HUNS TRY TO FIX WAR GUILT... Von Bernstorff Is Held Witness Before Commission Holding Post-War Examination

DEHLIN, Oct. 23.—Count von Bernstorff, former German ambassador to the United States, who was the main witness today before the war guilt commission, told of receiving communications from representatives of the American government that they did not believe him implicated after the von Papen-Heyl episode of German propaganda activities through out America.

"President Wilson, with an honest peace mediator, had Wilhelmstrasse (the German foreign office) thought out and played a double game," Count von Bernstorff said.

"The witness declared that he talked of personally to Count Wilson about Bernstorff and that on one occasion the president said if the Germans would give up submarine warfare he would grant them peace on the terms of the armistice of Germany."

When the von Papen-Heyl revelations came, von Bernstorff said he offered to leave Washington. He quoted Secretary of State Lansing as saying to him: "You are not implicated. I would be sorry indeed if you left."

"The witness declared he did not direct the German sabotage in the United States. He further represented himself as misapprehending the situation with respect to the Versailles attitude toward peace in 1918 when Germany, in fact, was not interested."

Dr. Sigmund Freud, a member of the commission, read a telegram from Bernstorff to Dr. Zimmermann, former German ambassador to the United States, in 1918. It said: "The president does not care a fig for you. He is a brutal man. He cannot be helped."

After the destruction of the Lusitania by a German submarine, the Lusitania was not destroyed, was (with the United States) available. He also secured President Wilson's permission to send a telegram to the German government.

COW AND MOTOR STAR IN MYSTERY

Furnish Knotty Problem for the Chicago Police.

STARTS WITH STOLEN CAR

Case Might Be Entitled "The Mystery of Midget's Missing Machine, or Maria's Mishap"—What Worries Midget Is Who Is Going to Pay for Damage Done to His Machine When It Hit Marie.

Chief of Police Garrity, Capt. Joseph Smith, and several others in authority in Chicago, puzzled over the case and enforcement league are delving into the intricacies of a crime problem which might be entitled "The Mystery of Midget's Missing Machine, or Maria's Mishap."

It all started when someone headed off with the automobile of William J. Midget, two days ago. Midget's house ran high when the Grand Closing for the midget him they had lost, safe and sound, outside the station. He hurried to the station. There was no car there.

"Well, I'll be having for a hankie if it wasn't stolen, there just now," said the sergeant, searching a midget pocket. "It shows he's got how that car gets away, don't it?"

Midget went home.

Coppers Strike Marie.

Chief Joseph Garrity in the South Chicago station waiting of his wife. "They struck my Marie," he moaned. "They stole my car, I saw 'em. There were four of them in the car, two coppers, a woman, and a baby. And they didn't have no regard for speed. They tested their luck and expected Marie to run out of the way. She can't run no more. They hit 'er in the side and knocked 'er down and wrecked the car. And then they left Marie layin' in the spot and hopped a street car. I had an awful time gettin' 'er home."

"Gosh, I'd a thought she'd have died by that time," exclaimed the sergeant. "I'd a thought 'er house'd be a wreck."

"Carry 'er," she weeps a thousand pounds. "Find Midget's car."

Later the police found Midget's car at East Ninety-eighth street and Twenty-ninth avenue. The radiator was smashed, the horn, after the manner of her kind, had attempted to defend herself in the only way she knew, but in vain. She was not quite so very tough and the car caught her amidships.

"Midget's horn was broken and she's hurt inside and she'll have to be shot," Mrs. Ann Kartrilla wailed.

"How could my car?" asked Midget. "She's going to stay for that?"

"Marie couldn't help it. It wasn't her fault," retorted Mrs. Kartrilla. "The police and fire departments are responsible."

"We're investigating," said Sgt. Michael Hastings.

"Investigating, also," echoed Sgt. A. Wiseman.

"Guess I'd better take my car while I've got 'it," said Midget.

Believes in God. "Honestly it's most superstitious, man, I ever saw."

"Superstitions?"

"It's the sign painter, you know."

Compensation. "What a fine thing you do on that pretty little wife's check the other night!"

"Laugh. It was nothing to the fine fellow in her husband's hand."

Financier. "Well—still in the hole?"

"Just—Yes, I wish I could borrow enough to pay my debts and start again with a clean slate."

New Vaccine Method Used to Check the Flu

London.—A new method of preparing vaccines, which may result in definite mastery of infectious diseases, is described in the London Lancet.

The vaccine is prepared by Dr. Thomson and Capt. David Lewis, doctors who served in the British army service. Thomson says that the vaccine, if it can be removed.

"Using the new method I have been able to inject without toxic symptoms doses of vaccine ten times as high as those used when was ever dared before, with the result that a greater degree of immunity is developed," says Dr. Thomson.

Dr. Thomson believes a few doses of a compound vaccine, injected at intervals of two weeks and again in January will afford considerable protection from influenza.

MUST BE INTOXICATING BEER

Porto Rican Judge Puts Burden of Proof on the Prosecuting Attorney.

San Juan, P. R.—The final test regarding the sale of alcoholic drinks in Porto Rico will be as to their intoxicating qualities and not as to percentage of alcohol contained, according to a decision just handed down by Judge Hamilton in the federal court here.

The decision was in the case brought by the United States district attorney against the Porto Rico Brewing company for the sale of a quantity of beer admitted to contain 2 1/2 per cent alcohol, as authorized by the legislative prohibition vote in 1917.

Judge Hamilton ruled that the district attorney must prove that the drink is intoxicating. Money has been offered to the federal court here.

Approaching the victim, he extended his hand in greeting, meanwhile asking him his name. The man replied "George Dallas Rice." The man questioned further and soon learned that the stranger was none other than the long-lost brother whom he had not seen for 40 years.

Unlucky. "Agent—But my dear madam, it's a shame to let your husband's life go to waste like this."

"I'll give you another cent. I've paid you for eight years, but I've had no luck yet."

JOHN REACHES PHILADELPHIA

Chinese Student "Slipped Over" in New York Two Years. A Chinese student, graduated from the University of Illinois, walked into the chamber of commerce at Philadelphia recently and presented a letter of introduction from the secretary of a chamber of commerce to one of the New England states. He wanted to be placed in touch with certain manufacturers in the textile industry.

He gave an address in London, to which he referred as his home. The letter of introduction stated that he was a resident of Bridgewater, Conn. His attention was drawn to this and he smiled and pointed to the date on the letter. It was September 17, 1917. "I stopped over in New York on my way here," he explained.

IT SOUNDS REASONABLE

This Fish Story Deals With Dangling of a Pet Carp. The pupa ball story of the season comes from Crawford county, Tennessee, where a man owns a pet carp. Whenever he feels like going fishing he takes a few worms and throws them into the tank occupied by the carp. If the fish grabs them the man says his pole and goes fishing. If the carp passes them up the man stays at home, feeling that it is no day for fishing.

"This fish says, 'You know, I lose no time, but I always return with a nice string of fish, according to the story."

Finds Eggs Eighty Years Old. Eggs believed to be more than eighty years old were discovered by workmen who were making alterations in an old homestead at Fayette City, Pa. The eggs were found in a nest between rafters of the second floor. It is thought they were laid by a house wren which was killed in the house when it was built.

Woman Cleaned Suit; Washed Goggles. After cleaning her husband's clothing, and finding a powder puff, a hair net and a vanity bag in the house, which she recognized, Mrs. Edward Scherbel of Milwaukee applied for a divorce.

SUFFERED FOR OTHER'S SIN

Patetic Story Told as an Example of the Evil That Lies in Inefficiency. A. R. Hawley, president of the Oregon rail in New York, told the other day an interesting story.

"Because the inefficient man is paid for it you have dealings with him. It is, not he, but he, that will suffer from his inefficiency."

"A foreigner in an unbusinesslike garb, claiming to be an American came here to solicit funds last year for his country."

"It happened that another American was arrested at the time, and the first chap was asked to go to court and act as his interpreter."

"Well, he reluctantly consented to act, though the truth was that he knew no American whatever. Anyhow he strolled into the courtroom, looked in grave silence at the prisoner's passionate protestations of innocence, and then turned to the judge and said with a low bow:

"Your honor, my countryman has confessed all. He begs you, however, to be lenient for suffering America's sake."

"The judge thanked the interpreter warmly for his services, and then sentenced the innocent prisoner to three years' hard labor."

London Now Less Noisy. Middle-aged Londoners who want to find for in the capital in the stifling and overcast merely smile when we ask if London could possibly be noisier than it is at the present day.

For they say it was a far noisier place then, when nearly all the main streets were granite paved and all the wheels of the vehicles iron bound. There was a continuous roar then to which the present day sound is a mere whisper.

One such Londoner says he often heard the din from the roof of London's traffic from a far away spot as the Crystal Palace parade. The sound was like that of continual very distant thunder. He has many times in recent years listened for the sound from the same spot, but has never heard it.—London Chronicle.

PERSONAL SPENDING AND HIGH PRICES

A few more words from the wise about high prices have come to the public from the director of savings of the treasury department, William Mather Lewis. Mr. Lewis agrees that federal action of some sort is necessary to control the soaring prices, which are making life difficult for the people in general, but he also thinks that direct personal effort is necessary in the case of every individual if any lasting check is to be put upon profiteering. Until men learn to budget their own incomes and control their personal expenditures in amount of law-making will do very much good.

"The average American citizen has got to get into the habit of taking a personal inventory," says Mr. Lewis, "of studying the leaks in his own financial system, of pinning his own pocket book before the high cost situation will be materially bettered."

"The profiteer's slogan is 'easy money.' The profiteer fattens today because easy money is universal in America, because extravagance is habitual, because men are willing to deal in glittering generalities and stubbornly unwilling to face the matter personally."

Without doubt, Mr. Lewis is correct, in his ideas. No amount of legislation will help the matter. No amount of fighting will help the man who habitually spends without figuring. This being so, the hints given by the director of savings are worth the individual attention and practice of every citizen who reads them.

"Stake out the uses of your salary, and stick by it for a few weeks. Then make up your mind to buy carefully, and insist upon a dollar's worth for every dollar you give a merchant. Get up the nerve to refuse to buy when the price is exorbitant or the article inferior. If you do these things you will immensely reduce the high cost of living in your own individual case, and contribute materially to a general reduction in prices."

THE LOUVAIN LIBRARY

Contributions to the fund for the restoration of the library of Louvain in Belgium is one of the bits of unselfish generosity which will appeal with renewed interest to Americans as the result of the Cardinal Mercier's visit to this country.

The restoration of this library is one of the projects dear to the heart of the brave Belgian priest, and it offers to his friends and admirers in America an opportunity for a concrete expression of his feelings toward him and the heroic country which he represents.

It would be impossible to give in any brief space a list of any appreciable part of the treasures which fell under the German torch. It is estimated that at the time the library was burned in 1914 it contained some 200,000 volumes, the result of five centuries of painstaking collection, including rare manuscripts and ancient records many of which can never be replaced.

The destruction of this precious collection, among the most valuable in the world, was one of the most outrageous acts of the German lawless, and aroused in every honest breast an indignation which will never subside. It is the determination of the civilized world that so far as possible the library shall be restored. The appeal of the American committee having the matter in charge is for $500,000.

It goes without saying that the response will be prompt and generous, and the amount over-subscribed.

The official repository for the fund is J. P. Morgan & Co., New York.

BOLSHEVISM ON BOTH SIDES

It was a startling statement that Samuel Gompers made the other day—that the I. W. W. and the United States Steel corporation take the same position. Yet he made out a pretty good parallel.

The steel employers, he explained, refused to enter into agreements with union workmen; and the I. W. W.'s say, "We will enter into no agreement with employers."

Such organizations as the Steel Trust would like to abolish unions, and such organizations as the I. W. W. would like to abolish employers.

It is not technically correct, of course, to call both bolshevism, although Hubert Stophen S. Wise of New York City, and other leaders of American thought no less distinguished than he, have said practically the same thing as Mr. Gompers. Certain it is that there is about as much arrogance in one viewpoint as in the other, and that, if such an attitude on the part of employers is not capitalistic bolshevism, it tends powerfully to encourage bolshevism among the workers.

In the present stage of civilization, at least, there must be both employers and labor unions. Both capital and labor tend to an ever-increasing degree of organization. Neither can safely ignore or flout the other. The only sensible thing, and perhaps the only possible thing, is for the two organized groups to evolve some kind of working compromise, each recognizing the other's rights and being, itself, as fair and decent as circumstances permit.

An additional toll is to be charged for ships passing through the Panama canal. The ultimate cause has not yet been heard what commodity this will raise the price of, but he is already raising the budget to meet the raise.

Editorial Squibs

Apparently the committee does not find objection on the League of Nations very biting.

A soviet government is calculated to make even those attempting to run it tired of life.

A girl doesn't like the idea of working for a living unless she is married to a shiftless man.

Thinking up issues for the 1920 campaign naturally becomes a fascinating occupation at this time.

It is a poor hand, in these profiteering times, that does not contain at least one scolding finger.

If your war garden is in good condition it should have been planted to wheat the high cost of living.

There is blame enough for all. No one profiteer or set of profiteers should be permitted to monopolize it.

The ultimate consequence doesn't count so much as he old, and he is much more ultimate about it.

How would you like to be a postman while the government is delivering those 125 pound pig packages?

The question is, what did the profiteers expect under the circumstances—a distinguished society medal?

Even the wisest of the economists have not yet figured out how strikes are going to reduce the cost of living.

A profiteer with each article showing what it cost the manufacturer, the jobber and the retailer might help some.

Even if you have lost your food saving book, you can not doubt regarding the subject matter and act accordingly.

Mill profiteers do not care how the laborer gets on, so long as they are getting the bodes must find it or starve.

Putting a pie into seven pieces and charging 15 cents a slice for each piece, tend to popularize ice cream and pudding.

Think of a ten-story automobile hotel, and old widows in all his years of full-time work never saw a ten-story hotel.

Department of labor statistics report the first decline in food prices—only one-half of 1 per cent. Can't they make it 2.5?

Breaks in the market due to sale of government supplies have not yet caused any inflation excitement among bargain hunters.

They are talking in Savings of taxation as a remedy for war food prices. It is going to be a warm time for profiteers in Chile.

Market prices are calculated to make the possessor of a successful war garden feel like the possessor of a small gold mine.

Twenty dollars a pair for shoes will tempt those who chance to browse on comparing the value as well as on paying the bill.

China is still something of the wilderness of Confucius for some something present that will adequately apply to the Shanghai situation.

The people are willing to pay all that the law of supply and demand now allows, but not all that the profiteers can exact in addition.

Some people who have chosen to become food hoarders are going to feel sorry for their thoughtless foresight when prices begin to tumble.

Again is the plea of a shortage of wood put forward to excuse the advancing price of textiles. Have the sheep struck for a sheep day?

In the decision to import potatoes, Italy is sure to show the world how quickly the wide gap between producer and retailer can be closed.

The hard struggle food-tins have to undergo down is in defiance of the law of gravity, whatever its relation may be to the law of supply and demand.

TALKS OF ATOMIC ENERGY

Dr. Oliver Lodge, English Scientist, Says It Is Used in Wireless Telephone.

Birmingham, Eng.—Sir Oliver Lodge has an address at the Midland Institute on the occasion of the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of James Clerk Maxwell, inventor of the conducting steam engine, touched upon the subject of atomic energy of matter.

He said that the first utilization of this force was in wireless telegraphy. If the atomic energy of an ounce of matter could be utilized it would be sufficient to raise the German ship sunk in the Scapa Flow and pile them on top of the Scottish mountains.

He hoped, he said, the human race would not discover how to use this energy until it had brains and morality enough to use it properly, because if the discovery were made before this time and by the wrong people this planet would be unsafe.

There are two tastes in tea: the tea-flavor and tannin. The tea-flavor brings enjoyment, rest, cheer—that is what you want. Tannin is harsh, bitter, injurious. Tannin, you know, is used to tan leather and make ink; it is not meant to put into the stomach. It is bad for the digestion; it is hard on the nerves. Nobody wants tannin—it isn't even good to taste. Get Schilling's Tea and enjoy the real tea-flavor and steer clear of tannin.
