Considering Acceptance or Rejection of Compromise Wage of Railroad Shipment

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. The next step of the railway shop men in their fight for the sweeping wage increase is to be decided upon today. Whether the strike vote of the railroad workers of the country will be found to support the government's compromise wage, or whether the railroad administration yesterday had the question before the labor union, is a matter of some importance.

RECORD OF TWO WARS COMPARED

Result is Complete Refutation of Republican Charges of Gross Extravagance

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Interest in comparison on the cost of the world war to America with the cost of which the war with Spain was fought back in 1898 is made by Representative J. C. Sanders, former governor of Louisiana, in a speech in the House of Representatives. Complete refutation of Republican charges of extravagance was furnished by Representative Sanders, who showed that the cost per man under arms in the United States was not much greater in the late war than during the Spanish war. This despite the fact that everything the government needed to equip, maintain and support its army during the late war cost far more than back in the twenties, in many instances a hundred per cent more than the market price that prevailed at that time. The point of cost fighting in the Spanish-American war was not about three months, officially, the country was at war from the latter part of April, 1918, to April 11, 1899, when the peace treaties were exchanged, or a little less than a year. The total number of men in the army during the Spanish war was 272,000, of whom only a small number were ever engaged in battle, but a step away from the coast of the United States, in the world war dates from April, 1917. At the end of the present fiscal year, June 30, 1919, the peace treaty still being unsigned, America had been at war with Germany two and a quarter years. The cost of that war to the United States is reckoned at $21,000,000,000, which Mr. Sanders estimated in approximately $254 per man under arms for the two and a quarter years.

COAL COMBINE IS IMPOSSIBLE

At Least, That is Contention of Vice President of National Coal Association

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—A combination among bituminous coal operators to maintain or fix prices does not exist and would be impossible if attempted, J. D. A. Morrow, vice president of the National Coal Association, today told the senate subcommittee conducting an inquiry into the coal situation. Prices at the mine have declined under the competition that prevails and are lower than they were a year ago, Morrow added. "There are about 5,000 separate commercial producers operating approximately 2,000 mines, from which bituminous coal is regularly shipped," Morrow said. "In addition there are some 2,000 operators, with about 3,000 mines who begin producing and selling coal whenever the price goes up a little and offers a profit to them. Thus in 1917 coal production was reported in the United States on a geological survey from 9,224 mines. Moreover, there the hundreds of thousands of acres of coal lands on railroads on which new mines can be opened and quickly opened by anyone so disposed. Such a condition obviously does not lend itself to restrictive combination among producers. In addition, the operators of each mining field are subject to competition from the producers of other fields, so that buyers have many different sources of supply available to them."

GEN. FELIPE ANGELES

England to Honor Patrians. Behind the effort of those who are seeking to bring Great Britain and America to a further moment of friendship two heroic episodes stand out in bold relief.

It is almost exactly 20 years since the British Government, still from Plymouth in the Massachusetts, on an independence of confidence, a brave recognition of self-government. The actual revolutionary falls next year, not already preparations are in progress to celebrate the centennial in this country in a fitting manner. By way of contrast to that great advance one thinks of that other pilgrimage last year when 200,000 brave soldiers left their homes in America to speed across the Atlantic to the shores of the old country. They came actuated by that love of liberty which had been handed down to them from the ancient Britons, and with their British brethren they fought on the battle field to the essential unity of the Anglo-American state. It is now for Great Britain and America to determine that the friendship which their gallant soldiers cemented with their blood shall be a permanent tie between their two nations. Policeman Killed in Raid on Saloon

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—One policeman is dead, another man is dying and two more are suffering serious wounds as the result of a shooting affray which began when the policeman, Morgan Dunbar, attempted to walk from a saloon saloon with a bottle of beer in his right hand. Hearing of a raid on saloon charged with violation of the prohibition laws, habitues of the saloon opened fire on Dunbar and killed him. Morgan, his companion, thinking they were agents of the prohibition forces. The policemen were in plain clothes at the time. The police are looking today for three men who threw Dunbar and Morgan Kelly, the seriously wounded man, into a car and rushed them to the Lakeside Union hospital. After dueling the bleeding forms in the hospital, the men fled. More than one hundred arrests of moonshiners are predicted by the state's attorney's office for today, the second day of the "dry." Twenty-six places in the business section of the city were rabid yesterday.

CAMPING IN OLD MOROCCO

Travel by Caravan, the Chief Means of Transportation, Has Many Pleasant Features. The Moroccan campman, whether he is military or that of some traveling band, is always picturesque. Elsie E. Well writes in Asia Magazine, the tents of persons of distinction are often surrounded with copper balls and decorated with emblems of distinction. It is a fine art in Morocco, where the roads are almost impassable and the chief means of transportation is by caravan. All day one rides across the great plains, partially covered with tea, dahlias, dahlias, buttercup and wild flowers. There is a wild kind of horseman will keep by their robes, sea green, salmon colored and blue, arranged in the company of a strictly carpeted like those of some cavalry king. Occasionally one strikes a little village built of mud and scattered around by date trees and barley. Here and there the white-washed shrine of some saint rises solemnly above the plain. And at sundown the shepherds playing on their reed flutes drive their flocks of sheep and goats home from pasture. Then it is time to pitch the tents near a grove of orange trees or on a fair carpet of red autumn. One sleeps on the ground and one sits and is lulled to sleep by the sound of the guard under the lantern blue of the African sky.

SIGHT WELL WORTH SEEING

Canyons of Southern California at Lima Park, Spectacular Winding Road of Romantics. The spectacle of rain, fire and flood all occurring at the same time, is not an unusual sight in some of the canyons near Los Angeles, says the Scientific American. The most notable example is near Santa Monica, which is on the southern coast of California. The precipitous sides of the canyons descending into the Pacific ocean in this vicinity are composed of soft sand shale. Whenever rain falls on these rocks, great clouds of steam rise from the crevices. The constant great and noisy are caused by the rivulets of water that are driven by the wind toward a still sea. It is reported by the early historians that when the Spaniards visited this region 150 years ago the natives avoided these places. They claimed that the mysterious canyons were the abode of evil spirits and the Indians could not be induced to guide the priests to their vicinity. "Legend has it" has been related in one of these canyons. Hence the occasional mysterious appearance of an "outlaw" near the coast of California. The phenomenon is evidently due to steam in the petroleum-bearing strata which crop out in these regions. The steam of the fire is superheated. They may be started by lightning or they may be a case of spontaneous combustion.

WHEN things go wrong, and the sun refuses to shine, and your nerves wear through to the surface get out in a present day Chalmers—and experience the joy of perfect motion, of an alert "piece of steel."

No grinding noises, no "coughing" of carburetor, no backfires, no sound of friction, no vibration—nothing but sweet, silent motion beneath you!

Picture in your mind the old car that raced from gear to gear as it got under way, the whine, the creaks—and then the rasping, the twitching, the quivering—when you set the brakes.

Now your nerves can "go to sleep" in a Chalmers, for Hot Spot and Ram's-horn have "pulverized" gas and given it to the engine so well prepared fire power that vibration becomes a thing of the past.

And with vibration out go those thousand and one things that disturb your cars and irritate your nerves.

Put Up Every Pound of Fruit You Can Get This Summer

Delicious Jams, Jellies and Preserves made by this recipe:

Many a woman hesitates to try putting up fruit at home. She fears she will only waste expensive materials.

It really is very simple. Just make your preserving syrup with $\frac{1}{2}$ Karo (Red Label) and $\frac{1}{2}$ sugar instead of sugar alone.

You can then be as sure of your results as the woman who always has "luck" with her preserving.

Nice fine, clear Karo Syrup has a natural affinity for the fruit juices. It blends the sugar with the juice—brings out the rich "fruity" flavor and insures firm jams and jellies that never "candy" in the glass. A well-filled fruit pantry will give you much pleasure this winter, when fresh fruits are scarce and high, if you just use Karo Syrup with your sugar.

For Cooking, Baking and Candy Making Karo (Red Label) is used in millions of homes. In all cooking and baking, recipes use Karo instead of sugar. It is sweet, of delicate flavor, and brings out the natural flavor of the food.

FREE Preserving is easy when you have the sixty-eight page Corn Products Cook Book ready. Wonderful recipes—easy to follow. Beautiful illustrations. Write us today for it. It is free.

STRICT SANITARY MEASURES ARE URGED FOR CHICKENS ATTACKED BY CHOLEERA

All Fowls Exposed to Cholera Should Be Quarantined.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Fowl cholera—a poultry disease rather rare in this country except in the far western States—demands prompt action in combating it. Treatment of a home fowling only waits the time of the investigation and then the analysis is spread. Strict sanitary measures must be applied at once to control this infectious disease of poultry, which spreads rapidly through the flock with high mortality. Turkeys, ducks, geese, pigeons, capons and chickens are all susceptible to fowl cholera.

Cholera is transmitted from flock to flock by means of sick or recently recovered food which has been placed in the flock without being subjected to a period of quarantine. This disease is also spread by wild birds or by persons, animals, or insects which have been in infected premises. A yellowish coloration of the membrane in an early indication of the disease. Non diarrhea develops, considerably fever is shown, and the bird loses its lively appearance, generally becoming very weak, drooping, and often swoons or dies during the last day or two of their lives that it is difficult to arouse them. It is difficult to move their wagger forward for a few steps in an uncertain manner and with dragging wings. The crop is generally distended with food and apparently purplish. The weight and strength of the bird rapidly diminishes. It breathes with difficulty, lets with beak open, and the breathing may be heard at some distance.

Finally the weakness is such that the bird is reared on the ground, and a little later the bird dies. In very acute cases no symptoms are seen; the birds may be found dead under the roosts or they may fall at the feeding troughs and die in a few minutes. Cholera may destroy the greater part of a flock in a week and then disappear, or may linger for months, occasionally killing a bird. The time between exposure to the contagion and appearance of symptoms is from two to five days, while the duration of the disease is from 24 hours to 10 days. Most characteristic changes seen after death are red spots on the surface of the heart, which give it the appearance of having been sprinkled with blood, consisting of the inter-follicular enlargement of the liver, and swelling of the spleen.

Stopping Infection's Spread.

Since treatment of the affected birds is almost futile, the aim should be to prevent so far as possible the spread of infection. The first fowls showing acute febrile symptoms should be destroyed by a method guaranteeing destruction of the premises by infected blood. The carcasses should be buried or deeply buried. The healthy fowls should be moved to clean quarters, if possible, and carefully watched for signs of disease. Houses and runs should be thoroughly cleaned, floors washed and disinfected with a 5 per cent solution of carbolic acid, a 2 per cent solution of compound cresol, or a reliable coal tar disinfectant in proper dilution. The drinking water may be made unattractive by adding one ounce of formalin to a gallon of water. This serves to prevent the spread of disease through the water and also is a convenient means of administering an internal antiseptic. Prevention and treatment to control fowl cholera, by means of disinfectants and vaccines have not proved sufficiently satisfactory to warrant recommendation of the use of such preparations.

HOW EGG PRODUCERS CAN REDUCE LOSSES

Co-operation Will Help Save $45,000,000 Worth of Food.

Organizations Urged to Prevent Carelessness Which Permits Mongrel Stock, Dirty Nests and Other Undesirable Conditions.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

If egg producers would work together to reduce egg losses much of the $45,000,000 not which results annually from careless handling could be eliminated. Egg circles, the names given to associations of egg producers, have been urged by the United States Department of Agriculture for many years. The work which these organizations can do now to save food is of the utmost importance. Egg circles watch the egg crop, not only in its handling, but in its production. They strive to prevent the carelessness which permits mongrel stock, dirty nests and other undesirable conditions. Young chicks should not be fed until they are about forty-eight hours old. Hens cannot carry parasites and chicks suffer from too strong sun. The rooster does not help egg production as he merely fertilizes the germ of the egg.

quites the association to fix its price at several cents a dozen above the regular market quotations, as many farmers are willing to pay a premium for a guaranteed article. Most egg circles buy chicken feed and other poultry supplies in quantities for their members. While at first the number of eggs to be marketed may not warrant a central station with a manager to inspect grades and market the whole product, the aim should be to develop to that stage.

Specialists of the department of agriculture will aid producers in organizing community egg circles and also in plans of production and marketing. In farmers' bulletin 628 suggestions and forms are offered as aids in organizing and managing such co-operative associations.

POULTRY NOTES

Keep the chicks' quarters clean.

The flavor of the egg is influenced by feed.

Hens cannot carry parasites and chicks suffer from too strong sun.

Young chicks should not be fed until they are about forty-eight hours old.

The rooster does not help egg production as he merely fertilizes the germ of the egg.

The shell of the egg being porous, it will absorb the odors and these will affect the flavor.

The use of egg cement in feedlots, not one of the old-time theories in this particular having been proved.

Excessive heat will take the life and vigor out of a little chick, and will stunt the growing young stock to such an extent that they will never mature to full size and weight.

Sitting Game.

At a cavity post on the border recently the action of the day was back the rounds of the post. It was after challenging time. He seated himself on the corner post of a fence and waited for the secretary. The secretary, a recruit from the woods of Maine, rode slowly up and stopped only a few feet from the O. A. After waiting in silence for a few moments the soldier asked:

"What are you and going to say?"

"I know what to say, I was waiting for you."

"Private M. E. Russell in charge."

Taste 15 or 20 cents from the price of tea and off goes half the quality. It costs as much to cure, pack, and transport common tea as fine tea, and that is the biggest part of the cost. Schilling Tea is the fine practical economical tea of this country.

Munson Says He Did Not Work in Over a Year

"I have gained eighteen pounds since I commenced taking Tanlae and never felt better in my life than I do now," said Alvin Munson, who before his health failed, was a vessel employe of the Foundation Ship Building Co., and lives at 1134 Main street, Portland, Ore., the other day.

"When I began taking Tanlae," he continued, "I hadn't been able to hit a lick of work for over a year, and I had been suffering terribly from stomach trouble for about four years. It seemed to me that I had made every possible effort to overcome this trouble, but my condition gradually grew worse, and a year ago I reached the point where what ate disagreed with me, and for two or three hours after meals I would be all bloated up with gas, and would have the worst cramping pains in the pit of my stomach for an hour or two. Then, this gas would often get into my chest and make my heart palpitate something awful, and it would be almost impossible for me to get a good breath. I also suffered from constipation and often had splitting headaches. I was very nervous all the time and never got a good night's sleep. These troubles just continued to pull me down until I got so weak and ran down that when I went to walk my legs would just give right down under me.

"The money I had spent for medicine and treatments amount just as well have been thrown in the Columbia river so far as the good I got from it, but I thought I would keep on trying, and that is why I have Tanlae a trial when it came along. Well, sir, before I had finished my first bottle of Tanlae I could see that I had struck it right at last, and I was right, too, for Tanlae certainly did just what they said it would do, and I am now a well, strong man again. My stomach troubles have all disappeared, and I am never bothered with gas forming, and I don't have those awful cramping spells any more. I have such a fine appetite that I can hardly get enough to eat, and everything I eat agrees with me all right. I have regained all of my lost weight and strength, and am now getting ready to go back to work. Now, that is what Tanlae has done for me, and I think that is saying a whole lot for this wonderful medicine.

Tanlae is now sold in Twin Falls by City Pharmacy, in Hagerman by Thompson Drug Co., in Shoshone by Murrage Drug Co., in Plover by A. B. Wood, in Dahl by C. D. Boring Drug Co., and in Kimberly by W. A. L. Stone.—Adv.

FOCH WILL NOT BE CANDIDATE

Presidency of France Not So Attractive to Him as Simple Life on His Farm

PARIS, Aug. 25.—Contrary to rumors that have been persistently circulated in Paris ever since the armistice was signed, it is now possible to state authoritatively that Marshal Foch, the world's greatest soldier and France's most distinguished citizen, will not be a candidate for the presidency of France next year.

republic would be popular with the people, but would upset political times. The marshal himself is averse to politics and sets his chief pleasure living quietly on his farm with his grandchildren.

Students of political conditions believe that M. Foch's successor must likely will be Paul Doumer, president of the chamber of deputies, 52 years old, is married to an American girl, a former Mrs. Brees, so he is popular to the French people, as his excellent French will have an American appreciation for the first time. Other presidential possibilities that have been suggested by party are M. Poincaré and M. Briand. M. Poincaré has announced that he will not look for an American girl, and M. Briand has announced that he will not look for an American girl.

the best reason for dismissing him from consideration is his own unwillingness to run. M. Dubouche is too old.

Marshal Foch now makes a daily tour of his farm, looking over the harvesting and he spends a lot of time in his home garden. He dresses in an ordinary lounge suit with leggings and his headgear is an old English cap which Field Marshal Foch gave me in 1914. In the morning, take a walk around my grounds and then have my coffee and look over my mail. Afterwards I take my cap and stick and go out for a walk. In the afternoon I take my cap and stick and go out for a walk. In the evening I again look over my mail.

Sale of Army Trucks Needs Legislation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Because of an adverse decision by the controller of the treasury last several states desiring army motor trucks for use on state roads will be unable to continue the purchase of these trucks through the agriculture department without special legislation by congress. The controller has ruled that the sales are not authorized by law.

Representative Kahn, chairman of the house military affairs committee, said today that he would submit to the house this week a bill making such sales valid. The controller has ruled that the sales are not authorized by law. The four children call the great soldier "Dad Papa."

WILL INVESTIGATE OFFICE OF ALIEN PROPERTY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Federal report on Senator Calhoun's resolution for an investigation of the office of the alien property custodian was made by the senate audit and control committee today. The resolution calls for an audit of the accounts of the alien property custodian and for an investigation of the acts of former Custodian A. Mitchell Palmer and of Francis T. Garcia.

DECKER, Miss., Aug. 25.—MR. Bunting at 25 cents a quart on Cape Cod. It's 25 cents a quart when called for. And the farmers declare there is no profit in milk at 25 cents a quart. The reason, they say, is that in years gone by Cape Cod farmers used to sell milk on the market as food for the cattle. Very few of them do this now. Consequently they must get their milk and cream from the west. There has been an enormous advance in the cost of these commodities.

FEW OW E FAILDRE TO FATE

Man Who Has "Lost Out" Generally Unjust in Blaming the Fast on Circumstances

"He who is bitter is beaten. This is distilled from a life," said a wise observer of his kind, a writer in Unlabeled Ledger remarks. Often one meets the man who has become soured by his own life through his own fault, though he blames it all on the chances and circumstances of destiny. He will not admit that the hand of a bad luck struck him down or kept him from doing what he made a mistake or took the wrong turn of the road. He prefers to charge impersonal fate with his personal faults. But he had the same right to struggle and win that we all have. The man whom he regards with envy, had to prove that the stars was in his against odds. The old proverb says that fortune favors the brave—but that saying really means that fortune plays no favorites and confers her gifts only upon those who fight, and fight hard. Success is not hereditary. We must qualify on our own merit. Any fool can inherit money and be "lucky" from it quickly. The respect of the community, which is life's chief reward, goes to him who proves an onerous amount. In that continuing effort the fragrant memory of a noble family tradition and a pluck and honest persistence is a valuable asset and a great inspiration.

CAME DIRECT FROM HEAVEN

Pretty Belief Existing in India Concerning the Origin of the Beautiful Emerald.

Scientists say that the emerald's lovely green color is derived from a compound of silicon, aluminum, beryllium, and oxygen, and some strange matter unknown; others say it is simply a compound of carbon and hydrogen resulting from some matter; but the ancient inhabitants of India knew better than the modern scientists. They believed the emerald came from heaven. Says Forbes in his "Oriental Medley": "A person was something a million of miles in an Indian grove one moonlight night. After hovering in the moonbeams, one particle of fire, more brilliant than the rest, blighted on the grass and there remained. A spectator, struck by its brill and approaching to ascertain the cause, found not an insect, but an emerald, which he appropriated and wore in a ring, and ever after the Indians believed that the fireflies were sacred insects which upon dying on the grass turned to emeralds for the adornment of man and the glorification of Buddha."

That is perhaps the reason why the priests of Buddha regard the emerald with such veneration. Of course in India you now make an emerald, but emeralds certainly do make the money for you.

When the Sun Was Blue.

A blue sun has been recorded only once. That was in August, 1882, in Java, says the Katzen City Star. A day or two before there was a very violent eruption of a large volcano about a hundred miles from Batavia. The eruption ended with an explosion in which a range of mountains was destroyed, a vast area being left in the place, more than a thousand feet deep at one point. Billions of tons of rock, mud and dust were thrown high in the air and the sun was obscured over a large area. At Batavia the darkness became so deep that street lamps had to be lighted in the middle of the afternoon. That condition prevailed until toward sunset. Then the volcano cloud began to clear away, leaving the sun visible. Instead, however, of its being red, as is usually the case when viewed through a smoke cloud, it appeared as a magnificent deep blue disk, resembling that color which it sank below the horizon. The phenomenon was seen by everyone within 50 or 100 degrees of the equator.

Something to Worry About. "What's the matter, old pal? You look worried." "I am blue. I've been rejected." "Oh, cheer up! There are plenty of other girls, and nobody else has changed for him!" "Great Scott, man! It's not a girl, but a life insurance company that has rejected me!"
