ESPERANTO DEMAND FOR AUTOMOBILES IN FRANCE

PARIS, Jan. 14.—The demand for automobiles for the early spring of 1920 is such that French manufacturers cannot expect production of at least 250,000 for the coming year, about seven times the number produced in 1914. The production of motor cars for private use was entirely suspended during the war with the result that there is now an unusual demand.

START WORK ON BIG ORATORIO

First Rehearsal for Gaul's 'Holy City' Will Be Held By Singers Tonight

Preliminary preparation for presenting the oratorio, 'Gaul's Holy City,' will be started at the organization rehearsal called for this evening by Director Harry Barratt at the home of Mrs. E. Tucker on Blue-faces Boulevard.

The most unusual of all light oratorios, the 'Holy City' will be given early in March, after six weeks preparation. Participation is open to any vocalist in the city without cost, other than the expense of their music.

Calculated to promote development of a Twin Falls Oratorio Society, the program being an outgrowth of the success of Handel's 'Messiah' presented at Ascension Episcopal church, Christmas eve, the oratorio 'Holy City' will be greeted with marked interest and anticipation by music lovers of the city.

It will be under the direction of Mr. Barratt who has directed its rendition on three former occasions in other cities. The accompaniment will be Miss Mary Hampton and one other, yet to be selected. Parish hall will probably be selected for the presentation, although a location has not been definitely selected.

SALMON RIVER CANAL MEETING

For the first time in the history of the Salmon project there will be a direct representation of the farmers on the board of the operating company, Robert Hays, E. Ingraham and C. A. Sillies, being elected directors of the Salmon River Canal company at a meeting yesterday at Hollister. The meeting adjourned to February 13, when the reports for the year 1919 will be considered as well as recommendations of J. C. Porterfield, superintendent for the coming year.

MARY'S SOLDIER

By MARGUERITE I. BLUC.

In one of our Northern states where the mountains rise highest and streams flow swiftest, there lies securely hidden from the world a tiny hamlet. One of the best, most graceful curves of the road leading from the town, an slightly raised ground, stood with quiet superiority, a long, low, comfortable, modern automobile.

Behind the guardians, Mrs. Marden, mistress of the house and mother of four healthy, active children, sat the wicker rocker, knitting. Not quite forty, plump, and with a sense of humor, Mrs. Marden surveyed life from a safe and easy attitude. Now as then, her face suddenly lighted and she smiled as she rose in greeting to her partner, who was usually plump, his hair over, and with the same sense of humor.

"Supper ready, mother?" he asked, with that intimacy which needs no acknowledgment of greeting.

"Yes, well, it's right down, come, they and Dot," she called to her first and last born. "Come, boys," this time to two boys just turned into serious young men, who were usually plump, in fully fitted jackets and perfectly creased trousers. "Supper is ready."

They could they knew, quietly enter their respective rooms, that the green wool dress had sent his dark cloud to hang over America. That cloth, the stuff of which, had been usually plump, and only by breaking their usual routine could they go on spinning.

"Mother, mother, someone's coming up stairs," cried the first, simultaneously pushing back her chair, the rest following her. "Why, it's Bert," from the door of the room above. "You're just in time. We were just having supper."

"Oh, no," protested Bert; "don't put yourselves out for me."
"No fear of that," laughed Mrs. Marden. "Hessly another place was set, and the hospitality increased." "I'm sorry folks, but I've something to tell you people. You know my coming up here tonight is rather unexpected. But you see, it's this way. First, I've been looked at Mary who was waiting breathlessly, her fork poised in the air, she called and I've got to leave tomorrow at four."

Mary lowered her fork to her plate. What was this he said? Could it be true? In a quiet, unobtrusive way, her Bert, Mr. Marden, and the boys flooded him with questions. Would they never stop? And finally, when the boys were over, they carried him off to the cool piazza to ask more.

Mary wandered through the house aimlessly seeking first French, a window at some distant corner, then at her flowers, which she loved and always through her hand the sprays reported themselves. "Can it be possible? He is really going." Finally she seated herself at the piano and played. She played well, but it didn't her feet infinitely lonely.

It was there that he found her. He came in cutting and beside her. It seemed as if there was nothing to be said.

"Mary, it is very late. You will wait till I come back, Mary? You must wait."

"Yes," she replied. "I shall always wait." He kissed her very gently.

Mary Marden walked slowly home from the "Red Cross" room, knitting, she walked. She had been selling public bandages most of the day and now she was tired. The outlook on life had changed very much for her.

"Mary, Mary, a telegram!" shouted Dot, racing toward her.

"It'll be got it," said Dot, as if she had imparted some important information.

"Well, do hurry," from Mary. But little, with exasperating slowness, handed her all the rest of the mail before he got to the telegram.

Mary tore it out at the end of the envelope, not heeding in her haste how she cut it off. Her hands trembled so that she could hardly unfold it.

"Why, why?" she exclaimed. "He's in the country and I never knew. He's probably be up here in a couple of days. Come quick. Let's call mother and father."

COUNTY DOES BIG BUSINESS

Official Report Shows Last Quarter Was Record Breaker for Clerk and Recorder

The last quarter of 1919 produced a high water mark in the business of the county clerk, recorder and auditor offices, which are combined under C. C. Higgins. Outstripping the corresponding quarter for 1918 by $127,770, the total fees were $5,648.30, a record for the department. This means an increase of $133,646.00 the year, the 1919 grand total being $1,846,377 as compared to $1,712,731 for 1918. The figures are plainly indicative of the county's growth.

The quarterly report just filed with the county commissioners shows the receipts as follows: recorder's office $122,685; clerk's office $117,715; auditor's office $127,377. The total receipts for the quarter were $368,777.

You can learn a lot from ADVERTISING

The main thing an advertiser wants to do is to tell you plainly just how and why his goods are worthy of your consideration.

You can learn a great deal from that alone, because many things you see advertised are the things you buy and use in your regular daily life. By reading the advertisements, you can learn the names and read descriptions of the things that are best and most satisfactory.

But advertising teaches even more than that. All advertisers try to make their advertisements themselves valuable to you.

A good many people have learned a whole lot about good music, good books, good food, good clothes, ways to keep healthy, ways to live comfortably, ways to keep the house and grounds looking well—they've learned all these things and many other things, just by reading the advertisements.

Read the advertisements right along and you will learn a great deal that will be helpful and valuable to you as you go through life.

The quarterly report of the county auditor shows that the county has received from the sale of public lands for the quarter ending December 31, 1919, $127,770. This is a record for the department. The total receipts for the quarter were $5,648.30, a record for the department. There is considerable frozen water piled up in the mountains of Idaho. The pipes from the mountains have been broken and the water is being allowed to run down the mountainsides. This is a great loss to the county. The water is being allowed to run down the mountainsides. This is a great loss to the county.

DEMOCRACY AND COERCION

"There ought to be a law." It is one of America's famous sayings, heard a hundred times a day, in every walk of life. Legislation might be called America's obsession. We seek to cover every act of human existence with a law; we make law cover both the sphere of morals or ethics. We cannot let the individual alone to develop; we must pull him up every little while to see if his roots are just the same as his neighbor's. If they are not—well, then, "there ought to be a law" to make them the same, willy nilly.

The superintendent of instruction of Michigan has declared he will seek legislation making it illegal for high school students to belong to secret organizations, on the ground that they are "undemocratic, create enmities and graduate blasé young boys and girls." It might be asked of the superintendent if it is the organizations or the schools that graduate the blasé young folk he mentions. If he says he does not know, he is right. It is the organizations that graduate the blasé young folk he mentions, where is the democracy of America, indeed, since in the United States "joining" has probably been developed to its greatest extent in the history of the world!

Going farther, the district superintendents of education in New York City seek to refuse a diploma to any high school graduate in that city unless he or she signs a pledge of loyalty to the United States.

Barely the New York board of education will be assumed to admit it necessary to adopt a requirement for graduation, as the district superintendents should have been assumed to foster it. Will the board publicly admit that it cannot investigate, but must enforce loyalty? Will the board tell the country that the pupils it has had in its care for several years have not been taught love of their country, native or adopted? What have the schools been teaching the children, that they are afraid to graduate them as unbound, free Americans, like their fathers before them?

RABBITS AND MILK

The little Pekinese dogs are going out of style. This has a cheerful sound to sensible people. Is it perhaps because their owners are going to employ their time more productively than of yore? Not so. They are going in for bunnies instead.

The Vicecountess de Boislandry has started the new fad in Paris. "She says her new pets are highly intelligent. She has trained them to beat a jazz drum in accompaniment to popular dances," reads the dispatch.

Check by jowl with this article is one stating that Cleo de Merode, famous beauty, still beautiful at 43, is going to teach the Parisian women to become, once more the most beautiful women in the world. She says: "I think whenever possible girls should bathe in milk at least twice a week in order to impart to the skin a lovely sheen of silk. I also prescribe Greek dances in loose Greek costumes and progressive exercises designed to give suppleness to every muscle in the body."

Perhaps it is all right to bathe in milk—if milk be plentiful enough. Perhaps it is all right to spend one's time teaching rabbits to beat jazz drums.

But not so many hundred miles from the gay city whence this news came are children dying by hundreds because they have no milk, and adults who cannot till the fields because they are faint from hunger.

To this there is the ready question of the existist—"Well, what can these few foolish-avenue do about it? Their few dozen bunnies and few hundred gallons of milk would be too little to count for anything in the feeding of hungry nations."

This is what they can do—they and all other people who are spending their time and energy and the time and energy of other people in luxurious wasting can go to work at something useful and thus help the world's store of food farther. There are girls in shops and workrooms who need Mme. de Merode's "progressive exercises" to keep them well. The milk and the bunnies belong in the country.

YOUTHFUL WISDOM

A newspaper tells of a young man, who found, when consulting with his fiancée as to their financial plans, that he was spending $100 a month in amusement. Three or four times a week they stayed down town to dinner, went to a show and ate something afterwards. Sundays they took rides in hired automobiles.

The girl decided she preferred a home of her own to so many nights out. They both thought it more desirable to own a car than to rent one. So they reduced the outings to one dinner and show a week, the show usually a movie. They took walks instead of motor rides. The result is that when they are married in the spring, they can make a big down payment on their future home. A slight-cut in their own will soon follow. The youth goes home early, and the extra sleep has increased his ability in the office. The salary is going up as well as the bank account.

Moreover, they have just as good a time. A dinner at home, after all, may still be found in simple pleasures. Early to bed does make a man healthy, wealthy and wise if he uses the "pop" element to good advantage. A penny saved is a penny earned, and a dinner of herbs where love and hope are guests of honor is better than any amount of fancy dishes fed through discouragement and the knowledge of a thinning purse. Wise and happy are the young folks who can discover these golden truths in time to use them.

THE ODD JOBS MAN.

The odd jobs man is back. Welcome, three-wheeler! He is the man who can put up a little shelf in the corner of the kitchen, fix the stove pipe, mend the pump, do a bit of soldering, paint the living room and weed the garden.

The war brought him back. In some cases he may be a rich man's son who never knew the joys of labor until he went to war, and now he is back to do the odd jobs which he did during his absence. He learned the trade of his own. In at least two cases he is a former training teacher of his own boys, and coming back from that schooling and illuminating experience could not narrow himself as a soldier who formerly worked for somebody else, but who, from now on, means to be his own boss, and takes up the business of household handy-man while he waits for a chattering congress to pass the bill which shall give him a chance to become a house and land holder in his own right.

There will be a regular tradesman men who, however over-worked, will still hold that these men are interlopers upon their lawful trade. But the people who are tired to death of waiting for carpenters and plumbers and painters will welcome the handy man as one long loved and lost.

MIDDIES MUST KNOW VARIOUS ATHLETICS

The Naval academy is probably the only collegiate institution in the world which has a course of athletics requiring every student to participate in all the sports in general vogue. The first class to receive this rule included the 700 members of the new fourth class.

The academy officials believe thoroughly in competitive athletics as a physique and character builder and as aid to discipline. Moreover, since athletics has taken such a big place in the navy at large, it is considered desirable to train from the academy officers competent to handle sports in all places at the stations and on the ships. The course is also being arranged with the special idea of illustrating ability to command a team play.

The system has been inaugurated through the initiative of Commander Douglas L. Howker, athletic officer, and Lieut. Commander W. A. Richardson, gymnasium officer and assistant athletic officer. A strong effort is being made to improve the position and increase the pay of the instructors of athletics.

The schedule for the midshipmen is progressive in nature. In such sports as baseball, football, basket ball, lacrosse and rowing thorough knowledge of the rules and ethics is required and actual participation in each of them for a certain time, the more expert going to the regular squads in those branches.

Trouble With Limburger.
The trouble with Limburger cheese is that its small assistants in the delicious taste. A Pennsylvania man states that the outside of the cheese is the part that smells objectionally, and that if this part is cut off in chunks, sliced and given a few moments of immersion in hot water the smell will be destroyed, leaving the taste unimpaired. The taste of the cheese, he says, needs no treatment.—Paris and Brussels.

OUTFIELDER MADE AN ASSIST UNKNOWINGLY

Billy Evans, under par excellence, was found out about some of the funny plays he has been doing a recent visit to New York. Bill Hill:

"I have seen many funny things happen on the ball field, since saw an American League outfielder lose a fly ball in the sun, have the ball strike him squarely on the top of the head, and then have the center fielder, who was also in pursuit of the ball, complete the catch. The last score gave the outfielder who had just made a base on assist on the play. It was extremely funny to all concerned, except the outfielder who had the ball in the air."

"I once saw a major league player hit for a home run, only to learn upon reaching the bench that he had retired himself midway between first and second, thereby pulling a colossal home. There was a runner on first when he caught his drive over the right fielder's head. The runner on first was a regular. He believed the fielder would make the catch and played it safe by going midway between first and second. The batsman who hit the ball decided there was no chance for the fielder to make the catch, so he hit the ball on first midway between first and second. Of course the runner went he was out. He hit the cleanest kind of a home run, yet in the records he received credit for only a single."

JESS WILLARD NOW THROUGH

Never Was Popular, Champion and His Work in the War Did Not Help His Reputation.

Some one in Jess Willard's behalf either has been inspired, or else has been permitted, to throw out the subtle hint that his big fellow may enter the ring again.

May the law and the fates forbid! Anyone who saw the big fellow in the ring during the war will never want to see him again, says Milwaukee Sport. He was eventually done there, hardly before he started. And not only that, but he is not now, nor has he ever been, popular enough to come back with any promise of success. Willard never was a popular champion. His work during the war did not help his reputation, and his poor showing against Dempsey was a failure.

Jess Willard will do well to keep himself in seclusion which does not recall himself and his last exhibition to the patient American public. He is more popular outside the public eye and eye than he would be if he attempted to enter the ring again. Willard may not appreciate it, but he's done! He's through! And so he ought to tell his wife.

Good Will is a Valuable Asset

—good will is that indefinable thing that induces people to trade at a certain price. It is a valuable asset. Unfortunately few business men appreciate its value.

—a good name cannot be established in a short time. It takes months and sometimes years.

—no business man can forget the future. It is a grave mistake to "clean up" today in a way that bars the door to trade tomorrow. It is too much like getting ready money today by putting a mortgage on one's home. The money may last but a day; while the mortgage sticks like a porous plaster. The extra profit made from a few questionable transactions soon vanishes, and the lost reputation can never be regained.

—a cornerstone does not make a building, but the displacement of one may wreck it. An honest transaction does not necessarily establish a good reputation, but leave the honesty out of a single deal and it may destroy the good name that it required years to build. We place a high value on the good will of our customers that greatly overshadows any profit that we may make from a single transaction.

BROWN POPULAR STYLE COLOR FOR NEXT SPRING

Demand for Various Shades Keep Manufacturers and Dyers Hustling.

The leading color for spring is brown, a rich golden shade being the one in most demand, although various shades are wanted. Manufacturers and dyers find it difficult to keep up with the demand for the brown shades.

The next favorite color is a green which is not a pale, but something a little less strong, and it might be said somewhat lighter than jade. All silk in this shade are in big demand and buyers are searching the market for goods in this shade of green with little to be had.

White these two shades are leaders with a growing demand is noted for high colors. Not pastel shades, but rich high colors which bright shades of the popular color and for high-style. Reds, blues, green, pink, yellow and all the rest are wanted in bright shades, and buyers say that their customers insist upon having a certain proportion of these colors in their preparation for spring.

SLACKER CHARGE AGAINST CHAMP NOT WARRANTED

Made No Claims for Exemption, Worked in Shipyards and Boked for Charities
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 14.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion today gave answer to the accusing and charges instituted by a number of American legion posts which have termed him a "slacker" during the war. U.S. Journal statements resented to the International News Service through his manager, Jack Kearns, Dempsey states that lack of patriotism or unwillingness to sacrifice during the war.

Asked what he would answer to New Jersey he barred his appearance there in a championship fight with Carpentier, Dempsey said:
"There are lots of other places more suitable for such a bout than New Jersey anyway. We are now fighting that warry us at all."

Kearns statement follows:
"Jack Dempsey was not a 'drift dodger' during the war. Anyone who shakes such a charge cannot support it with facts."

"Just because some persons prompted unthinkingly by selfish individuals attempting to smear Jack Dempsey's reputation with the mud of 'slacker,' I feel called upon to give the public a true explanation of the situation and let the public be the judge."
"When the draft call came in 1917,
Jack Dempsey was placed in class I-A. This was because he had married and had in addition was supporting a mother, an invalid brother and a sister. Dempsey at the time had no claims for exemption, and was doing the true thing in his own case when filling out his questionnaire."

"Some time later, the draft board, in making the classification, placed Dempsey in class A-1, but almost immediately afterwards put him in class C-1. He remains there throughout the rest of the war, and was subject any day to call for war duty. If the conflict had lasted a few weeks longer it seems a certainty that Dempsey would have been in the uniformed service."

"During the course of the war Jack Dempsey was recruited in the shipbuilding plant of Philadelphia, and also in one ship yard in Seattle. And when he was recruited that day he was appearing in front of the benefits for the different war burdes. By this means approximately $100,000 was raised for the various war funds.
"Those who charge Dempsey with being a 'slacker' because he worked in the ship yards and helped to raise nearly $100,000 for the various war charities—apparently have overestimated themselves in their charges, for by that contention they are undermining the reputation of every other expected man who served the nation in the army at home—and served it nobly by working hard and day in the essential industries so that the war could be brought to a speedy and successful conclusion."

TREATY WITH HUNGARY ENDS COUNCIL WORK

U. S. Declines 2 Per Cent of Reparations Secured For Sinking Hun Fleet

PARIS, Jan. 12.—The supreme council of the peace conference today ended its labors by signing the Hungarian treaty and will be succeeded by a committee of ambassadors.

The council was informed by Hugh Wallace, the United States ambassador, that America will not accept 2 per cent of the German warships and floating docks to America. Thereupon Ambassador Wallace communicated with Washington, seeking instructions. Following receipt of these instructions it was announced that the United States would accept nothing.

While the supreme council virtually passed out of being, it is explained that there will be informal meetings between Premier Clemenceau, Premier Lloyd George and others to conclude final details that could not be settled otherwise.

The council has decided to publish without delay the details of the second conference, dealing chiefly with Turkey and Palestine. It was announced this afternoon.

ASKS UNIFORM DIVORCE LAWS

Secior of Christ Church Would Give Jurisdiction to Federal Courts Alone

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Uniform divorce and marital laws for the United States were advocated today before the house judiciary committee by Rev. William Sheafe, rector of Christ Church, Brooklyn, and a delegate.

He urged that marriage should be able to grant notice, except in extreme cases, and that divorce should be granted only by the federal courts. The state courts could retain jurisdiction in cases of legal separation of marriage, where separation is not desired.

"There is an alarming increase in divorces," said Mr. Sheafe, "due to the failure of state and divorce laws. It is absurd to have forty-eight different kinds of such laws. About fifty per cent of divorces are due to hasty marriages."
