

HUNCHBACK CAUSE OF MANY DEATHS

Ringleader of Murder Band That Operates Under E. K. King in Hunchback

INGENIOUS HORROR CHAMBER

Corvin Responsible for Death of 500 Political Suspects and Active Agent in Torturing Ten Times as Many

London.—Otto Corvin, a hunchback, was the ringleader of the murder and torture band that operated under E. K. King in Hunchback, according to Lucien Jones, writing to The Daily News of London, from Budapest, June 25th.

Had I not examined the police minutes taken after the preliminary examination of the victims, I should not have believed such fiendish practices to be possible. I have seen the photographs of the victims from the police minutes and statements Corvin has made that he himself was responsible for the death of hundreds of political suspects and was an active agent in torturing ten times as many more.

Under his auspices an elaborate torture chamber, with all modern and ancient devices, was fitted out in the cellars of a building in Hunchback, and in a basement under the palace of Count Rakovsky, which is situated in the main thoroughfare of Budapest. The torture chamber would be dragged out of its hole and taken to one of the places at night.

A Dagger in the Throat.

Another form of torture was to thrust a dagger down the throat of the prisoner until he could breathe no more. This was his favorite method, however, and was a prisoner into a room where various portions of the human body were cut off.

Many died under torture rather than yield to every indignity that could be heaped upon them. They were strung together, were weighted and hung into the Danube.

Another of the terrible tortures consisted in the use of a hot iron, which was used to burn the skin of the prisoner. This was done in the presence of the hunchback.

He had been terribly beaten and tortured. Nearly 5000 British and French were killed on the Danube, and a number of blank forms for the immediate execution of any who were political suspects under the old regime.

Sehon was noted for his extreme avarice, and confessed to a number of cases in which, on the pretext of the gold-dredging of wealthy residents of Budapest were wealthy with pinners, and without an aesthetic.

I have also examined the documents relating to one Emery Harrington, a pale-faced, evil-looking little man, formerly a steamship engineer, and now the executive chairman of the executive committee of soviet at Nagy Gherago, a few miles from Budapest.

Harrington is accused of the murder of four Roman Catholic priests. Before they were executed Harrington tapped the priest's shoulder and said, "I am your friend to your White God, Harrington, like Sehon was found hiding in the forest."

A large crowd is assembled outside the police station and it is with difficulty that the hunchback prisoners are carried away from being lynched. It is the feeling that one might say a "white" terror is actively taking the law into their own hands.

It is reported that the hunchback prisoners are taking active steps to maintain order.

Nose Sewed on After Being Off One Hour

London.—An unusual story was related at the King Edward VII hospital, on Monday.

A stable boy, named William Robertson, was preparing to go to his work when he noticed that his nose had been cut off.

The doctor was called and the nose was sewed on. It was taken to the hospital where an operation was performed and the nose was sewed on.

A few days later Robertson was discharged from the hospital. He said it was a miracle.

COOKING COUPLE DIDN'T NEED A LICENSE

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 15.—Bostonian Edward Stoll, newly appointed traffic officer here, received a rule just recently when he stepped on the running board of a motor car bearing a license tag, but containing a cooking couple.

In a police vehicle nearly in traffic, the lieutenant asked sternly, "Where's your license?"

"We don't need any, sir," replied the couple. "We're not going to be married."

WHAT FOLLOWS PEACE TREATY NULLIFICATION

Senator Owen Gives Opinion of Effects on America if Antis Succeed in Killing It.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—In these days of uncertainty over the shape in which the covenant of the League of Nations, or say nothing of the remainder of the Peace Treaty, will be presented to the Senate, the minds of the nation are beginning to ponder the effects on America if a severe nullification such as is suggested by Senator Owen and others should prevail.

One of the leading economic and financial authorities of the House of Congress is Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma, whose name, together with that of Carter Glass, is attached to the treaty. It is attached to the treaty because of the fact that he is the only member of the House who has responded to requests from his readers for an authoritative answer: "What would be the effect, financially and commercially, of a failure of treaty ratification?"

To which Senator Owen replied, amplifying the query by asking what might be, as follows: "If the Republican leadership should be able to hold over a third of the Senate to destruction of the Peace Treaty, would it be defeated and some very evil consequences might ensue. First—All damaged ships in the United States and in other countries, and all at sea and on hand, would be unaccounted for hundreds of millions of dollars.

"Second—Germany would have unsettled claims against the United States for all German citizen property taken by the United States; claims for all German ships, docks, etc., etc., exceeding probably $100,000,000. "Third—The United States would have no part in reparation and other commissions controlling commerce in Germany and Austria. The United States would be excluded in large part from their future business.

"Fourth—The failure to settle the peace of the world would add to the difficulty of financing exports to Europe from the United States and thus paralyze our foreign exports.

"Fifth—Our merchant marine would lose $1,000,000,000 if our export trade should be cut down, and our merchant marine $200,000,000 in ships would lose their great value in large part.

"Sixth—The effect on the United States would be to impair its standing of honor and dignity with our allies. We would repeat the distress of them and the cowardice and unskillful selfishness shown by our unwillingness to help and abandon our allies in their great labor of rearing Europe to a position of dignity and happiness.

"Our prosperity is bound up with the prosperity of Europe and the world. We can trust the common honesty of mankind, and if we refuse we may expect the world to return to a state of anarchy and confusion based on mutual selfishness. With the hate of the Teutonic and allied people, and the suspicion and distrust of the peoples lately allied with us in the position of the United States, would be deplorable.

SOAP BOX GRABBERS ARE QUITTEN IN LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 18.—American police officers in cooperation with the police, believe today they have largely exterminated public demonstrations of I. W. W. sympathizers. The I. W. W. campaign which has been waged on radicals the past few days. A number of soap box demonstrations were made yesterday and were immediately "squashed" by the police, with three arrests resulting. The biggest incident occurred that of alleged I. W. W. sympathizers, who were invited to the place the meeting broke up precipitately.

British Newspapers Comment on Senate's Treaty Reservations

LONDON, Nov. 18.—The whole moral status of the league of nations has been impaired by the refusal of the American senate to accept it in its original form, said the Times today in commentary upon the American reservation. "It will manifestly embarrass all other powers in similar relations with America."

The Westminster Gazette has anticipated the senate's action. "We have the greatest confidence that congress will arrive at a wise solution of the problem. It is the least regretted that some patriotic American will doubt and hesitations about the new departure they have been asked to make."

"The reservations argued no resentment on the part of the Morning Post or the Daily Graphic. "We admire the stand taken by the senate."

"The latter gives this view: "The American people do not desire to be entangled permanently in European politics."

WOULD RESTORE OLD MONARCHY

Pan-Germans Active in Organizing Union of German Youths to Revive Kaiser's Regime.

BERLIN, Nov. 18.—The Pan-Germans are trying hard to revive the old monarchy and actually the return of monarchy, amongst the youth of Germany. The chief instrument is the Union of German Youths. This is not a new organization, but it is being strongly developed at this time in an effort to strengthen the monarchistic aims. Ostensibly, it is merely a society to aid in the education of the youth and to give them practical outdoor instruction.

In reality, the political activity behind it is extensive. Recently, in a parade of the organization, the youths appeared armed with the clubs of the radicals, who were used for an attack on the government for having permitted such a course. In fact, very radical content that the body is being trained not merely along mental lines but also physically to further the purposes of Pan-Germanism.

Promoters argue that by taking men when the mind is in the formative stage, they will be able to train them more effectively. The monarchists are quite active at this time. Many believe that the monarchy will actually be restored, although a long and conservative force that a thinning or other military will come into power.

It should be noted, however, the rank and file of the German nation believes that the Hohenzollerns certainly will never be restored, and the general view is that should a serious restoration movement be undertaken, a consolidation of the working classes would at once result, and make the new regime short-lived.

SMALL PERCENTAGE OF MEN IN WASHINGTON GO TO WORK

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 18.—Only about 500 of the 2500 striking miners in the state of Washington returned to work this morning, according to Ernest Newham, secretary-treasurer of district No. 10 of the Workers of America. Representatives of the operators said that reports from the mining district indicated that much larger per centage would be on the job before noon. Secretary Newham estimated that only four or five of the security forces in the state would be able to restore operations today.

U-BOAT TOOK LARGE TOLL

Facts and Figures Covering Hun Submarine Frightfulness Are Given Out.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—The Admiralty has just published complete figures showing the toll in life and tonnage of the "U-boat" war.

The number of lives lost in those attacks throughout the war was 15,273. The 1,229 ships sunk or attacked, 444 were torpedoed by submarines, 106 were sunk by mines, 111 were sunk by aircraft, and the remainder attacked by armed craft.

The high water mark of destruction was reached in the early part of 1917, after the inauguration of the "Interscholarship" campaign in February of that year. The month of April saw the loss of no less than 1,225 lives. This figure is comparable only with that of May, 1915, when the high tide was reached and 1,208 lives were sacrificed.

In 1918 the losses were on a much smaller scale, the worst month being February, when 99 vessels, of 228,586 tons, were destroyed.

WHAT FOLLOWS PEACE TREATY NULLIFICATION

Senator Owen Gives Opinion of Effects on America if Antis Succeed in Killing It.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—In these days of uncertainty over the shape in which the covenant of the League of Nations, or say nothing of the remainder of the Peace Treaty, will be presented to the Senate, the minds of the nation are beginning to ponder the effects on America if a severe nullification such as is suggested by Senator Owen and others should prevail.

One of the leading economic and financial authorities of the House of Congress is Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma, whose name, together with that of Carter Glass, is attached to the treaty. It is attached to the treaty because of the fact that he is the only member of the House who has responded to requests from his readers for an authoritative answer: "What would be the effect, financially and commercially, of a failure of treaty ratification?"

To which Senator Owen replied, amplifying the query by asking what might be, as follows: "If the Republican leadership should be able to hold over a third of the Senate to destruction of the Peace Treaty, would it be defeated and some very evil consequences might ensue. First—All damaged ships in the United States and in other countries, and all at sea and on hand, would be unaccounted for hundreds of millions of dollars.

"Second—Germany would have unsettled claims against the United States for all German citizen property taken by the United States; claims for all German ships, docks, etc., etc., exceeding probably $100,000,000. "Third—The United States would have no part in reparation and other commissions controlling commerce in Germany and Austria. The United States would be excluded in large part from their future business.

"Fourth—The failure to settle the peace of the world would add to the difficulty of financing exports to Europe from the United States and thus paralyze our foreign exports.

"Fifth—Our merchant marine would lose $1,000,000,000 if our export trade should be cut down, and our merchant marine $200,000,000 in ships would lose their great value in large part.

"Sixth—The effect on the United States would be to impair its standing of honor and dignity with our allies. We would repeat the distress of them and the cowardice and unskillful selfishness shown by our unwillingness to help and abandon our allies in their great labor of rearing Europe to a position of dignity and happiness.

"Our prosperity is bound up with the prosperity of Europe and the world. We can trust the common honesty of mankind, and if we refuse we may expect the world to return to a state of anarchy and confusion based on mutual selfishness. With the hate of the Teutonic and allied people, and the suspicion and distrust of the peoples lately allied with us in the position of the United States, would be deplorable.

Several Intelligent Young Ladies Wanted

LADIES—Be independent. The big salaries nowadays are not paid to those who work with their hands, but to those who use their head. If you are making less than $35.00 per week working your hands use your head, get into the selling game. There are many ladies in this vicinity who have the ability to sell, but do not know it. Ability to talk intelligently, and present your proposition are the only requirements. If you have that ability we have an unusual opportunity awaiting you now.

GROSVENOR AND ANNIS APPEAR

Plena of Not Guilty Aro Entered by Both—Liquor Cases Also Arraigned

Plena of not guilty were entered in district court yesterday by Harry Grosvenor to the charge of second degree murder in the death of E. L. Van Huler, Bush rancher, following a quarrel with Grosvenor, and by J. L. Annis of Bill to the charge of robbery of W. E. Starr of Kimberly.

These were the important arraignments before Judge Hinkaback at the opening session of the district court yesterday afternoon. Other arraignments included a grand larceny charge against H. L. Jordan, who is accused of stealing a motor car from Parkwood lot of Filer, and who pleaded not guilty; liquor charges against W. T. Clouse, J. B. King, Clouse, J. B. King, Clouse, John Swain, all of whom pleaded not guilty, except King, who forfeited bonds for non appearance before the grand jury by failing to appear in answer to a charge of assault with a deadly weapon upon Noah Pratt of Hild.

Case Dismissed

Dismissal was ordered yesterday in the case of Ed Tolbert vs. Anton M. Lande coming on motion of the plaintiff.

Filo Demurrer

The Oregon Short Line filed a demurrer yesterday to the suit of Fredrick Klumbrecht, a section hand who seeks damages for injuries alleged to have been received in a collision between a train and Klumb.

Blowless Complaint

In probate court yesterday Judge Duval dismissed the case of Joe Bush vs. the Board of Health for a complaint that his overcoat had been stolen from the hotel.

BARBAIN BEEF PRIZES

How high is your meat bill? Does it show an appreciable shrinkage compared with a year ago or are you still getting the same amount of meat? Take the bills of November, 1918, and compare the charges with the meat prices you are paying today.

Since the beginning of the war the number of cattle in the nine important counties of western Idaho has increased by one million head. 7,000,000 head, the principal decrease taking place in Helix and Gemma. During the same period the number of cattle in the exporting counties of the Americas and Australia has increased almost fifty per cent or 16,000,000 head. In the United States the consumption of meat in Europe has decreased rapidly.

Does this enormous surplus reflect itself in the price you pay for beef, mutton, and pork? If it does not, who is grabbing the money? The Western cattle men are not. They are barely making expenses facing the packers. The packers apparently are jacking fresh beef on to the retailers with the small profit for profit. Who is getting the money?

In the United States and Canada we have today 17,000,000 more hogs than we had in 1914, when the average number of hogs during the war was struck by 24,000,000, indicating a net world loss of about 7,000,000 swine or a decrease of 4.5 per cent. There is a small decrease warrant a price of 75 cents a pound for bacon?

The sheep-raisers of the United States are in a precarious position. They have an enormous surplus above domestic needs. Europe is not buying American mutton because it is so heavily as had been expected. Europe hasn't the money and Europe isn't working hard enough to get the money to buy the surplus goods. Therefore the producers must look to the home market to absorb a large part of the surplus. The government store cuts prices when it wants to clear its shelves. Meat prices must come down if the country is to consume its share of the surplus.

Why not have a National Beef Week with heavily reduced prices backed by an advertising campaign. Editorial in December Sunset.

GUY BATES POST SALE TOMORROW

The out of town orders and reservations by mail, indicate a capacity business during the engagement of Guy Bates Post at the Lavinger theatre, tomorrow (Wednesday) evening. It is most unusual to have anything arouse such widespread and general appeal as the coming of this well known star, yet, when one considers how few original casts and productions are played in this country, it is hardly to be wondered at.

Post is one of the few, if not the only star, who absolutely refuses to do an abbreviated run. He insists that the most important instruction to his advance representatives—he has three—“measure the stage in detail and make the entire production as it is used you must not advertise or play in that city”. A deviation from these instructions means immediate dismissal. Post desires to give perfect performance. Post employs two stage crews, a triple electrical equipment and the complete musical outfit, including the largest baggage cars to transport his production.

Miss Oliver Talks About Sheep Raising

Miss Whitford, Officer of Castleford fair first prize in the county junior club this year, in the wool raising class. She worked hard all summer for the prize and according to the farm bureau officials she deserves it.

Miss Oliver's personal story of her success follows:

Sheep raising has been one of the most profitable, beneficial and profitable stock raising businesses of our generation.

Our little stories of a sheep losing his shag are in a true sense as a sheep seems to appreciate all one does for him.

Sheep are very tender animals and must be properly cared for when young and especially when a ewe is away from mother and raised by hand.

They must have a warm shelter, lots of sunshine, and should be fed about every two hours. A few swallows of clean water and wholesome milk, or egg white beaten and mixed in their milk about twice a week makes a good food. I also used some salt.

In preparing the milk for my sheep I have my bottle and nipple clean and scalded out, put the milk in the bottle and set it in a warm of warm water and let the milk warm slowly. Do not let the milk scald as it will not agree with the sheep.

As the sheep gets older you can feed it less often, and a little more of a pure. Some little lamb I taught at once to drink out of a pan, while others seem to insist that you fix them a bottle.

I rarely employ feeding the little lambs. If they are kept well they are always ready to eat, and live to play in the sunshine, which is very beneficial to them.

Sheep raising has simply brought to our past generation, comfort as well as happiness.

The wool makes the best and the most expensive clothing worn and used. Our soldiers as well as our home folks can't do it right. The best of the sheep is one of the most valuable foods for the upbuilding of our bodies.

Behind the pleasure and profitable as derive from sheep raising, they are very profitable and they can live and fatten on less food than any other animal.

Our fancy sheep breeders are today rearing a harvest of fancy breeds. Some are selling up in the thousands of dollars.

Not besides in our sheep clubs it takes an children out in the fresh air and sunshine, and it might be the means of saving many little scalded lambs that would otherwise die for want of care.

I was a standard exhibit at the county fair this year on my lambs, which was a thoroughbred Ramboulet from the Hobbs and Gillette flock.

And if you would care to see his picture I will have his and my picture taken.

RED CROSS WILL OFFER SEALS AS CHRISTMAS GIFT More Than 650,000,000 Will Be Offered to Public for Sale on December 1.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—More than 650,000,000 Christmas seals, the largest number of these little emblems ever offered to the public, will be placed on sale throughout the country December 1.

The entire issue must be sold by December 10 if the program of the National Tuberculosis Association and its 1,000 affiliated state and local organizations is to be fulfilled in 1931. Since each seal is a "pennyworth of health," the sales movement will aggregate in round numbers, $5,000,000 and the average value of seals to be sold each day during the ten-day period will be $500,000.

When the Christmas seals were first used in the campaign against tuberculosis in this country only 200,000,000 were issued. That was in 1908. The reason for the growth in the amount of funds as represented by these figures may be found in a report recently issued which brings out clearly the close race being run between the "white plague" and the agencies organized to defeat it. It is a race which means life or death to a million Americans. As a matter of fact this number is almost literally exact, for about 150,000 deaths are reported in the United States during the past year and on the basis of eight over 1,000,000 cases reported in the past year for each death in this country during the same period.

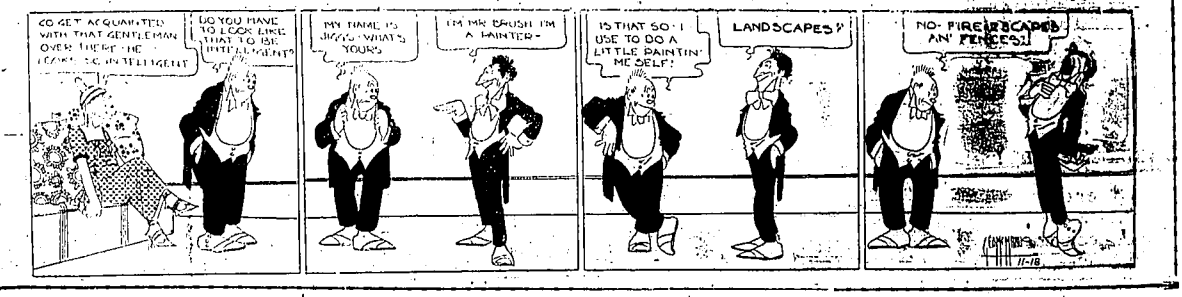

The comparison of the growth in means to combat tuberculosis is made in the report. It shows that during this growth is encouraging there is still much to be done. In 1908 there were only 115 sanitariums in the United States and the combined bed capacity of these institutions accommodated only 5,000 patients. Today, there are 1,000 sanitariums, equipped to care for 60,000 victims of the disease.

Even more impressive has been the growth of the open air schools—places where children who have been exposed to tuberculosis in their homes are sent to study, play and rest all day long in the open air. These schools are recognized as one of the great means in insuring a reduction in the number of tuberculosis cases in the next generation. Today there are more than 1,000 such schools scattered throughout the country, but there was not a single open air school in the United States 14 years ago.

Scarcely less remarkable has been the growth in the number of tuberculosis clinics over the same period. At the clinic, for example, a person who is in the early stages of the disease, may receive diagnosis and advice which, if followed, may have him from the white plague through to the country. But there was not a tuberculosis clinic in the entire country until 1916. Referring to the general situation, the report says: "From these figures it can be seen that tuberculosis is being nearly keeping pace with the efforts to fight it. There are still too few sanitariums, open-air schools and more tuberculosis nurses are needed. That is why the sale of stamps is to be larger this year than ever before."

Names and Heft of Harvard Defenders

Yale Fans Banish Unpleasant Thoughts

(NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 18.—Yale followers have vowed even to think about last Saturday's battle with Princeton and are looking forward to the struggle with Harvard next Saturday confident that the blue eleven will redoubt itself. Lay, the only member of the team hurt last Saturday, was out again today on the football field in good condition. It is almost certain that the same team that started against the Tigers will face Harvard when the white eleven Saturday.

It doesn't take a lot of money to get good tea. What it takes is knowledge.

Common tea is full of tannin—nobody wants that. The little tea-flavor it has is a coarse vegetable taste—very few want that. And you can't get any kind of strength without bringing out the tannin.

Fine tea is rich in tea-flavor and has very little tannin. It takes very little tea to get all the strength you want. Finctea, like Schilling's, is the most economical.

There are four flavors of Schilling Tea—Japan, Ceylon, India, Orange. Each breakfast. All one quality. In a richly-lined moisture-proof package. Officially all-atomized. It is a medicinal aid, relieves indigestion, aids sleep, induces and maintains appetite. One does not require money refunded.

FROM THE PRESS BOX JUG

For some time we've all been wondering what sort of torments we've been sheltering in the shape of a semi-football team. In public society they are called the second team but scrub is the word that seems to fit best. Judging from the mopping habit they have developed in their association with such teams as Filer, Wendell, etc.

Curiosity concerning the obvious fighting qualities of this set of youngsters can be satisfied tomorrow when the scrubs take on the Filer varsity at Lincoln field. This is their first public appearance, since about a month ago, during which interval they have been making themselves a terror and a torment to all the smaller high schools round about.

The folks down at Bull figure another of their slugging good times tonight. Dan Petroff, the Balkan champion, and George Nelson, the sensational fireman, tangle in the feature bout of the evening, a grappling hook affair. Lommi Suedson the young Filer boxer, opens a feud with Clonting Copenhagen of Bull. The spectacle of two hundred numbers suffering each other around will round off the program. Tom Parks will referee the main match, with the preliminaries being handled by C. E. Clark, Bull newspaper man. The Bull Athletic association are proprietors of the show.
