Milk Toast Diet Too Much for Her

"I suffered for years with only temporary relief. My liver was very bad after eating. I would always have such a feeling in my stomach and my heart would palpitate. I could not eat milk toast without distressing me. Since making a course of Schilling's Tea I feel better more than a year ago. I can eat anything my appetite desires. It is a simple harmless preparation that removes the congestion and restores the normal function of the liver. The inflammation which causes indigestion, flat stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis, may show slight constriction or morbidities. Get dose and continue or consult your physician everywhere.—Adv.

The way to get health and pleasure from tea is:

- 1) Buy good tea
 - 2) Choose the flavor you like
 - 3) Don't boil it, nor let it stand too long in the leaves—no over six minutes.
- Get Schilling Tea, try one flavor after another (you may find the right one) and make it right.

That gives you the full pleasure that tea has to give—and at the same time it invigorates you, cheers you and rests you.

That's the way. Good tea—Schilling Tea.

MEAT, WELL CURED AT HOME, SUPERIOR IN FLAVOR TO PACKING HOUSE PRODUCT

After Carcass is Cut Up, Trim and Shape Properly the Pieces Before Curing

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

With the first frost and the fall, a large number of home-butchering time. Many a city man or woman, who spent his early days on a farm, remembers visiting the curing racks that were his when butchering time came round. After months of a salt-pork diet, followed in the fall by a superiority of chicken served in every conceivable style, the fresh pork was welcomed as gratefully as the rain which follows a drought.

A Flavor All Its Own

Home-cured meat when well cured is superior to the packing-house product. It has a longer flavor which the commercial firms do not give and it can be prepared for much less than the cost of purchased meat. The rich, clean, curing of meats, too, has proved so successful that the number of people who are butchering at home is on the increase.

The first essential in curing is to make sure the pork is thoroughly cleaned. The best of animal kingdom states. Meats should never be frozen, either prior to or during the process of curing. The proper time to begin curing is when the meat is cooled and still fresh. Twenty-four to thirty-six hours after killing is the opportune time to begin curing.

A clean, hardwood, melonseed or iron barrel is a suitable vessel in which to cure pork. The barrel should be clean and tight so as to prevent leakage. A clean stone or metal jar is the best container in which to cure pork. The barrel should be filled with a layer of salt approximately for curing pork. It is necessary to salt it out thoroughly before fresh pork is packed into it.

Salt, sugar or molasses, and salt-peter are the principal preservatives commonly used in curing pork. The use of other preservatives is prohibited in curing pork subject to federal meat inspection.

Ways of Curing.

Much diversity of opinion exists as to the merits of the two ways of curing—brine and dry-curing. Dry-cured meat is handled only once, while brine-cured meat must be brined and then dried. The brine keeps away insects and vermin. If brines are followed closely and pure water is used in making the brine it will not spoil and should keep for a reasonable length of time. If the brine becomes "ropy" it should be poured off and boiled or a new brine should be made. A cool cellar is the most desirable place for both brine and dry-curing, although a dry cellar is preferred for dry-curing. When meat is cured during warm weather the dry method of curing is preferred to the brine method.

Household Questions

"Coffee is the better if a drop or two of vanilla is put in each cup."

To prevent mustard from drying in the mustard pot, add a little salt when making it.

Candle grease on a carpet may be removed by means of blotting paper and hot iron.

To clean unvarnished wall paper, rub them with a brush made from flour and water kneaded together.

When tanned skins are being dyed it is possible to make them new again by cutting with scissors an eight of an inch off the fibres.

Bees certain flies that have been neglected may be cleaned by soaking them in melted paraffin for twenty-four hours and then rubbing with ordinary brass paste. They will look like new.

NATIONAL BARRIERS.
The intense nationalist, the American chauvinist, who can see no other land but his own as having the right to exist, is active in the country these days. He stretches Americanism to cover extreme selfishness, the abandonment of interest in every nation but his own. He would let Europe starve or rot, sink or swim, alone. He holds that America has no part or interest in foreign conditions; we are impassive. He points to the great dividing factor, 3,000 miles of ocean, and declares that behind such a barrier we can pursue our own way unmolested, and should let Europe look after itself.

He parades the statement that he is a practical man, and derides internationalists. But for a practical man he is extremely unsophisticated, a mere child. He knows little of history, and generally has little grasp of what he does know.

Let us consider China. Three hundred years before Christ, China had just such a wave of selfish and self-defending nationalism. The Chinese decided against their internationalists and vowed they would have nothing to do with the rest of the world; China would keep the quarrelsome nations from the Flowery Kingdom. Soyahe became the creation of a great wall that should keep back the hordes of invading Tartars, the Manchus and the Mongols. This wall hampered, China fell asleep, lulled by a false sense of security against the hordes of the rest of the world.

But "stone walls do not a prison make, nor iron bars a cage." Neither do material bars, be they walls of stone, miles of ocean or fleets of armored ships, fend off the troubles, the perplexities and the problems of mankind. History of the Chinese during the twenty-two centuries since the erection of their "insurmountable" wall teaches us that the barrier hurt no one but the people who erected it.

And America must learn that her ocean ramparts are no barriers, either to ingress or egress. Though the oceans were twice as wide and her fleets twice as strong, they are still vulnerable to ideas and idealists. Nations, like men, live not to themselves alone. Every day widens the circle of interest for every man and for every nation.

BOLSHEVISM IS NOT SOCIALISM.

A letter from Archbishop Platon, primate of the Holy Orthodox Russian Church, Metropolitan of Kherson and Odessa, addressed to all Christians, of whatever sect, throughout the United States, declares that Bolshevism is not Socialism.

UNDER THE OPEN SKY.
Pleasure and health will be theirs who continue into the winter months the same pleasure of outdoor life that they enjoy in the summer.

With the advance of winter and the increased pressure of business and indoor social life which it brings, to say nothing of its inclement weather, it is very natural to lean largely to those amusements which may be carried on under the shelter of the roof, and to neglect the walks, rides and picnics to which mankind turns freely in the summer. It is not winter's fault that this is so; it is rather the misfortune of those who fail to appreciate the most splendid season of the year.

dry shod, a winter picnic has no terrors and offers a world of fun. It is possible to be perfectly comfortable around a winter camp fire, and any one who eats a steak or a pork tenderloin broiled over the coals out in the keen clear air, and drinks his piping coffee, knows more about the fine flavor of food than all the sandwich-eaters who ever sat beside the brook in summer time.

THE INDEPENDENT VOTERS.

In spite of the action of political leaders, most Americans are not yet convinced that the League of Nations is necessarily Democratic, and that opposition to it is necessarily Republican.

THE 1,000 PER CENT COMMUNITY.
Which Community will save 1,000 points and prove to be the Utopia of the Alleged Community?

The system was started two years ago to encourage a higher standard of life in the rural sections. The points cover nine general headings: History, government, business, farms, clubs, homes, schools, churches and health.

The old expressions, "blind-drunk" and "doad-drunk" are certainly appropriate for word-alcohol intoxication.

Prices are bound to go down now. Why? Simplest reason in the world—how could they go any higher?

Anti-Sedition Bill Has Draconic Penalties

JAMES D. HAML WAS ON VERGE OF GIVING UP

"I had reached the point where I would go no farther and I thought I would have to give up my work, but now since I have taken Tanlag I am a different man. I have been in Los Angeles the other day. Mr. Hamill lives at 262 West 19th-fourth street. He is one of the best known and most progressive of the Broadway department boys, having been in their employ over fifteen years.

Yellow Mustard for Sore Throat, Tonsillitis

Old fashioned remedies are often the best. Yellow Mustard, in the form of plaster or poultice has been used for generations for soreness, inflammation, congestion and swellings with most excellent results but it is often overlooked.

When your throat is sore, when you have pharyngitis or a pain-shooting chest cold you can get speedy and lasting relief with this most effective preparation because it most effectively penetrates into the most painful spots.

Recuperation a Natural Process. One thing which mitigates the present destructive effects of war is the reciprocity with which, even in normal times, everything in the organic world is being incessantly destroyed and renewed. For example, science tells us that practically every cell in our own bodies is thus replaced with a period of seven years. And what is true of the human individual is equally true of those larger entities known as nations.

ATTENTION! FATHERS! OLDFATHERS! NAPPY AND BUNNY TO GIRLS' SCHOOL.

DENVER, Col., Jan. 12.—Joe Hamer, popular sportsman at Denver High school, disclaims any "Vanishing Hill" Carline ambitions, but he has experienced the thrill of escaping from a packing box similar to the one in which the notorious train robber made his escape from Denver High school penitentiary, not however, without the assistance of some of the fair coeds at Denver University.

Delivery of a huge box at the girls' dormitory of the university, addressed to one of the 100 odd coeds, created great excitement and mystery. When the girls succeeded in opening the box they discovered heavy white blankets, the sophomore declares he was "kidnaped" while sleeping in his quarters and was as much bewildered as the girls who he was taken from the box.

MOST DISABLED SOLDIERS GET VOCATIONAL TRAINING

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 11.—Fifty-eight per cent of the soldiers under treatment in hospitals in December were enrolled by educational courses created by the government to fit men discharged in the war for remunerative occupations after their discharge from service.

These courses are proving popular with the patients, and are serving a useful purpose. Many of the men who have undergone this training and subsequently received their discharges have found profitable employment in civil life. They will have, in addition to their compensation for disabilities, either manual skill or mental training that will insure them a means of livelihood.

LET BULL PUP BONE IN MARBLE

PARIS, Jan. 12.—Madame Reace Myrlele has furnished the newly rich of Paris with a fresh sensation by having her husband put to rest in marble by a well known sculptor, so that she may have him always with her after that homely pup passes away. The sculptor is exhibiting the marble image in a shop window near the Opera and inviting other dog owners to follow suit.

Good Will is a Valuable Asset

—good will is that indefinable thing that inclines people to trade at a certain place. It is a valuable asset. Unfortunately few business men appreciate its value.

—a good name cannot be established in a short time. It takes months and sometimes years.

—no business man can forget the future. It is a grave mistake to "clean up" today in a way that bars the door to trouble tomorrow. It is too much like getting ready money today by paying a mortgage on one's home. The money may last but a day; while the mortgage sticks like a porous plaster. The extra profit made from a few questionable transactions soon vanishes, and the lost reputation can never be regained.

—a cornerstone does not make a building, but the displacement of one may wreck it. An honest transaction does not necessarily establish a good reputation, but leave the honesty out of a single deal and it may destroy the good name that it required years to build. We place a high value on the good will of our customers that greatly overshadow any profit that we may make from a single transaction.

IRRIGATION DAM FAVORED

American Falls Reservoir To Cost City $7,000—To Be Paid By Bond Issue

Ivan G. Lincoln, vice president of the Twin Falls Canal company, yesterday afternoon presented to the council the proposition of a big reservoir at American Falls. Mr. Lincoln stated that water would be stored at a fine new reservoir, planned to be built at American Falls, but that there would be no water in the water tank below the dam in the winter.

$2,000 was paid for a right of way at American Falls according to Mr. Lincoln, this amount being used to purchase practically the entire town, buildings and all. All of that city would be inundated. The council only discussed the reservoir relative to its effect on the stance of Twin Falls. It was then voted that the reservoir would cost the city $7,000 and that amount could be made by issue of a bond issue.

PIPE FROM BICKEL SCHOOL TO SHOSHONE STREET MAY FURNISH WATER FOR SPRINKLING STREETS

City Council May Attempt Conservation Of Filtered Water By Using Ditch Water For City Sprinkling

A plan for utilizing the lavins of the low portions of the city was presented last evening to the city council at their regular meeting by George Sprague, city engineer. Mr. Sprague proposed that a pipe from the Bickel school ditch to Shoshone street, a distance of 2,000 feet, the water to be used for city fire fighting, sprinkling wagons, but secondarily for the lawn sprinkling.

Mr. Sprague said the town was certain to grow in the future, and that it was his understanding that the water system now was near its capacity. A dual water system, according to Mr. Sprague, was a very good one. He cited the case of Boise, which has three water systems. The idea of a pipe from the Bickel school ditch to Shoshone street, a distance of 2,000 feet, the water to be used for city fire fighting, sprinkling wagons, but secondarily for the lawn sprinkling.

The matter of having the ditch water diverted to the center of the block was turned over to the streets and aldermen of the block. The matter was approved.

The matter of purchasing a sprinkling truck for use on the city streets was taken up by Engineer Hestley, who said that $3,000 per year could be saved by using a truck for this work. Instead of having five drivers to operate that number of wagons, the cost per day of running the truck would be $30. This would include two men whose salaries aggregate $15 each and the expense of fuel, which would be $15, part of this being depreciation. This matter was laid over.

After receiving letters from the "Mountaintop" "City Bucker" and "Big News."

A city man in a glowing letter from a Chicago "development company" offering him ten acres of land in Florida, and promising him a fortune of $250,000 a year, and the "peanut" called it. He could grow the crop in a bush, a thousand bushels of peanuts on the acre, and he could sell them at the price these people ask for ten acres.

The whole "nut" system, whether it be pecans, almonds, peanuts, or what else, is simply a means of selling land at three to five times what it is worth to ignorant or unwary small investors. It costs $100,000 for this ten-acre tract of land, and you are a sucker of the racket class.—Exchange.

TO ELIMINATE ROACH PEST

Most Efficient Remedies for Control of Insects Are Powder—Sodium Fluoride Best.

Roaches will not frequent rooms unless they find some available food material. If your kitchen can be kept free from the living rooms and offices, roach infestation is restricted to such an extent that it can be controlled by the use of a few traps. The most efficient remedy for the control of roaches are powders, particularly sodium fluoride, a liberal dusting of which about the premises will furnish a sufficient means for the elimination of the pest. The sodium fluoride should be blown into the crevices with a dust gun or blower. The roach infestation is caused these insects to come out of their retreats and rush about, dying or less finally, showing a noticeable decrease in numbers to be followed in a few hours by their death.

CHEESE NOT HARD TO DIGEST

Commonly Regarded as an Appetizer and Seasoning—Very Satisfactory Meat Substitute.

Cheese is commonly regarded as an appetizer and a seasoning for other foods, but it is also a very satisfactory substitute for meat. It is rich in protein and energy, and contrary to a prevailing impression, it is easily digested. Extensive digestion experiments carried on by the department of agriculture have demonstrated that more than 95 per cent of the protein of cheese is digestible and 90 per cent of its energy is available. As compared with meat it has the advantage of being able to keep long in storage and contains much food in a small volume. A pound of cheese supplies more than twice as much energy as a pound of beef or round steak, and almost twice as much protein as the same amount of beef or ham. Cheese, therefore, is usually a cheaper food than the meats.

LOOK FOR ANOTHER POMPEII

Archaeologists Expect to Uncover Treasures of Art Hidden for Some Twenty Centuries.

During the war archaeological excavations were continued at the Italian colony of Syracusa on the north African coast, and now comes the news that what has been found so far promises the uncovering of another ancient city as important as Pompeii. Once upon a time the spot was a Greek colony, with the civilization of Greece transplanted to the soil of Africa. The work has been carried on during the war under the supervision of Prof. Luigi Marconi, director of the archaeological service of the ministry of the colonies, and the prediction is now made that the new discovery will be even more important than Pompeii in its evidence of a past civilization. Here have been found already statues of the Greek, a Hermes, an Eros, an Alexander the Great and a vast number of all the Aphrodite of Cyrene, which is said to be a very important one to be a fair rival in beauty to the Venus of Milo and the Venus of Capri. The discovery has extended over a good many years. It may be added, however, as an illustration of the modified joys of archeology, and the introduction of a new entry into the history of art, that the Aphrodite of Cyrene lacks both head and arms. The world may wonder what she looked like as well as what she was supposed to be doing.

SHARK TO FURNISH LEATHER

Investigation Has Shown That Skin of Sea Monster Much More Valuable Than Whale.

Although the personal popularity of sharks is not likely to increase, their existence will be more completely accepted if the world already knows that the spotted shark of the United States government confides its program toward providing sharkskin a good substitute for leather. The program began in 1910, and it has been shown that the skin of a shark can be tanned by the newly discovered process with a result much like superior grade leather. Commercial tanneries are being induced to turn out the product. Shoes made of shark skin are being made, and the pie, of which everything is utilized, but the squeal, the shark has been found generous for by-products. GROWTH OF HOSPITAL IDEA

Value of such institutions in American Eyes Is Shown by Their Aboounding Growth.

Figures in a recent official report to the United States department of labor show the astonishing growth of the hospital idea in this country. In 1873—less than 50 years ago—there were in the United States but 100 hospitals. Today there are nearly 9,000, an increase of nearly 9,000 per cent in the number of institutions. In 1873 the total capacity of all hospitals in the United States was 35,433; today the hospitals of the country have a total capacity of approximately 1,000,000, an increase of over 1,000 per cent. The amount of money invested in hospital construction in the United States in 1918 was $2,000,000,000, an annual expenditure for supplies, equipment, upkeep and new construction is estimated at nearly $2,000,000,000.

PAYS TO STAY IN SCHOOL

Fact Shown in Dollars and Cents by Figures Compiled by Bureau of Education.

The value of staying at school is stated in dollars and cents in figures recently compiled by the bureau of education and distributed to boys and girls throughout the country by the children's magazine.

From a study of a large number of boys and girls it has been found that a boy who remained in school until he was 18 years of age would earn $1,000 more in a year than a boy who left school at 14 years of age, and that the better-educated youth was then receiving more than $100 a year more pay.

This is equivalent to an investment of $10,000 at 8 per cent. His state would add $25 a year to his capital as fast in any other way.

From this time on the salary of a boy who stays in school will increase rapidly, while the earnings of the boy who left school at fourteen will decrease but little.

ALLEGED TIMBER FRAUDS ARE INSTRUCTIVE

Plenty of Political Junk is Revealed and Republican Ownership of Timber Land

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. A photostatic copy of a letterhead of the Woodland Company, which was prepared by the representative James A. Frear as president of the corporation, has been made public by a house subcommittee of which Frear is chairman, and which is investigating war expenditures. The photostatic was shown to Representative Frear and the subcommittee by Dr. Geo. Bruce P. Dague, director of spruce production of the war department.

Chairman Frear contended that the timberland must be twice year old, and that the relative value of the timberland was shown, was December 1, 1917. The timberland was held to have gone into the corporation year ago with other Wisconsin state property, and to have been valued at $100,000. It was held to have been sold to the corporation year ago with other Wisconsin state property, and to have been valued at $100,000.

"The company was sold out to another large company; that is the last I know about it," replied Mr. Frear. "They own the timber there," referred Gen. Dague. "I have a right to know what the timber is worth," he said, and contended that the value of the timberland was shown, was December 1, 1917.

GRAIN CORPORATION AND STATE COMMISSIONERS RUSH INTO PRINT

Cannon Answers Crit-Houser Says Cannon Misrepresents

LEWISPORT, Idaho—In reply to a letter published in the Lewiston Statesman, Jan. 12, 1919, in which the author, Mr. H. H. Cannon, states that Cannon is guilty of "gross misstatements" and "various and sundry statements" relative to the action of the grain corporation directors and officers.

"I am not in purpose knowingly to misrepresent the facts," Cannon writes. "It is not my purpose in the discharge of my official duties to make the assertion of the department upon the subject of the grain corporation, and, therefore, to get the records corrected and to afford me an opportunity in making my statements which the facts would demand, use of language I would be obliged if you would amend the following quotation: 'The grain corporation is an influence to the detriment of the grain industry in this country.'"
