NEW RAILROAD BILL PROVIDES PROFIT-SHARING

CUMMINS OFFERS REVOLUTIONARY MEASURE

No Purpose to Oppress or Permit Oppression of Lines, Says Senator Robinson

IS INTENDED TO SECURE RIGHTS

Cummins Makes Analysis of Measure, Pointing Out That Bill Divides Railroads Into From 20 to 35 District Systems

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Establishment of a system of profit-sharing by employees is but one of the far-reaching provisions of the bill for the restoration of the country's railroads to private ownership which was favorably reported today to the senate by Senator Cummins, Republican of Iowa, as chairman of the senate committee on commerce.

The measure provides for the repeal of the federal control act of March 3, 1918, and the return of the railroads on the last day of the calendar month in which it becomes a law.

Rate of force at the time the repeal takes effect is to remain in force until changed by contract.

In many respects, the bill is extraordinary for the revolutionary changes and the sweeping changes in railroad ownership, management and operation incorporated in the measure.

The labor features, as summed up by Senator Robinson, Democrat of Arkansas, a member of the committee, not only give to employees the right to share in the profits of the railroads, but also give them the right to elect directors of the various railroad corporations.

The bill also provides that the profits of the railroads shall be divided into three classes: first, to the employees; second, to the stockholders; and third, to the public.

Mutiny on High Seas—Charged on Sailors

LONDON, Sept. 2.—A lurid tale of mutiny on the high seas is involved in the case of John Conry, Gerald Lynch and Mike Connelly, who were charged with mutiny on the liner 'The Maritima' which was bound from Baltimore.

It is charged that the men broke open the cargo of alcohol and after drinking themselves into a frenzy threatened to raise the red flag. The captain of the ship and his wife were rescued and were finally knocked down and confined in their cabin.

The Maritima was picked up by another vessel and taken to port.

NATIONS SHOUT "STOP THIEF"

French Declare Their Claims Arid Modest in Comparison With Those of Britain

PARIS, Sept. 2.—The arrest of Emir Druze, a friend of France, by the British at Beirut, Syria, has provoked a host of protest.

The Times, in commenting upon the incident, points out that the British have also arrested Mufti Bey, a leader of the Turkish revolution, in the American mission headed by Charles R. Crane, in behalf of a French mandate for Syria.

The charges made by the newspaper Liberte that British officials in Syria have resulted in the recommendation of the American senate being unfavorable to a French mandate in the Levant.

England must cease robbing France, declares this newspaper, adding: "If a map showing the territorial gains of Great Britain could be published side by side with another representing French gains the modesty of our claims would be apparent."

Charge Actors With Contempt of Court

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—Managers of six Boston theatres which were "darkened by a strike" yesterday, today took steps to bring about the arrest of the actors and actresses who were out at the command of the Actors' Equity association.

Charges of contempt of court, in that they violated the terms of injunctions when they joined the walk-out, have been lodged against the members of the company at the Plymouth theatre.

The police are at the other theatres affected: the Trovost, Square, Wilbur, Colonial and Park Square, where they today lined up their forces for the bitter legal battle with the equity association.

LABOR MAKES BIG SHOWING WITH PARADE

Splendid Growth and Scope of Union Movement Is Shown by Marching Workers

LABOR DAY was given its full significance yesterday in the march of organized workers from this city and its environs. The sweep of the labor movement and its fast rising tide was strongly emphasized in comparing this year's parade to that of last year.

Led by the Twin Falls band the parade swung through the business district, 10,000 men, women and children the liveliest. A dozen or more unions were represented, each carrying flags and their union banners.

The bulk of the procession was made up of the building crafts and a novel feature was noted in the marching order of the various organizations. The building of a human was the idea carried out in arrangement of the parade.

Behind the float were the members of the typographical union who brought up the rear of the procession. In addition to the union there were two decorated floats, one of which was a youthful Uncle Sam pulling his Columbia in a city express wagon.

The parade was conducted notably without confusion in spite of its size. Starting at Main avenue south and Second, it moved to Main west and Spruce north, then to Third street, south, then to Main, along that street to Shoshone and then north to the city park where it broke up for the speaking.

Good credit for the event's success is given to the Labor Day parade committee, which included H. H. Frickelien, president of the Building Trades Council, as chairman.

Dresser Bound Over to District Court

DOISE, Sept. 2.—Berram Dresser of Caldwell, who shot and instantly killed his father-in-law, Prince Bennett, at Caldwell Sunday, was bound over to district court for trial on a charge of murder. The two had no altercation over the contents of a letter dresser wrote to his brother, Dr. Dresser of Boise, and the fatal shooting followed.

Other evidence was presented to take it away from him, the shooting followed.

Monroe Doctrine Taboo in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 2.—The old, amended to exclude foreign owned property from permanent control, was scheduled to come in the senate for debate today.

There is much comment in political circles over President Carranza's address at the opening of congress in which he declared that Mexico is not willing to enter the league of nations and reiterated his declaration that Mexico would not recognize the Monroe doctrine.

DEMAND MAN'S PROPER PLACE

Labor Question Is Not One of Wage and Stomach Trouble—Includes Real Life

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The labor problem today is not one merely of bread and butter and wages, but of compensation and co-operation and education, according to George Bernard Shaw, member of parliament, and also minister without portfolio in the cabinet, addressing the International Labor conference.

"This is an age of organization," said Mr. Shaw. "It rightly would be the result of the organized man to the common good and equitable shares of it. But if the organization is controlled only by financial considerations, it may get a strange hold on the community.

WOULD SURVEY REQUIREMENTS

Head of World's Largest Financial Institute Tells America What to Do

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The immediate need of a complete financial survey of all of Europe's financial and industrial requirements in which United States banking interests are best situated to take the initiative was emphasized by Sir Charles Montagu, former chancellor of the exchequer in the British cabinet and now chairman of the directors of the London Economic Committee, in his address to the world's largest financial institution.

Mr. Montagu explained how, unless some European countries were supplied with funds of production on long deferred payments they will soon be in a position where they can no longer buy goods from the United States. The situation is serious in this respect.

Other European countries, Mr. Montagu went on, whose credits are steadily vanishing, may have the machinery for production but they are not equipped with the industrial fuel without immediate supplies of raw materials from the United States on two or three years credit.

PLUMB PLAN IS URGED TO SOLVE RAILWAY EVILS

Labor Day Speakers Here Speak on Economic Subjects to Big Crowd at Park

Advocates of the Plumb plan as presented by the four railway brotherhoods at the close of the parade, was made by E. E. Cason of Tampa, principal speaker at the Labor Day program in the city park yesterday morning.

Declaring that the plan was a socialistic scheme to provide government ownership, but deftly government direction, he called it constructive and a solution of the railway problem.

"In the parade this morning I felt I had the place of honor in being the first person to follow the most progressive outline of the world's American flag and I desire to pay a tribute, on behalf of labor, at the feet of the brave boys who took up arms in defense of that flag and saved our republic from a double tyrannical power, for Kaiser Bill had his eyes on America.

The speaker then briefly discussed the railway problems that are the source of the workers' discontent, declaring that the charge of the laborer being a profiteer was fallacious. The best information obtainable says that it costs $1.80 now to run a ton of coal, but it cost $1.00 before the war.

Disgruntled Radical Assails President

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—Although no general strike of railway shopmen will be called today, in protest against President Wilson's grant of a four-year term, a large number of workers of the craftmen in introducing against acceptance of the increase declared J. D. Sanders, chairman of the Chicago district council of federal labor unions.

"When the president comes west as well as show him how the working men feel," declared Sanders. "The hour has come when the working man should be in a position to show his cards now. His league of national union will get little support from the workman."

Pleading Guilty to Embezzlement of State Funds, Application for Pardon to Be Heard

BOISE, Sept. 2.—O. V. Allen, sent to the penitentiary five years ago after pleading guilty of embezzlement of $75,000 state funds while treasurer of the Idaho National Bank, is slotted for parole at its meeting Wednesday. He is one of the most famous prisoners at the state penitentiary. Numerous applications for pardon and pardon have been made in the present and previous years.

Taking Allen's good time into consideration and he has served the right term of his sentence. The word did not feel it was justified concerning his case until he had served at least the minimum of his sentence of from five to ten years.

Refuses Passports to Prohibitionists

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The British passport bureau today refused to issue the travelling papers to two American prohibition workers who wished to come to London to make Great Britain "dry."

The reason given was that the political situation in England is sufficient to prevent the issuance of the passports to stir up the workers with a no-beer threat.

PROHIBITION PARTY MEETS

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—Whether the prohibition party is to be kept alive for solution of problems other than that of drying up the remaining wet spots of the world is the question which stirred members of the party as they gathered today for the final session of their convention here.

It already has been decided that the party in this city is to be kept alive for solution of problems other than that of drying up the remaining wet spots of the world.

JULIA'S GOWN By CHARLOTTE T. SMITH.

It was in her Junior year at high school that the question of her commencement gown first began to trouble Julia King.

Finer gowns were not plentiful in the King family. Possibly the fact that Julia was the oldest of eight children may explain why her own gown had always been of inferior quality.

"Do you suppose I can have a silk dress when I graduate, mother?" "Do not worry," she said slowly, as though something had just happened.

"Do you think I don't realize how much you want it? Why, didn't the dream of my foolish old head for years have the picture of a beautiful blue tulle?"

For the past two years I have suffered from stomach trouble, and when I commenced taking this Tanlac, it was almost impossible for me to retain anything ate. I was very nervous and never got a good night's sleep, and finally got so weak and rundown that I was hardly able to get about, I often had dizzy spells, and was bothered by a great deal with constipation.

Blids Hold Dances

Many of the birds of South America have the regularity of a clock in their movements, especially in their migrations for the purpose of dancing. Some sing as they dance, others accompany the refrain by something very like harmonium accompaniment. The rainbow bird, alone, says the Detroit Free Press, blends in its species range themselves in a circle round their music on the ground, and one of them, bright with orange and scarlet plumage, leaves the circle and advances in the center of the other species with the dignity of a figure dancing a minuet, his wings spread and fall like a fan. He locusts slowly, gradually increasing the speed of his gymnastic until he reaches the performance by leaping and whirling.

Humanity in Art

Pictures must not be too picturesque. Nothing overwhelms men so much as a picture which does nothing. All great actions have been simple and all great pictures are. The Transfiguration by Raphael is an excellent example of this picture. The calm, benignant beauty shines over all this picture, and goes directly to the heart. It seems also to call you by name. The picture tells you that Jesus is beyond praise; yet how it disappoints our low expectations. This familiar, simple, home-speaking countenance it is if one should meet a friend.—Emerson.

'GOD SAVE CHINA FROM FRIENDS'

Senator McCumber Protests in Senate Against Shantung Amendment to Treaty.

AGAINST INTEREST OF CHINA

Washington, D. C.—Senator McCumber for twenty years Republican senator from North Dakota, in a speech to the senate, charged that the majority of the foreign relations committee is trying to kill the peace treaty with Japan. Senator McCumber spoke after his second breach with the opponents of the treaty on the senate committee on foreign relations. In the present breach Senator McCumber stood alone with the supporters of the treaty and against the majority of the committee which voted to strike out "Japan" and insert "China" in the three sections regarding the Shantung "pau-tsi" loan.

"Why did the majority of this committee pass in the midst of their deliberations to make this particular amendment?" asked Senator McCumber. "The purpose is apparent. It is to signify to the country that the senate is hostile to this treaty. It is to put Japan in position where she cannot without an appearance of being forced to do what she has promised to do. It is to create doubt in the minds of the Japanese that they will have the first danger thrust into the lap of this treaty."

"I am satisfied that no greater harm could ever be done to the best interests of China than by such an amendment."

"It is an act of true friendship toward China or a mere political move to defeat the treaty? If it responds now, bid to come forward and open protest that if Japan is driven out of this treaty they are now maintaining a policy which they have assumed as being the most wicked part of the league of nations—a policy of interference with the interests of the old world. Worse than that, while they solemnly condemn a joint agreement with the world to shield the greater white race from their attacks, they will send our sons to death to defend the inferior yellow races whom they claim to be inferior as to be unfit to associate with us."

"Either we will bring both Japan and China into this league of nations, which by the very terms of its provisions will compel Japan to return to China all her German rights acquired by Japan, not only by conquest but by the solemn agreement made by her previous treaty with us, or you will drive Japan out of this treaty wherein she will not be bound by the obligations which she would assume by joining the league, and where she will be holding the German territory, and all the German interests by the terms of conquest and with the broken word of China, she can work her way to the very limit of subjugation of all the Chinese territory not now within the sphere of influence of other powers."

"With this league of nations China obtains an assurance which is tantamount to a guarantee by the world that not only will Japan return to China what Germany wrested from her in 1918, but hereafter not only will this league shall not do other than small red lines of one kind or another but they will not come over her people inconsistent with the claims of complete independence and sovereignty."

Senator McCumber then recited the history of the several treaties under which Japan took over the German rights in Shantung, translating to the senate what he said. He then said: "By this amendment you declare that Japan cannot be trusted to keep sacred her word, given not only to China alone but also given to the United States and every other nation and then you are recommending that we should sign a treaty with Japan which will give Japan an opportunity to do what she has pledged her national honor to do: every this attempt to judge this country into war with Japan, to defeat this proposed amendment which arrogates to ourselves the right to amend a treaty between China and Japan and vote at a treaty made during the stress of battle between our obligees and Japan before we entered into the war, bring Japan and China into this world league and an error as the sun which the universe Japan will never be pardoned. China will receive complete personal justice and assured future protection."

"On the other hand, force this breach of contract by China; deliver Japan out of this league by force; her honor, reduce her from her treaty; then installing her in her impregnable position of right of conquest, and China and Japan and other present nations cannot help but because they are tied by their own treaties and so on with Japan, she has broken her treaty."

Expression Concerning Fires of Faith and the Torch of Religion Traced to Fire Worshipers

"My faith is like a burning flame," many a martyr has said when he was being sorely tried. "I may carry the torch of the true religion forward," is an expression so often used that it seems almost trite. It is an accident that many of the most fervent religious observers are connected in one way or another with the fire-worshiper!

One of the curious customs of Lithuania gives a clue to the answer to this question. Religion and faith are expressed in fiery terms because most of our ancestors were fire worshippers. The tradition has outlived paganism, has come into Christianity itself, and remains most plainly evident in the language we use when talking of religion.

In Lithuania family councils are held only in front of the hearth. All important gatherings are connected with the fireplace. The fire is never allowed to die out. It is the duty of the oldest woman in the family to tend to the fire, to cover it with ashes at night and to rekindle it in the morning.

Why the oldest woman rather than the oldest man? Because in pagan days the attendants of the sacred fire were always women, the priestesses, whose lives were devoted to that one task.

When we speak of the fires of faith, therefore, or of the torch of religion, we are harking back to the ancient days, the days when fire was faith and religion a torch.

"Only two," said he. "I caught two, larger trout, but they were stolen from me on the train."

"Well, never mind, George," said his wife. "You've brought home a brand new fish story, anyhow."

PRACTICAL POINTERS THAT ASSIST IN PREPARATION OF POULTRY FOR TABLE

Results Like This Obtain Where an Experienced Housewife Cuts Up a Chicken.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Cleaning chickens and washing bodies has long been a household task on the housewife's calendar. With that automatic laundryman, the mechanical or electric washing machine, Dams Goulard has simplified one of these problems, and now the United States Department of Agriculture lists "over the top" with a scheme which saves the wrangles out of the making of preparing fowls for the table. Drawing and cutting up a chicken for cooking or canning is as much an art as the proper preparation of a broiler, the delicate trapezoid, but sturdy and practical of the following pointers will soon develop the novice into an expert. The operations can be done in the kitchen, but without smearing the meat in any way, and can pack the flesh and bones from the average mature fowl into a quart jar. The first essential is to give the fowl no food for 24 hours before killing. The bird should be killed by striking it through the neck of the throat, and should be bled dry. After the feathers have been removed and the pin feathers drawn, the fowl is to be plucked and washed carefully with a brush.

and cut through the skin to the wing opening. The head should be left attached to the wingtips and these organs should be loosened from the neck down as far as the crop.

With a sharp-pointed knife next cut around the shoulder blade, pulling it out of position and breaking it. Loosen the white spots on the ribs and cut along them through the ribs. Also cut the back to and around the vent, and loosen it. Leaving the head attached, loosen the wings, gut and crop, and remove the digestive tract from the bird. Then remove the lungs and kidneys with the point of the knife and cut off the neck close to the body. Cut through the backbone at the joint just above the diaphragm and remove the milk sack. Then separate the breast from the backbone by cutting through on the white spots and breaking it.

It is essential to cut in sharply at the point of the breastbone and to remove the wishbone with the meat. The fillet should also be cut from each side of the breastbone, while the bones of the breast are still hot.

How to Cut Chicken.

In packing the fowl for canning purposes use a quart jar. Pack the surplus with a thigh inside; the breastbone with a thigh inside; the backbone and ribs with a leg inside. The leg end downward alongside the breastbone; then the wings, the wishbone, the fillet, and the neck bone. Do not pack the giblets with the meat. Fuller directions for the home canning of chicken, meats, soups, fruits and vegetables may be found in farmers' bulletins of the United States Department of Agriculture, which will be supplied free of charge to anyone requesting them from the Division of Publications.

PRECAUTIONS IN BUTCHERING.

Precautions to observe in butchering are the constant in removing the wings after cutting off the tips to the first joint, removing the feet, cutting at the knee joint; removing the legs at the hip; making a joint and cutting through the connecting joints to separate the thigh from the leg. With a sharp knife sever the neck from the body. Care should be taken not to cut the wingtips or gutlet. With the index fingers separate the wingtip and gutlet from the neck.

TRAINING HAS PROVED VALUABLE

Many Firms Make Arrangements to Teach Workers How to Do Things Properly.

The marked growth of the industrial training idea in manufacturing plants is indicated by the report recently issued by the United States training service showing that today 350 concerns maintain training departments, an increase of approximately 200 last November. This steady increase is regarded as proof that manufacturing interests in this country do not consider industrial training merely as a wartime measure.

Industrial training such as these factories are installing received its first impetus during the war, and now manufacturers are pointing to it as one of the chief economic lessons taught by the great conflict. The machine in which they quickly changed their regular forces in war times by means of industrial training; and by it also quickly introduced new workers into their plants. The United States training service, that training is one of the most permanent needs of our industrial system. Those manufacturing firms that they are even even though with the old system of training, each employee pick up his knowledge of his job in a haphazard fashion. They feel that the best way to be served by hiring practical instructors, who will show both old and new workers the best way of doing each operation.

In some lines of work this industrial training requires only a few days; in other cases it requires several weeks or even months. Ninety per cent of the manufacturers report that their training departments are self-supporting. The dividend received by the training service is enable such worker eventually to broaden his knowledge of the trade, as well as to increase the skill in a particular line. This makes him a more independent as well as more valuable to industry as a whole. The training service does not carry on training, but devotes its efforts chiefly to preparing scientific outlined courses in the training methods.

Sweden's Industrial Position.

If the present eight-hour day becomes a law, Sweden will require 22,000 more workers to maintain its present industrial output, according to a report made by the Swedish government's committee. If the additional labor can not be obtained, the committee's report says, the value of production will be decreased by more than $50,000,000 a year.

"In the opinion of the committee, no increase in intensity of effort would result from an eight-hour day of work, and the cost of production would be advanced 12 per cent. New houses for the additional workers would cost it is estimated, $20,000,000 a year."

Something to Think About.

Who are the creators of wealth? Answer this question for yourself, and then ask your neighbor, and then ask the councils of church and state. Whose fault is it?

Baby Was Poor Company.

While Ted was standing in front of the grocery store, a woman friend came along wheeling her six-month-old son. "The baby Ted!" he would watch the baby until she came out of the store. Ted replied with "white." About five minutes later, on coming out of the store, she asked: "Did you watch the baby until she came out of the store?" "No, ma'am," answered Ted. "Why, I had to do all the talking; and he would not even say one word."

HER FIRST COFFEE CAKES

Wife Didn't Know Much About Cooking, but Would Try Anything to Please Hubby.

The little bride was having her first adventures in the culinary line and it was found, at the end of the first week, that she had never been taught the art of cooking. The young husband remarked one day how fond she was of coffee cake, the kind his mother used to make; all fat with butter and spice and all things nice. After his departure for the office, the little bride looked through the recipe. It looked easy; you took one cake of yeast, a pint of boiled milk, six inches butter, sugar, etc. She decided on a surprise for hubby at dinner that night. The recipe, like many others, was not difficult; it left something for older, wiser heads to know—for instance, that the yeast germ is killed if put in hot milk, and it did not say to cool before adding the yeast.

Therefore she mixed the ingredients all at once. Throughout the day she watched it. Each time she looked a sudden mass greeted her eyes. It had not risen any that she could see, and was not ready for the evening meal. She could, however, tell the young husband of her good intentions. He was vitally interested and suggested to wifely baking it later, and having it with the morning coffee. A neighbor, taken into consultation, thought perhaps it had been killed, and suggested placing the bowl in hot water, which was done.

"Remember, the young couple watched it, but the stubborn disposition was still with it. At twelve o'clock the young husband lost patience and returned with the remark, "if it were mine, I would throw the darned thing in the garbage can." Not so the little bride; she had been reading too much of waste and concentration, so she stayed up, sleep though she was, until 1 p. m., when she placed it in the oven, hoping against hope that the baking would bring out its good qualities. At breakfast the coffee cake was served. They tried to slice it, they tried to break it, but alas, all tragedies of being any nut in the trenches—Idahoan News.

of the building enterprise in Coconino and the Prescott cities. To help these building corporations during the war, the government voted $1,000,000. This was not sufficient, and by a law passed February 5, 1918, provision was made to finance these corporations and compensate them for some of the extra expenses of building. All in all the state and municipalities subsidize the building corporations to the extent of 50 per cent of the increased costs, which are 100 per cent, so that the houses cost the corporation 40 per cent more than before.

Another Dream Shattered.

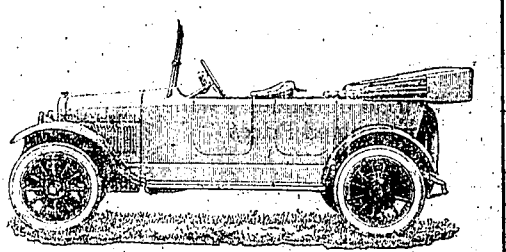

For the nineteenth time Miss Mithila Tidholm looked behind her. "This following me!" she gasped, as she hurried her pace and straightened her hat at the same time. Her heart was in her mouth, and in her pale green eyes shone a glint of hope—no, fear.

"It isn't safe for a girl to walk about alone," she muttered.

"Assign she looked around. He, he was still there! What could she do? She heard his footsteps drawing near. No, she must not faint. He was here—ah!

"Then the man hurried past her and joined the street young thing in the pink funder on street, and Miss Tidholm ground her teeth.

This Post-War Maxwell is a Rare Study in Automobile Development

WHILE the great plants of the Maxwell were busy in war production the engineering laboratories were working night and day on a Post-War Maxwell.

Today this car is in our salesrooms. It expresses in a decisive way the progress of automobile making in this country.

Unquestionably it leads the way among cars selling under $1200.

There's a new type radiator, larger, more efficient, more handsome; a new Elliott type front axle, which makes steering now a tireless pleasure; a new rear axle, heavier with an indestructible four pinion differential; an improved electric system; a new idea in an instrument board; a larger and more convenient gear shifting lever; full crown fenders with wire edge reinforcing, (the front fender aprons are crowned to eliminate all vibration and rattle); a new way of anchoring the running board; a larger gas tank, and hung in the rear; a new tire carrier; a new emergency brake, located at the transmission, and not on the rear wheels; a heavier service brake, and equipped with equalizer to prevent any tendency to skid. Also equipped with Hot Spot and Ram's Horn.

These are but a few; and yet it is this same fundamental chassis on which 300,000 Maxwells have been built.

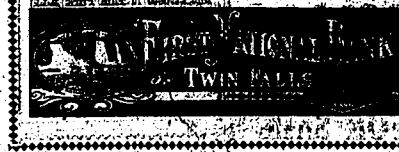

To miss seeing this Post-War Maxwell is to miss the motor car treat of the year.

It is True, of Course, That "Money is Not Everything." But See What It Will Do.

"Money isn't everything," says the aphorist as he scatters his wages to the winds.

When he reaches middle life, with old age in the foreground, vainly wishing for the return of the mispent coin.

It may be true that money isn't everything, but one thing is absolutely certain. Old Man Money, if he is cultivated through life, will not desert the friend who has cultivated him. When every human friend has fled Old Man Money stalks. You can start him off with five or ten cents a day in early life and keep feeding him that amount all through life, and in old age you will have on your hands a financial Frankenstein, albeit a somewhat unkindly appearing one.

If you did the rigors of the northern winter to succeed, you simply pay.

Largo Elberta Peaches for canning; also Ruffled Gem melons, those national floral cantaloupes that are so well liked. Other fruits and vegetables at the right price. Ed Varney, Public Market.

Old Man Money on the shoulder, and he likes you to Palm Beach. If you don't get another tin on the shoulder before you get the best nurses and specialists the world affords, it's an agreeable old man, never disputes orders and is always ready for duty. It makes the proverbial live live and the equally inveterate nut back the pickers, for he never rests. His only delight when you get to sleep and he gets the stronger he becomes. If you are a stranger in a large city, Old Man Money opens the door to the best hotels and steaks you to the best of the town officers.

POVERTY IN SOUTH AMERICA

Appalling Conditions Under Which Many Have to Exist in Latin-American Countries.

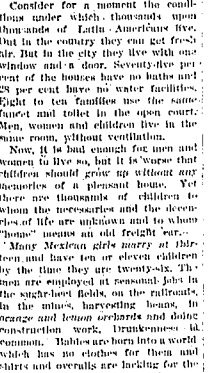

Consider for a moment the conditions under which thousands upon thousands of Latin-American live. In the country they can get fresh air. But in the city they live with window and a door. Seventy-five percent of the houses have no baths and 28 per cent have no water facilities. Eight to ten families use the same faucet and toilet in the open court. Men, women and children live in the same room, without ventilation.

Now, it is hard enough for men and women to live so, but it is worse that children should grow up without any memories of a pleasant home. Yet there are thousands of children of whom the necessities and the decencies of life are unknown and to whom "home" means an old freight car.

Many Mexican girls marry at thirteen and have ten or eleven children by the time they are twenty-five. In the single child, one in ten is born in the midst of harvesting, beans, in orange and lemon orchards and doing construction work, drunkenness is common. Babies are born into a world which has no clothes for them and no shirts and overalls are lacking for the other children. Ignorance and superstition prevail.—World Outlook.

FAD AT ATLANTIC CITY

London.—The loneliest boy fighter in the world, probably, is Private Thomas William Smith, who lost his father, mother, four brothers and five sisters in the war and is the only surviving member of his family.

His father and four brothers were killed on the same day—July 17, 1916.—In the first instance at the battle of the Somme.

His three sisters were killed in air raids on Atlantic City, in 1912, and the others in the evacuation of London in 1916. His mother was killed in an air raid on the East end of London in 1917.

Here's a Little Primer for Aviation Deposters

New York.—The meaning of the word "blimp," which has puzzled the brains of too contestants for the last three months, was explained by Major G. H. Scott, commander of the 1431, "the Red Blimp" he was asked.

"Well," responded the intrepid commander, with a smile, after a moment's reflection, "he is an overgrown blimp."

"What is a blimp, then, major?" was the next question. Without a moment's hesitation he replied: "A blimp is a fitted rig."

WILL TEACH THE COUNTRY TO SAVE

Dr. J. Stanley Brown Inaugurates Campaign for Treasury Department.

The announcement by the savings division of the treasury department of the appointment of Dr. J. Stanley Brown, of Chicago, Ill., to take charge of a national campaign for thrift in the schools of the country, is being followed by the inauguration of thrift courses in various parts of the country.

"The object of our national campaign," said Dr. Brown, in an introductory address, "is to save money by spending at all, some part of every income for future use. This can be done by those who sufficiently desire to do so. (1) To invest funds in a secure security which pays good interest. (2) To get full value in every expenditure. (3) To use what is bought with such care as though it were money itself."

In Chicago, a "Do-Without club" has been formed and is furnishing free membership buttons and stickers to those in any part of the country who wish to join and save money for some definite purpose, and who send stamped membership envelopes to headquarters, 419 South Michigan avenue, Chicago, for return literature. There are no membership dues and no expenses to members. Mrs. Roy Dickey, general officer of one of the well-known national magazines and who was the originator of the Do-Without club idea, organizing a chain of them, also leads the work of the women's committee, Council of National Defense, in the latter days of the war, is directing the present campaign.

"We all buy things we don't need," says Mrs. Dickey, "and even things we don't particularly want. A dime saved today means a dollar in the future. Nobody is too young or too old to save, and we should all practice self-denial for our own selfish future well-being, and also that from time to time we may be able to help along attractive efforts for the good of the community at large, as we did during the war."

JAPANESE PROBLEM IS ONE OF LABOR, NOT OF RACE PREJUDICE

Dr. Hottori Defends Japan's Emigration Policy and Recent Amputation of Inferiority in Strong Article in Pall Mall Gazette.

Dr. Hottori, Japanese ambassador in London, in an article in the Pall Mall Gazette, defended Japan's emigration policy and her attitude in the Pacific, and her attitude in the Pacific, and her attitude in the Pacific.

"The Japanese do not want to interfere between capital and labor in any country. On broad lines the American capitalists' desire to employ Japanese labor, while American labor is determined that the capitalists shall not do so. And for the present labor has triumphed."

"I am convinced that great fields of activity are open to us who there is no possibility of changing local prejudices and where the value of our labor is being steadily recognized."

"When South America is really opened up there will be an enormous demand for our men. Japan does not want any more emigrants. We recognize that all available territory has been taken up. What we do desire is to be regarded as equal competitors in the markets of the world."

"Therefore I emphasize the difference between general racial problems and the mere idle issue of cheap labor. No serious proposal was ever made to exclude the Japanese from any country, solely because they were Japanese. That is another matter."

"Great industrial development occurred in Japan during the war. Since the armistice there has been some depression but that is only temporary. When conditions are restored our prosperity will develop on a scale not dreamed of before the war."
