Witnesses Deny Attack on I. W. W. Hall Preceded by Armistice Day Murders

GRAYS HARBOR COURT HOUSE, MONTICELLO, Wash., Feb. 14.—Thirty-six witnesses had testified for the state in its case against the eleven men charged with murder in connection with the armistice day shooting at Centralia when the third week of the trial ended today.

The prosecution asked heavily cross-examined today when witnesses positively denied that there had been any advance on the I. W. W. Hall before there was being into the hall of the former soldiers and shot marking time (the) an writing for their comrades to catch up to them. Testimony today showed that the I. W. W. had a fire at soldiers bearing their country's flag was intentionally telling.

Walt, one of the soldiers shot and seriously wounded, told a vivid story of the shooting which he said he saw while the marchers were talking and firing in the middle of Tower avenue.

Mrs. Vera Grimm, widow of Warren O. Grimm, was called to the stand to testify that she was in the hall on November 11, and which showed the marks made by the large rifle bullets which passed through the hall.

"Several signs passed by my head and the staff of the flag, he said. The first sign was fixed behind him as he stood at the intersection of Tower avenue and Second street, he said. He had passed the I. W. W. hall, which is located about 100 feet from the corner, and was just behind Warren Grimm. It was Grimm, he said, who gave the command to halt and close up ranks.

"At first there were three shots very close together," Watkins testified. "When the firing became general there was a shot which he said he believed an automobile standing there. As I was running several shots passed close to my head. Looking up I saw a bullet whizzing over my shoulder in the Avon hall."

Watkins positively identified Eugene Bennett as the man he had seen in the hall at the time he saw him later at the jail in Centralia.

The Avon hall is located on the east of Tower avenue and across the street from the I. W. W. hall. It is several hundred feet south of the industrial headquarters and across the intersection of Second street with Tower avenue.

"I was standing in the street looking at the I. W. W. hall and talking with the other boys when the first shot was fired," was the story of John Wain.

"At first I didn't know where the shot was coming from and started running toward the Federick hotel building containing the I. W. W. hall. Then I turned and ran south toward the corner.

Government Shows More Expediency by Senator for Campaign Aides

SEATTLE RAPIDS, Feb. 14.—The introduction in the election conspiracy case involving Senator Truman H. Newberry and 122 of his political aides exploded another "bomb shell" in the midst of the defendant's ranks today.

The defense fought desperately to keep it out of the record, contending that Senator Deland did not know his constitutional rights and intimating that he testified against his will.

It was reported that Lansing, in the president's absence, had on his own initiative called a number of friends to Lansing. When Lansing disappeared and was returned afterwards, the decision to treat the league of nations was reached at this time, and Lansing.

Difference Over Foreign Policy Said to Be Cause of Wilson-Lansing Split

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—A difference over foreign policy, long continuing though he knew the president was opposed and constantly growing in bitterness, was the real reason for President Wilson's steadily shifting position on the subject of Lansing as secretary of state, it was learned authoritatively today.

That there would be a further difference between the two men, the administration over the handling of foreign affairs, was the belief of many officials and congressmen. Henry J. Ford, recently named a candidate for Mexico and it is reliably reported that he differed with Wilson on the Mexican policy.

The differences between Lansing and the president are said to date back to the time when the two were in Paris as peace commissioners.

When Wilson returned from his trip to Paris, leaving Lansing as his acting secretary of state, the story of differences between the two were generally put down as mere rumors.

CENSUS SHOWS 250,000 BABIES DIED IN YEAR IN COUNTRY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Two hundred thousand children under one year of age died in the United States, in 1919, newest census reports showed today.

The continuously advancing price of necessities are blamed as one of the chief contributing causes by some government experts, in child welfare. But curtailment increases in direct proportion to income, they say.

"Child clothing, that of poor and unsatisfactory clothing and worn and unsatisfactory housing are given as direct causes of infant mortality. "Each child called Indianapolis as a poor for babies, increased 4 per cent in price in 1919, labor department reports show. This increase was in addition to an increase of 50 per cent in the five years prior to 1919.

Thousands of families now have been forced to make drastic curtailments in their milk purchases, according to government officials. Some families, still-tipped, condensed milk. Thousands of babies are suffering from a lack of warm and proper clothing, officials say. Clothing cost increased 22 per cent between December, 1918, and November, 1919.

A nation-wide shortage of dwelling is regarded as another factor contributing to infant mortality. The nation's stock is short approximately 4,000,000 dwellings, government estimates show. High prices of building materials are delaying building operations, which might otherwise quickly make up the shortage. Building materials increased 40 per cent in 1919.

Between 2,500,000 and 3,000,000 babies will be born in the United States this year, census reports indicate. More will die than in 1919, officials think, unless factors contributing to the high infant mortality rate are corrected.

Seven countries now have a lower rate of infant mortality than the United States.

JACKSON LAKE PRECIPITATION ABOVE NORMAL

Ample Water Supply Is Prospected for Lower Snake River Valley, Says Report

According to the report of the superintendent of the Jackson Lake reservoir the precipitation at Moran, Wyo., for the month of January was 27.7 inches and the total precipitation since September 1, 1919, amounts to 10.01 inches. This is considerably above the average for the corresponding five month period since 1872 and nearly equals the total precipitation for all of last year.

The storage in Jackson Lake reservoir on January 21st was 103,000 acre-feet, as compared with 282,300 acre-feet on the same date last year.

The snow is settled and well packed and the water in the Jackson lake watershed area is as follows:

Moran	24 inches
Soldier Station	44 inches
Cascade	42 inches
Conant Divide	78 inches
Lewis Lake	54 inches
Cascade Creek	56 inches
Buffalo Divide	72 inches
Lava Creek Divide	78 inches

The prospects are now excellent that the flow of the Snake river during the coming season will be normal and that the irrigation projects depending on the Jackson Lake reservoir will have an ample water supply.

well pleased with the progress made thus far and said he thought the prosecution would conclude with its testimony by the end of next week.

The prosecution has no intention of producing evidence to prove that any particular members of the American Legion were marked for death, Cunningham said.

STATE FARM BUREAU TO BE AFFILIATED WITH AMERICAN FEDERATION

The state farm bureau will be associated with the American Federation of Farm Bureaus, according to W. H. Atwater, president of the state farm bureau, who has just returned from the state meeting at Boise.

C. H. Hosen of Paria was chosen to succeed Mr. Atwater as head of the state organization. Mr. Atwater was elected one of the two delegates from Idaho who will attend the National Federation of Farm Bureaus, which convenes in Chicago on March 2.

The work done at the Boise meeting was mainly along lines of improvement. Ways in which the county organizations could be made more effective and do more good were discussed and it is believed some of the methods suggested will be tried.

It was brought out at the meeting that a number of people are traveling through the country posing as county agents and fraudulently collecting money for various alleged purposes. The following statement was made by the state organization, which will act as a warning to people against giving money to strangers:

"No farmer in the state farm bureau has been called to the activity of certain individuals in the state purporting to represent the National Federation of Farm Bureaus in the matter of soliciting memberships and charging a fee of $5.

"This is to certify that such persons or persons have not been authorized to act by either the state farm bureau of Idaho or by the National Farm Bureau Federation to solicit any membership or other of these organizations." All representations contrary to the above notice are fraudulent, and the state farm bureau of Idaho wishes to warn farmers not to make contributions to agents claiming to represent either the state farm bureau or the National Farm Bureau Federation."

Cash Payments of Income Tax Must Not Come by Mail

"Cash payments of income taxes should not be sent by mail," says old revenue of internal revenue, Lewis Will.

"Cash sent by mail is always at the owner's risk of loss; and if lost or stolen, the sender may find himself facing penalties for failure to pay his tax in full."

"A taxpayer will find it more practical to purchase a postoffice money order, or draw a check for the amount of his tax, and to take it to the collector of the Internal Revenue Department."

"The first payment due on or before March 15, should be attached securely to the completed return, and forwarded or delivered at an office at Boise, Idaho. This first payment must cover either the entire tax shown due or at least one-fourth of the tax due."

"Early payments and early filing or returns is urged, in order that an oversight on the final date, March 15, may be avoided."

Tuttle, D. D., at one-time missionary bishop in Idaho; Bishop Walter H. Trumbull, who is the president of the executive council, also bishops elected from different parts of the country, and nine laymen chosen from the Episcopal churches in the respective Pennsylvania and California.

This executive council, with headquarters in New York, has control of the general affairs of the Episcopal church in the United States, and will meet at a general convention, which meets only once in three years. It is an expression of unity and efficiency and concerted common sense in the church.

Another evidence of efficiency in the church is the appreciation of the newspaper. It is interesting to note that in the diocese of Pennsylvania, by appointment of the bishop, James M. Benedict, formerly one of the editors of the Philadelphia Ledger and for 27 years in daily newspaper work, has accepted a position as director of publicity for the Episcopal church in Pennsylvania. He will be the managing editor of the official church paper for the diocese and will also be responsible for supplying news of the church to daily and weekly papers. The same plan for giving publicity to the affairs of the church is being considered in many other parts of the country, and by many leaders of the church. It is confidently expected that in the next few years, the American newspaper and the American church will be very closely related.

A short time ago there appeared in the columns of this paper a story of the nation-wide campaign which is sweeping the Episcopal church of this country. That it is not through and through with the idea of efficiency is evidenced by the fact that a very large territory in the east has recently been traveled by a group of enthusiastic in the church to a sense of reaction.

Between November 10 and November 29, 28 different conferences and dinners were held in 28 western states with over 2000 delegates and young women amounting to 64,000. Of this number, 1,500 signed cards indicating their choice of the work being done.

They are all great Americans. These men and women are just drifting without any sense of vocation, while from every side of the country are coming to the attention of the church as well as to the attention of the country. Too many of the youth in America are just drifting without any sense of vocation, while from every side of the country are coming to the attention of the church as well as to the attention of the country.

The Episcopal church in Idaho will doubtless reflect in its present-day activities many of these ideals that are now so prominent in the national church life.

They are all great Americans. These men and women are just drifting without any sense of vocation, while from every side of the country are coming to the attention of the church as well as to the attention of the country. Too many of the youth in America are just drifting without any sense of vocation, while from every side of the country are coming to the attention of the church as well as to the attention of the country.
