied.

The government itself did undertake to guide the newspapers by issuing, during the war, a publication giving an official version of the Washington news. Anybody who wanted it could get it. It never attained either any great circulation or any great influence. The public preferred to get the war news, like other news, from daily papers familiar with their life and wants, and experienced in giving it to them. Apparently the people feel still more that way in normal times.

It would be a fine, varied, complete, human, interesting newspaper, wouldn't it, if everything in it had to be submitted to government censors before it saw the light of day?

GOOD TASTE

There is a vague feeling in the minds of many people that black velvet hats in August were not in good taste. But they are "in style," and so people wear them.

Many people feel vaguely that it is not in good taste for young girls to make up like stage people before the footlights.

"Good Taste" seems an elusive thing—the bit at the end of the rainbow—something they are always chasing but which they never really understand.

Yet it is simple—good taste requires only that a person be in harmony with his environment.

An authority on esthetics says that black velvet hats are not in good taste in August because, while black velvet is a fabric warm, comfortable, pleasant to touch under winter winds and snows, it is hot and intolerable under the sun of summer.

The woman who wears a fur in too-hot weather is far from sharp winds in winter, or spring or on a boat in summer may be in good taste. She knows it when the need is past. The woman who wears a fur long piece of city streets with the thermometer hovering about ninety degrees is not in good taste, in a matter that is style.

It is not the thing itself that makes taste or the lack of it. The thing which suits its purpose is always in good taste. Nothing else is.

Good taste requires bright conversation, one's best stories, one's cleverest wit, at a dinner table. Good taste in a hostess requires science and peace. When the man at the wheel of boat or automobile is negotiating a difficult bit of passage, good taste requires that the other people, whatever their private judgment, keep their mouths tight shut until the emergency is over.

There is one simple rule by which to test all things and actions. Does it suit its purpose? Does it suit the other life around it? If so, it is in good taste.

PLENTY OF SUGAR

Though the sugar supply, according to dealers, has been a little tight lately, there is plenty in sight. The season's production is estimated at the respectable total of 2,216,000,000 pounds, or 17,000,000,000 pounds more than the average for the last few years. (Cane sugar is below the average, but the record beet sugar crop more than makes up for it.)

More than two billion pounds of sugar is quite a little sweetening. It means more than a million tons. It provides more than 20 pounds for every man, woman and child of us, or about 100 pounds per family. And this makes no allowance for the Cuban crop, a great deal of which will be imported into this country.

Thus the outlook for canning is good, and likewise good is the outlook for the multitudinous sweet beverages that have taken the place of alcoholic drinks in this country. The jam industry, the ice cream industry, the candy industry and the soda fountain industry will certainly flourish. The greatest sugar-consuming among the nations will consume more than ever, forgetting the deprivation of war times. And because sugar is concentrated fuel, and a mighty producer of energy, the American people may be expected to do more work than usual.

AMERICAN IS HONORED

Carries Sword of Honor in Shakespeare Parade.

First Time in History Foreigner Has Taken Part in Stratford Ceremony.

London.—A very graceful compliment was paid to the United States in general and the American army in particular when the mayor of Stratford-on-Avon invited Col. P. W. Long to carry the sword of honor in the annual parade to the Stratford church. This is the first time in the history of Stratford that a foreigner has taken such a leading part in this annual ceremony.

Three thirty American officers, who are residing at Stratford-on-Avon while taking instruction in various branches of horsemanship, were also invited to take part in the parade, and they formed a guard of honor for the mayor and town council.

Sir Sidney Lee, chairman of the trustees of Shakespeare's birthplace, had invited several noted American officers to Stratford for a weekend visit, among the guests being John A. Stewart and Maj. and Mrs. L. S. Stewart, representing the Stuyvesant Institute (American branch); Col. Langley and representatives of the United States navy, A. H. Flower, major of Stratford, and Sir Frank Benson, assistant.

In receiving the guests, and it was suggested that they should be invited to take part in the ceremonial parade to the church.

The dean of Exeter preached the service, and he referred to the presence of the American officers, who were present in full regalia, and the spirit and unique night was thoroughly enjoyed by the visitors and guests.

PUT WOODEN LEG ON COW

Remarkable Operation Performed in English Hospital Where Animals Are Treated.

London.—The first time in the most remarkable hospital in the world, that of the Royal Veterinary College, where more than 2,000 animals are treated every year at a cost of over $200,000 per annum, a cow was fitted with a wooden leg, and a complete glassy and operating table, and unique night was thoroughly enjoyed by the visitors and guests.

Doctors with wooden legs are provided with a singularly ingenious apparatus for the purpose of giving absolute rest while in an upright position. The cow was fitted with a wooden leg, and a complete glassy and operating table, and unique night was thoroughly enjoyed by the visitors and guests.

ACTS TO HALT BAD CHECKS

Pennsylvania Legislature Makes the Issuance of Worthless Draft Misdemeanor.

Harrisburg.—Issuance of worthless checks will lead new profits from now on in arresting that method of fraud. A law has been passed which makes the issuance of a worthless check a misdemeanor. Hereafter, under its provisions, not only will the issuing of a "no account" check, or one of the kind which returns when the instrument "not suit," be punishable, but the new law says, "the mere fact of making, drawing or delivering such a check will be prima facie evidence of intent to defraud." Unless the drawer makes good the amount of the check with interest within ten days.

TO USE WOMEN AS POLICE

Efficient Work Done in England During War Wins Place for Them in Peace.

London.—The question of appointing women as police officers was recently brought before the Manchester city committee when a delegation from the Council of Christian Organizations waited upon the committee and suggested that in view of the efficient work done by women police officers and patrol the committee should appoint and, if necessary, send for training suitable women for service in the police force.

The Bolton watch committee has decided to appoint women watchwomen for duty in the borough. They will wear uniforms and will patrol the streets, chiefly in the interests of women, girls and children.

Music in Twin Falls

.....Past, Present and Future.....

The musical prospects in Twin Falls have never been brighter than they are today for the coming fall and winter. There is an abundant talent in the city and there is no reason why this delightful and progressive community cannot have its gloriously "ladies' chorus," operatic society and male vocal party.

In the winter's home town in Wales, a town of two thousand inhabitants, more than Twin Falls, they have a splendid ladies' chorus of 200 voices, a ladies' chorus which has won the first prize at the National Chorus Contest for three consecutive years, and an operatic society which has staged a complete opera annually three times each year.

In Wales they have music. It is a part of their lives, and I have known many members of a chorus to sacrifice a meal rather than be late for a rehearsal.

Music seems to be more in demand here than ever, with the numerous musical churches of the city, for instance, where the monthly "musical evenings" are advertised extensively. This month in a larger congregation than usual, even the Episcopal church is making up for the fact, and now advertise their music.

An announcement of the choice of the city would make an effective chorus.

Given an efficient leader, and if the members of the chorus would not be petty jealousies, make parities, and rivalries, make, make, etc., and work for their own sake plus the thought and inspiration that "I am doing this to help my city along," then Twin Falls could be the other.

IRISH PRESIDENT SEES ILLIAM'S PLACE IN SUN

ALVIN C. YORK

MURKIN, July 25.—Eamon de Valera, Ireland's new president, decided to remain here until Wednesday, when he will go to Helms to appear before the general session of the state legislature.

De Valera spent a portion of the day under-reading, visiting the mine workings. He was escorted by the mayor, with escorts in several instances. A crowd estimated at 10,000 cheered him when he arrived last night from Salt Lake City. His statement that "through America's courage and people's generosity would be overthrown and Ireland given a place in the sun as a new republic" was cheered to the echo.

There was a demonstration at the depot and along the route of parade up town. The demonstrations continued until midnight, when he was permitted to retire.

Mathias, national chief of staff of the organization.

Suits for the Corsetless Figure

They are probably the foundation of the good lines, truthfully portrayed by photographs. In the two suits shown above, in one of them a dress and skirt takes the place of the usual three-piece combination. The dress is of figured silk with the lower half of the skirt made of plain wool material and a long narrow girdle of the same goods. The long coat of one of the two suits is cut on the lines of the Chinese coat and is bordered with another silk in a plainer weave. Small buttons set on the side seams are very attractive as a finish.

The plain here coat over a draped skirt, shown in the other picture, is an excellent model for pongee or other heavy silk for summer wear. Thick embroidery on the coat and sleeves, and shawl buttons at the top and bottom of the front lend character and elegance to the design.

A Service Worth While

The business man or farmer seeking friendliness, counsel, investment or financial aid will find the officers of this bank always ready to co-operate, and to lend over assistance within their power to enable them to carry out their plans to the best advantage.

This is part of our idea of "Personal Service" to our patrons. A service of a helpful nature, liberal and broad-minded, given in a "highly individual" way, is, we believe, the service worth while.

Come in and meet the officers of this bank. It will no doubt be the foundation of a business relationship that will forever be mutually advantageous.

CAMPAIGN TO CONTROL SWINE'S WORST ENEMY HAS REDUCED DANGER OF CHOLERA

Thorough disinfection of houses and feeding lots goes a long way toward preventing the spread of hog cholera—The County Agent is demonstrating a clean-up in Farmers.

over, complete eradication can hardly be expected until all farmers join in the campaign.

Enormous Losses From Cholera. In the last year ending March 31, 1914, over 4,000,000 hogs of all ages lost through disease in America. These had a value of over $67,000,000. In the year ending March 31, 1915, only 2,701,825 were lost; but these were worth $22,575,516. Although the number of hogs lost has been greatly decreased by the work of the disease-control agencies, the money loss is still enormous.

That there is a direct bearing on the cost of living and at times has attended the safety of great industries. There are at present over 75,000,000 hogs in this country—their complete eradication is a matter of some and improved methods of handling outbreaks of hog cholera, this loss would be entirely preventable. With the support and co-operation of the local authorities, farmers and other state agents, in the proper application of disinfectants, the ultimate object of the United States department of agriculture is absolute elimination of the disease from American farms. How?

HUGHES URGES RATIFICATION

view of conditions in the world assuming that the proposed plan will guarantee peace, or bring about a cessation of infighting and of the drive for interests, or prevent nations which could protect themselves from being compelled to yield to aggressors. For any reason, great powers demand resistance. Inexpedient. Rather the proposed covenant should be a basis for a more binding and white it is important that we should have a beginning, it is equally important that we should not make a failure of it.

In proposing four reservations to the league covenant, Hughes stated that he was not making the secret for the treaty, with reservations, the endorsement of the president will still be necessary, an ratification will still be necessary, and the ratification will still be necessary, and the ratification will still be necessary.

At the same time the ex-kanzler abandoned the intention of making war on the revolutionaries, declaring that he would return under the escort of the commanding general, but never under troops that had been disbanded to him.

army and the shortage of supplies and ammunition. The revolutionaries had seized all of the railway junctions blocking the Rhine which made it impossible to reach the enemy at home and the entire simultaneously, von Groener pointed out. Hinderburg, after returning to the fact, supported Groener's views.

On the morning of November 9 the war was another military council at which the ex-kanzler received all of the information and proposals and a number of orders. Hinderburg presented his resignation in the form of a letter. The ex-kanzler rejected it. Hinderburg and Schönerberg proposed an armistice with the revolutionaries. Hinderburg and Schönerberg, and the Imperial troops, Hinderburg and Schönerberg, approved an armistice, but the ex-kanzler finally refused.

At the same time the ex-kanzler abandoned the intention of making war on the revolutionaries, declaring that he would return under the escort of the commanding general, but never under troops that had been disbanded to him.

Towards the end of the conference the chancellor at Berlin got hold-had himself desiring to remain at the head of the Prussian army. The White Committee's decree of abdication Admiral von Hülse telephoned to the chancellor in Berlin, getting Prince Max on the wire. The prince declared that the White Committee (the official news agency of the German government) had already sent out the announcement that both the Kaiser and the crown prince had abdicated everything, including the Prussian throne, and the news had been disseminated to the army. The crown prince had not even been consulted. His imperial honors tumbled about his head without his having a word to say about it.
