LABOR CRISIS CALLED ANOTHER FORT SUMTER

PROVIDES BOARD TO SETTLE RAIL LABOR DISPUTES

House Interstate Commerce Committee Eliminates Draconic Senate Provisions

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—After eliminating the drastic anti-strike provisions approved by the senate interstate commerce commission, the house interstate commerce committee has completed its railroad bill. All labor disputes will be referred to a board to be composed of an equal number of representatives of the railroads and the employes. If this body fails to agree an appeal can be taken to a government board to be composed of nine members, three each representing the public, labor, and the railroads respectively. All are to be selected by the president, the board to be composed of lists of eighteen submitted by the two groups.

The public group would have no vote but the rail group would be agreed to by five out of the six other members. The bill also gives either the railroads or the employes the right to sue each other for damages caused by strikes or lockouts, with the limitation that the private property of the workers cannot be taken as a guarantee.

GOODING KEPT APPOINTMENTS IN THE NIGHT

Scholtz Testifies in McKaig Libel Suit Against Staatsman and Former Governor

BOISE, Nov. 10.—The defense in the $20,000 libel suit of Guy McKaig against ex-Governor F. H. Gooding and the Staatsman Printing company has won an important point in the exclusion of the letter alleged to have been written by Gooding making the Staatsman libelous to induce his senatorial candidacy. His introduction was admitted by plaintiffs to be of malicious intent. On being recalled to the stand W. G. Scholtz testified that he is no longer a member of the league, but still acts in an advisory capacity. He stated, however, that the league arranged for meetings at his (Scholtz's) office over the telephone, and kept his appointments at "dark." Also that a stenographer secreted in an adjoining room, who took down parts of the conversation.

The city band is said to be a very efficient organization as many of the former members who have been in Uncle Sam's service for the past year or two have returned to take their old places. A program that will please every eye is being prepared. Everything from classical suite to ragtime will be played and stirring war-time marches will outline the program. In the afternoon D. Harold McGrath, post historian of the American Legion, will give a history of the organization from the beginning to the present time. The Legion has grown wonderfully in membership, since it was organized.

Wilbur Stearns was unable to attend yesterday's meeting because of illness. The other members gave interesting accounts of their trip to the great meeting. The other delegates gave Mr. Stearns' report. "Carlyle Pickett gave a short talk on the things accomplished at the conference and Mr. Stearns who also went to the Gate City. It was thought that perhaps the high school delegates had some wonderful some features of the conference, so it was decided to have every delegate possible report.

The 104th R. C. campaign is finishing strong according to Miss Beatrice C. Bradley, county chairman. While there is no doubt as to the drive for membership that the county would offer approximately $8,000, which was the amount in round numbers raised last time. There is no doubt that the county will come up to expectations, although there are a number of county districts yet to be heard from.

A few cars reported at the Perrine hotel today to go into the country for the purpose of canvassing the districts that had not been heard from. Many of the county leaders did not call for their supplies and the Red Cross mailed them to them. The county had not been heard from whether or not all the rural communities had been canvassed. FROM THE PRESS BOX JUG

Having achieved sweet revenge upon the persons of the Ripper and White, Twin Falls High will travel to Gooding tomorrow to see what they can do with Wild Bill Inlet, sometimes called the Gooding football team.

Bill is a rapid young halfback who hurries from point to point in a fashion most embarrassing to opponents of the north side school. There are several other hustling young men on the Gooding team, particularly a pair of wide attack ends, but Bill is the half buried boy of them all. When Bill starts his jack rabbit jazz across the chalk lines there are always painful moments of tension until somebody trips him. Because if Bill gets loose there is simply no way to stop him.

I think the last game Bill beat Twin Falls by a score of 41 to 6. The home team has since then built up a better system of hauled wire entanglements. They believe their defense has been made more tight, and Bill will be invited to do his worst tomorrow. Nobody seems to care for expenses.

As a matter of fact Twin Falls will probably rely on their own attack as the safest defense against Inlet's wild end runs. If the Blue and White can keep the ball in their own hands there will be nothing to worry over. The big job of the occasion seems to be that of upsetting the Gooding ends and Dennon has built up an interior line that ought to take care of that handily.

Although they have but three days rest after the hard battle with Burley, the local squad seems to be in good shape for tomorrow's game. King, the backfield skyscraper, was jumped slightly at Burley but will be in action again at Gooding. Speed Newman's head is in a course of mending. When he would not feel pretty good about what he did at Burley. But the kicking it received in the Ripper game produced such results that Coach Dennon has made up his mind to make that a part of the daily practice. Before they hit the field each man must lay down with the rest line up and crown him with a healthy howl.

There is plenty of confidence in the local camp that Twin Falls will win by a good sized score. The Blue and White scoring machine has been picking up momentum in the last two games and it would be no surprise to see a landslide tomorrow. In preparation for the heavy score Coach Robey has cut off his own sleeves and starched his shirt clear up to the elbows. This gives plenty of scoring room and with an assistant to man one cuff while he takes care of the other, Robey is fully prepared to handle whatever traffic the team sends his way.

Emergency Benoit will accompany the team as referee. Benoit was about the only feature of the last Gooding game that suit of the north side folks. They could find nothing to kick in in his work. The Blue and White would still leave here this afternoon after practice and will spend the night at Gooding. That will give them time to rest up tomorrow before the game, besides eliminating the danger of frozen radiators. It wouldn't be wise to send the team into the game with a frozen radiator.

YOUR BUSINESS EFFICIENCY

Do you know that you can double your business efficiency by taking CHIROPHRATIC, VERTICAL, ADJUSTMENTS? You may think you are perfectly healthy just now, but you know that there are times when you feel "off color" when your brain seems "fuzzed," when you find it hard to concentrate. Call on your Chiropractor, get him to give you a Spinal Analysis. The chances are he will find that one or more of the vertebrae (small bones of the spine) is subluxated (out of position) causing an impingement (pushing) of the nerves. He will at once adjust the bones in their normal position, the impingement will be removed. The result will be that you will be able to concentrate more readily, your brain will not get so "fuzzed," and you will not feel "off color" but, on the contrary, will feel "fit as a fiddle."

OPPOSES POLICY OF CLOSED SHOP

Merchants Says Strong Union May Become Fearedly Arbitrary and Lack Judgment

LONDON, Nov. 10.—"Any movement by governments today which, however indirectly, endangers the existence of the 'open shop' policy would be a serious blunder," today declared Gordon Stridger, formerly of Chicago, who introduced the modern department store to London. Mr. Stridger, in addition to being a successful business man, is a student of international affairs.

"Employers as a class have themselves and themselves alone to thank for labor unions, continued the famous merchant. "If it had not been for their too often displayed pigheadedness and their selfishness there would have been no need for unions.

"But I believe that any union, of force or of money, that says, 'You shall not do this' or 'You shall not do that' and must not do that, is a form of what is now termed 'direct action' and a thing which should not be tolerated.

"For a small part, for example, of the laboring classes to say 'Everybody must join us or we will shut you up' is wrong. The ending of the war left the people of the world unsettled. Unfortunately, I think settlement will come largely through a natural wish to settle down and the desire of men to marry and have homes again and to 'live regular, well ordered lives'.

The merchant prince who began life as a poor boy in Jackson, Mich., spoke calmly as he unfolded his views on labor and capital. He continued: "Such a position as that taken by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in siding with the unions for the closed shop, I think is a blunder and not entirely wise, and in no way does it answer the call and unopposed testimony of Judge E. H. Gary before the president's industrial conference in Washington.

"Mr. Rockefeller's action encourages the combination of labor which may become fearfully arbitrary and does not excite that arbitrary sense necessarily with good judgment. An arbitrary body which sees that it can act things by force is hard to control.

"If trade unionism endeavored to build in great strength and efficiency the individual, if thereby made himself worth more to the employer and enabled him to produce more, and as a result fairly entitled him to receive more, everybody would applaud. But the labor union too often attempts to force acceptance of conditions whether or not simply because they will use force to make them accepted.

"Union among either the employer or the employed to land desired ends by propaganda, by education, by negotiation, by slight power, and by persuasion, is of course justifiable. Employers as a whole have not shown sufficient vision, however, and the methods of the trade unions today are very like the methods of the employers in the past. They have been too often stiffly arbitrary and have looked upon their rights as right."

"The thing we need today is greater good-fellowship, greater working-together—more of the spirit of the golden rule."

"Labor wants partnership or a word in the management, and is a well ordered business, ideas of the employers are always considered, and those who prove their ideas of value are appreciated in substantial measure. Ability must control if best results are to be obtained and no trial and error discovery is always plenty of room at the top for men with ability.

"Labor also wants government ownership. Personally, I object to the government's taking on any business it can avoid. For many reasons I hold this view. Among the other city services has been accepted as the governmental system of managing its business. Civil service in its system prevents the government from doing business in a business-like way.

"I know of one instance that, as the head of a government department would not try my letter, or run a department any more efficiently than those departments are being managed now, I would be bound to recommend that I would be prevented from dismissing a worker whether a blunder or not. Here, in my business, if some one does something unusually well we promote him or the spot, or increase his salary. If another worker fails, we say to him that we have given him a fair trial and that he does not catch the idea, that he is not fitted for this business and should try something else.

"We put some one else in his place. That is a business method. And it is really the only successful method of management.

"The government system of doing things, while perhaps good for governmental purposes, is one which can not be intelligently used for commercial purposes."

NEW CHEMICAL REEL FOR ACTION COSTS ONE GALLON

NOTTINGHAM, Eng., Nov. 11.—A sensation has been caused in the motor world by the discovery that cars and motorcycles can be driven by chemical action on water.

Alderman Albert Hall, of Nottingham, has a large car, and used the mixture with remarkable success recently, and said afterward that thirty miles could be run on one gallon, which costs only ten cents. After the chemical was introduced it required only a pint of water to start the engine.

If the hand were dipped into the mixture, said Mr. Hall, the water evaporated and gave off a small like benzol.

The discovery, which is an American one if successful, will revolutionize the motor industry. The mixture can be made and stored for any length of time like petrol.

Mr. Hall was greatly excited at the success of the trial and gave several experimental runs for the benefit of scores of inquirers.

HEROES PLAY DRIVE OF CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTORS

CONCORDIA, Kan., Nov. 11.—The Concordia ex-soldiers who fought in France are preparing a "drive" on the conscientious objectors that will make many of those who proclaimed themselves at Camp Funston as the "best" of the Secretary of War to think that they had better leave Kansas. A list of every "C. O." in the State is being prepared by the George T. Dardar Legion just here and copies will be sent to every other post in Kansas. They will continue their efforts to have an investigation of the actions of the Secretary of War in giving the "C. O." an honorable discharge, and they will make efforts to have the Kansas delegation to the Minneapolis convention in November press the investigation.

PASTOR THINES SAVIOR HIMSELF WOULD STRIKE

DENVER, Nov. 11.—The Rev. W. O. Holden, pastor of the Fourth Avenue Congregational Church, this city, thinks that Jesus would go on strike himself if he were on earth today. "Following the extensive unrest prevailing throughout the United States, in a sermon entitled, 'Would Jesus Strike?' the clergyman declared:

"Jesus would advocate and participate in a strike if great injustices were being done, and an employer would not listen to reason.

"Jesus would picket the plant and, by reason and argument, to persuade scabs from filling the places of strikers, but He would use no violence."

"COW DIDN'T HAVE TAIL LIGHTS," MOTORIST'S EXCUSE

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Nov. 11.—"This judge, the cow didn't have a tail light," declared Leo Brown, twenty-five, before Judge Herrod in the police court the other morning. Then a wave of peevishness overcame the judge's countenance, but quickly changed to an expression of scorn.

"Cow doesn't need tail light. You're fined $10 and you better apply the brakes quickly enough to prevent the machine knocking the animal to the side of the road."

ELIMINATING DRIVES AND CAMPAIGNS.

The world ought to learn that it gets older. There is a very deep feeling, though often unexpressed, that the "drives" which call upon business and professional men and workers to contribute a dollar here or a dollar there ought to come to an end some day. Twin Falls is no exception to all worthy institutions in any city, yet the Red Cross drive for membership indicated plainly that the people are just a little wearied by the constant drain.

But there are other things coming up. And those other things will call for more giving, and more organizations, more committees, to work at somewhat thankless tasks. A great deal of this work is duplicated labor, and duplicated work is useless and unprofitable. A lot of it could be eliminated by adapting the wisest idea to our civic needs. Other cities have adapted the idea. Instead of having every little charitable organization make its special appeal to the people, confining issues and wasting time, energy and money, they have the work of collecting funds done as a whole and done but once.

Each institution and organization, hospital, orphan asylum, outdoor relief society, etc., makes up the budget of its financial needs for the coming year. These are added together and a committee takes the matter in hand and collects for a "Community chest."

This plan has the added merit of eliminating much of the needless giving which perpetuates poverty. Much stress is laid on giving for the prevention of poverty. The visiting nurses and district physicians, for instance, do much to prevent sickness, which is one of the most frequent causes of financial distress. The school districts, the child labor inspectors, the milk inspectors and other officers of public health contribute to this end. The playground and community music come in for their share.

The employment bureaus maintained in connection with these other activities are also preventives of poverty. Giving bread to a starving family may be a kindness. But giving the provider of the family a job which fits his powers, so that he may earn a steady procession of loaves of bread, is the real thing in helpfulness.

LARGE FAMILIES IN FRANCE.

Current ideas as to French "race suicide" may be overturned by a revelation from the French Academy of Medicine. The Academy has been made custodian of a $100,000 fund, from the income of which it is authorized to make 10 annual gifts to deserving families having nine or more children from the same parents. Word has just spread over the country regarding this fund, the Academy has received applications from 12,000 French families.

If there are that many families asking for this bonus, it may be safely assumed that there are many thousand other families eligible for it.

For a considerable time two children seem to have been regarded as the ideal number in France—enough to replace the parents. It has been due not so much to a disinclination for children as a desire to provide comfortably for every child here. It has been a part of the French thrift program. It is clear, however, from these figures that there are plenty of families in France who have paid no attention to this rule. And there is likely to be a great increase of large families hereafter: The French people now feel kindly their paucity of population in comparison with Germany, and the need of replacing their war losses. If the French families of Canada are any criterion, the French may yet equal the Germans in that regard.

QUALITY AND PRICE ARE NOT SYNONYMOUS

Herbert Hoover, in testifying before a congressional committee, told of a contract he had made recently with a manufacturer for "good, solid children's shoes at $1.25 a pair." He had no difficulty in ordering them at that price, Mr. Hoover said, but the manufacturer explained that "it would require a little time for him to begin deliveries, because he had discontinued that line. He said there was no demand for cheap shoes any more."

This incident makes an excellent commentary on a phase of the cost-of-living situation which has received too little attention. Consumers tend to put all the responsibility for high prices on the dealers and manufacturers, when they ought to bear a good deal of it themselves. Millions of mothers and fathers are lamenting the cost of children's shoes; yet here we have an authoritative statement that good, durable children's shoes can be made and sold in wholesale lots at $1.25 a pair. The shoes aren't made, the risk perhaps not over $1.75 a pair in the retail store. But they are not to be had there, because "there is no demand for them."

There are many exceptions, of course. But it does not seem that people in general are demanding the high-priced goods rather than moderate-priced goods, and are more concerned with expensiveness than quality.

The preachers haven't struck yet for shorter hours, but have you noticed how many of them lately have been advocating cutting sermons down to 15 minutes?

If all the gasoline burned up on the roads were burned indoors, people could laugh at the coal strike.

Your Last Chance to Make Millions in Oil Leases is Here

The subscriptions for oil leases near where J. A. Noggle is drilling for oil, have been coming in so fast that we will soon have to withdraw our lease propositions from the market. We have been flooded for leases and at the rate that they have been coming in we will soon have everything taken up around where oil is being drilled.

Do Not Delay but Sign This Application Today and Join the Ranks of the Independently Rich

Remember the conditions of this leasing are—

That your lease will be within one mile of the well that J. A. Noggle is now drilling.

That you get your money back should you not get the lease before November 20th, 1919.

That the lease carries with it an abstract showing the title to be good in the grantor.

For those of you who may not know about Mr. J. O. Noggle this information is given:

Mr. Noggle has had years of active experience in oil fields and knows good oil land better than most farmers know good stock. He was sent by this syndicate to California and Wyoming to pass on propositions and each time turned them down because he thought they were no good. His judgment saved these men many thousands of dollars and proved his honesty. Today they are drilling in a field in Oklahoma that eventually will be the richest oil field in the world. So you see that by buying one of these leases you are bound to jump right into the millionaire class and can retire.

Read What This Experienced Oil Man Says on Buying Leases.

Money Made Easy in Oil Fields

Says a Drug Store Clerk, if a Person Has Some Money, a Little Nerve and a Chance to Buy a Lease Near a Well Actually Drilling

"Only one way of investing in the development of oil that will insure a chance," says the Oklahoma Investor, in an interview with Oswald Howard, a man who has stepped from a poor clerk in a drug store to a multimillionaire, a long time ago he said it. "I did not take me long to find out that Oklahoma had the oil, but how could I get a part of it was the problem I wished to solve. I had a very limited amount of money, and a fine job. I knew if I bought some land that was supposed to have oil under it, I could not drill a well as it took several thousand dollars to drill. In fact many thousands to buy even the casing after the well had been drilled. I decided that my life was passing on and I must act or lose. Feeling that if I did not attempt to better my condition it would not be bettered, so I decided to buy 10 acres of oil lease near to where some responsible fellows were going to drill, so I purchased 10 acres at $200 a acre. The lease was a five-year lease. The well was drilled to a depth of 2500 feet and oil was found. My lease was worth $3000 per acre. I sold half of it and retained the other part. Then I bought some more leases where wells were being drilled, and it was not long until I was very independent. When asked if he bought stock in any of the oil companies, he said yes, he did but experience taught him that the sure way to win was to own what you own, and play the game as safe as possible. You will find people in the oil fields buy leases and they must be reasonably close to the well that is drilling. "What do you mean by 'reasonably close'?" "I mean within two miles." "Then the main thing is to know that the concern that you are near will drill." "Yes, that is it, exactly. You will notice in Oklahoma, show shiners, bankers and bankers alike made millions when they play the game consistently by buying leases. Oklahoma is as much of an oil state as Ohio is a farming state and farming is not a serious gamble in Ohio, is it?"

The reason is that the farmer in Ohio takes the lease amount of chance possible in farming, and the man who buys in Oklahoma do the same on oil, so buy leases. "Why is it that many people in Oklahoma have lost money by playing the oil game?" was asked. "Well, all me this, why has Oklahoma passed a blue sky law," was the answer. "Because so many companies were operating that had no capital, I suppose," was the answer. "Yes, you guessed about right, and if the company did not have the money what became of the stock holder? He just had the pleasure of believing that he had something for a short time, that's all, and if the investor had owned a lease he yet would have had something, because the well will be completed by some other people. Oil investments are the best if you win, and the best chance to win is by buying oil leases, in an oil country, and Oklahoma is sure an oil country."

CHRIST AND HIS CHURCH

Baptist Pastor Spoke Upon This Subject at Revival Meeting Yesterday

"Christ and His Church" was the subject to which Rev. Conrad Lorenz spoke at the Baptist church yesterday. He called attention to the fact that Christ instituted the church. It is the only institution, he said, in the world that rests solely on divine authority. There was never a time when the government of the United States was held in such high esteem as the hearts of men, not only in our own country but throughout the entire world. Yet the government, great as it is, was instituted by human beings. It was formed, not by divine providence, but yet by men with human limitations. There are great places in its foundation and in its constitution which in time may be strengthened or displaced by other principles which are more durable. But such is with such on earth. "Christ and His Church" is the only institution that is founded on perfect principles, so that its character must stand immutable.

"There is no greater mistake one can make than to imagine the church is going to fall in this world," said Dr. Lorenz. "Divine government may fail and be dissolved. Some sort of a distant government may survive with woe the ruins of the once glorious cities of ancient America, but no voice in the remotest sea can have occasion to say that the church of the Lord Jesus Christ has been dissolved, as a result it stands on the certainty of the Lord's own promise and promise."

CITY CHURCHES HONOR LEGION

Presbyterians and Methodists Each Turn Over Meeting to Service Men

Throughout the United States yesterday many churches honored the American Legion by giving one of both of their services to that organization. A large number of Twin Falls churches extended a special invitation to all service men to be present during the service.

Two of the churches in Twin Falls gave over one service to the Legion. A very impressive ceremony at the Presbyterian church was the honoring of the church's service men. The flag has on it each member who was in some branch of the service.

Reverend Asher Harland, head gave a splendid address, emphasizing "America's Debt to Christ and His Church." The pastor spoke of the fact that this country owes Christ for his unending labors for the good of the community. He emphasized the importance of the church in the community and said how much good the churches of America had done for her during the war. The Presbyterian choir rendered inspiring songs for the occasion and all to it was a very impressive service. A large crowd was present to hear the message of the pastor.

"It is high time for Christians to get together, to work together, in uniting their efforts to bring Christian civilization to all the world, they will honor their Master and possess greater power to promote his kingdom on earth," declared Dr. A. G. Bennett in the Methodist church yesterday morning. "The world hosts of Christians in one of the great and significant movements of these days. God is not a Methodist, nor any other. He is not even an American God, exclusively our own. He is God over all, lover of all. While we live we make our church a power in the land, we ought to live to honor our Lord and exalt his Christ. Twin Falls churches all of them are near our hearts. Here at home, our cooperation should be in evidence. Now's the time to demonstrate our real brotherliness in the Master and for this sake, to hold up a better world."

A congregation joined in a benedictory prayer at the close of the service. "God bless every church in Twin Falls."

In the evening Dr. A. G. Bennett talked on "The American Soldier," his "Temple of the Christian." Dr. Bennett was camp pastor at Camp Panatier for a year and many of the men who were there remember him. The Temple quartet sang in the afternoon a large crowd of young people assembled in the church for a general social time.

"Adam and the Fallen Man" was the lesson chosen at the Christian Science church yesterday. This interesting subject was dwelt upon from many angles. Special music was furnished for the occasion. A splendid quartet took place at the Ascenton Episcopal church yesterday. Mrs. Byers directed and conducted the offertory, "Hail O Sweet Mother of God."

Sunday school was held at 10:00. Music was furnished by the choir. There was an attendance of 100. Many signs are still being given at this church.

Dr. Royal J. Nye of Beloit, Congo, Africa, thrilled a large audience at the Christian church with his tales of his experiences in the mission fields. He presented a gripping story of his pioneering way and held his listeners spellbound. Special music was furnished by the choir for the occasion.

A church dinner was held at 12:30. The family bringing in the day dinner. This was a feature of the day and was enjoyed by a large number of people. The pastor delivered two addresses during the day both of which were wonderfully interesting. These services were not turned over to the American Legion as the mission field only is for a very short time and it was felt that the opportunity to hear him should not be wasted.

Guy Bates Post and his excellent company are this season appearing in "The Masquerader," one of the most widely read novels of the day. The play is being given by a splendid cast and is a most interesting and entertaining dramatization. It is seldom that a popular novel makes a good play, for the action of many novels is so general and so broad that it is impossible to reduce it to a stage play. But here is one that does not.

Mr. Post has never been seen to better advantage than in his presentation of the problem of Guy Bates Post. P. P. descendant son of a noble Ethiopian family, a drug addict and a home wreck generally, and also the role of John Leder his double in all earthly appearance, but with a stronger mind. It is perfectly fascinating the way Mr. Post handles his characters. The play is being given by a splendid cast and is a most interesting and entertaining dramatization.

NEXT CONGRESS WILL ATTEMPT TO END STRIKE

Senate Labor Committee's Investigation of Steel Strike Is Basis of Recommendation.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Effort to end strikes and industrial troubles for all time will be made at the next session of congress as a result of the senate labor committee investigation of the steel strike.

The report of the committee, recommended creation of a body with large powers of investigation similar to the war labor board.

Members of the committee believe it would be useless to try to reach the settlement through the mediation, which will probably adjourn as soon as the treaty is disposed of.

The report of the committee today on conditions as they found them after examination of numerous witnesses and visits to the steel mills, those who signed the settlement agreement.

Members of the labor committee are not inclined to blame either Secretary Labor Wilson or the men who signed for this failure. The blame, they believe, lies entirely in the fact that the mediation bureau was not sufficient power of action.

What members of the labor committee want is a body that will have power to step into an industrial dispute, attempt to settle it and if it fails to reform the public of the facts of the controversy and make known its reasons and force them to come to an agreement.

Another feature of the committee's report was the part which "warns" radicals within the ranks of labor. While the committee disclaimed the charge that the steel strike was called as part of a general industrial revolution, it declares its belief that those who favor such a revolution are using this strike as a means to gain their ends.

Diamond Cut Diamond

CHAPTER I.—While in the little French town of... Mrs. Delario's Diamond.

To say I was astonished when I heard that great mad footstep... Mrs. Delario's Diamond.

Well, the end of all my puzzling was that I had my choice between two... Mrs. Delario's Diamond.

Another explanation seemed about as possible as the other, for I didn't see how anyone could have a duplicate key—even the janitor does not have a pass key to the flats in this house...

"Mentally I remembered that I hadn't communicated with Mrs. Delario since she had left the slipper all back time. Then came a letter asking me would I do her a favor, a very great favor—would I come to her house that Sunday evening at eight o'clock? The letter arrived on Sunday morning, special delivery.

I went, but I never once mentioned the slippers—slippers were the thing in my mind as I rang the bell. Mrs. Delario herself invited me, apologizing that her maid was away frank with that hanging over me. And then my son... Mrs. Delario's Diamond.

"But did she steal any money?" I demanded, almost in fear of the reply. Mrs. Delario took some time to answer, and this is what she said: "You know I'm so fond of the child I'd rather think I must be mistaken than that she robbed me."

"I was staggered. It was altogether, it wasn't only the mysteriousness of that letter but of the fact that I was asked why all three slippers had been taken and not one slipper, or one pair; it was as if I couldn't see how the slippers had been touched in the flat but just the particular objects that the day before had turned and left the wall. Now they had walked out and left me."

"Very naturally, then, in all the story I never thought of a slipper and that Mrs. Delario might be suspecting Claire of taking it also. But having time to speak, several Claire in saying that she had left on Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Delario quickly switched the conversation on the real subject of my visit. She introduced it by saying that Lila—who was still in a boarding school near Philadelphia—was breaking down and might need to be sent abroad for treatment—she seemed to be developing spinal trouble, though the doctor here really didn't seem to know what to think; and then she gave the sentence I clearly remember was, "I'm very greatly in need of money."

"I felt I must have drawn back suddenly—I actually thought she was trying to borrow of me—for she smiled and answered my unspoken words: "I don't need it to borrow anything. I have some property I want to dispose of. I want to sell some rubies." Mrs. Delario. "You not a doctor," I replied quickly.

"I know you're not—that's why I thought you could help me better than anyone else. The stones were left me by a great-uncle in France, and I'm sure I will confess it now—they came in this 'Smuggled' I interpreted.

"Well, I found brought them over and they were found when the language was examined. But don't you see that was why I could sell them at a bargain?"

"I don't know anybody who deals in smuggled goods."

"Of course—but you needn't tell that—you don't actually know how they were really sold, do you?"

"I felt myself give in to her, then, as a friend. Yes, I'd help her in every reasonable way. You mustn't labor under any false impressions about me," she went on. "I have a little property—not enough to make a fortune, but I've got to learn. I live here now—free they pay the rent—the free that means here in this country. I had the house much as a minister has his parsonage. If there were any scandals—if they turned me out from here—I'd be practically penniless. I couldn't make a

MILHAM IS INSTRUCTED ON DEVOTED WAYS OF LOVE

MILHAM, Nov. 8.—H. J. Milham, who attempted suicide a week ago by shooting himself through the body, received a letter today from the matron of the dormitory of the University of California, at which place the young woman Milham claims is his wife, is stopping. It advises him to tell Father's mother everything, for true love cannot be found upon deceit. You have served your country with honor and your country is going to educate you. Let nothing interfere with that education."

Another envelope containing a number of postcards and a photo of himself which he had at different times sent Miss Digker, came to Milham today. It contained no writing, however.
