M'GRAW'S CHOICE OF STAR PLAYERS

"I consider Hans Wagner the most valuable afternoon player who ever wore a white shoe," says John J. McGraw.

"I believe Jimmy Collins had the surest pit of hands I ever saw."

"I have never seen a man in the pitcher's box who equipped Mathewson in all-around ability."

FROM THE PRESS BOX JUG

"No such thing as touch luck in a ball game," says Ty Christian, chairman of the Twin Falls club. "You look to just what you make it," he asserts. "The man they used to call 'Lucky' Christian got in the Grand League."

This philosophy is a bit different to the player who's fond of it, but it gives a pretty fair insight to Christian's policy of handling his team. The boys may go after the game, and if they fail to get them, "well, he's not very about hard luck," says Ty. Now, how can you make chances to that kind?

It's about embarrassing, indeed.

Yet they used to call him "Lucky" out on the coast. Perhaps it was because he got two salary raises in the nine years he was in the league. Christian admits that in his case there must have been some luck mixed up in it although he merely denies the story about carrying a horse shoe into the bus with him.

But, when Christian says there is no such thing as touch luck in a ball club, we'll have to disagree with him.

How about the game guy who goes out to collect the dough from the "backers" of the team? Still, possibly Christian is right. "That's not touch luck. It's not luck at all."

DISLIKES 16-PLAYER LIMIT

On Account of Numerous Injuries to Men on His Team Manager Herr Wants an Increase.

Eddie Herz of the Salt Lake Bees is one manager who strongly disapproves of the 16-player limit. He has had several cripples on his team during the past few weeks, and has been complaining in that respect usually that he is not allowed to see an increase in the player limit. At the present time the Bees are in a rather crippled condition, and Eddie thinks that with the great attendance going on, there will be real playing as a return to the fans for their generosity in turning out to the game. Eddie says that the league is drawing big enough crowds to lift the ban.

How You Can Double the Mileage on Your Tires

After running 4000 to 6000 miles on your tires, wouldn't it interest you to know that you could get again as much mileage out of them—at half the cost of the original set?

And wouldn't the proposition have been a stronger appeal, if you were promised puncture-proof service in addition to this heretofore unheard-of economy. A new scientific principle in tire construction makes all this possible—credit for the invention going to Chas. C. Gates, E. M.

The fact that over 600,000 motorists in the United States are enjoying these advantages should convince you that Gates Half-Sole Tires are well worth investigating.

THE MILITARY PENALTIES

Senator Chamberlain of Oregon, in introducing a bill for granting complete amnesty to all soldiers, sailors and marines convicted under court-martial, except those whose offenses would be felonies under federal statutes, gives some striking figures on the extent to which severe sentences were imposed during the war.

"The clemency board," he says, "has reduced the sentences in the aggregate from 28,000 years to 6700 years."

His remarks, reasonably enough, that this sweeping reduction is proof positive that the sentences were out of all proportion to the crime committed. He hopes to see the balance brought down to "an irreducible minimum."

Nearly all Americans, civilians and service men alike, will agree with him. The revolution of the severity and irresponsibility with which inexperienced officers sitting in military courts imposed sentences for seemingly trivial offenses has shocked the nation and created an insistent demand for reform. It is largely in obedience to this demand that the sentences have been reviewed so carefully and modified or annulled in so many cases.

It does not necessarily follow that the sweeping proposal of Senator Chamberlain is altogether wise. There is danger of over-sentimentality in this matter, due to the reaction following the war. It must be remembered that all military offenses are more serious in war-time than in peacetime. It would hardly do to regard the actual mass of offenders altogether from the tolerant viewpoint of a civilian public that is glad the war is over, and wants to sweep away unpleasant memories of it, and deal over-generously with everybody connected with it.

There should be justice done, and mercy shown where there is reason for it; but there must be some sternness retained, because the United States has still to maintain an army, and that army must be disciplined and obedient.

The clemency board seems to be doing pretty well. Let it continue its work with discrimination, giving the soldier the benefit of the doubt in doubtful cases, but seeing that those who really deserve severe punishment get it.

The fundamental remedy seems to lie rather along the line of reforming the procedure of military courts, according to suggestions made by Lieut. Col. Ansell. Let the courts be composed of officers who know the law, and let them seek to be just as civil judges do. Then there will be no repetition of this scandal.

THAT PRIVATE STOCK

A good many people will breathe a long sigh of relief at the decision of congress that private stocks of liquor shall not be declared unlawful.

There are a good many collars in this country where the pressure cloth is largely given over to alcohol preserves, and there would have been waiting and gnashing of teeth since enough had these funds been declared subject to search and seizure.

But they are safe for the present, anyway, the only stipulation being that their use shall be confined to members of the family and "gentle guests."

That the habit of giving a genuine guest will be cultivated from now on goes without saying, while any full-grown man would gladly offer himself for adoption by any one of a number of his friends who laid in a bigger stock than he did. Large families of grown children may become quite popular.

Nor need the ardent champion of prohibition chafe indignantly at this prohibition of individual stocks of liquor. At the rate most of them are disappearing it will not be long before all men have joined the ranks of the mourners, sorrowing as those who have no hope, and all others once more will boast of perfect drainage.

One thing the allies might do with the Kaiser is to make him lie on his back, with, and give him big, knotty legs instead of the supple ones he's been buying with, and keep him at it eight hours a day. And then, the wood might be used to keep Belgian children warm in winter.

One eye-witness, lately returned from France, says: "The English soldiers walked about Paris as if they owned it, but the American soldiers walked about Paris as if they didn't give a damn who owned it."

Something rather in the state of Denmark again, German militiamen are moving there to avoid paying their share of the war indemnities.

New York confesses that it is not exactly home-ruled. What else could be expected in Manhattan and Bronx?

It was just like Count von Bernstorff to deal an underhand blow at the Esquero of Nations by announcing that he's for it.

Object Lesson: Americanizing Public Schools by Wartime Activities

By HARRIET A. ECKHARDT, Principal Swift School, Chicago

Americanizing the public school through financial war time activities has proved a most illuminating object lesson to the teachers of the Swift school, to the parents of the pupils and to the boys and girls themselves.

The Swift school, established five years ago, and named for George B. Swift, the forty-fifth mayor of Chicago, is an elementary school with about nine hundred pupils. The grades include kindergarten to eighth; the ages are from five to thirteen. It is in the Twenty-fifth ward, on the North side, and in a fairly well-to-do neighborhood. It may be said to be a typical big-city American public school.

The Swift teachers proudly say, "Our million-dollar school." By this we mean that its war activities during the last two years have amounted to over a million dollars. The Liberty loan sales, including the Victory loan sale of $316,000, aggregate $918,150. The Red Cross activities include membership, $1,232,231; ambulances, $1,725, and Red Cross clothing fund of $287, raised by sale of 241 tons of paper collected by children, and the total is $5,923,245. War activities include Y. M. C. A., canteen and library contributions, and total $3,581,611. The sale of War Savings stamps, to pupils aggregate $20,027, and the school itself has an investment in stamps of $3,455; the proceeds of entertainments. The grand total is $1,020,837.16.

The nation has therefore been served by the Swift school to no small extent. But the benefit to the Swift school—to the teachers, the pupils, the parents, the community and the school as a school—has been far greater in proportion. This benefit can hardly be set forth in comprehensive detail. It includes, however, outstanding items like these:

Unifying of teachers, of pupils and of teachers and pupils, and development of the school spirit; the Swift motto is "Loyalty," and its banner is blue and white.

Formation of habits of saving and thrift; appreciation of value of money; acquaintance with business methods; knowledge of the power of organization and legwork; training in individual thinking and in public speaking.

Increased interest in American history and institutions and in national affairs; a splendid spirit of loyalty and responsibility to school, city and country.

 WASHINGTON, July 25.—The revenue and tariff program for the present session of the 65th congress will probably be disclosed within the next week, Senator Ferguson of Pennsylvania, chairman of the senate finance committee, announced this afternoon on the return to Washington from Philadelphia.

Pennsieve said he would confer with the house ways and means committee members this afternoon or tomorrow on the revenue and tariff measures pending in that committee. He would also call a meeting of the finance committee this week. "No legislation may be introduced or reported to confer on the general fiscal situation," he added.

The collision is said to have been due to the failure of the manometer of the passenger car to observe a signal to stop for the passage of the baggage car over a single section of the track.

Sheer Blouses in Russian Style

The Russian blouse has many advantages whose advantages never fail to appear on the horizon of fashion's world they give it a beautiful silhouette. Just now Russian blouses are arriving in considerable force, made of short fabrics and of all the simple, light weight silks that insure flowing lines. The blouse proceeds through crepe georgette and crepe de chine to silk jersey and satins that have the same softness and to the new weaves in silk that belong to the tricotelle family. In all of these it proves graceful and fascinating.

Leaving out all the others and considering only the enchanting models shown in crepe georgette, we find both the plain and figured varieties used and that the charm of this beautiful fabric goes far in itself toward making the success of the blouse. This is illustrated by the two models shown in the picture for both are simply designed. A simulated vest, set in with a pling of satin, and two folds of satin about the skirt tell the brief and clear story of the blouse of figured georgette. It is fastened at the front with small, round mother-of-pearl buttons, set close together, and has a neck of heavy satin ribbon finished with silk fringe. The blouse has a small turn-over collar and may be buttoned up in the throat, or left open, as preferred.

The blouse of plain georgette at the right of the picture is embellished with narrow embroidered bands. The skirt portion is uneven in length, being long at the left side and sloping upward all the way round, so that it is quite short across the back. This blouse is worn over a satin skirt with a dainty that corresponds, by being longer at the left than at the right, with the blouse above. It is finished by cuffs of the same satin. The narrow bands are made of the georgette.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Statement of financial aid given the Confederate States of America by any foreign nation during the civil war against the United States is prohibited by that nation during the war with Germany, was prohibited in an amendment to the treaty of Versailles sponsored by Senator Sherman, Republican of Illinois, in the senate this afternoon. The amendment was referred to the senate foreign relations committee.

Sherman said that he had been informed that Great Britain, France, and other nations to whom the United States lent billions during the war were seeking to escape part payment of their indebtedness by suggesting that the money the confederates had never repaid be deducted from what they owe this country.

Now Believe He Could Win in a Foot Race

"I have taken three bottles of Tanlac and have actually gained twenty-five pounds," was the remarkable statement made recently by Stephen Schlegelberger, bread baker at the Brown Palace Hotel, Denver, Colo., and living at 801 Eighteenth Ave. He had dropped down in weight to one hundred and twenty pounds, he continued, "and if you had seen me the day I started on Tanlac you would take me for the sanest man now. I was barely able to walk, but now I feel like I could win in a foot race with anybody. I began to have trouble with my stomach about four years ago and was told my trouble was nervous dyspepsia and I took about everything I heard of and spent a great deal of money but nothing did me any good. I was so nervous I could hardly sleep at all and I was badly constipated and lost strength and energy all the time, and this people around where I worked used to calling me 'The Crank' because I was so nervous and irritable and lost my appetite all the time. At last I got my appetite entirely and would get so weak and dizzy at times I would almost fall. Finally I simply had to give up work altogether and was down in bed for four months, unable to do a thing."

CANAL BOARD TALK IT OVER AND FARMERS TALK IT OVER

Distribution of Water and Work of Ditch Riders Come Up at Informal Meeting

Special distribution of water and a discussion on the present status of the system was a complaint brought before a meeting of the Twin Falls Canal company directors yesterday by about twenty-five farmers, representing nearly every section of the Twin Falls tract.

J. H. Dewberry, a member of the board, was among those who called the subject of unequal distribution to the attention of the board. Mr. Dewberry stated that he had found some of the ditch riders making a special supply than others, the Hansen ditch being most favored. Some of the farmers in that territory, he said, were getting from 20 to 30 per cent of a normal supply, while they should be getting only 20 per cent. The ditch riders, he stated, were not distributing the water evenly, but were giving it to the Hansen ditch, he said, more than to any other.

It is believed that discussion with several members of the board is planned to take the board over the Hansen territory yesterday afternoon, but it is not known whether a body is intended to make the trip.

The discussion at the meeting being informal and of no legal effect, the board of ditch riders and the board of farmers and the board of directors, a joint effort of cooperation to correct any wrongs that might exist.

The opinion that there was no well-defined system of distribution was expressed by several of the farmers. It was pointed out that there has not been developed an adequate system of water distribution and that it is time to get away from the present system. It is not to be expected that it will ever be perfect, but it is hoped that the present abuses have always existed but the present shortage seems to make them more frequent.

This opinion seemed to be shared by the rest. Instances of inequity and unfairness were mentioned and were cited. One farmer stated that he had had a very good season, but that although he offered no complaint as to the supply he received from the ditch riders, he was not satisfied with the present situation.

The ditch riders came in for discussion also. Under the present plan, it was said, some ditch riders are performing better than others. The practice of permitting ditch riders to use cars in riding ditches was criticized. The grounds that so many ditch riders are using cars is that they are invariably safer from lack of attention. It was held that if a ditch rider is a street car conductor, car trolley and Powers died as a policeman, it would be a disgrace.

An unidentified white man was found stabbed to death at Western avenue and East third streets. There were five knife wounds in his back.

An unidentified negro was shot and killed by the mob at Adams and Down streets in the heart of the downtown district.

James Crawford, a negro who was shot in the south side rioting Sunday, died early today of his wounds.

Members of the old Eight (social club) which met in Branch 10, who was mounted automobiles today and drove through the south side calling upon members of the crowd. The crowd was very large. Later a platoon of them came into the business section on a similar mission.

Learning as the Chicago program today declared the shooting was being done by negroes recently come from the south. Three negroes were arrested and one of them carried a shotgun and fifty rounds of ammunition.

It is believed that the negro section today colored men, women and children could be seen on the roofs, on the porches and peering through windows. Many of the negroes had been during the night and were watching for approaching mobs. White men in the residential districts were being shot and some were being killed. It is believed that the negroes are being shot and some are being killed.

Without a waiting any call to assemble are equipped with 100 rounds of ammunition to the man and are at their armories with rifle and bayonet fixed. Machine guns also are being used. The negroes are being shot and some are being killed.

Early today troops were sent to the police general Dixon and two high police officers as they made a high level of inspection through the south side.

in comparison to the others. The shooting from Miller west was said to be a mistake. This territory having no catch-up system at all.

The best plan so far found has been that of turning water into a lateral and allowing the ditch riders to adjust the head among the users and then report whether the supply is too much or too little. This plan is being considered for adjusting the whole system along these lines and if the head does change it often reduces itself. However, he said, the day this is to be kept working at it, perfecting it wherever possible.

Some of the farmers in that territory, he said, were getting from 20 to 30 per cent of a normal supply, while they should be getting only 20 per cent. STUDY SHEEP ON RANCH AT DUBOIS

Government Men Carry on Experiments With Crossbreeding

DUBOIS, Ind., July 29.—Several reports of importance to western sheepmen have been ascertained by experiments at the government sheep ranch here, which was begun two years ago. Formerly it was customary for range sheep men to discontinue their stock when they were two years old. Extensive investigations by the Department of Agriculture have developed that such a practice is not only wasteful but also unprofitable as those which bear lambs at 7-year-old.

Initial records are kept on the ranch of every sheep raised, showing the weight of fleece, fineness of fleece, character of fleece, fineness of fleece, and mutton quality of each animal. Detailed records are also kept on the offspring of each ewe. The particular utility of the results obtained arises from the fact that the flock is made up of all the standard breeds of sheep in the hands of Wyoming stockmen.

Experiments are being conducted to develop a type of sheep more suitable to the western range conditions than the type now prevalent. It is hoped to have a sheep which will both resist infection and though not highly fertile.

There are at present about 1,500 sheep on the ranch. The flock is made up of all the standard breeds of sheep in the hands of Wyoming stockmen.

IF PEOPLE REALIZED HOW MUCH TANNIN THERE IS IN COMMON TEA THEY WOULDN'T TAKE IT AS A GIFT.

Tannin is bad in two ways: it smothers the tea-flavor and it attacks the stomach.

Fine tea has the real tea-flavor, and just a trace of tannin—not noticeable unless you boil it, which is no-way to make tea.

Schilling Tea is the fine practical economical tea of this country.

There are four flavors of Schilling Tea—Orange, Lemon, Peppermint, and Chamomile. Each is a pure, healthful, and delicious tea. It is made in California and is available in all parts of the country.
