HAYS BLAMED BY RADICALS FOR LODGE'S CONCESSION

Hays Compromise Talk Forced on Leader by Sluiter In Interest in Party

By L. C. MARTIN.
D. P. Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican national committee, and "minister interests" in the Republican party stipulate the senate were blamed tonight by treaty irreconcilables for leading Senator Lodge, Republican leader in the senate, into the bipartisan treaty conference.

The irreconcilables said Lodge himself never wished compromise on the treaty, but that he had been forced to make a show of doing so by pressure from Hays and the "interests" they spoke of. Their mission, the irreconcilables say, is to save Lodge from those who are trying to make him weaken on the program of reservations which he said was the "irreconcilable minimum" of safety of the United States.

This was the reason the "interests" called Lodge in yesterday and "read the riot act" to him, they said.

In reply to Lodge's statement today that there will be no compromise on principle, the irreconcilables tonight confronted the party leader with a quotation from one of his speeches in which he said that to haggle over changes in the wording of the Lodge reservation was silly while to change their principle was fatal. In view of this statement the treaty's foes said they could not see any excuse for compromise conferences unless the Democratic senators attending the bipartisan session had made themselves parties to a plot to deceive the public, by claiming to have gained substantial concessions when in reality they were surrendering to Lodge.

MONTHS OF HEAVY HARVESTS

September is... High Percentages for Many Important.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

There are some months in which more than one-half of the national crop is harvested. June barley harvests 50 per cent of the total, and in July 52, 53, and 58 per cent of the entire harvest is performed for barley. The harvest for corn is 52 and 70 per cent for rice and timothy hay. August is almost devoted to a harvest of more than one-half of the total, and in September 52, 53, 54, 55, and 56 per cent of the crop is harvested. In 54 per cent of the entire harvest, September, on the other hand, is most important. The harvest of wheat is 54 per cent of the total, and in October 52, 53, 54, 55, and 56 per cent of the crop is harvested. The harvest of soybeans is 52, 53, 54, 55, and 56 per cent of the total, and in November 52, 53, 54, 55, and 56 per cent of the crop is harvested. The harvest of cotton is 52, 53, 54, 55, and 56 per cent of the total, and in December 52, 53, 54, 55, and 56 per cent of the crop is harvested.

FOSSIL SEARCH NEEDS EXPERTS

Scientific Expeditions Made Up of Men Who Are Trained Geologists.

AMATEUR RUINS SKELETONS

American Museum Hunters Are Under Direction of Curator of Fossil Vertebrates—Search to Reveal New Work

Washington, Jan. 25.—The expedition of the American Museum which for several months has been searching for fossil skeletons of ancient animals in a sandstone quarry at Agate, Neb., has discovered many bones of fossiliferous rocks. These bones have been cut into blocks which will be shipped to the museum, where the bones will be placed on exhibition.

The fossils discovered, or discovered, as it is scientifically called, was about the size of a half grain of sand and were of the miocene period. He had two horns side by side in front of the skull instead of one as in the other. This expedition has been working under the direction of Dr. William D. Matthews, curator of fossil vertebrates at the museum.

Very persons have any idea of the vast amount of work and what a large scale scientific expedition is, planning and preparing for an expedition which seeks the remains of these ancient beasts in the hope that they will shed light on the evolutionary periods of an early world. They have various objectives in view, and the expedition is planned to fill in a gap of scientific knowledge.

How Know Many Things. It may be desirable to know that animals which inhabited a particular region which has remained unexplored, or to find out what kind of animals lived in a particular geological period, or to trace the ancestry of some species of animals, back to geological times. A scientist setting out on such an expedition must have a general knowledge of geology, and of the geology of the region which he is to explore. He must know the nature of the geological period he is to visit in order to be able to find the fossils which he is to discover in that period. Scientific institutions have many observations of the occurrence of fossils in regions in which they are interested.

One of the most remarkable fossils ever discovered in the Big Horn basin is a fossil which has been discovered in the Big Horn basin. It is a fossil which has been discovered in the Big Horn basin. It is a fossil which has been discovered in the Big Horn basin.

American museum expeditions have been searching areas and again, and have discovered something new.

It is important that such kind of prospecting and mining be done by trained men. An inexperienced man who undertakes to remove such skeletons is pretty sure to ruin them, and the chances are that he will render them entirely worthless.

To become a successful collector, it is not so much a matter of the technique of collecting as it is a practical knowledge of formation and the collector must have a trained judgment in order to know what prospects are worth investigating and what to do about it. It is for this reason that the American Museum and other institutions have had to decline offers of voluntary assistance or expeditions.

Four Men Go Together. Generally speaking, a collecting expedition, Dr. Matthews said, consists of four men in four different capacities good for a man to be alone and take risks. It does not pay to have more than four men, otherwise the expense is likely to be too great. The expedition is usually organized at a town or railroad point where equipment can be shipped to the field.

In prospecting for fossils, paleontologists of the expedition usually set out in a different direction in the morning, takes with him his lunch and a can of water, and explores at such ground as he can before daylight. He is interested in finding what appears to him a good prospect on which to begin work.

The instructions always issued to such expeditions are not to take risks. The collector in his zeal and enthusiasm for his work would scarcely be surprised if he followed these instructions to the letter, and he frequently incurs risks of many kinds. In such expeditions the most frequent accident is that of one of their men being dangerously injured. They have had to be sure, attacks of malaria which have been fatal.

Looking for fossils is a serious work. The prospecting must be carefully done. The big question is whether or not a good deal of digging is required, and this must be done with extreme care. Sometimes it is necessary to blast a ledge. The work of prospecting a specimen is anything but easy. Big specimens must be removed by several men. The work is done by using hand tools, and the work is done by using hand tools.

BRITAIN PLANS TO CONTINUE ALLOWMENTS TO EX-SOLDIERS

LONDON, Jan. 25.—While the British government, despite protests from labor members of parliament, has cut off allowances to unemployed, it has been decided to continue army allowances payable to ex-soldiers. Thus, while civilians unable to get work must shift for themselves, the ex-soldiers and widows of soldiers will be taken care of until they can find jobs. Some 24,000 men are affected.

Statistics show that there is less unemployment in England today than during the fifteen years previous before the war.

FRUIT BEAV ENDED. INVENTOR ASSUMES

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25.—Following thirty-five years of scientific research, Dr. Henry Barringer Cox, an inventor, announced that he is offering to the world a new method of growing fruit by a method by which fruits and vegetables can be preserved indefinitely without loss of chemicals and at little cost.

The method prevents loss of color, flavor and vitality, he says. The products are placed in a can of water and sealed. The can and a gas of water, connected with either earth or water.

Sedition Bills In For A Hard Fight

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Sedition legislation will now be held up by the drastic bills now pending will be greatly modified. It was virtually certain after three days of debate on the whole question by the house rules committee.

The judiciary committee this week declined to ask that the Graham bill, which it had previously reported, be referred back for modification. The rules committee, Chairman Campbell said, will not report out a rule which would reach the Graham bill through the house.

Despite the many attacks on the legislation within the last few days, advocates of some measures along this line believe a bill can be framed which will strengthen the government's arm in the campaign against radicalism among American citizens and at the same time will infringe upon rights of free speech, press and labor.

Thrilling Ocean Experience Told

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—George and Gertrude with their 27 passengers of the disabled steamer, Powhatan, faced death for four days and night bound in miles out on the storm tossed Atlantic. The rescue was effected by the crew of the British ship, the Northern Pacific to which they transferred in Illinois Thursday evening.

With the aid of searchlights from the two afloat, the transfer was accomplished without mishap despite the howling gale and rough seas.

The Northern Pacific also brought in Eric G. Connor, his staff and three crew members who had survived the loss of the A. E. P. to leave France.

The Powhatan became disabled Sunday morning. With the putting of water in the boiler room, and that was carried into the pumps, rattle them out of commission.

There followed a battle with the rapidly rising water. Stokers and engineers fought to free the pumps until the water rose in the place above their heads.

The boiler room was abandoned, and the bulkhead door made tight. At this time the Powhatan was about 500 miles off Halifax, N. S.

Just the lights, when the light failed, candles were used sparingly and the passengers and crew survived on cold food.

Men, women and children alike met their fate fearlessly and with good humor.

Wireless calls for assistance were sent out by Captain A. Frank. The Powhatan was about 200 miles to the eastward when the first message was received Sunday evening.

The British steamer Powhatan was made to launch two lifeboats but both were smashed. However, the rescue was successfully accomplished by two of the Northern Pacific's crew and three from the Powhatan the following evening.

LATTER-DAY ASIAN TRAFFIC. ELIEN HIS TRADE IN COIT

Believing himself secure before the court, Mr. Harlow began going on the witness stand dressed in his suit and coat.
