INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE HAS PROGRAM

Statement Issued Declaring Now Proposals Will Be Made Public December 29, 1914

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—President Wilson's industrial conference has prepared a program of "specific proposals for the adjustment of industrial disputes." This tentative program will be made public about December 29, it was announced today.

LABOR PROBLEM CAN BE SOLVED

Ought Not Be More Difficult Than Industrial and Financial Panics, Says Smith

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—It should be as practicable for the federal government to devise and legislate to prevent industrial strife as to enacted legislation to prevent industrial and financial panics, in the opinion of Representative Charles Smith of Michigan, chairman of the house labor committee.

"I expect that results to come from the work of this second industrial conference now being held," said Representative Smith today. "I believe it possible to formulate plans by which labor and industrial disputes can be settled amicably no matter what the cause of the dispute or how great the differences and the bitterness. I am confident that out of this present conference will come concrete and practicable plans that will solve the problem."

"Former attempts along this line were haphazardly planned. There was too much discussion of the merits of some of them and with others the representatives were unwilling to be satisfied."

"In the large delegations there were many irreconcilables and the necessary compromise could not be pressed to acceptance."

"In this smaller conference it is possible to come to conclusions on basic points of dispute or how great the yieldings and adjustments of which would be on the basic principles of the arrangements can be arranged which will settle the differences can be adjusted and economic peace be made permanent in this conference."

"For a long time it was held by many that it was impossible to correct by legislation or otherwise the economic ills that waste in industrial and financial panics. But prominent bankers and congress worked out the solution of the problem."

HAPGOODS COMING HOME

Denied Friendliness for Bolshewik Is Reason for Leave of Absence

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Norman Hapgood, United States minister in Denmark, is coming home on a leave of absence, the state department announced today. Assistant Secretary of State John Daniels, who had returned because of alleged friendliness with representatives of Hapgood has talked and met with bolshewik and representatives of the soviet government and other factories in Russia and he has all known to the state department. He declares that those meetings were for the purpose of gaining information concerning the Russian situation. Secretary Daniels did not say that the state department had endorsed this course by the minister, but he denied that it had authorized to do with his return.

THE FRIGATE BIRDS.

"How-do-you-do, Golden Hammer," said Mr. Frigate Bird. "Can't you talk?" But the bird flew on for he had an engagement with his mate. "Oh, well," said Mr. Frigate Bird. "Do not mind if he will not talk, for I have things to talk about. I heard the other day that there were swallows who fed and who were swallows which flew near at hand. We do not know those things, too."

"But I also heard that different swallows had different ways. I was told that and I was supposed to be surprised, but I know about insects, most certainly I do."

"I guess birds are pretty well on the subject," said Mr. Frigate Bird.

"On what subject?" asked Mr. Frigate Bird. "On the subject of my love, on the subject of my life, on the subject of clouds, or on the subject of high branches of trees?"

"I mean those of three things," said Mr. Frigate Bird. "I mean those of my love, on the subject of my life, on the subject of clouds, or on the subject of high branches of trees?"

"I mean those of three things," said Mr. Frigate Bird. "I mean those of my love, on the subject of my life, on the subject of clouds, or on the subject of high branches of trees?"

LESSON FOR DECEMBER 21

THE KINGDOM OF THE PRINCE OF PEACE.

LESSON TEXT—Isaiah II. GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt call thy name Jesus: for he shall save his people from their sins.—Mat. I. THE WISE MEN VISIT THE BABY JESUS.

TRIMMINGS—The Birth of the Prince of Peace.

REMARKS AND ADULT TOPIC—Personal World Peace When the Prince of Peace Shall Reign.

On this Christmas occasion let us take a forward look into the golden future which is ahead of us. It is the thought which the wise of all ages have spoken and the poets have sung. It will aid us in our quest for a more improved social condition and a more united League of Nations, but by the personal coming and reign of the Prince of Peace, the Lord Jesus Christ, the King of the Kingdom which David said the God of heaven should set up (Dan. 2:44-45).

I. The Lineage of the King (v. 1).

He is of royal stock, the King of David. His birth took place nearly 2,000 years ago. This Christmas season let us remember it.

II. The Gifts and Power of the King (v. 2).

These result from the coming of the Lord. Because of this, the King of the Kingdom is equipped to rule the world. A sixfold characterization of the Spirit of the Lord is given in the text.

1. The Spirit of the Lord. This text shows that he is to be qualified for his work by divine wisdom. It will aid us in our quest for a more improved social condition and a more united League of Nations, but by the personal coming and reign of the Prince of Peace, the Lord Jesus Christ, the King of the Kingdom which David said the God of heaven should set up (Dan. 2:44-45).

CRATER IMMENSE IN SIZE

The Hawaiian Islands possess an extinct volcano so immense that a large city could be set down inside the crater. It is a horseshoe-shaped mountain the face of Haleakala, twenty miles across the crater walls, and 10,000 feet to the top. The crater was once a great lake, and in a series of eruptions, stretching the mountain with hot lava, it was gradually filled in. Within the crater there formed a great cone and a number of smaller ones can be seen. It is so far down to the floor of the crater that a bomber pushed in seems to fall in empty space. The crash of its landing is never heard.

The view from the crater of Mt. Haleakala is one of the most wonderful in the world. The green fields of the island and the Pacific are spread out before the observer like a mighty map.

At 10,000 feet above sea level nature at Haleakala seems strangely different. The stars look larger and brighter; the moon's path is more clearly defined, and its rays are stronger light than they do at a low altitude. At dawn a procession of clouds drifts softly past in a fantastic river, and there are thousands of feet below. Then the rising sun tints clouds and crater with steadily deepening colors until it is broad daylight and the clouds fade into mist.

Standing by the crater of Haleakala at sunrise you perceive how old the Hawaiian myth which goes back to the beginning of things. At that time, says the story, the god Maui imprisoned the sun in the hollow of the volcano and made him promise to give light and heat to the islands. From that ancient myth comes the name of the volcano, Haleakala, home of the sun.

A Stranger in the Woods.

Years ago, when quite a youth, I was rambling in the woods one Sunday with my brothers, gathering blackberries, wintergreens, etc., when, as we reached upon the ground, a strange light blip into the trees. I caught sight of a bird that passed a moment on a branch above me, and I was struck by a bird that never before or heard of. It was probably the blue-winged teal, but I have never seen it before. It was a common bird in those woods, but to my young fancy it seemed like some fairy bird, so curiously marked with its blue and red and black. It seemed like an angel part of the iron brood woods. I saw it a moment as the flicking light of the wings of the white spot in its wing, and it was gone. How the thought of it clung to me afterward. It was a revelation. It was that bird that I had had that the woods we knew so well held birds that we knew not at all.—John Burroughs.

Two Hundred Years Ago.

"And heron it is that I take upon me to make such a bold assertion that all the world are mistaken in their practice about women; for I have seen that God Almighty made them . . . so glorious creatures . . . with souls capable of the same knowledge as our men, and all to be only stewards of our houses, cooks, and slaves." This advanced doctrine, which in its day sounded as heretical as it did when uttered in a present day convention, was written, as is noted in a recent book on English literature, some two hundred years ago, by Daniel Defoe.—Outlook.

Coconut Palm the Tropical Cow.

Copra consists of the dried meat of coconuts. It contains from 50 to 61 per cent of fat.

In India, Ceylon, China, the South Sea Islands and elsewhere the palm has been used as food since the dawn of history, for the fruit consisted in large measure of the same elements as it does in those respects. It is already in wide use in this country as "nut margarine," which is coconut oil into which some lard has been melted and the whole churned with alkali—that is, milk with the fat removed—and worked as ordinary butter.

Jap Picture Bride Practice Abolished

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15.—Senator James D. Phelan is in receipt today of advice from Washington, D. C., that the Japanese government will abolish the "picture bride" practice February 21. His advice states that the Japanese government has notified the government of the United States to this effect.

Many "picture brides" are annually imported to this country as the wives of resident Japanese. It is considered that the practice is but a ruse to gain admittance for aliens.

THE BEST WAR MONUMENT

The ancient Cloth Hall, the Cathedral and the adjacent buildings in the city of Ypres are not to be rebuilt.

It would have been impossible to restore these buildings to their former beauty. No modern brick or stone could harmonize entirely with their weather-beaten, time-faded walls.

While the ruins of Ypres stand, man can never quite forget what happened there. So long as they remain, they will remain firm in their purpose to re-establish law and government and love in the world.

"SOVIET AMERICA"

Emm Goldman and Alexander Berkman, the two most ardent anarchists in this country, are shut up in Ellis Island awaiting deportation.

Both of them say that they expect to return in a few years to "good America." Berkman says he rather figures he will come as a Russian ambassador, while his partner claims that she will come back as "an exchange professor in one of the larger universities."

Anarchists are people who pretend to be more intelligent and far-sighted than the rest of mankind. And here are the two foremost representatives of American anarchism apparently believing that America is destined to go the way of Russia.

When the experts can't agree on how big an army the country needs, how is the ineptest public going to tell?

BEAUFORT MAN TRIES SUICIDE

J. A. Burns Formerly of Twin Falls Takes Poison Unsuccessfully Last Evening

At eleven o'clock this morning Burns was reported to be no worse. The physicians stated that his progress of recovery appeared fairly good.

Jack Allen Burns, former resident of Twin Falls, later of Blackfoot, attempted to commit suicide last night in the Perrine hotel by taking poison. Burns, who was registered at the Perrine, sent several notes last night to his wife, who resides in this city, and also phoned her a number of times. As a result Mrs. Burns came with her brother to the hotel where they found Burns in his room. Burns overcame by the effects of an unknown poison. Several analyses were made but the kind of poison has not been discovered. It was brought in Blackfoot before Burns left for Twin Falls. The man was at once taken to the hospital where he is now recovering. The doctors stated this morning that little improvement was shown and that his condition is serious. Although he worked as a cooper and organized a sailors and soldiers company. He was at one-time employed at the Twin Falls Times and later worked in local camps.

Origin of "Uncle Sam"

If you looked the other way on the street the origin of Uncle Sam as a favorite pseudonym for the U. S. A., he would probably tell you that it was called that because the initials of the were the same. It all started way back in 1812. Samuel Wilson was inspector of provisions for the United States army at Troy, N. Y. One day came appeared "U. S.," the abbreviation for United States. This abbreviation at the time was very much used. It is said that one day one of the workmen was asked what these letters stood for, and he in sport said this meant "Uncle Sam" Wilson. The good inspector was teased from that time on about the increase of his possessions, as the name continued to be used about "U. S." When his men entered the army the joke about "Uncle Sam" Wilson spread with much the same speed as the word "the great" in the instance, in the recent war. Soon it was known in all the armies in the field. All the government supplies continued to be marked "Uncle Sam," and finally "Uncle Sam" came to stand for the United States government.

Froggoppers.

The chief pest to sugar cane in the West Indies is the froggopper, an insect that sucks the sap from the root and leaves of the sugar cane, and that takes its name to its ability to take prologous leaps. In recent years the insect has been reported to occur, especially in Trinidad, where their natural enemies—frogs, toads and lizards—have been nearly exterminated by men who continually brought from India to kill the rats and snakes. Wherever the froggoppers were plentiful the lizards disappeared and the froggoppers flourished. Five years ago a leading planter, after experimenting as many mosquitoes as possible, placed thousands of green lizards in his cane fields, with the result that the froggopper had almost disappeared, and the sugar yield is greatly increased and improved.

Freaks of Nature.

A cat that barked like a dog, recently exhibited at Boston, tops the list of numerous freaks discovered in this country. Recently, says the Detroit Free Press, a giant snake, 4 1/2 inches long, was found in the Santa Cruz mountains. When placed in the dark a phosphorescent effect was produced by the brilliant ring circling the body. Mammoth fruit is of frequent occurrence, but in Southlake, Utah, England, a pumpkin weighing a pound over eight was discovered. It resulted in seven dates growing on one stalk. This freak, scientists said, was caused by radiation, which means overeating. White birds, canaries, insects and sparrows have been seen and exhibited. The ocean too, gives its share of curious freaks. A double-sided founder, with both sides alike, duplicate fins and a misplaced eye, was caught some months ago.

Educational Limitations.

A small boy asked his father the meaning of equinox, and received this answer: "That is the word for you go to school for? Don't you study morphology? An equinox is a mythical animal, half horse, half cat. The name is derived from the Latin 'equine'—horse and 'cat'—bear me, they teach you absolutely nothing that is useful nowadays!"—Atlantic City.

Explosive Flour

For many years it has been known that various forms of dust when mixed with air in certain proportions are capable of producing destructive explosions when brought into contact with flame. This danger sometimes takes in flour mills, an instance being the explosion of three flour mills at Minneapolis in 1878. It was then demonstrated by experiment that two cups of flour in a tin can, set off by a lighted candle, would cause a violent explosion, and it was calculated that the contents of a flour sack distributed through 4,000 cubic feet of air would cause an explosion capable of throwing a weight of 2,500 tons to a height of 100 feet. An instance is known where sugar dust in a confectionery factory caused an explosion, which in another case destroyed a great quantity of property.

GOVERNMENT PLANT FOR SALE

Built for War Emergency Manufacture, Never Used—Suitable for Many Uses

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 18.—The government's latest bargain offer to American business and manufacturers in the task of liquidating its war-time investment in shipbuilding, is the brand new unused industrial plant at Richmond, Va., now being offered by the Emergency Plant Corporation, Shipyard's Plant Division, at Philadelphia.

The plant was designed to be adaptable for an industrial purpose, the intention having been to use it as a boiler manufacturing plant during the war with an anticipated capacity of 200 Scotch Marine boilers per year. Manufacturing equipment has been delivered but not installed, permitting the purchaser to arrange for the maximum utility for his own product.

The property extends from the right of way of the Southern R. R. on the James river to the right-of-way of the Seaboard Air Line with switching connection made with the latter. The city of Richmond is an excellent manufacturing center with 85 per cent of the population native. An average of 40 per cent of the working population is engaged in mechanical or manufacturing work. A plentiful supply of raw materials is indicated by the fact that there are twenty-two blast furnaces in the Virginia fields, alone with a capacity of over 10,000,000 tons within 24 hours haul.

There are six modern buildings on the property including the steel and brick main building, six hundred feet long by one hundred and fifty feet wide and a power plant.

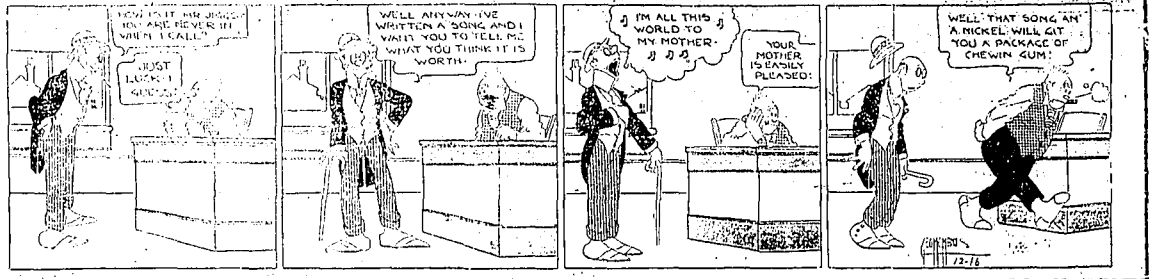

Practically no changes would be required to convert the plant for use as a steel fabricating plant, machine works, laundry, engine works, car works, boiler works and metal manufacturing business.

BRINGING UP FATHER

Republicans Smother Discussion of League

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—A noticeable feature of the meeting of the Republican national committee here was the complete official smothering of any discussion of the peace treaty and the League of Nations. This fact, the object of Will H. Hays, national chairman, but it did not prevent a very general discussion among the commentators. From this source it was learned that the general party sentiment was not in accord with the statement of Senator Lodge that the treaty is dead, a fact to which the League is opposed and that of Senator Borah that not only was the treaty dead but that it would stay dead because of the people's vote in next year's national election.

Practically all the commentators all the people wanted a speedy ratification of the treaty and its elimination from politics.

Considerable differences of opinion was found as to the character of provisions that should be adapted to the sentiment apparently being for the fast ratification. The consensus about the League associations that were objectionable because of the inability of the allied nations to accept them, should be promptly eliminated and the treaty adapted at once with appropriate provisions of a mild character.

Pound Sterling Is Still Below Par

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Although it method today the exchange rate on English pound sterling continues to fall readily upon the belief that the pound may act upon the peace treaty and the reports from Paris that Germany is expected to sign the peace treaty to that the treaty can be put into effect before January 1. At present making a low record of $241 on last December 12, the English pound closed up to $236, but contained a temporary check today, falling to $235 1/2. There had been considerable covering by "shorts" on the exchange market during the past week.

COMPLAIN AT PRICE OF ACID PHOSPHATE

Figures Quoted by Manufacturers Are Too High.

Strikes and Car Shortage in Florida and Tennessee Fields Have Combined to Reduce Production and Shipments.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The United States department of agriculture has received numerous complaints regarding the price of acid phosphate as compared with the price of mixed fertilizers. The price quoted by manufacturers during the season of 1910 to dealers or individuals is 30 tons or more was $24 a ton for C. B. Baltimore, Philadelphia and Portland. These prices asked for the fair trade is $22.50 a ton.

It will be recalled that the department on June 1 issued a statement to the effect that farmers should be able to obtain mixed fertilizer in the fall of 1910 at prices approximately 30 per cent lower than those prevailing in the spring. This statement was based upon information that had been obtained from manufacturers, but it was expressly stated that the price of acid phosphate was being further investigated. Obviously, the price of this material is not being so prevalent, and the department, in letters to manufacturers, has expressed the view that the prices quoted above are too high.

It has also advised all acid phosphate manufacturers that in the future they require them to be able to produce straight acid phosphate, a separate commodity, on the actual cost of the materials of manufacture and that the cost of manufacturing mixed goods must not be prorated on that portion of the acid phosphate which is sold at such.

Since the prices of acid phosphate were indicated to the department by the fertilizer manufacturers, the price of crude acid phosphate has advanced to such a point that the dry nitrate, which may be the material, is sold at $1.50 a ton. It is also stated that the cost of manufacturing mixed goods must not be prorated on that portion of the acid phosphate which is sold at such.

It has also advised the phosphate rocks and the acid phosphate manufacturers that the price of acid phosphate is being advanced to such a point that the dry nitrate, which may be the material, is sold at $1.50 a ton. It is also stated that the cost of manufacturing mixed goods must not be prorated on that portion of the acid phosphate which is sold at such.

GOOD COVER FOR HAYSTACKS
Ample Protection Offered by Layers of Coarse Grass, Such as Millet, Sudan or Sorghum.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

High price of hay makes it essential that farmers top off their hay stacks with proper covers for protection from the dry frost and winter winds. A cheap and simple cover for hay stacks or rick of hay may be made by spreading a layer, about four inches thick, of coarse grass, such as millet, Sudan grass, sorghum, or some coarse weed growing on the top of the stack or rick, along the long poles over the hay, and then binding these poles permanently in place by the use of wires wrapped around both ends. Where the hay is stacked out of doors in oblong ricks, a satisfactory cover may often be made by using 12-inch boards 1 1/2 inches in thickness, cut as long as the rick, which may be wired together and lapped like shingles to form a tight cover against the wind. Farmers have been successful in using corrugated galvanized roofing or corrugated iron for the same purpose. Such a cover is the most durable and a protection for hay stacks.

LIVE STOCK NOTES
Old sows farrow heavier pigs than young sows do.

Ailfala is a good feed for the broiler in summer and before.

Ailfala provides a large amount of nutriment for every kind of stock.

Three kindles are light and drive away. Stop in the shade if possible.

Use the salt plury of rosin to which is added fish liver, but better not let him follow into the field.

Fresh air and sunlight outside the case in the stable. Dirty barn should be airy barns. Ventilation is essential.

Hogs should be supplied with salt. Hog ground should not be managed as a waste as much as it is without waste as possible, since forage is by far the cheapest feed that can be used.

"And nothing is going to happen to her after you had her?"
"Happen to her? What could happen to her? I have nothing to do with her—my business is to locate her father and arrange a matter with him—quickly."
"And will the captain inspect him if the diplomatic matter isn't satisfactory arranged?"
"Of course!" "I'm sure I can't say—I don't know anything about the captain's diplomatic affairs."
"What will you offer the Diamond?"

"He selected a few moments, and then with one of his hands, he held the diamond. "I'll give you ten thousand dollars if you will return the diamond to me. I'll give you ten thousand dollars if you will return the diamond to me. I'll give you ten thousand dollars if you will return the diamond to me."

Burlap Bag His Only Garment

Give the boy a chance

"I don't wonder you doubt it," he replied. "I'll give you a will—something which will save the start of me." And with that, off he went.

249,999 other homeless orphans like him

Poster based on actual photograph taken at Erivan, Armenia, by Dr. M. S. Littlefield.

NEAR EAST RELIEF

It is only one of 20,000 helpless child victims of Turkish cruelty and oppression in Western Asia. And just as he stands in the picture this forlorn little fellow, with his bare, shivering cheeks, lips, nose and feet, clad only in a burlap bag, was found wandering in the streets of Irbil, Armenia, by Dr. M. S. Littlefield of the Near East Relief.

An American $2 Bill Did This

Motherless, fatherless, homeless, homeless, lonely, and clad only in a burlap bag, the pathetic little three-year-old boy, who has wandered into a Near East Relief orphanage in Armenia. Another photograph of the same child, shown in the right, was taken a week later, his face showing him happy, well clothed and well fed.

"I don't know where he is," Clara said, looking at the picture. "He is in the hands of the Near East Relief. I'll give you ten thousand dollars if you will return the diamond to me."

"I'll give you ten thousand dollars if you will return the diamond to me. I'll give you ten thousand dollars if you will return the diamond to me. I'll give you ten thousand dollars if you will return the diamond to me."

"I'll give you ten thousand dollars if you will return the diamond to me. I'll give you ten thousand dollars if you will return the diamond to me. I'll give you ten thousand dollars if you will return the diamond to me."

"And I kept them," I remarked, with a bitter smile. "It's all I've been doing for the last ten days."
He handed the diamonds to the Great Unknown. Silence fell on all of us for a moment, in which Clara lifted her beautiful face from my shoulder, her eyes encountering an ardent gaze.
"Oh, Mr. Rivers," she cried, in answer to my look. "You've been so good to dear papa!"
Billy, Mrs. DeLario and I had nearly killed ourselves and Billy got the diamonds from my shoulder. I looked at each other and I winked. She winked back, and we never let out so much as half a smile. But two dear young things were happy, so we let it go at that.
