CENTRALIA MURDERS ON EVE OF TRIAL

MICHIGAN IS HOLDING ITS BREATH OVER FRAUD TRIAL

Many Reputations of Big Men in Small Puddles-Up CHARGE DEFENSE DON'T PLAY FAIR Sneezes and Coughs When State Talks About Money

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Feb. 7.—The Newberry trial tonight had the state of Michigan holding its breath. Hardly a word is spoken in the courtroom of Federal Judge Clarence W. Sessions that does not cause high explosives into some corner of the state.

The majority of the defendants standing trial for conspiracy and election fraud, and there are 135 of them, including United States Senator Truman H. Newberry, are "big men" back in their home towns.

So when a witness gets on the stand here in Grand Rapids and one of the hill Smith-told him Senator Newberry's representative bill Brown for his seat in the senatorial election of 1918, there is an earthquake in some constituency.

More than 600 witnesses will be called by the government in the attack to prove that Senator Newberry spent $82,000 to win his seat in congress. The range of these witnesses in occupation seems illimitable. His clerks from New York have testified about telegrams Senator Newberry received. Washington newspaper have told what they heard at the capitol; a Carolina engineer told what he knew, and miners from the north have had their say. Some of the most prominent lawyers of Michigan have climbed to the stand to explain the existence or non-existence of the Newberry campaign bank accounts, which already have been found to have exceeded $175,000, according to testimony.

In the coming week, the same procedure will be continued, and is expected to go on for a long time. It is not until the month of May that the trial will require at least sixty days, it is predicted.

Germany's Refusal to Submit to Demand For Guilty More Evident

BERLIN, Feb. 7.—Indications grew in official circles here today that Germany will not submit to enforcement of Article 228 of the Versailles treaty, providing for the surrender of Prussia by the German government. Gustav Noske, minister of defense, was reported to have telegraphed the chief of the German general staff in Berlin that "no German will be surrendered."

The list of accused, with its covering note, was expected to be handed to the government officials of the United States, the French or British charge d'affaires. Noske's statement today, however, is a categorical denial of the allied demand for the names of the German leaders.

Wilson Will Accept Treaty Reservations But Will Not Evade Obligations Abroad

(By L. C. Martin, U-P Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—President Wilson will accept the Hitchcock reservations to the peace treaty, he declared in a letter read today to thirty Democratic senators in conference on the treaty. But he cannot accept any reservations which evade the United States to reject its international obligations under Article X of the League of Nations covenant, which pledges league members to protect each other's territory against foreign aggression.

The letter, which was read today in written to Senator Hitchcock on January 29, it is the first time Wilson has explicitly stated that any set of reservations would be acceptable only if they do not in any way curtail Democratic senators that the president's position on the treaty has not undergone the slightest change, they said.

The president's letter to Hitchcock was in reply to a note sent him on January 22, by Hitchcock, enclosing a copy of the resolution proposed in Democratic senators that the president's position on the treaty has not undergone the slightest change, they said. NAME HAWLEY AS PROSPECT FOR CABINET

Resignation of Secretary Lane Brings Speculation As to His Successor

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Franklin K. Lane today resigned as secretary of the interior, closing a term of 21 years in public life. Lane's resignation, which President Wilson accepted, will take effect March 1, at Lane's request. The former secretary then intends to go to Europe to spend the winter in personal business.

Letters exchanged between the president and Lane, which were made public today, indicate good feeling between the two men. Lane resigned in full understanding of his situation. He was necessary for the cabinet which will leave a gap in the cabinet which will fill on the 1st of March. It will be difficult for the government officials to get the cabinet together. Lane's resignation will leave a gap in the cabinet which will fill on the 1st of March.

Among those being mentioned are Alexander T. Vachagan, first assistant secretary of the interior, and Senator J. Shafritz of Colorado. Many western senators. It is understood that Vachagan is the favorite.

Lane, who was born in Canada, but an American citizen when he came to California, was educated there, worked as a newspaper reporter and later studied law. He entered local politics and first became a national figure in 1898 when he was appointed a member of the interstate commerce commission.

CLAIM WHEAT OF NORTHWEST IS CORNERED

Manipulation by Millers Made Charge by Grand Jury's Report in Spokane

SPOKANE, Wash., Feb. 7.—Practically all of the wheat in Oregon and Washington has been cornered by manipulators, this grand jury has charged in a report of the federal grand jury which was made public today.

The federal grand jury conducted an exhaustive probe of the grain situation in Pacific Northwest. The grand jury report recommends that Congress make an appropriation to finance wheat sales to foreign countries and that the wheat commission should be reorganized.

President Wilson is urged to issue a proclamation under the wheat quarantine act fixing the selling price for all wheat held in the country. The report of the grand jury charges that Max H. Hatcher of Portland, Ore., has "cornered" wheat for himself and associates by the manipulation of various grain contracts.

RED FLAG WAS FLOWN ABOVE HIGH SCHOOL BOY'S FRANK BISHOP'S DEPORTATION CASE

By M. D. Tracy, U-P Staff Correspondent

TOMBSTONE, Ariz., Feb. 7.—Tombstone today was the scene of a following a day of false excitement that started when the town awoke to see a red flag flying from the courthouse tower. The flag had been placed there by a gang by Dewey Chadwick, a high school boy.

FORMER T. F. WOMAN IS GRANTED FIRST PILOT LICENSE BY AERO CLUB

Mrs. Volara Homania Nelson, formerly of Twin Falls, has been granted the first pilot license in Idaho.

Mrs. Nelson lived here for the last time in 1915, going here from Twin Falls and in 1918 became manager of the King Motor company. She has always taken a keen interest in aviation but for a time interested herself in doing recircled stunts in an automobile.

It is supposed that Mrs. Nelson decided that aviation was more thrilling than anything else she took up that sport a few years ago. Her natural ability in things mechanical served her in good stead in her new work, which she pursued with great vigor and interest.

Wife of Author Fleming Wilson Granted Divorce

TOLEDO, Ore., Feb. 7.—A decree of divorce has been granted here to Mrs. Lulu E. Wilson from John Fleming Wilson, author and playwright. The plaintiff alleged in her complaint that Wilson often came home intoxicated and abused her in physical, reflecting severe bruises on her face.

The complaint further charged Wilson had been traveling about the country for more than a year with another woman whom he introduced to the public as his wife. Mrs. Wilson was granted permanent alimony of $120 per month.

"I want to know whether you will take the position throughout the trial that there was no attack on the I. W. W. before the shooting," Vandevander demanded.

"Our position is that boys were standing in the street in military formation when they were fired upon," Allen responded.

"In front there was no attack on the hall and the doors were not smashed in front there was any shooting, according to your position," Vandevander quipped.

"That's our position," Special Prosecutor Abel replied. Vandevander asked that he be given one day to prepare his reply to the state's case, but that he did not know whether he would present his opening statement before or after the close of the state's witnesses.

Allen pointed out that while the accused men were charged only with the murder of Warren O'gram, the other soldiers had been murdered. He called attention to the manner in which they shot. The state, he stated, could not have come from the I. W. W. hall as they were never there. The shooting was done by the boys. The state, he stated, could not have come from the I. W. # CHARGES SIMS COULD NOT BE GIVEN TRUST

Daniels Attacks Admiral Before
Hearing of Senate Investigating Committee

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Attacking Rear Admiral Sims as a man who could not be given a modicum of trust, Secretary Daniels today completed his defense in the naval awards controversy.

Daniels told the senate sub-committee that he never would have raised Sims for promotion to permanent rank of admiral had he foreseen the developments in the awards dispute.

1.—That Sims, according to Representative Byrnes of South Carolina, declared the awards to be "a slap in the face" because Gen. Borchgrevink's award had broken down.

2.—That Sims, according to Byrnes, said the United States would be the sea to Great Britain, refrain from seeking commercial supremacy thereon, and concentrate on developing the western hemisphere.

3.—That published articles that gratuitous reflection on the flag people.

4.—That Sims disclosed his own violation of confidential instructions given him as he was about to call for London.

5.—That correspondence between Admiral Willard and Admiral Decker at Manila, which resulted in Decker's recall from the post, was not approved together with his suggestion, Commander Carlos V. Conroy, was brought into the hearing by the House.

6.—That Sims had authorized a letter from Cascahis in which he stated he was recalled because of charges that he had sold prominent Spanish officials the United States' plans to establish naval bases in Spain.

7.—That Sims had ordered Gen. Decker to be recalled because they would not get along with Willard and would not agree with him as to policy. Decker refused a navy cross. Daniels said, and claimed he discovered a higher grade of conduct in Borchgrevink's entering the war on the side of Germany.

"I had been asked to control the Government of Spain. It didn't become him to say no," Daniels said.

"His business was to do what he thought was right. He was a bright fellow, but his judgment isn't very good. It was impossible as a naval attaché. Afterward we sent him to Havana as attaché, but he got in hot water there."

Reverting to Admiral Sims' disclosure of confidential instructions, Daniels said:

"I raise no question as to his accuracy, but no secretary of the navy could be entrusted with the secret of a trust one who, receiving confidential instructions on going to a neutral country then discloses them."

Daniels, replying to Sims' criticism of naval policy, declared that it would have been inadvisable to have stripped the American coast of warships, while German warships were active. He asserted that the navy's full strength was thrown into the war immediately upon America's entry, and that a conference with allied naval commanders was held at the earliest possible moment, and the policies agreed upon there promptly carried out.

Such conditions also have been desired in all countries to maintain discipline. An attaché officer, if he is not properly supervised, is a liability. Sims, after an unimpeachable record, a British attaché officer in London, was a subordinate officer in the United States. He was later informed that the government's policy was to recall him from the post.

"I am sure that the navy department was in agreement on this matter," Daniels said.

ADMIRAL SAYS HE WOULD NOT GET ALONG WITH WILLARD

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels, today declared that he would not get along with Admiral Willard, the state secretary, if he were to be recalled from the post.

"I have no objection to his being recalled," Daniels said.

STEEPLECHASE BACK ON A FIRM FOOTING

Cross Country Game Re-established on Eastern Tracks.

Certain That There Will Be Keen Competition and Large Field in 1920 at Belmont, Aqueduct and Other Courses.

One of the most pleasing features of the 1919 racing season, in the opinion of interested spectators, was the revival of the steeplechase branch of the sport. Though it took some time to establish a firm footing again, and it promises to be immensely and increasingly popular next season.

It was a regrettable feature of the racing on the metropolitan tracks that the steeplechase events were few in the number of other years both in the number and quality of the horses. This was unavoidable as many of the owners of jumpers were in the service during the war and got up racing for the time. The result was that when they returned it was necessary to establish the sport anew.

How well this has been accomplished was shown recently in Maryland when some of the new favorites showed for cross-country running during last spring, and consequently not set at their best, but they showed enough to make it certain that there will be much better competition and larger fields in 1920 at Belmont park, Aqueduct and Stratford.

More than 40 horses were trained for the jumps last year. A number of these have not yet had a public trial, though they have showed well. That among those which have been tried are Mrs. J. Edgar Williams' Red Whirl and Stratford, the winner of the Equinox, from the stable of Captain Ray Burr; War Point and the latter recently won the Washington and Belmont, from the string of jumpers owned by J. E. Wildner.

Not of these names are three-year-olds which showed speed over the flat but had the natural qualifications for jumping. As a rule, horses are not turned over to the steeplechase until they have served their usefulness on the flat, and that accounts for the fact that the majority of those in many of the contests, which should be better racing with younger horses.

Though the prosecution required that the jury be taken to the scene of the shooting at Centralia, Judge Wilson indicated today that this would not be done.

"That a fair jury has been obtained for the case was the opinion of Paul Mohr, Seattle labor council representative, today.

"Everything that I have seen and heard thus far indicates that a very fair trial is being given the accused," Mohr said.

Judge Wilson today decided that Dr. Donald A. Nicholson, a Seattle physician, be permitted to examine Loren Roberts, whose defense will be handled by Nicholson, but later appear as a witness for the defense.

The first witness to be called for the state will identify the maps and miniature plot showing the buildings and streets of Centralia where the shooting took place. It was learned today.

The conference will not meet again this afternoon as was at first planned.

HAWLEY FOR THE CABINET

Mention of James Hawley as prospective successor to Franklin K. Lane, retiring secretary of the interior, has been received with varying emotions by Idahoans familiar with Mr. Hawley's record in this state.

His politics should and would be disregarded in giving the situation its broadest consideration, but there are many who view doubtfully Mr. Hawley's connection with the power trust and his part as legal adviser in fastening its baneful grip upon the resources and legislation of Idaho.

But even this doubt, it seems, should be swallowed up in the broader view. Idaho, it must be remembered, is dependent for its further development and prosperity on reclamation. Its future is dependent in need of federal funds, the term despotically being justified by the fact that there seems a very grave doubt concerning an appropriation adequate for the entire west, with the result that there will be a scramble when it is divided among the states. The advantage to the state if an Idaho man was at the head of reclamation affairs can therefore be instantly appreciated.

Under the circumstances politics and policy must give way before the more pressing need of reclamation. Mr. Hawley is the only Idaho man in the field, and to oppose him would be to oppose the greater good of the state. So must have reasoned Senator Niggett when he endorsed his old political enemy. So must reason the people of Idaho. It isn't Hawley. It is reclamation.

MILITARY POLICY

So far as it is possible to determine the sentiment of the country on military policy, the public is evidently in favor of compulsory army training and opposed to voluntary army service. This means a small standing army, but a great reserve force of trained men who could soon be organized and equipped into fighting shape in emergency. It means, too, conferring on the nation's youth the benefits of military training, without the objectionable features of long service and militaristic atmosphere.

These features seem to be the main characteristics of the army reorganization bill favorably reported to the Senate by the committee on military affairs. It would provide a four-months training course for boys reaching the age of 13, thus taking more than half a million a year. This would obviously produce a reserve army at the rate of over 2,000,000 in four years, 3,000,000 in six years, etc. Added to the big trained reserve already existing, composed of world-war veterans, this would doubtless insure a force available at any time for almost any conceivable national purpose.

A soldier cannot be made in four months, but a four-months course of training would surely instill the rudiments and make fairly simple and easy the supplementary training that would be required for active service later on. It might be found advisable to report the four-months course with at least a certain percentage of recruits, especially those showing promising material, for officers. A little experience will reveal the proper "blue" of their development. The main thing at the present time is to make a start, in some comparatively simple and inexpensive way, toward the establishment of a permanent policy and the creation of an adequate fighting force.

"DOUG" FOR PRESIDENT

Everybody is coming forward now with his favorite presidential candidate. One suggestion, aimed to catch the movie-fan vote, names Douglas Fairbanks as a man of action and of business ability, without the contracts—and of undoubted patriotism.

Douglas would enter in an era of economy, too, for with him as the nation's leader there would be no further need of a standing army. "Have not his devotees seen him outwit and fight to a finish any number of bandits and whole regiments of foreign soldiers?"

With a little whirlwind action he would send the Senate to submission and obtain the desired peace treaty settlement. He would lead down to Mexico for a morning spin, clean up things there, establish a responsible government, take it all in the next day, and get on to Washington. In the meantime, give the former champion the "thrilling" he "heaves" to settling the Russian Bolsheviks. He might a few minutes to the movie rights to all his official acts over to the national treasury and do away completely with the government's need for income taxes. And through it all the public could sit in blissful satisfaction watching the scenes reel by.

The oft-discussed suggestion that cabinet members be given seats in Congress has been given practical form in a bill introduced by Representative Mooney. His measure provides that all members of the cabinet shall be entitled to seats on the floor of the House and Senate, with the right to participate in debate and furnish information concerning matters relating to their several departments.

Such an arrangement is common abroad, and might well have been introduced at Washington long ago. A great deal of discussion in both houses of Congress is aimless and confused because the speakers lack facts which could be easily furnished if the head of the department concerned was present. The administrative heads, too, are often at a disadvantage because they do not know what the legislators are doing about matters of moment to them. The lack of co-operation along this line is one of the big causes of governmental inefficiency and of prejudice and distrust between the executive and legislative branches.

In one particular the Mooney bill seems to go too far. It makes attendance of the cabinet officers compulsory a certain number of times a week in both houses, unless they are expressly excused. That is probably unnecessary, and would be likely to waste the time of busy men. They could probably be trusted to attend on occasions when their presence was desirable.

There was considerable speculation on the street yesterday as to what variety of "plan" Mike Strouk had in mind when he turned the pro-fishing flag upside down.

Hearst Hints New Political Party

NEW YORK, Feb. 7. Possible formation of a new political party was foreseen in a signed editorial by William Hearst, the Hearst press chief in Sunday's New York American. The editorial attacked the League of Nations and its advocates, and prophesied disaster should the U. S. enter into partnership with European nations. "The editorial stated that 'it is entirely possible party lines may be lost sight of in the great confusion of the future course of our country in which the Hearst papers will concentrate themselves to the formation of a new political party.'"

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 7.—The country's baseball muggers were gathering in Chicago tonight ready for the opening on Monday of the greatest national conference in history.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week will see all managers of the two major leagues as well as the association of minor leagues in session here.

Several changes in playing and scoring rules were predicted tonight in result from the meeting of the muggers Monday.

Tuesday the annual meetings of the two major leagues will take place. At the American League gathering the "big three," President Charles A. Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox, President Joseph P. McCarty of the Boston Club are expected to renew their battle to unseat Dan Johnson as president of the organization.

Johnson was confident tonight that he would continue in control as he still commands five of the eight votes. On Wednesday the muggers will submit their demands in joint meeting with the majors.

A new working agreement with elimination of the draft is expected. The feature of the gathering is expected on Wednesday when the two leagues had a joint meeting to pick a new head for the national committee to succeed Garry Herrmann of Cincinnati. Among the men mentioned for the place are Julius K. M. Landis of Chicago, Harry N. Killilea of Milwaukee and "Big Bill" Edwards of New York.

TEEN AGES TO OPEN MONDAY

Christian Church Will House Gathering From Many Southern Points

Miss Cynthia Pearl Mau, National Superintendent of Young People's Work for the American Christian Missionary Society of Christian Endeavor, will arrive on Tuesday morning this afternoon from Denver, Colorado, this afternoon. She reports a splendid record for the five day Training School for church and Sunday school workers which was held in Denver this week, closing on Friday night.

Students from all the Protestant churches of Denver and vicinity were enrolled and a number of them completed the course receiving the International School of Methods diploma at the graduation service on Friday night.

The Denver School of Religious Pedagogy attended in a body on Wednesday and Thursday and will be held on a exceedingly high grade.

A similar five day Training School for church and church school workers of all Protestant denominations is to be held at Christian Church, Twin Falls, beginning Monday, February 9th and continuing until Friday, February 13th. Six of the courses will be offered as follows:

"Church and Church School Management"—Mr. Roy K. Roadrick.
 "Missions"—Miss Cynthia Pearl Mau.
 "Teaching Principles"—Miss Cynthia Pearl Mau.
 "Special Lectures and Demonstrations"—Miss Cynthia Pearl Mau.
 "Life of Christ"—Mr. Charles Darso.
 "Division Specialization for Elementary, Secondary and Adult Teachers and workers."
 "Mr. Roy K. Roadrick, Regional secretary of Religions for the Northwest states, said that the school will be held here this coming week and will be held in the city today. In speaking of the training school, Mr. Roadrick said today "Our opportunity of religious education is holding its promise in these schools of methods in the states of the Northwest. Our next goal is Missions. We are expecting a very good enrollment here. The school is open to workers of all churches regardless of their nationalities. The students who are interested in the courses without charge. This is a school of methods and not doctrine. One thing will be said that will offend no one, that is their faith or creed may be."

"While enroute to Twin Falls I learned that Boise, Meridian, Emmett, Pocatello, Blaine, Teton, and other Idaho cities will be represented in the school of methods here."

BIBLE SCHOOL SPECIALISTS HERE TO CONDUCT SOUTH IDAHO METHOD SCHOOL

Mr. Roadrick Heads School of Methods

Mr. Roy K. Roadrick, superintendent of Northwestern Bible Schools, directed towards no introduction to the people of Idaho but is here presented as the dean and instructor in the Idaho School of Methods to be held in the First Christian Church, Twin Falls, February 9-13, 1920.

No more suitable man could have been selected for this work of high position and ability as an educator. He is thoroughly alive to the modern viewpoint in education, both secular and religious, is absolutely familiar with the most advanced and progressive methods of teaching and administration and is fully conversant with the needs of the child in its development stage of development.

Besides Mr. Roadrick has ideas and conception of his own, growing out of his study and experience which are well worth while. He also has the courage of his convictions to a very noteworthy degree. He is sane and safe, and will be a most valuable asset to the Northwestern Bible School and to the cause of Christian education in general.

Mr. Roadrick knows the need and value of a school of training for those who teach in the Sunday School and most highly approves of the plan of the School of Methods, to be held in the First Christian Church as a step in the right direction for Sunday School teachers and officers, who under the expert leadership of specialists direct who teach in the Sunday School as well as those who direct have the advantage of the latest and best in the Sunday School work.

Teen Age and Young People's Specialist

It belongs to a great tradition of preachers and teachers; it is well educational, experienced and equipped for the work that he comes to do. He has done considerable work in community teacher training schools. His work in Pittsburgh was noteworthy along with this. He knows his Pittsburgh and is wide awake and keeps others wide awake in the presentation on the same.

Among other spiritual advantages had by this expert Sunday School workers, not necessary to name, is the fact that he has given considerable time to the study of the Bible. He has given considerable thought to the adult work in the light of his experience, especially in the work of the Sunday School. A National Superintendent of the Adult Work in his church, and will be in a position to help many once the present in his church, and will be in a position to help many once the present in his church, and will be in a position to help many once the present in his church.

MISS CYNTHIA P. MAU

Miss Cynthia Pearl Mau, Superintendent of the Primary Division of the American Christian Missionary Society, will be here for the Idaho School of Methods to be held in the First Christian Church, Twin Falls, February 9-13, 1920.

No more suitable man could have been selected for this work of high position and ability as an educator. Judgment for Plaintiff

Jake Van Oort was granted judgment in the sum of $2500 yesterday in the case against William Ouellet for unpaid labor. Attorney John R. Taylor of Dubl represented Ouellet.

Suits Filed

W. C. Hall filed suit yesterday in probate court against William A. Kern of $5 and attorneys fees and all costs of the trial.

J. C. Ouchelien filed suit yesterday against Richard Hansing alleging that defendant refused to accept a check for work done during the past few months.

John Larocimus today filed suit against John L. Guleley, the allegation being unpaid note in the amount of $115 and also he asks attorneys fees and interest on the note to maturity.

Including Articles

People were busy yesterday claiming the articles recently stolen by J. K. Murphy from various local stores and residences. The sheriff's office yesterday was covered with articles recovered by the authorities and this morning most of them were gone.

UNEARTH EIGHT SILVER BARS AS DIGGING COLLAR

W. A. Snyder, recently uncovered eight bars of silver bullion while digging a foundation for a house in the Antelope Springs district. It is supposed that the metal had been taken there by some robber in the same neighborhood. One of the robbers, there are several theories, is believed to have planned the robbery. It is believed that the robber had the stuff, probably intending to get it when the sheriff ceased hunting for them. Another is that the man uncovered two bars while digging and then found six more. Pieces of bullion were found nearby, indicating that the metal had at one time been enclosed in a box. It had been placed in a box it is believed, as it takes a great many years for wood to decay and rot so that the silver would fall out.

YOUNG MOTHER KEPT 8 MONTHS IN DARK ROOM

Plot by Husband to Gain Her Off Leads Charged—Dead Babe Found in Her Arms

OHIO, Feb. 7.—Mrs. Brenda Baker, 27, was held prisoner in a dark room for eight months, during that time giving birth to a daughter, she told authorities tonight. Her husband was under arrest charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of the infant, which was found today, still in her arms. Baker refused to talk.

Mrs. Baker had all lands in her own name. She charged her imprisonment for her husband was under arrest charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of the infant, which was found today, still in her arms. Baker refused to talk.

During the eight months of her imprisonment Mrs. Baker made frequent attempts to release herself. The house is isolated and passersby were infrequent. Young friends went to the residence for the first time in a year. Baker was absent, but their knocks brought answering taps and moans. Forcing their way in, the friends gave the woman her freedom and arranged the funeral of the baby and caused the arrest of Baker.

IS NOTED EXPERT ON CHILDREN'S WORK

Miss Ida M. Irwin is recognized as one of the greatest experts in children's work in the modern Sunday School, and is equipped in every way to give the most up-to-date help to teachers and workers in the Elementary-Secondary of the Church's School.

Miss Irwin has enjoyed the distinction of having a place on the editorial staff of the Sunday School Literature Department of the Christian Board of Publication of St. Louis, Missouri for a number of years. This much cannot be said of her ability as a writer and in work with children.

Every teacher and officer of the several departments, included in the Elementary Division of the Church's School, really feel fortunate, if they should take advantage of her expert teaching next week.

It is hard for those who have had no acquaintance with the work of the Sunday School of Methods to arrive at any estimate of the workers to be held in the First Christian Church and conducted by the Sunday School of Methods. Those who take notes on the work for twenty-five periods, including one of the individual courses as will have charge of the period in the Elementary, Secondary or Adult, School, devoted to this subject. They will be given a diploma in recognition of their work.

Miss Irwin is also a specialist in the field of teaching Missions and will be a most valuable asset to the work of the Sunday School of Methods to be held in the First Christian Church and conducted by the Sunday School of Methods. Those who take notes on the work for twenty-five periods, including one of the individual courses as will have charge of the period in the Elementary, Secondary or Adult, School, devoted to this subject. # TUGS RESCUE PASSENGERS ON BIG LINER

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—After being stranded for three days in heavy fog, a tugboat, buttressed by lighters, tugs and other boats, on 32 men, on the Old Dominion liner, the Anne, were rescued today by tugboats and patrol boats.

The rescue of the marooned passengers was accomplished only after great difficulty, due to the fog, which continued to batter the area.

The tugboat, sufficiently to allow the police boat Patrol to creep along the side and make fast to the side of the Anne. One by one, the passengers were lowered over the side into the waiting patrol.

After six women and three men had been lowered, a huge wave rolled between the Anne and the Patrol, necessitating the latter's casting off the made for shore with her head to the cutter, and the other boats.

The remainder of the passengers, the passengers, were suffering from exposure, lack of drinking water, and had not food; but it was believed they will soon reach shore.

Shortly after noon, shore watchers believed that all the passengers had been removed. At the dominion line, the tugboat said the Anne, which had 37 or 38 had been removed. The launching of the rescue boat was accomplished only after great difficulty.

The launch was seen to be a small boat, but was quickly backed in safety.
