NEW CONGRESS WILL WORK TO LARGE PROGRAM

Many Important Matters to Consider, Not Least of Which is 1920 Campaign

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The Sixty-sixth congress opens its first regular session one week from today with a program well defined by national necessity.

Efforts to revive the peace treaty will be made by supporters of the administration. The opponents of the treaty will endeavor to pass a joint resolution declaring the state of war with Germany at end of the latter measure is passed, the session will go to the president. The Republicans contend that the responsibility of peace will then be placed on the shoulders of the president.

Republican leaders express fear that this time or shortly afterward for the operation of the president's veto control. The railroad legislation will open the session as anticipated business. Unless the president defers the return of the railroads to federal control, it is possible a resolution extending the guaranteed profits of the roads will be passed.

Amendments which have been struck as the Republican keynote for the coming presidential election, calls for constitutional revision. The Americanization program calls for the passage of bills restricting immigration; compulsory education of illiterates; punishment for those who plot to overthrow the government by force and the deportation of interned aliens.

Opposition by the bureau of immigration to any change in the immigration laws is expected by members of both houses. The education of aliens and the deportation of interned aliens will meet with the opposition of the Senate and House conferees have the oil land leasing bill in charge, and are expected to make a report in January.

The senate committee on the establishment of a budget system will report the house in early December. It is expected to place the budget under the treasury secretary, instead of the president, according to the present bill.

The tariff will receive little consideration. The demands of the manufacturing interests has caused the members of congress to feel that they would be unwise to change the tariff situation at this time.

Republican leaders promise to increase tariff rates for European industry regarding its policy.

Before adjournment of the special session a resolution was passed to restore the sixtieth congress in anticipation of the possible passage of the treaty of peace. Congress will pass legislation of a permanent nature on this question. The League of Nations dump bill is in the senate finance committee.

The senate committee on postoffice and post roads has a bill under consideration which provides government aid to establish road routes for postal routes. Hearings on the measure will begin as soon as the session opens.

Regulation of the future of the American merchant marine, the establishment of a corporation to take over the operation of the government owned vessels and a commission similar to the interstate commerce commission, to regulate the routes of the ships, is contemplated. Action necessarily will force congress to act as soon as possible on the major part of the program. In addition to civil legislation, the annual appropriation bills must be passed by July 1.

TEST EFFECT OF FIRST KEYNOTE

Republicans Learning How People Fall for Assumption of Superior Americanism

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Lepidus is making a survey of the political complexion of the nation. Will H. Hays, chairman of the national committee, is making a list of every Republican member of congress and Republican leader throughout the country, making them for a will. Americanism, which has been struck as the Republican keynote for the coming presidential election, calls for constitutional revision. The Americanization program calls for the passage of bills restricting immigration; compulsory education of illiterates; punishment for those who plot to overthrow the government by force and the deportation of interned aliens.

Carrier Pigeons For Forest Fire Fighting

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—The carrier pigeons and equipment of the forestry department will be available for the department of agriculture next season for conveying messages from forest fire fighters "out front" to headquarters. The test of the flight for this use was carried out on a limited scale this season but it encouraged the forest service officials to believe that they may be employed profitably on a larger scale. Flight of 500 miles in a single day has been made while a distance of 100 to 200 miles was made in two hours of flight for the average bird. The distance which would be covered in forest service work is considerably less than that of the carrier pigeons. The value of the birds in mountainous regions where travel is difficult would be especially great.

EXPECT ACTION BY GOVERNMENT

Only Few Operators Attend Wage Scale Conference, and They Have Nothing to Say

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The coal operators today awaited government action to settle the wage dispute between the miners and the operators. The wage scale committee they had only a few of the operators were present and they withdrew, declaring that there was nothing to talk about, and that it was best to wait for the government to act.

The miners remained in session discussing affairs of their own concern. The coal operators went into adjournment this afternoon. When informed of the telegram sent by Dr. Garfield by former secretary of the Treasury Mellon they were not willing to comment upon it.

The operators today declared that the increase proposed by Secretary Wilson would mean a 70 per cent increase in the cost of production of coal and they were disposed to leave this question to the government.

Dr. Garfield has already declared that the burden shall not be placed upon the public and he will fight with this end in view.

MONEY IN THE RIGHT CHURCH BUT WRONG PEW

Same Bank Book Used for Deposits in Two Banks Caused Debate Between Mexicans

While Deputy Sheriff Harry Dietrich sat in his office this morning, his thoughts bent anxiously upon the case of a small sign that met his reflective eye through the doorway. The sign, which was barely broken by the entry of a young Mexican, was a regular Villa-Carranza conference that was held upon the day deputy who hastened to mollify.

Clopez Cortes was, with his indignation, "Si Senor, he takes his money from the other side came a waving of deprecating hands and another male dialogue was on. Dietrich finally separated them and set an instance of what was wrong. Cortes, employed in a rural beef field had deposited in the First National bank of Twin Falls. Later he sent his bank book and other sums of money into the bank with the other Mexican. The book had been returned to him with the deposit entered each time. Then came a day when Cortes went to the bank to draw his money. He was charged to find only his original $200.00 there. He sought the other Mexican and there were voluble explanations which did not explain anything. Cortes suspected the other Mexican had pocketed the later deposits, which totaled $125 in all, and had done his own bookkeeping in the bank book. So he collared the other and brought him in to the sheriff's office.

Dietrich decided to investigate the deposits himself as he started for the bank flanked by the two Mexicans. Coming to a certain corner, one Mexican started one way and the other Mexican turned in the opposite direction. "This was all Cortes, turning left of a horse or said by craftily toward the First National. "Not so, señor, this way" argued the other Mexican. "But my money was in the bank," said Cortes, pointing to the First National. "So, that bank over there," cried the other, pointing to the Idaho State bank.

Investigation proved both Mexicans to be right. The original $25 had been in the First National bank and other Mexican, being sent to town with the later deposits had gone inadvertently to the Idaho State bank where the deposits were accepted and recorded in the First National book. The missing $125 was found in that depository.

MARKET LIKES SINGH BETTER THAN WHISTLE

The suit which is really three suits, seeks to recover various amounts on accounts from Frank Singh, Boda Singh and Debar Singh. Apparently the market preferred to sing rather than whistle for its money. The H. G. Spitznagel was named to the tune of $28,500.

Diamond Setting
The following method of setting diamonds has been found to be the best: First drill the hole for the diamond to the usual depth of little deeper than the greatest dimensions of the stone. The drilling should be done without lubricant, as oil of any kind tends to prevent the spelter from flowing successfully.

This being done, the hole should be closed in slightly, just enough to make it out of round. The spelter is now poured into the hole, filling it completely, and the diamond, held in a pair of tweezers, is pushed into the liquid spelter. In this hole, the spelter makes its appearance it is certain that there are no vacant spots under the stone.

After the spelter has cooled the end of the rod in which the diamond is located can be stamped up in the customary manner. The fact that the hole is slightly out of round prevents the core of spelter from working out of the end of the rod.

OPPORTUNITY

of sharing in the profits of sugar manufacturing. To become a stockholder in this company means that you are helping to bring into the Twin Falls Tract approximately 1 1/2 millions of dollars each year for each factory built which means better roads, better schools, better railroad facilities, more prosperity in general, and consequently a better country.

Did You Ever Investigate

to find out how much sugar being used in the United States is imported from Cuba, Hawaii and Porto Rico? About 75 per cent of all the sugar we use comes from a foreign country, or about $700,000,000 is going out of the United States which helps to build up a foreign country.

Does It Pay

to be a stockholder in a sugar company? The records show that sugar companies have paid from 37 per cent to 97 per cent and more in the past, and statistics show that the Twin Falls Tract is one of the best sugar beet sections in the whole country, and it should pay as good or better than any other section of the United States.

SHOULD UNRAVEL RUSSIAN TANGLE

British Minister of War Pleads for Attitude of Fair-Mindedness Toward Bolsheviki

LONDON, Nov. 24.—"A policy of building a rampart along the coast like the great wall of China, leaving all the people to rot in their jails," would be sufficient to secure our own safety," Winston Spencer Churchill, minister of war, asserts in an article which was printed in the Sunday Herald—the Sunday edition of the Daily Sketch.

The United Press was permitted a resume of the article in the United States. The powerful plea for an attitude of fair-mindedness toward Germany and Russia was considered especially timely in view of the recent situation in the house that Great Britain is preparing to cease hostilities against Russia.

"We must avert danger of a Russian-Germany by dealing with the problem from both sides.

"While we must watch Germany unceasingly, it must be not only with the intention of guarding against military intrigue, but with the view of gradually bringing her back into the European circle as a democratic republic. There must be a league from which a reconciled and chastened Germany will not be excluded and wherein also will be found restored civilized Russia, a friend of Great Britain and the United States.

"If Russia and Germany made a common cause either in the government or national government or nationalist, despite, all the dangers which led to the explosion of 1914 will be reproduced in an aggravated form.

"We must exert our influence to a way that Russia will not feel she has lost all through the war, which she fought so bravely on our side."

"An honest effort of the government to steer a course between imperialism, anarchy and Prussian military despotism, and to secure our help and encouragement," Churchill says.

"We don't want a land of broken, scheming, disbanded armies putting its hands to the sword because it cannot get them to the spine or the hilt. Britain's power to rule Germany into the channel of civilization, and Pacific recovery is very important. It is a wonderful opportunity. Let us not miss it for our safety depends upon it."

Superstition Played Part in Expedition

BOSTON, Nov. 25.—Ill fortune, superstition and disaster played havoc with the Todd expedition to the equator, according to Eustace G. L. Richardson, Nashville, and W. A. Cushing of Long Island, both attached to the expedition, who have related their story on the U. S. shipping board's steamer Ellnor. Scientists and naval officers barely escaped death when the ship sank through the first great storm in twenty years in the harbor of Pernambuco, Brazil.

Professor David Todd of Amherst, world famous astronomer, led the expedition south from New York on May 13 to observe the sun's eclipse above the equator. Sailors on the Ellnor feared bad luck from the start. They grumbled at the state, that 13 sailors were assigned to the four life boats, that there was 12 portholes on each side of the ship and the Ellnor reached the equator on the 13th of June. The eclipse had passed before the Ellnor arrived there.
