PRESIDENT'S SOLENNY REQUESTS RECALCITRANCE OF ALL ORDERS LOOKING TO COAL STRIKE NOVEMBER 1

SENATOR WALSH SEES BIRTH OF NEW POLITICAL PARTY TO DEAL WITH PROBLEMS FACING NATION

Congress Sits Helpless and Alarmed at Possibilities of Industrial Strife During Winter—Senators Declare Situation is Almost Out of Hand, Others Suggest Force as Solution.

WALSH SEES PRECEDENT FOR NEW PARTY IN COALITION IN BRITAIN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Congress was frankly alarmed tonight over the possibility of a reign of industrial warfare during the coming winter. Out of the turmoil a new political party led by labor and the farmers may rise unless the elder parties deal with the situation, Senator Walsh, Massachusetts, declared.

FITZPATRICK AWFULLY RED

Says If Principles Fought for in Steel Strike Are Obsolete, He's One Who's Going to Abolish It.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—"I'm a socialist," said an I. W. W. man, "and what are you going to do about it?"

The speaker was John Fitzpatrick, commanding general of the steel strike and president of the Chicago Federation of Labor. He continued:

"The principles of the steel strike are obsolete, for are anarchistic. I'm without red in the neck. Whenever a union man is accused of being a radical after this I want him to reply, 'I'm a red, what are you going to do about it?' We are so persistently painted red that we might as well shout to the world that such is our color."

Fitzpatrick said further that he had the job conference of the American Federation of Labor, the railway trainmen's brotherhood and farmers. He indicated the conference may be held in Chicago.

"At this conference," Fitzpatrick said, "plans will be made to drive the red empire out of the country and to give the farmers what they need to live. The farmers will wield a potent weapon in the struggle that is about to begin."

KIDNAPING MAY LEAD TO WAR

Resolution in Senate Be Abduction of Jenkins Amounts to Declaration of War

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—A further serious strain has been put upon relations between this country and the United Kingdom by the holding for ransom of William O. Jenkins, United States consular agent, officials admitted tonight.

The incident is regarded as especially flagrant because of the ransom—$100,000—the bandits who kidnaped Jenkins are demanding and because the kidnaped man is an official of the United States government.

"There were two developments in this case," said Senator Borah, Republican, "the first being that the Secretary of State Phillips announced that it sharp note had been forwarded to the German government for its abduction of Jenkins. The second was the announcement that the German government had refused to pay the ransom demanded."

Senator Borah introduced a resolution declaring it the sense of the senate that the armed forces should be used to bring back Jenkins. It is expected that the resolution would amount to a declaration of war on Mexico. It was not discussed today, but Senator Myers said he would introduce it Monday.

Jenkins is said to be held by rebel bandits who are under leadership of Francisco Cordoba, and Juan Ubrera.

CANADIANS SHIP WHEAT TO U.S.

Few Extra Pennies Attract Notwithstanding Canadian Government Needs Wheat

WINNEPEG, Man., Oct. 25.—Thousands of bushels of Canadian wheat are being unloaded on the United States because of the higher prices there, grain men said tonight.

Farmers in Manitoba and Saskatchewan within fifty miles of the border are carrying their wheat across the line by wagon because of the embargo by the Canadian wheat board on carload shipments. So grain has been the drain on the wheat supply that a large number of grain elevators in the United States are forced to close for lack of business.

The final price in Canada is $2.15 an bushel, the United States $2.25. In the northwest, Canadian grain is rated higher in the United States than at home. Unusually low prices are prevailing here, one per cent over par in Canada. This makes it possible for farmers to procure flour from wheat across the line at home.

"Although the Canadian wheat board is credited as the best solution of our wheat problem, the government apparently has made no effort to stop the drain."

Many farmers are holding their grain in expectation of higher prices and government promise of later increases has thus far failed to shake them.

ESTIMATES STRIKE LOSS

Major Cushing Figures it at Ten Millions a Day, or Total of Two Hundred Millions

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Ten million dollars a day—that is the cost to the nation and to the world of the strike of longshoremen in New York and elsewhere, acting today by Major John E. Cushing, retired director of operations of the United States shipping board. The estimate made by Cushing includes the loss from deterioration of cargoes, loss from heavy maintenance of ships while not in use, the loss of transoceanic freight receipts while ships lie idle in the harbor, and the loss to manufacturers and exporters because of their inability to ship their goods.

The cost of the strike to date is estimated by Major Cushing at more than $200,000,000 with more than 45 ships tied up in New York, France, Italy, Spain the Scandinavian ports, the German and British ports as well as America through the New York strike area and through strikes of laborers in their own countries.

"The shipping board is in this battle to a finish," said Major Cushing. "It has developed into a matter of principle and not money. It is a matter of honor with us. This walkout, after they have deliberately broken their agreement to abide by the decision of the national arbitration commission, only God knows where the epidemic of strikes would end."

TROTZKY MUST HAVE ESCAPED

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Leon Trotsky has started at Petrograd, the station charge of the situation, and the state department was advised this afternoon. Trotsky is signing all orders with the name of president of the Petrograd soviet.

General mobilization of the bolshevik armies is being ordered in the Ukraine, it was advised. Bolsheviks are reported to be still in possession of Pskov.

FARMERS DECLARES STRIKE GRAVE MORAL AND LEGAL WRONG TO PEOPLE AND GOVERNMENT OF COUNTRY

Will Meet Dec. 13 to Form Alliance to Get Legislation for Mutual Benefit

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The American Federation of Labor today took steps to form an alliance with the nation's farmers by extending to the farmers' organizations an invitation to participate with labor leaders in a conference December 13.

That was announced by President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor in a formal statement issued tonight, following a meeting between the American Federation of Labor representatives and heads of the farm organizations and heads of the country railway brotherhoods.

The brotherhoods will join in issuing a call for the conference, Gompers' statement said.

The subject to be considered will be legislation to protect farmers and workers.

"The problem of the farmer will participate in determining the composition of their organizations soon. Organizations were represented by the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor, the National Federation of Milk Producers, the Farmers' Cooperative Union, and the National Farmers' Alliance.

"General discussion occurred at the meeting, and the following resolutions were adopted: 'The American Federation of Labor and the National Federation of Milk Producers, the Farmers' Cooperative Union, and the National Farmers' Alliance, in view of the fact that the government has failed to protect the interests of industrial and agricultural workers'."

LUMBER PLAN IS POPULAR

Secretary States Incoming and Support Coming Thick and Fast From Public

"I thought the plan of the co-operative lumber yard as outlined by the north side was good, but I little realized how ready it was to organize. There has already been a strong sentiment for the project and it is bound to go over."

John Wolfenden, secretary of the Farmers' Mutual Light and Power company, and temporary secretary of the movement to form a co-operative lumber yard on the Twin Falls tract, said tonight that the reaction with respect to the movement as announced in The Times several days ago.

A number of substantial men have made inquiries concerning the proposal and have asked the opportunity to subscribe, stock if the plan is approved. The reaction of the men has been in the lumber business in that state were among them, with declaring that the cooperative plan was both feasible and desirable.

"Everybody must read your paper, judging from the response I have been getting to the request for cooperation of sentiment toward the movement," said Mr. Wolfenden. "If the strike will come down in a few days like they have so far I guess they will come down and stay here."

Mr. Wolfenden stated that he would like to request that inquiries and subscriptions be made to him by mail than personally. He thus directed the attention of the public to people he meets on the street who are anxious for details of the lumber enterprise.

ROOSEVELT ESTATE IS VALUED AT $810,607

MINNEAPOLIS, N. Y., Oct. 25.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt left an estate valued at $810,607, according to affidavits filed with the probate court in New York City today by the executor, his son, Roosevelt, by his father to be used by the widow during her lifetime will go to the children after her death. The will also provided for the care of the widow with the exception of Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, who received her share at the time of her marriage.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—With both sides in the strike of 4000 longshoremen, in the port of New York apparently determined to yield nothing, having actively been tonight showed little promise of improving. Mayor Hylan, who has worked a week for a settlement, tonight withdrew his good offices.

URGES ARBITRATION IN DISPUTE; OFFERS GOOD OFFICES TO BOTH

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—President Wilson issued a statement late today urging a coal strike of the United States.

Law will be enforced, said the president, and means will be found to prevent any kind of strike that may be attempted.

The president requested the labor workers' officials to recall the strike order, which is to go into effect November 1.

The president's statement follows: "The coal strike would have a serious effect on the whole industrial situation. The cabinet immediately consulted with the chief industrial officers. It is the duty of the government to protect the public and not divided into groups."

"This is one of the gravest strikes ever proposed in this country," said the president, referring to the miners' strike.

"It affects the economic welfare and the domestic comfort and health of the people."

"It is proposed to arbitrate an agreement as to wages, which was made with the sanction of the United States arbitration board, which is in effect during the continuance of the war, but not beyond April 1, 1920."

"The president urged arbitration of the dispute, saying: 'I hold myself in readiness at the request of either or both sides to appoint one or more arbitrators to investigate all the facts with the view to settling the matter as speedily as possible in the light of the present situation.'"

"The president stated that a coal strike would be fatal to the government's plans to reduce the high cost of living and would involve closing of countless industries and the throwing out of employment of a large part of the workers of the country."

"The president's statement follows: 'On Sept. 25, 1919, the convention of the United Mine Workers of America at Cleveland, Ohio, adopted a proposal declaring that all contracts in the bituminous fields shall be declared as having automatically expired on the expiration of the war, and that the national officers should be authorized and empowered to call a general strike of all bituminous mines and mines in the United States, effective November 1, 1919.'"

"In pursuance to these plans the officers of this organization have issued a call to make the strike effective November 1. This is one of the gravest strikes ever proposed in this country, affecting the economic welfare and the domestic health of the people."

"It is proposed to arbitrate an agreement as to wages which was made with the sanction of United States arbitration board, which is in effect during the continuance of the war, but not beyond April 1, 1920."

"The strike is proposed at this time when the government is making the most earnest efforts to reduce the cost of living and to secure the success to other classes of workers to postpone similar disputes until a later date."

MUTUAL PLANS ARE DISCUSSED

Consumers Districts and Trunk Lines Are Mapped Out by Directors

At a meeting of the Farmers Mutual Light and Power company directors yesterday afternoon at Filter, plans were mapped out for developing a mutual plan for the district. The first step is the formation of consumers districts and construction of trunk lines for distributing electric current.

The size of the districts so formed will be determined by the number of consumers grouped together. The amount of power that can be practically supplied to the district. They would be as willing, they stated, to install 2500 horse demand meters.

The secretary was instructed to procure a map of the land owners in the territory. The board already has a map showing the roadsteads and schools.

A committee was appointed to contact with the Clover settlers and ascertain their desires with respect to mutual power, reporting results at the next meeting.

Twin Seconds Take Game From Wendell

The Twin Falls second team triumphed in the football aggregation from Wendell high school Friday afternoon, 20-0, on Lincoln field. It was the first football victory of the year for the locals.

While outwitting the local lads considerably, the team from the north side team looked inferior and were continually held in check by the light second team. Straight football was played and there were lots of drills. Several times the opposition threatened but on each occasion they were held for downs and Twin punters to safety. Three the Wendell boys were on the field's two yard line but they could not make the goal in three downs.

A good sized crowd witnessed the contest. Many of the staunch fans of the old game followed the first team to get a good view of the dramatic plays were on hand here at game time to cheer the puppets little second team to a well-earned victory.

In honor of Mrs. Jay Green of Oklahoma City and Mrs. Paul Hong of Souderton, the original members of the Unity club entertained on Wednesday afternoon at the country home of Mrs. A. J. Green. The afternoon was spent socially and at the close, the hostess served delicious refreshments. The guests of honor were presented with a lovely box of candy. Those present were, the Mesdames Evana, Pats, Hally, Osborne, Carlson, Black, Wilder, Bice, Barnhart, Helvello and Miss Strobel.

Little Bernice Robinson entertained a dozen of her girl friends at a Halloween party Friday evening. Each guest was dressed in a fancy costume. The evening was spent in games and music. The decorations of the house as well as the table were carried out in the Halloween colors. The table was centered with a huge pumpkin filled with fruits and nuts. Each guest was given a box of animal cookies as a favor.

The Addison Avenue club was entertained this week at the home of Mrs. E. T. Dupuis on Thursday afternoon. The socially was given and it was decided to accept the invitation of the Twentieth Century club to participate in a host and entertainers day November 4. Refreshments were served to about twelve members.

Refrigerator Car

Shortage Menaces the Potato Crops

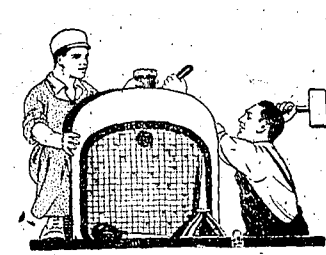

A shortage of refrigerator cars is threatening heavy losses to farmers, many of whom are unable to find transportation for their potato crops, according to reports coming from various parts of the tract.

The potato situation is more critical because of preference for refrigerator cars to apples as being more perishable. It is up to the railroad to comb longsome sidings for available empty refrigerator cars and to be held down, the farmers state.

LABOR'S PAGE IN THE TIMES

Organized labor is given opportunity today to say whatever it wants to say on local, economic, political or other questions. The labor page is left wide for it alone, and the makers of the page accept responsibility for the sentiments expressed.

The relations which have existed between employers and employees no longer seem to be satisfactory to either side. There are only isolated instances where perfect harmony exists between employer and his employees.

This lack of harmony tends to reduce production, and this at a time when the nation is depending absolutely upon production to bring about something like normal conditions. It doesn't do any good for one side to the controversy to sit off on the side lines and call the other names. There must be a get-together spirit manifested. The problems cannot be solved by calling names nor even by fighting.

The recent industrial conference in Washington split up on the question of collective bargaining. That question involves the right to organize, for a labor organization that cannot bargain collectively is virtually useless. Men who work do not get together for mutual admiration, but for mutual help. Obviously if they organize and are denied the privilege of helping each other, their only strength lies in their ability to cripple the business of their employer by simply stopping work.

Employers have a perfect right to refuse to deal with their organized employees, and the employees have a perfect right to strike, but these methods are of the stone age. The stronger one wins, after inflicting hardships upon the weaker, which hardships are unnecessary to the public, if it is humanly possible to do that.

So the public has, or ought to have, a vital interest in the struggle, regarding the principle of collective bargaining. It cannot be denied that the conditions which make the necessity of union organizations are of themselves outrageous, but the way has these conditions, and we have the controlling elements to deal with. They may meet with an intolerant spirit which denies expression to the weaker side, or they may be dealt with in a spirit of truth seeking. The truth shall make us free.

Let the object, then, be, to seek out the truth. There can be no doubt that in most industrial disputes it is likely that both parties are suffering from error. Injustice thrives best in the dark. The fellow who is certain of the correctness and rectitude of his position courts publicity. The fellow who is conscious of weakness in his scheme of life prefers to fight his battle without publicity.

The organized workers of Twin Falls asked The Times to furnish with a medium of expression. The public ought to know what workers think about present conditions, for if the workers are to be the public ought to try to set them right, and if they are right, the public ought to join with them to set right the conditions that which the workers complain.

MR. PENROSE TESTIFIES

In his latest pronouncement on the duties of congress, Senator Penrose corroborates in a surprising way the contentions of Democratic writers—including President Wilson.

"Taxes ought to be largely reduced as soon as possible," says Senator Penrose. "How far they can be reduced depends on whether congress can get out of the wasteful habit of imprudent expenditures."

It is likely that the Republican "boss" had in mind, when he said this truth, the numerous Republican "investigating" committees which have been roaming about the United States and Europe in a campaign material while they squandered time and frittered away the public's money. Reduction of expenditures must precede increase in taxes. So long as the Republican "investigators" are to spend, the people must continue to pay.

"On tax questions," Senator Penrose declares, in this same statement, "the Republicans could not command a united majority, although nominally they have a majority of two in the senate."

Is there any question—except that of embarrassing President Wilson—upon which the Republicans can muster a majority? They thus far lacked even practical unanimity as to any proposition offered to them, either by President Wilson or their own leaders. Mr. Penrose has failed to bring harmony between the senate and the house, or between the individual Republicans of either body.

One of the provisions of the peace treaty is that his lordship, Lord Balfour, shall be placed on trial for war crimes for the violation of the sanctity of treaties. It's a joke. The English claims that a person charged with crime shall be tried by a jury of his peers. The Balfour has none. Besides, no jury could be selected from among those who had not formed an opinion as to the guilt of the accused. So why waste time talking about a trial. He is tried, and convicted. All that remains is his execution.

Higher up. It's worse in England. Living costs there have risen 200 per cent.

Some of the leading producers would go to work and the profiteers would go on strike!

President Solemnly Requests Recall

reasonable opportunity has been afforded for dealing with the cost of living.

"It is recognized that the strike practically shuts off the country's supply of its principal fuel at a time when interference with that supply is calculated to create a serious fuel famine.

"All interests would be affected alike by a strike of this character and its victims must be not the rich only, but the poor and the needy as well—those least able to provide in advance for a fuel supply for domestic use.

"It would involve the shutting down of countless industries and the throwing out of employment of a large part of the workmen in the country. It would involve stopping the operations of railroads, electric light and gas plants, street railway lines and other public utilities and the shipping to and from this country, thus preventing our giving aid to the allied countries with supplies which they so seriously need.

"The country is confronted with this strike at a time when the war itself is still a fact, when the world is still in suspense after negotiations for peace, when our troops are still being transported and when their means of transport is in urgent need of fuel.

"From whatever angle the subject may be viewed, it is a fact that such a strike in such circumstances would be the most far-reaching plan ever presented in this country to limit the facilities of production and distribution of necessities of life and thus indirectly to restrict the production and distribution of all the necessities of life.

"Under these circumstances it is not only unjustifiable; it is unlawful.

"The action proposed had apparently been taken without any vote upon the specific proposition by the individual members of the United Mine Workers of America throughout the United States, an almost unprecedented procedure. I cannot believe that any right of any American worker needs for its protection the taking of this extraordinary step, and I am convinced that when the times are considered it constitutes a fundamental attack which is wrong both morally and legally, against the rights of society and against the welfare of our country.

"I feel convinced that individual members of the United Mine Workers would not vote, upon full consideration, in favor of such a strike under the circumstances.

"When a movement reaches the point where it appears to involve perpetuity of the productive capacity of the country, and when the movement is asserted in the circumstances I have stated and at a time and in a manner calculated to involve the maximum of danger to the public welfare in this critical hour of our country's life, the public interest because the paramount consideration.

"In these circumstances I solemnly request both the national and local officers and also the individual members of the United Mine Workers of America to recall all orders looking to a strike on November 1, and to take whatever steps may be necessary to prevent any stoppage of work.

"It is time for plain speaking. These matters with which we now deal touch not only the welfare of a class, but vitally concern the well being, the comfort and the very life of all the people. I feel it my duty in the public interest, to declare that any attempt to carry out the purpose of this strike and thus to paralyze the industry of the country an excuse? It is asserted that all our people must be considered a grave moral and legal wrong against the government and the people of the United States. I can do nothing less than to say that law will be enforced, and means will be found to protect the nation in any emergency that may arise out of this unhappy business.

"I express no opinion on the merits of the controversy. I have already suggested a plan by which the settlement may be reached and I hold myself in readiness at the request of either or both sides to appoint a tribunal to investigate all the facts with the view to aiding in the earliest possible orderly settlement of the question. In the case between the coal operators and the coal miners, to the end that the just rights, not only of these interests, but also of the general public, may be fully protected."

You're in mighty good company when you belong to the Ired Cross.

ORGANIZED LABOR'S PAGE

A NEW FORCE, DESTINED TO FREE THE OPPRESSED

By Chester W. Voulser

For the first time in the history of the state workers of Minnesota will go to the polls as the next general election and cast their votes, not as Republicans or Democrats, but as workers. Together with the organized farmers of the state, the workers will seek to put into office representatives of the producers of the state rather than the candidates of any political faction, or any class of business interests.

The change in the attitude of the workers has been of rapid growth. Last year labor almost everywhere depended upon persuasion to obtain beneficial legislation. Next year they will enact, rather than request, the legislation they want.

The decision of the organized workers of Minnesota to elect their delegates at the annual convention of the State Federation of Labor at New Ulm last July. By an overwhelming vote the delegates at the convention adopted a resolution to make labor an active force in state politics. There was ratified the plan to elect delegates to the Working People's Nonpartisan Political League, an executive committee was appointed and a platform adopted. The most noteworthy part of that plan, next to the overturning of the traditional policy of labor, is that which proposes a political union with the organized and unorganized forces, the workers and the Nonpartisan League farmers, will combine for their mutual interests.

Most significant is the strength shown by labor when it was concerned upon a political object. Shortly before the New Ulm convention a special congressional election was made necessary in St. Paul by the death of the incumbent. Both the Democratic and the Republicans nominated candidates who framed high-sounding platforms to catch votes. Running against them was Oscar E. Keller, a labor man and then St. Paul city commissioner. Supported by the workers of the city and running on a platform that included public ownership of public utilities, Keller was elected by a large plurality over both old-party opponents. Labor had not yet organized its political league, but the political solidarity of labor had been attained to such an extent that it easily won by concentrating its strength.

Unorganized Workers Are Joining League
Organization of the political league has now begun in earnest. Not only the organized workers are joining, but unorganized workers who recognize the need for a new deal in politics also are coming into the association. A campaign is now going on among the labor unions and among workers out of the unions. Adhering to the new

GREETING:—
Information reaches us just before going to press that necessitates your presence at the meeting in Union Hall (this) Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. All union men be present. Bring your unionism and your union card. This is most important, owing to the organized attack upon organized labor.

PUBLICITY COMMITTEE.
By Order of the President.

Unions. There will be an intensive campaign carried on for these months. Every city and town will be covered, every ward and precinct be invaded by organizers for the League. The law, if changed, will be made to cover the campaign costs and the payment of the organizers. But it will be a fight to win, and it will be a fight to win for the members their individual responsibility in making the political League a success at the next election.

Minnesota workers have learned from long and bitter experience that they have nothing to hope for from the old parties. There have been maintained in the state capital at every session, but opposing them have been other lobbyists, more powerful, who have made their industrial presence almost all the laws proposed by the workers.

The last session was typical. State industrial insurance has come to be recognized in many states of the Union as a necessity to insure the worker against loss by reason of any injury in the pursuit of his employment. Nowhere are such laws considered "radical," but they are opposed by fire insurance companies, who make millions of dollars through liability insurance for employers. To the workers the suit and fight is through the courts. If the workman should win, much of the money he recovers must be paid to lawyers in fees. If he loses, although the employer is morally responsible, the worker receives no compensation whatever. Under state insurance, such accidents are adjusted by state commissioners according to a fixed scale. There is no red tape, no delay, no lawyers' fees to pay. The worker is paid as if he were dead. A fund for such payments is collected by assessing employers a small premium for each man in his employ.

Minnesota workers sought such a law at the regular session of the Minnesota legislature. Their lobbyist carried their efforts on this one effort, but every other piece of legislation which the workers urged was thrown overboard in an effort to get this single law through. But the insurance companies were stronger than the labor union and the bill was killed. The workers' representatives themselves were defeated. As it appeared in its final form. Amendments were tacked on by friends of the insurance companies and the employers which made the measure a joke. It was so bad that the workers themselves rejected it.

At the same time in North Dakota the workers of that state were asking for legislation to remedy some of the evils of the employer. They were suffering. They asked for a state disability insurance law, an eight-hour day for women, a minimum wage, a law to prevent state insurance companies an anti-injunction law, a law requiring the union label on state printing, the full train crew law and a law requiring employers to provide shelter for employees while engaged in the repair or construction of common carriers. The legislature was made up of farmers of North Dakota for the most part, elected by members of the Nonpartisan League. No restrictive lobbyist were maintained, nothing was done to try to influence the legislators, but laws affecting the workers were passed and explaining why they were necessary. The laws passed. The entire crop went to the unions of North Dakota was $110. In the meantime, the Minnesota trades union men, the railroad men, the cattlemen, the farmers, the men were spending thousands of dollars to obtain passage of one law in the Minnesota legislature, and that law was killed.

Minnesota workers have learned from long and bitter experience that they have nothing to hope for from the old parties. There have been maintained in the state capital at every session, but opposing them have been other lobbyists, more powerful, who have made their industrial presence almost all the laws proposed by the workers.

The last session was typical. State industrial insurance has come to be recognized in many states of the Union as a necessity to insure the worker against loss by reason of any injury in the pursuit of his employment. Nowhere are such laws considered "radical," but they are opposed by fire insurance companies, who make millions of dollars through liability insurance for employers. To the workers the suit and fight is through the courts. If the workman should win, much of the money he recovers must be paid to lawyers in fees. If he loses, although the employer is morally responsible, the worker receives no compensation whatever. Under state insurance, such accidents are adjusted by state commissioners according to a fixed scale. There is no red tape, no delay, no lawyers' fees to pay. The worker is paid as if he were dead. A fund for such payments is collected by assessing employers a small premium for each man in his employ.
