DEMPSEY ITCHES TO GET INTO RING

Tires of Footlights and Vanities of Minc World—Longs to Punch a Head of Two PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 11.—Jack Dempsey wants to defend his title as heavyweight champion of the world before the first of the year.

Jack Kearns, manager of the champion, told the writer today that Dempsey is hungry for action.

"Jack is tired of the stage," said Kearns. "He is a fighter, not an actor. He wants to feel the resin under his feet again and the summer is better. The glare of the footlights and the plaudits of admiring audiences thrilled Dempsey for a time, but the stage is palling on him now."

"Before Jack became champion he promised to keep busy about the feat Jess Willard. He is going to keep his promise. As long as the promoters can give an opponent for him he will take them on, and they can't come too fast."

"There were the bouts of Matthew Hayward, we have awaited our offers of every variety. Most of the offers have included either Beckett or Carpenter as opponents. The result, and of course they were tentative on the promoter's securing the services of one of these men."

"Dempsey never did want a title for the first time in his country, but if no suitable opponent can be induced to meet him here he will go abroad. He doesn't mean to remain idle. Billy Miske or Willie McLean may get a chance at Jack. Both have been mentioned to us by promoters and while we would prefer Beckett or Carpenter or Carpenter come here we will take on either of these men if given sufficient inducement."

YANKS MAY BUILD NEW PARK FOR NEXT SEASON

There are some very important negotiations going on now between the owners of the Giants and the Yankees concerning the building of the Polo grounds by the American league for a term of years.

It is said the negotiations have reached a point where if it is not quickly the Yankees' owners they receive their search for a site upon which to erect a handsome stadium next year.

It is still possible, it is said, that the two sets of officials may be able to find common ground upon which an amicable agreement may be reached.

HENRY LEE MEADOWS OF PHILLIES MAY HAVE WEAK EYES, BUT HAS STRONG ARM

One of Major League Players to Wear Glasses on Field.

Such successful major league managers as Charlie Mack, McGehee and Jennings refused to let the unwritten law in baseball that a perfect sight is necessary to become a big league star.

Henry Lee Meadows, recently traded to the Philadelphia team by the Cardinals, is the only major leaguer who wears glasses. Can't object any thing a yard in front of him without the specs. Miller Huggins followed him to Durham, N. C. in 1914, and introduced his unusual sight—a pitcher wearing glasses.

Meadows is a remarkable athlete. Near-sighted, using glasses since he was a few years of age, he not only plays ball, but swims and has been in football struggles, wearing his glasses. Is an expert with a rifle and has stepped the pants in Duke's woods.

Meadows says it is impossible to play any other position but pitcher in baseball with glasses. That his mark in the South and League by winning a hat-throw from Alexandria. His eyes may be weak, but his arm is strong, and an major leaguer pitcher and won three games in one day.

SYNOPSIS

ANNIE SANDS, waitress, tried to find love and happiness in an atmosphere of cold aristocracy and millions, but instead of the affection she thought the relationship of marriage gave her, she found a hate which demanded her ruin. And then, as an outcast bride, Annie, proud and self-reliant, fought her enemies and her wrongdoers. A philosophy of love, charity and self-sacrifice that swept away the crushing forces of wealth and a brutal police inquisition and turned into tender devotion the hatred which had held from her all that she held most dear.

GERMANY IS NOT IDLE

While the rest of the world is arguing over the terms of the peace treaty Germany is going along, saying very little, for Germany, but doing all sorts of things which are not in keeping with either the letter or the spirit of the terms presented to her.

First she scuttled the ships at Scapa Flow. When the terms of that branch of good faith had subsided she destroyed a number of Zeppelins. Then she put the finishing touches on a new constitution, which definitely provides for representation of Austria in the German Reichstag. Recent and apparently authentic reports say that there is growing a definite movement for the restoration of the Nubia, the Kaiser.

It is true that the allied nations took warning and counsel. Germany is perfectly aware of the dissensions which this country is torn. She is taking advantage daily of the unsettled conditions everywhere which prevent the eyes of the nations from being turned closely upon her.

The war was fought by certain allied nations against Germany. It will not have been brought to a safe conclusion until the principles have been signed by all the contracting nations and the allies are united in some plan for enforcing them.

Germany has started planning, contriving, shaping something out of her fragments. What thing she will depend upon how well her conquerors hold in mind the thing she did, and how strong they make their organization to prevent a like thing from happening again. Anything which begs these issues is unworthy of consideration.

SOLDIERS STILL OUT OF JOBS

Nearly one-half of the former service men who are seeking work in New York City have not been able to find it. This is the statement of Alfred Smith, executive secretary of the employment bureau.

Among the number now reported idle are a few who had been given jobs but are again out of work. Either their jobs were temporary or the man did not fit the job.

It seems incredible, with the help situation so pressing as it is today, with every mail-bill-ventured column crying for men, that any able-bodied man could not find some job for which he is fitted and which he can hold if he so desires.

It may be that jobs in New York are different from jobs in other places, and it might pay employers in other localities to communicate with Mr. Smith, whose office is at 505 Pearl Street, New York City. An interchange of correspondence might lead to mutual benefit for idle soldier and anxious employer.

No soldier who persistently refrains from work, or who fails repeatedly to master the job for which he is entitled to work sympathetically. He is in exactly the same class as the man who uses the uniform to obtain charity from door to door.

With so many job-waiting, any soldier who does want work should be enabled to get it, and no money should be overlooked which might facilitate the process.

MOVIES AS BEAUTIFIERS

From London comes the wonderful and inspiring suggestion that English girls are becoming more beautiful, and that the movies are responsible.

Constant contemplation of the most beautiful types of womanhood, say the British experts, is having its subtle effect in transforming the movie devotees. "The semi-hardness of the theatre, the music, the upward gaze, are all conditions favorable to such psychic influence, and the mental impressions received by young people under these conditions when gazing upon selected types of lovely face and form must tend to have a cumulative effect resulting in the general beautification of the race."

Maybe so—maybe not. It is a new version of Oscar Wilde's story that "nature is always imitating art," which he used to illustrate by pointing out that the preservation of facial types in old English families, despite continual marriages with persons of other types, was due to daily contemplation of the old family portraits on the walls.

If this is the way it works, there is new justification for the movies, and new reason for worshipping the gods and goddesses of the films, and paying them million-dollar salaries. If we can all grow good-looking merely by steady attendance at the movies, why on to the movies!

Carranza doesn't like the Monroe doctrine. That is natural enough, considering the fact that the Monroe doctrine was meant expressly to keep people like Carranza from giving European powers a foothold in America.

FIGURES OF AMERICA'S PART IN WAR PASS ALL PREVIOUS RECORDS

Col. Leonard P. Ayers Prepares a Remarkable Statistical Summary Showing Comparative Costs in Men, Money and Material for All the Countries Engaged—Cost to the United States is $22,000,000,000.

Washington.—The war cost the United States directly about $22,000,000,000, or nearly $100 to the dollar, the entire cost of equipping the American government from 1701 up to the outbreak of the European war. For every hundred American soldiers and sailors who served in the war with Germany two were killed or died of disease during the period of the war. The number of men serving in the armed forces of the nation during the war was 1,000,000, of whom 400,000 were in the army.

These facts are set forth in a statistical summary of "The War With Germany," compiled under the direction of Col. Leonard P. Ayers, chief of the statistics branch of the general staff of the army.

This summary, just published by Colonel Ayers by direction of the secretary of war, is a complete review of America's participation in the war against Germany condensed into less than 100 pages. It is a detailed summary of American military operations, and yet the long statistical tables usually found in official reports are entirely lacking.

Col. Leonard P. Ayers is the only officer from civilian life who has been in the position of chief of a division of the general staff of the army. He was a director of the Russell Sage Foundation. He was chief statistical officer of the peace committee. After his return he was named the distinguished service medal.

Some of the Figures.

Some of the statistical summaries in the report show:

The war cost the United States considerably more than $10,000,000,000 an hour.

America's expenditures in the war were sufficient to have carried on the European war continuously for more than a thousand years at the rate of expenditure which that war actually involved.

During the first three months expenditures were at the rate of $2,000,000 a day. During the next year they exceeded more than $22,000,000 a day. For the first ten months the daily average was over $44,000,000.

The total war cost of nations was about $180,000,000,000, of which the allies and the United States paid two-thirds and the enemy one-third.

Of the three nations spending the greatest amounts were Germany, Great Britain and France, in that order. After them came the United States and Austria-Hungary, with substantially equal expenditures.

The United States spent about one-third of the entire cost of the war and something less than one-fifth of the expenditures of the allied side.

After the three months of all nations in this war were greater than all deaths in all the wars in the previous hundred years.

Russian battle deaths were 24 times as heavy as those of the United States, those of Germany 32 times as great, France 28 times and the British 18 times as great.

Infantry Suffered Most.

In the American army the casualty rate in the infantry was higher than in any other service, and that for officers was higher than for men.

Five out of every six men sent to hospitals, on account of wounds were cured and returned to duty.

Pneumonia killed more soldiers than were killed in battle. Shingles was the most serious disease of all nations.

The British sent more men to France in their first year of war than we did in our first year, but it took England three years to reach a strength of 2,000,000 men in France, and the United States accomplished it in one-half of that time.

In the physical examinations the states of the middle West made the best showing. Country boys did better than city boys, while better than colored and native better than foreign born.

Most of the troops who sailed for France left New York. Half of them landed in England and the other half in France.

Of every 100 Americans who went, over 40 went in British ships, 45 in American ships, three in Italian, two in French and one in Russian ships.

American cargo ships averaged one complete trip every 70 days and troop ships one complete trip every 35 days. The cargo fleet was almost entirely American. It reached the size of 2,000,000 deadweight tons, and carried 7,000,000 tons of cargo.

Work of Engineers.

American engineers built in France 83 new miles of railway, 1,000 miles of standard gauge track and 538 miles of narrow gauge track.

shells in four holes, a high explosive intense concentration of fire was recorded in history.

The Stenograph battle lasted for 47 days, during which 1,200,000 American troops were engaged.

Orphaned Fawn Adopts Man as Its Guardian

Williamport, Pa.—George Hummel, a resident of Liberty, while hunting at the head of Gray's run, heard a faint bleating in the woods up the mountain side, and upon investigation came upon a strange sight.

On the ground lay a dead doe with a dead fawn by her side, while a live fawn stood guard nearby. The live animal had worn a path where it had trotted around the body of the mother.

There were no bullet holes in the carcass. Mr. Hummel had some coffee in his pocket which he fed to the little fawn, and the animal followed him home, apparently content that it had found a friend. Mr. Hummel reported the case to a game warden and is caring for the fawn.

When You Are Wrong.

Some girls always love their temples with other people when they suspect themselves of being in the wrong.

An uneasy conscience is a deadly foe of good nature. If you realize that you are more selfish and cross than you have any reason to be, ask yourself if perhaps you are not venting on others the blame you feel belongs to yourself.—Girl's Companion.

When the United States entered the war the allies made the designs of their armor and their equipment, and before the end of hostilities furnished from their own manufacture 2,500 service planes.

Aviation Institute, schools in the United States graduated 8,022 men from elementary courses and 4,023 from advanced courses. More than 5,000 pilots and observers were sent overseas.

There were produced in the United States to November 30, 1918, more than 80,000 training planes and more than 10,000 training engines.

The most rapid growth of the front grew from three squadrons in April to 45 in November, 1918. On November 11 the squadrons had an equipment of 740 planes.

Of 2,508 planes sent to the zone of the advances by American aviators, 401 were of the fourth year of American production.

American air squadrons brought down in combat 775 enemy planes, while their own losses of planes numbered only 507.

American divisions were in battle for 270 days and engaged in 18 major operations.

From the middle of August until the end of the war the American divisions held during the greater part of the time a front longer than that held by the British.

In October the American divisions held 101 miles of line, or 23 per cent of the entire western front.

In the battle of St. Mihiel 25,000 Americans were engaged, compared with about 100,000 on the northern side in the battle of Arras.

The artillery fired more than 1,000,000 shells in four holes, a high explosive intense concentration of fire was recorded in history.

The Stenograph battle lasted for 47 days, during which 1,200,000 American troops were engaged.

COMMENTS BY A TAXPAYER

That splendid philosopher of sunshine and mirth, dear old Samantha Allen, used to say that when Josiah asked questions she couldn't think down, she simply made an attempt to reply. She just "observed a dignified silence."

In this connection, we can not help remarking upon the silence maintained by the city council, in its possible that questions have been asked that are hard to answer?

So vaccination is obligatory. Is German "khatu" this is one phase of German "khatu" that Twin Falls county does not seem greatly pleased to follow.

Forget it, Doctor, forget it. The certain certainly do not need vaccination and it has not been observed that any of the practitioners of medicine in Twin Falls are especially in need of the 45 per cent whatever the fee may be.

Attention, Mr. C. H. Channel: There is a current report that more money had been spent in bringing the roads in our highway district to their present state of "unpreparation" than was expended in surveying all the canals, laterals and ditches for the whole Twin Falls South Side project. Will you kindly make a statement as to the accuracy of this report?

There is another point that Mr. Pillsbury is neglecting. He was most ungenerously asked to inform the taxpayers how many meters an ordinary worker can install in a day. He has failed to do this.

We, the people, the taxpayers, who own the city waterworks department, would like to know why our meters are so fast when they have been patched to the scene of the trouble.

Child Labor Laws and Decisions of the United States Supreme Court

By SENATOR W. S. KENYON, of Iowa

The Supreme court of the United States killed the law to exclude child labor products from interstate commerce. So congress passed another law to emancipate the child laborer by placing a heavy federal tax on the products of their toil. A federal court in a notorious child-labor case has declared this second law unconstitutional.

The Supreme court cannot kill the second child-labor law without reversing its several opinions that the federal government has unquestionable power to tax "without regard to motive."

If it should annul the law, however, we have still another recourse. Congress can and will enact a law to bar from the mails all matter containing the products of children below a given age.

the excellent reason to me that, more than all else, she desired to be alone. My eyes caught the outline of the boat lying in the stream below.

"What was she doing there, alone, in the middle of the night?" I asked myself. "A cabin, that's all," he said, but he had his hand on the door handle, as if he were about to knock.

These five men, representing farmers in 21 wheat and corn growing states, had a conference with President Wilson. Men of reducing the bill of lading was the subject of the discussion. Profits are Small Says Combine

When confronted with criticism for "boosting" price they rush into print with a nice little alibi. This clipping is from a recent issue of the Twin Falls News:

"If we were actually making such large profits in our business as some people seem to think we are, what they think about us and our business might not concern us so much," said a local coal dealer today, discussing popular acceptance of the announcement of a raise of 50 cents a ton in the price of coal the first of this month with the prospect for further increases in the cost of the commodity.

"As a matter of fact," he continued, "I will venture the assertion that there is no commodity sold in Twin Falls today on a smaller margin of profit than coal."

Last Is Best

The quoted figures showing that the cost of coal to the dealer here five years ago was $2.50 a ton. It was sold then for $4 a ton, leaving a dealer's margin of $1.50 a ton. The cost of coal to the local dealer now is $3.25 and the price to the consumer is $4.25 a ton. Although the dealer's margin has increased from $1.50 to $2, this dealer points out, the cost of handling has more than doubled, and the actual profit is considerably less than it was five years ago.

Draymen Want Rate

The draymen tell us that after the first of next month they will not haul a pound of coal for less than $1.50 a ton, this dealer said. The present charge for delivery is $1 a ton. "If that purpose is carried out," the coal man, added, "it is safe to say that the draymen will be making more out of the handling of a ton of coal than will the local coal dealer."—From Twin Falls News.

Now Let US SEE

Last winter the United States Fuel Administration allowed the dealer a clear profit of $1.25, and none of them want out of business. There are just as many yards in Twin Falls today as there were a year or two ago.

They Say Cost of Handling Has More Than Doubled

Just what do they mean by handling? Surely it cannot be the delivery. For there is an extra charge for this service, and, by the way, this has been increased from $1.00 to $1.50. They mean, then, unloading. This costs from 50c to 40c per ton, and even if they got it done for nothing before the war they cannot blame the unloading cost for all of the extra 50c profit they are making over last year, when the government set the price.

It Is a Clear Case of Profit-Creeping

The dealer for profits, and more profits was the main reason back of the high price. A plain case of hold-up. With competition eliminated, with prices fixed, it was an easy matter to charge what they wanted to, and the public paid the bill.

"We Have Our Meetings"

They said to the manager of this yard, "and will call you up when we have our next one. Since we've had our meetings and all charge the same price we are all making more money than ever before. You want to get in. You'll make a lot more money by it."

With Such a Combination in Existence What Price Would You Have Been Forced to Pay for Coal Next Winter?

Although the coal combine had been in existence for only a short time, the price of coal took several jumps, and it was on the road for a good way more when the City Coal company "showed them up."

All that they were a bit timid, and only after with every dealer in a combination, all charging the same price, it was so easy to get the extra two-bits that the next time they shot the price up 50c.

regard that the "work of the peace conference to continue, the work of the people fulfilled, and the peace of the world advanced by the ratification of the treaty, the best hope of the world, even if the all human imperfections, it is not entirely perfect in every detail."

In replying to the majority report previously submitted by Senator Lodge, Massachusetts, as chairman of the committee, the six Democratic leaders expressed their opinion that the amendments and reservations proposed by the majority of the ratification were intended to defeat confirmation.

"The industrial world is in ferment, the financial world is in doubt and commerce halts, while this great day in the peace settlement has been caused by the majority of a committee known to be out of harmony with the majority of the senate and the majority of the people. This is government by obstruction as well as by minority."

POST STOOD FOR CENTURIES

Relic Recently Found in England Is Old Even as Antiquarians Count Ages of Things.

Whoever bought the corner post the one's about near the abbey at Burton-on-Trent, England, when it came in for sale the other day in London, and pulled a venerable curiosity. The postman, however, and good authority as having been first set up not later than 1300, and the old building the one stood beside it, and has been described as "the old building in the Market place of the Glastonbury, but some scholars, about a hundred years ago, concluded that the ancient relic is the relic of Antioch; but in the 1920s one of the local families of importance in Burton-on-Trent, England, in the interest of the post, one may reasonably wonder what the relic is going to be with the Christ the Science Museum.

BRIEF INFORMATION

More than a dozen American women and playgirls are said to be in the enjoyment of annual incomes in excess of $50,000 from their literary work.

Before the war England imported over 50 per cent of the glass used in the country, but since the imports there were stopped she has been able to produce enough for her own needs.

A factory has been installed in the land for the manufacture of packing paper, by means of a new process. Great quantities of vegetable fiber are being accumulated for the purpose.

Size Doesn't Count When They're Trained

San Francisco—My goodness, young man, take my word. You must stand up with that big handle on your back."

This was what a middle-aged woman said to a five-foot, thin, but chap dressed in a jockey uniform who was riding a ladder-shaped in a street car here during a morning hour.

There were a half dozen other black clad, ladder-back young men standing in the same section of the car, but the woman singled out the little fellow entitled to her sympathy and motherly compassion.

The former said: "Oh! No! No! No! No!"

His friends glared at him, and he who had been offered the seat blushed.

"The strapping ex-convict leaned down to the woman when she had resumed her seat and said:

"I think there ain't a little cuppin' outfit on his back weighing 150 pounds. He packed enough on his back for 25 months 'over there.' We're going to bike over the hills today to get an appetite. His pack contains the grub."

GIRL HALTS GERMAN'S TRIP

Governor Demands $100,000 Damages as Manufacturer Is About to Sail.

New York—The preparations of Hermann Otto Boehme, manufacturer of electrical and mechanical instruments, to sail for Germany were interrupted by Deputy Sheriff Danneberg, who placed Boehme under civil arrest in a street branch of justice brought by Miss Elizabeth Aratz, a governess.

Miss Aratz, in asking for the arrest of Boehme, said she was going abroad, as she made sure of his presence at the trial by compelling him to give $25,000 bond.

Anticipate Your Clothing Wants

The progressive man is the one who plans ahead. He knows what he should do today. He knows what his program is for tomorrow.

In your clothes, as well as your business, it is just as important to know the conditions.

Already, this early in the season Fall suits and overcoats are selling as fast as they arrive.

The man who delays purchasing his suit or overcoat now is taking chances of being disappointed later, and there is a possibility that clothing prices will be considerable higher.

Manufacturing Unrest

By GEORGE CURRIE.

Chairman Committee on Public Information, in Leslie's Weekly.

A few weeks ago a Minnesota jury returned a verdict of guilty in the case of the state against Townley and Gilbert, two leaders of the National American Labor Union for subversive activities, charged with conspiracy to teach doctrine of disloyalty. The sentence, it may be explained, is a year in prison, and a fine of $10,000. The court at successive elections and to threaten the dominance of the two old parties in Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska and Idaho.

The indictments against Townley and Gilbert were returned under circumstances that in themselves suggest a great deal of bitter feeling and animosity. In the first place, the non were not arrested under the federal espionage law, specifically and directly framed to reach just such officials, nor was any federal official in the state found willing to proceed against Gilbert and Townley on the evidence collected and presented. The arrests were made under an Indiana state law stretched to cover the alleged offense, and the trial was delayed until a year had passed.

Members of the Nonpartisan League charged openly that the whole proceeding was part of the campaign of persecution organized and carried out by the Republican "machine" aided at every point by certain leaders of the Democratic "machine." This feeling was widespread and well known, and it was not surprising that the public mind was already in a state of great unrest, and that the authorities in charge of the case go about the business of dispatching these sinister conspirators.

How Conviction of Townley Was Obtained

1. By holding the trial in a remote county in a small town, virtually inaccessible by any modern means of travel.

2. By trying the case before a judge who had recently admitted prejudice. When it happened to the Townley and Gilbert before the bar, however, the eminent jurist decided that his prejudices had abated and so conscientiously directed the efforts of the defense to such limit.

3. Although charged with making speeches calculated to undermine loyalty, neither Gilbert or Townley was permitted to introduce speeches calling upon people to support the war, nor were they allowed to show their various patriotic activities or to call witnesses willing to testify to their loyalty to the government and to the war purposes of America.

4. At the last, when Townley claimed his constitutional right to present his own case before the jury, the judge refused permission and the judge's refusal was made to keep silent.

And then they are those who suggest the case to their disinterested, unprejudiced and unprejudiced, why it is that our courts are attacked and the processes of our law subjected to the charge of discrimination and inequality. The guilt or innocence of Townley and Gilbert has ceased to be of prime importance in this matter. It is the manner of American justice that is again on trial before the workers of the United States even as in the case of Mooney.

The best ones are advertised in the Times.

Labor Shortage Predicted.

Predicting a labor shortage in the United States by next fall with wages maintained at least at their present level and an insupportable demand for American-made goods in Europe, Howard H. King, director general of the American Labor Union for subversive activities and Adm. Miller, talked on world economic conditions. "There cannot be reduction in food prices until there is more food produced in the world," he said. "Australia's food, stocks, instead of going to England, are going to relieve famine-stricken India. We cannot live to ourselves in this country. Much to the farm must be made a popular motto, for by increased production we can bring down prices better than by any other means."

For National Labor Party.

Delegates from ten states representing more than 2,000,000 organized workers will meet at Cleveland, O., after Labor day to organize the American Labor Party. The convention may also decide whether to nominate a national ticket for 1920. An effort will be made to insert a plank in the platform calling for the repeal of the national prohibition amendment, it is said.

Labor and the Nonpartisans.

Three hundred out of the 500 delegates in attendance at the Minnesota State Federation of Labor convention held an after-meeting and resolved unanimously to organize the Working People's Nonpartisan Political League of Minnesota. They adopted among other planks in their platform de-

Delays for an eight-hour day and the public ownership of all public utilities.

They then voted to cooperate with the National Nonpartisan League. This identity of labor with farm interests in political action is one of the new phenomena that is significant enough to be worth watching.
