SOVIETS HOLD TWO PETROGRAD

Latest Information Shows Bolshevik Holding Against Combined Attacks

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The Russian situation which has been obscured for a week by conflicting official and unofficial reports was somewhat cleared today.

Kronstadt has been reported in the hands of the anti-bolshevik troops according to reports by the latest dispatches.

General Denikin's advance continued, but has evidently slowed up... British military experts were quoted in London today as saying that the prediction that the white army will be in the soviet territory within six weeks may prove too optimistic.

The bolsheviks, while drawing the troops from the interior for the protection of Petrograd have evidently attempted a counter-offensive against the eastern Russian fighting front... Moscow is being menaced by double approaches, but the anti-bolshevik forces must stop and consolidate their new positions.

On the eastern front in Russia the coasts, struck by recent bolshevik successes, are rebuilding their forts.

FEW NORMAL STUDENTS
 While the public schools are overcrowded with children and the colleges and universities and technical schools are proclaiming the biggest enrollment in years, one set of schools reports a falling off in students. These are the normal schools.

With an alarming shortage of teachers and too many teaching positions filled by instructors without standard qualifications, it is not pleasant to learn that statistics show a decrease of 30 per cent in the number of graduates from normal schools within the past four years. The total attendance at 78 normal schools in 35 states was 33,051 in 1918. This year the total enrollment in those same schools is 26,134. In 1916 there were 10,250 graduates. In 1919 that number has fallen to 8,274. At present there are enrolled in the 1920 graduating classes only 719 students, and some of these will perhaps drop out in favor of other callings before next June.

The reason for this decrease in normal school attendance is easy to find. Other professions and occupations pay better wages. The young men and women of the country are turning to the opportunities offering more nearly fair compensation for their skill. Poor instruction is just about as harmful as none at all. The solution of the shortage of teachers problem is not to put into the teaching jobs young and untrained persons who lack ability and even knowledge for the work. The answer is to raise teaching to its rightful position of honor and respect. Higher salaries must be paid, professional standards must be raised. More liberal appropriations are needed for the normal schools, along with broadened courses. The public must be shown the importance and dignity of the teaching profession and must learn that expert service in teaching is just as worthy of a just reward as in any other form of production. Otherwise this country is due for a terrible awakening to its loss within the next few years.

365 DAYS-A-YEAR ROADS
 "Out of two and one-half millions of miles of roads in the United States, we have less than 200,000 miles of such highways which you can really call 'roads'—by that I mean roads which one can travel on 365 days out of the year without getting stuck in the mud." This statement is credited to H. G. Shirley, secretary-treasurer of the Federal Highway Council, addressing a highway association convention in Minnesota.

The national council is planning a backbone of national highways to which state and local highway systems may be joined. Such a system should open to the farmer three or four markets for his produce instead of a single city market. As Mr. Shirley points out, a system of all-the-year-around roads which can be traveled over with speed and safety in any season brings up as many and more necessary. It would be a great boon in ease of serious freight traffic.

As to the particular kind of construction to be employed, the federal council is in favor of anything that is good. Different sorts of road construction are suited to different parts of the country. But in every section roads should be built with an eye to future needs as well as present. Road construction only a few years ago in the east were made four and six inches thick. That was believed strong enough for any possible strain. It is already an old story how those roads have gone to pieces under the strain of motor truck traffic.

Roads mean to many things in national life. They are important factors in education, communication, distribution, recreation. It is every citizen's duty to take an active and positive interest in good roads in his community, and to be foresighted and broad minded enough to extend his interest from the road which goes past his door to the roads which pass the doors of the rest of the nation.

THE HONEST AMERICAN
 That the industrial classes of America are remarkable for their honesty and faith is the testimony of Arthur J. Morris, founder of the Morris plan banks. These banks lend money on character, earning power and ability. The borrower is made to repay his loan by saving a regular sum weekly or monthly until the loan is repaid. These banks serve the great mass of the people who need financial credit but who are barred by the banks which lend only on the old-fashioned type of collateral—here the well-to-do.

At the annual convention of the directors and trustees of these banks, the statement was made that $125,000,000 has been loaned in 104 cities of the country with a loss of less than $1 per $1000.
 It is a cheering thought, in these days when we are being told on every hand that we are all money-mad and totally unbalanced in our demand for luxuries, to realize that, take us on the whole, we pay our debts. We may demand that the paper play for our dancing, if dancing be our mood. But when the gray of the morning after comes, along we are willing to work soberly and use the product of our toil to pay the paper.

Rider Haggard is deploring the choking of births in nearly all the European countries. But can the babies be blamed for not wanting to be born into this kind of a world?

Well, the war is over in France, anyway. What are we going to have peace in America?

WOULD LAUNCH CO-OPERATIVE PLAN TO LOWER LUMBER COST

Group of Prominent Farmers and Other Citizens Approve Movement Being Developed on the North Side and Take Steps to Form Similar Company on This Side—John Wolfenden, Secretary.

A movement to place on foot on this side, following the lines of a similar one being developed on the north side, was given impetus at a meeting in this city yesterday. With the object of reducing costs of building material and thus lowering prices of the chief facts to grow and produce in the community, a group of prominent farmers and citizens gave enthusiastic approval to the idea and took preliminary steps in soundings general sentiment of the district toward a co-operative lumber yard. A circular letter being distributed by the North Side Lumber company, of Jerome, among its stockholders, looking to the formation of such an enterprise, was read at the meeting. Instant approval of the idea and a discussion of plans was given. The successful organization of the Farmers' Mutual Lumber and Power company and the prominent part taken by the two sides.

The company claims that the erroneous principle was followed by the commissioners, J. S. Bassett, Henry Jones and J. W. Jackson, who condemned water rights with property included property not wanted and unreasonable damages through "fraud, passion and prejudice."

Oppose Assessments—Separate suits have been filed in district court by various local property owners who seek to restrain the city from collecting assessments on certain streets and sidewalk improvement districts, alleging that the assessments were certified by the city council and clerk and filed with the county, in advance of the date published for collecting protests. The county auditor, tax collector and assessor are made defendants by legal formalities. Those filing suits are J. E. White, W. E. Nixon, T. J. Woods, E. A. Moon, Geo. M. Dow and W. A. Kent.

Establishing it, brought them two representatives of the organization into the meeting and asked for the newspaper's attitude toward such a move. The meeting was assured that the newspaper would give its entire support to the enterprise. It was decided that since the Mutual power company offered such a good example of co-operative organization, it would be well to seek at least temporary alliance with that company. Accordingly John Wolfenden, secretary of the Mutual concern, was asked to serve as temporary secretary of the new enterprise and accepted.

The next move will be to secure representatives of the organization to file and Mr. Wolfenden will receive communications of that nature from those desiring to back the enterprise and become financially interested in it. With the object of facilitating such determination of public sentiment and support the Times here, with articles which will be carried out and sent to Mr. Wolfenden in this city.

You Can Make Millions in Oil

Of all the Investments you have here-to-fore made you never had a chance to get in on one like this.

A CHANCE WHERE YOU OWN YOUR OWN OIL FUTURE and where the speed of the development lays in the hands of a Local Syndicate.

No matter how bad you might wish to be in the oil game; no matter how much money you have to spend; HOW ARE YOU GOING TO SPEND THE SAME $0 AS TO HAVE 100 PER CENT CHANCE ON YOUR MONEY?

THERE IS ONLY ONE SURE WAY—That way, is to buy the lease on lands near to where they are drilling for oil.

The investors are now buying acreage. The value of acreage depends on the distance from where oil wells are actually being drilled. Oil leases at Burk Burnett were worth, before the first well was drilled, nothing. During the time the first well was going down acreage sold rapidly at $200 to $300 per acre. After the well was completed, acreage sold from $300 to $1000 per acre. When a person buys acreage there is no chance of losing it—it belongs to you, and no matter how valuable it becomes, you are the one who says when to sell. A local syndicate is now drilling for oil in Oklahoma, where over 90 per cent of the wells are money-makers, in a country where checks are actually written in millions.

This local syndicate is made up of well-known business men in the heart of which is J. A. Noggle of Elmer. This syndicate sent Mr. Noggle to California once and to Wyoming twice to pass on oil propositions. Each time he turned them down and saved thousands of dollars for them. They then sent him to Oklahoma, where all fields are being drilled a number of local business men have been drilling for oil and gas on a 400-acre tract. His judgment is of great value to men who know him, and he is in the oil game to win. There are a few acres within one mile of where they have actually begun the drilling of the well, which still can be leased. These acreages have an oil lease out on them and the lease carries with it seven-eighths of the oil produced. The land owner gets one-eighth royalty. The lease runs for a term of five years.

Do you want some acreage within one mile of where a well is actually being drilled? Do you understand the difference in owning acreage and oil stock? Thousands of men have got rich on acreage. No one can take it away from you. Within 60 days the story will be told, the well will be drilled, the chance of buying acreage will be past. Are you interested? If so, how much? Do you want ten acres, or would you rather pool with other friends and take a forty?

These leases sell for $125.00 per acre. Why will be the worth of these leases after they have been struck within one mile of your lease? There will be a ready market at from One to Three Thousand dollars per acre.

THINK OF THE MONEY YOU CAN MAKE ON A LEASE AT THIS PRICE!

Get your neighbors together and pool your interests and purchase some acreage. Mail your checks today because there are a limited number of acres. Get in while the price is low and where you have the privilege of setting near where your local syndicate is drilling. This privilege is not often to be had.

MONEY MADE EASY IN OIL FIELDS

Says a Drug Store Clerk, If a Person Has Some Money, a Little Nerve and a Chance to Buy a Lease Near a Well Actually Drilling

"Only one way of investing in the development of oil, that will insure a chance," says the Oklahoma Investor, in an interview with Oscar Howard, a man who has stepped from a poor clerk in a drug store to a multimillionaire, asking him how he did it. He said:

"It did not take me long to find out that Oklahoma had the oil, but how could I get a part of it was the problem I wished to solve. I had a very limited amount of money and a fair job. I knew if I bought some land that was supposed to have oil under it, I could not drill a well as it took several thousand dollars to drill. In fact many thousands to buy even the casing after the well had been drilled, so I decided that my life was passing on and I must not lose. Feeling that if I did not attempt to better my condition it would not be better so I decided to buy 10 acres of oil lease near to where some responsible fellows were going to drill, so I purchased 10 acres at $200 per acre. The lease was a five-year lease. The well was drilled to the depth of 2500 feet and oil was found. My lease was worth $3000 per acre. I sold half of it and retained the other part. Then I bought some more leases where wells were being drilled, and it was not long until I was very independent.

When asked if he bought stock in any of the oil companies, he said yes, but until experience taught him that the sure way to win was to own what you own, and play the game as you see fit. You will find people in the oil fields buy leases and they must be reasonably close to the well that is drilling.

"What do you mean by 'reasonably close'?"

"I mean within two miles."

"Then the main thing is to know that the company that you are near will drill."

"Yes, that is it, exactly. You will notice in Oklahoma, shoe skimmers, buyers and lookers alike make millions when they play the game consistently, by buying lease. Oklahoma is as much of an oil state as Ohio is in farming state and farming is not a serious gamble in this is it?"

"The reason is that the farmer in Ohio takes the lease amount of chance possible in farming, and the men who win in Oklahoma do the same on oil, so they lease.

"Why is it that many people in Oklahoma have lost money by playing the oil game?" was asked.

"Well, let me tell you, why has Oklahoma passed a blue sky law," was the answer.

"Because so many companies were operating that had no capital, I suppose," was the answer.

"Yes, you guessed about right, and if the company did not have the money what becomes of the stock holder? He just had the pleasure of believing that he had something for a short time, that's all, and if the stock had dropped a cent he got would have had something, because the well will be completed by some other people. Oil investments are the best if you win, and the best chance to win is to buy near a well in an oil country, and Oklahoma is one of oil countries."

both the Canal company and the Pumping company held at Jerome on Saturday, the 15th, at which all persons interested were invited to attend the conference. Reports of the facts earned through Mr. Anderson.

In brief we find that lumber can be had at the same price as it is on the North Side at from $12 to $30 per thousand less than is now being charged by local yards and in many instances if grades and quality taken into consideration a much larger difference exists.

It is the opinion of the directors of these organizations and of those present at the meeting that a very large saving can be made in the cost of building material and that this should be done by a small number of the reduction.

The conference was held at Jerome on Saturday, the 15th, at which all persons interested were invited to attend the conference. Reports of the facts earned through Mr. Anderson.

In brief we find that lumber can be had at the same price as it is on the North Side at from $12 to $30 per thousand less than is now being charged by local yards and in many instances if grades and quality taken into consideration a much larger difference exists.

It is the opinion of the directors of these organizations and of those present at the meeting that a very large saving can be made in the cost of building material and that this should be done by a small number of the reduction.

The growth and development of this project and the various towns is now held back largely because of the high cost of building material. We feel that the gross profit charged in more than the business justifies and that we can secure the lumber and other materials needed for the necessary building up of the North Side at much less money and yet do the business in a perfectly safe and legitimate manner.

It is estimated by those who have the best means of knowing that $20,000,000 worth of lumber and other building material, needed and sold, will be readily made in the next two or three years. We believe a saving of around twenty percent can be made in the cost of building material of this large volume. It is not too much to expect that a saving of $400,000 can be made. This a large sum. It is the money saved by the people who build.

We desire to make it perfectly safe and practical to do this for you. The following plan is proposed for your consideration:

The conference was held at Jerome on Saturday, the 15th, at which all persons interested were invited to attend the conference. Reports of the facts earned through Mr. Anderson.

In brief we find that lumber can be had at the same price as it is on the North Side at from $12 to $30 per thousand less than is now being charged by local yards and in many instances if grades and quality taken into consideration a much larger difference exists.

It is the opinion of the directors of these organizations and of those present at the meeting that a very large saving can be made in the cost of building material and that this should be done by a small number of the reduction.

For legal reasons it will be necessary to organize a separate company to undertake this work, although it will have close relations to the Canal and Pump companies. These companies are organized for the operation of the irrigation systems of the North Side and an such could not go into any general mercantile business. The fencing, wells and telephone work we have been doing has a direct relation to the operation and as such we felt justified in undertaking it. We, therefore, propose to organize a Lumber Co-operative company, the name of the State of Idaho, with a capital stock of $250,000, authorized to commence business when $50,000 has been subscribed. Each person investing on the North Side may subscribe for 100 of this stock. No person can subscribe for more or less, so that each will have an equal share of $10 of the amount subscribed to be paid at the time the company is organized; the balance to be paid in 10 equal payments of $9 each, the first payment to be paid within six months. The earnings on the stock are to be applied to the capital balance until the stock is fully paid for. A dividend of not to exceed ten per cent may be paid on the stock during any one year. All the earnings of the company, after the payment of 5% dividends and sinking will be distributed among its stockholders in proportion to their shares during the year. The net profit for the year for the year 1920 will be $50,000 and a profit of ten per cent will be made on the amount above mentioned and a stock dividend will be added to the amount above mentioned. If the purchases for the year are $100,000 a stock dividend of $10 per cent of the year's earnings.

The conference was held at Jerome on Saturday, the 15th, at which all persons interested were invited to attend the conference. Reports of the facts earned through Mr. Anderson.

In brief we find that lumber can be had at the same price as it is on the North Side at from $12 to $30 per thousand less than is now being charged by local yards and in many instances if grades and quality taken into consideration a much larger difference exists.

It is the opinion of the directors of these organizations and of those present at the meeting that a very large saving can be made in the cost of building material and that this should be done by a small number of the reduction.

There is nothing new about this idea. It has been in very successful operation in many places. The only reason it is not being done here is because of the offering of it to the public. This is to prevent control passing into a few hands and, therefore, can be sold by proxy, stockholder law but one side eyes enough to see more than one share.

The business proposed at this time is not a money making scheme and money business may be carried on. We propose to employ competent trained men to conduct the business and in every way conform to the best business principles. We do not propose something for a while, but do propose to cut out profiteering and to carry every cent of the money you are saving in securing lumber and building material of the best quality at a much lower cost and at the end of the year return to you the money you have in excess of the legitimate earnings on the capital employed and the proper cost of doing the business. We know that if you own a piece of land or a car of lumber, if you can take it direct from the car that is legitimate saving to you. You may club together and take the car together. If you want lumber from the yard you will of course expect to pay the extra cost for handling and carrying the stock. We will do business only for cash. You will not have to pay extra for lumber in order to make good bad deals.

We expect to do the cash lumber business of the project as each stockholder will be a purchaser for this company. Credit business always has and always will add a great deal to work would create a shortage that would cause suffering during the entire winter.

The conference opened shortly before 9 o'clock.

"It is all up to the man of mystery," said John L. Lewis, active president of the United Mine Workers of America, referring to Secretary Wilson. This was the first admission made by any of the representatives of the miners that collaboration was possible. Heretofore Lewis has maintained that government officials could do nothing to prevent the strike. The conference today, characterized by the difference in attitude of the two parties, was not noticeably different. The miners hailed the secretary as "Jilly" many of them having known him when he was a miner. The operators were formal and addressed the secretary as "Mr. Secretary."
