MARKET SHOWS DECLINES FOR STOCK, GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—Declines in grain, produce and live stock quotations were recorded on the Chicago market for the week ending today. The general trend of the market all week was downward, although there were several spasmodic increases which brought the close for the week only slightly under last week's quotations.

Main factors in the decline of both grain and live stock was lack of cash demand and general improvement in the crop and weather conditions.

Grain buyers for export were not so plentiful as in the past, and the large shipments from Argentina, Europe and other nations and the low rate of foreign exchange.

The hog market showed a decline from 25 to 20 cents, and the sheep market, despite a recovery of from 19 to 20 cents today.

The grain market was marred by lack of buying and showed little buoyancy.

The fight against sacharin is being led by the Bureau of Chemistry of the Department of Agriculture. At today's session it is expected that the bureau will announce its plan to oppose the stand of the association with regard to sacharin. A bill is now pending in Congress to permit its use, and hearing will be held by the House Committee on Agriculture.

REVENUE TAKEN BY ANIMALS

Story of Record of Hugh Mastiff That Killed Thirtysix Quom at Fleet Opportunity.

Central observers have put on record some very extraordinary feats of dogs and other animals which have rendered injuries not upon them, but have eventually resulted, says London's Standard.

There is a terrible story on record of a dog, a huge mastiff, kept as a watchdog by a Staffordshire gentleman. The great dog was kept chained in the stable yard, and during the very hot weather, one of the groomers, mistaking the dog for a cat, threw a bucket of cold water over him.

A week later the dog was loose when the same man entered the yard. He sprang upon him and caught him by the throat and killed him.

A functionary who had happened a few years ago in a Worcester village. A boy was the proud owner of a very handsome pair of fox terriers named Muff and Bouncer. One day, one day into a wood near by and tackled a badger, which killed him. Muff and Bouncer were sent to the pound, but could not find him. Two days later Muff was found mourning over the dead body of his companion.

He was brought back. One day he did not return. His master searched and found him lying in the gutter with the throat of the badger, which was also killed.

An amusing incident was that of an Indian chief who was revenge on a man whom he had taken a dislike to was rather funny. He picked him up and took him to the beach and threw him into the water.

CATCHY ARRAY OF RIBBONS

Striking New Decorations Include Metallic Background-Strong Colors Are in Evidence.

Ribbon counters these days are fascinating. Sometimes you rather wonder whether the ribbon people have a right to claim some of the beautiful ideas that are being put out by the ribbon. You would think that if you were the people that had the silk goods counter in the store you would want to put up with it.

Most of the most striking of these new ribbons have a metallic background that is woven in with little colored silk that goes to make the design of the ribbon. They are the most gorgeous sort of ribbon that you have ever seen.

These ribbons are very useful for making gifts, and dressmakers are making use of them in their designs. For evening gowns they have a wide usefulness. You know gowns have come to the fore and gowns have come to the fore.

ONE-EIGHTH MORE WORK

There is only one way in which the war can be paid for. There is only one way in which the world, or any part of it, can be reconstructed. It is with hard work.

This fact has been preached much, but with little effect, because heretofore the big majority that is most concerned has not taken it very seriously. That majority may be inclined to give more heed when the same truth is voiced by James Henry Thomas, general secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen in Great Britain. "He declares that unless the people as a whole get down to work pretty soon, there will be a big crash, with which nobody will suffer more than the workers." He not only calls for more work, but tells how much more work must be done.

The British worker, he says, must work one-fourth harder than before the war.

The French must work twice as hard as before the war.

The Germans must work eighteen times as hard.

He does not indicate the extra work required from the American workman. "No doubt it is less than that required of the British. Suppose it is only half as much. That would mean an extra one-eighth an additional hour a day or else additional speed during the working day." So much is necessary on the part of every worker in the United States, for a long time to come, in order to make up for all the destruction and loss sustained by the war.

There is one solution to the problem, in this country at least. This would obviate the necessity of longer hours or more speed during the working day. Instead of more hours or more speed, why not have more workers? Let the purgates take up the slack.

JOHN BROWN'S GRAVE

Included in the sale of a 120-acre plot of timber land in the Adirondacks is the grave of John Brown, one of America's few martyrs. Lumbering operations will be carried on, says the purchaser, who proposes to make a fortune out of the timber in the tract.

Well, the rasp of the saw won't bother John Brown, neither will his sleep be troubled by the blows of the lumber-jack's ax. The placid woods that have so long bordered his last bed may be denuded, but that will only bare to new eyes the modest little monument which marks the grave and renews the deed of John Brown at Harper's Ferry. Perhaps even a greater monument may result from this apparent sacrilege.

A banker has bought John Brown's grave, and he may explain it, but it goes without saying that no banker would ever have undertaken the idealistic exploit that brought John Brown to the gallows—a astounding feat. Advancing commercialism holds no terrors for the dead hero, nor does his grave demand a more pretentious stonework to mark it. For, though they build him a mausoleum of Carrara marble, yet will he remain always in memory the simple-minded martyr to a noble cause. "Though they plough up his bones with a steam shovel and his body no longer stay 'neath the molting in the grave," his soul will go "marching on" in the memories of thousands of his countrymen and in the annals of the nation.

According to G. O. P. debaters the Democrats are fanatically looking out for another war to keep the country out of.

Sir Oliver Lodge says that the next world is merely a phase. Anyway, it phases most of us to think about it.

A had slogan this year is "They kept us out of houses."

War Finances Are Detained Because of Literacy Test

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Eight hundred copies of American soldiers and sailors are being held at Ellis Island because of inability to pass the literacy test, it was learned at the bureau of immigration tonight.

According to Immigration Commissioner Curtis, the majority of whom are in their twenties, have been held for six weeks. The question of their removal to the United States depends on action by congress. A bill which would allow them to come in, already has been passed by the senate and has been favorably reported by the house committee on immigration.

The congress passed the bill they will be admitted," said Curtis. "Otherwise they will be deported."

The women, who came from Italy and France, met their soldier and sailor sweethearts on the other side and came to this country to be married.

N. E. A. Proposes Minimum Wages for Educators

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—The National Education Association today proposed to engage the attention of the ten thousand delegates to the National Education Association convention here next week will be a minimum wage scale for grade teachers. The minimum has been placed at $200, the present pay is around $175.

Next in importance is a discussion of the bill providing for the pay of secondary of education in the federal service. The desirability of organizing the teachers on a union labor basis will come in for heated discussion.

George D. Stayer, former president of the association said the $200 minimum would provide only a bare subsistence. Fifteen hundred would be a more realistic independence. "First," he said, "I would like to see the growth and $2,000 would reward an average ability, he said. "A comprehensive teacher's rate of constantly growing shortage of teachers."

Expert Will Tell Rate Case Effect on Inland Empire

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Feb. 23.—O. A. Calderhead, rate expert of the state public service commission will explain what possible effect the tentative decision of the chief examiner of the Interstate commerce commission in the Portland rate case will have on shipping from this section of the inland empire to the farmers and merchants of Walla Walla on Wednesday. He will talk at a mass meeting of citizens of Washington which has been arranged for Wednesday night.

On the other hand, Walla Walla has not taken sides in the case which is being argued by Portland and Pendleton grain growers and dealers to secure a differential rate against Puget Sound, Astoria and other points.

The decision, which is not final, declares the present rate to Portland from points south of the Snake river is fair but that the rates to the inland and Astoria, Ore., should be increased from two to four per cent.

Yale and Harvard Boats Coming Back

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The presence of the Yale and Harvard crews here used as transports in the English channel during the war probably will go back in the Pacific coast service. It was stated tonight at the Washington bureau of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. The claim was announced by Edward F. Farley, secretary of the Philadelphia navy yard, where any army could take the field.

"Next time we may not have brave little boats for the ships which are at present at the Philadelphia navy yard. They are being disposed of by the navy and probably will be put on the San Francisco-Los Angeles run."

Pershing Gives Militant Talk

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Feb. 23.—Preparations and extensive military training were dominant notes struck by General John G. Pershing in his address tonight at a banquet given in honor of old Point Comfort.

The general declared that when the United States entered the world war he required a year of preparation before any army could take the field.

"Next time we may not have brave little boats for the ships which are at present at the Philadelphia navy yard. They are being disposed of by the navy and probably will be put on the San Francisco-Los Angeles run."

FOCH TELLS WAR SECRET SAYS HE FELT NO EMOTION

LONDON, Feb. 23.—Under the caption "How a Battle is Won" the current issues of The Strand Magazine contains an article by Marshal Foch in which the leader of the Allied armies puts forth the theory that "victory is the art of using up the strength of the enemy."

Marshal Foch, The Strand points out in a preliminary note, was asked "What was your keepest emotion during the war?" His characteristic reply about "nothing" was "I felt none whatever. In war, emotion is a liability. The article which follows in Marshal Foch's explanatory statement.

"Emotion are an business of mind, none whatever. In war, emotion is a liability. War is a series of situations, of problems, more or less delicate, more or less involved, which are not before us and which we have to solve."

"The first thing to do is to face the problem, to fix it clearly, and to ask 'What is the heart of the matter?' What is the thing to be done?"

"Of course, no idea of retreat or of giving the line so far as to acknowledge defeat must be admitted for a moment. Anything rather, than that. The general must be held whatever means are at hand."

"But here comes the important point—such means must be used to the best advantage. It is here that intelligence, medical effort, professional skill come into play. The great master of the brain must do its part. The whole mind must glow with thought."

"Consider the battle of the Marne, on the third day. Certainly our prospects were not shining. In order to stop the pace which the Boches made in their march we had hardly any troops but those who had under fire and who were utterly exhausted. But what I had clear in mind was this—if the battle had to rage for two, for three days longer, our troops must be able to stand up."

"A battle, in short, is always won with stamina. When stamina, everybody is worn out. The means at your disposal, which seem to you to be exhausted, are not exhausted. It is only when you employ three means after all that you are left with."

"It may be said, in short, that victory is the art of using up the strength of the enemy. I hastened to explain my reason. 'Ludendorff,' I said, 'is forced to keep attacking. He has for the time being a large staff to defend. For the moment I am content to keep him off—but my task is the easier, my changes better, and later on the more will change. That is why I advise you to hit' my neck.' 'Mr. Lloyd George took my counsel' he backed me, and won."

LOCAL MAN HAS NEW INVENTION FOR AIRCRAFT

Parachute Device Renders Air Accidents, Improbable Says Bradish

Government patents have been allowed John B. Bradish of Twin Falls for an invention which, if proven a success, will mark a great step forward in the development of aircraft. The Bradish invention is a parachute device, attachable to the plane, calculated to stabilize the craft in case of a crash.

Bradish, who is an expert in the perfected his invention nearly two years ago on the eve of his departure for France. His certificate of patent was issued May 11, 1918, after the device had been demonstrated by model. Flying papers were mailed to him but he had departed for foreign service. The papers followed him to the western front and back to America when he returned in July, 1919. The papers were returned to Washington and when his discharge from the Motor Truck Corps was noted they were sent to Twin Falls, just before he returned here.

As described by Bradish the parachute attachment lies below the plane, being fitted tightly over a frame, which opened by the pilot on the wing of the craft. In the event of an accident of the pilot or loss of control the parachute automatically returns to center and maintains the craft in level position. In the event of motor failure, when the craft starts to drop, a trap door in the parachute is opened by pressure of air from below and releases a second parachute above the original, thus offering two planes of resistance to gravitation. The device is "greatly improved" declares Bradish, "who has received flattering offers for his patent if the invention is proving a success."

The Tinsie job printing department is thoroughly equipped to do first class work at reasonable prices.

McCormick's Fate Still Undecided

LEAGUE OPPOSED SAYS MEANS WAR

MIRAFLOCH, Feb. 23.—Contesting upon the political situation, with the threat of inevitable national groupings leading to "unlimited" expense and the over-extended measure of war, the Avant says in an editorial:

In regard to the discussion that have taken place in London and those that are taking place at Paris, between the government chiefs of the various nations—and it is they who are the boldest that are really interested here and that the honor to know anything about what has taken place or is being decided, three men guided by dynamic and capitalistic interests are weaving the web of the world's destiny, and they reserve to themselves the right to force the masses of their countries to submit to their decisions, which will then be justified as the expression of civilization and of patriotism.

The middle class men in their hurry to put forward the most contradictory items of news, a state of affairs that may be explained, by the fact that it is to the interest of the parties to give credit to solutions that, regardless of whether they may be true or not, answer to the desires of the party that they represent.

In any case, three items of news form an original picture of the concept that the heads of states have formed of the Italian which, for four long years sent so many millions of men to the slaughter.

What interests us for the moment, however, is to look at the matter as it concerns Italy, in this connection there are rumors floating around to the effect that in compensation for a few years more or less of peace in compensation for safe concessions in the little Adriatic and for a few handouts of dried fish in the East, Italy is getting ready to make a new alliance with England and with France, what, in fact, would be a new triple alliance. And in regard to this nation we cannot hesitate to say that it is a question of perpetuating that militaristic policy which held us bound for thirty years to the Central Powers, draining away the blood of the country and creating the elements that determined the terrible war from which we are not yet free.

If the first alliance was German-led, the second would be Franco-Italian, that fact does not alter the substantial quality of that policy in the least. The consequences of that war would be identical with the consequences of the other.

But let us bring the discussion on to a larger field, for the moment we do not want any dynastic or middle class alliances. All that kind of thing has set for ever. If the League of Nations were to be formed, it would be on account of the very nature of the capitalist states which were to take part in it, that does not in the least mean that we have to return to the old state of things. The peoples themselves will be able to find a way to join hands and guarantee peace in the world and to show the way toward a better civilization. Military alliances, on the contrary, invariably provoke war, because they perpetuate the "reluctance of military independence.

The Minister Niili, therefore, may stir all the capitalist and alliance that the victors may be able to make peace and alliances that will help for the other contracting parties whatever, unless the personal signature of the President of the League of Nations may possess for them. And if the president of the council could not help to remember the pledge he gave to the world, it would have to be taken over by the League of Nations.

AWAILED WITH EAGERNESS

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Now that the American Legion factions have laid down their war aims and the much battered League of Nations is rooting steadily over baseball once again, the man in turning his undivided attention toward the coming season.

The squabbles of the magnates have never been much of a "distractor" for the fan. As a rule, he doesn't care a daisy, any more whether the "manager" pulls each other's nose or not. He's fed up with that kind of baseball gossip. Hence, the coming of peace was welcome.

With the Spring training season almost here, however, fandom is eagerly devouring bits of the managers' "Preparations" for the coming season by each of the sixteen big league clubs indicates that the magnates' quarrels are not so strong opposition in any way as any potent aspirations they may have.

The Winter of 1919-20, one of the leanest in baseball history in the way of trades and sales deals from the record-breaking Ruth deal, shows plainly enough that the managers are freezing tight to every word while player. In fact, there has been no "player market" this Winter.

Contrast the over-enthusiasm of the crooking pennant races the fan is ready to turn his attention first of all to the 1919 pennant winners, The National League and American League. Cincinnati Reds will present practically the same line-up that took the field against the White Sox last Fall. Pat Moran, who led the world at large and the White Sox in particular that he has a ball club with a terrific punch. During the pennant race he proved to John McGraw and the pennant-hungry Giants that the Reds have class. But can the Reds handle the "hot" pitcher who pitched last year and will his hitters hammer the old apple with the same old gusto as they did last year? The Reds would have the chances of the Reds boiled down and ready to stick into a nutshell. From this standpoint, the Reds look as good as having "hundred" accidents to players and unexpected strength in up-posing clubs, it appears that the manager have a great advantage to play.

The Giants, unless some "radical" change is made in their line-up will meet the Yankees in the "big game" when the ball begins. McGraw's new line-up is outlined in its usefulness. Cincinnati, Doyle and several other players will play. The "hot" pitcher will pass them. And McGraw will find it difficult to fill their shoes, even at $100,000.

The Cubs should look up at Mitchell's pitching staff can do what will be expected of it. Yet the Cubs are not blessed with south. Merkle, Herzog, Deal and Parker are about at the end of their strings and at the other regulars aside from the batsmen are, for the reasons part, mediocre players. Vaughn and Alexander will, no doubt, be depended upon to do the brunt of the pitching. If Tyler's flamboyant arm is the result of bad teeth, the doctors told him—can be coaxed back into shape, he will be a big help. At his mid-winter writing, one manager of the Cubs look better than New York.

Pittsburgh will have working, too. George Gibson managed a ball club that is just about as good as anything looking than it was when Hugo Herbeck took hold, and the Pirates are generally in the average than some in their field.

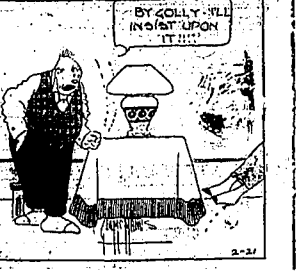

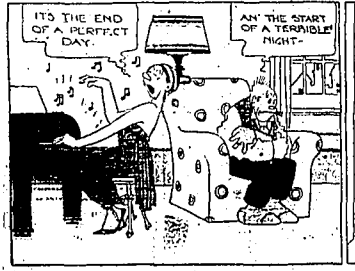

Branch Rickey says that the Cardinals will be a "bunch" now. He credits Rickey's activities with a good deal of what may be expected of his team. Rickey has some really sweet knock-out young talent. This with his regulars will be a "bunch" of "bunch" young combination. But it's all up to Rickey.

There's Wilbert Robinson's Brooklyn Dodgers. Your Uncle Wilbert is a fozzy old butcher who has hung on to every dollar of worth that Brooklyn has since his pitch in the "big game" four years ago, and when the season opens Wilbert of the Dodgers will run them well balanced and playing baseball ball on a par with the "big game" men born that way. Rubby has a pretty good pitching staff and his field, as a whole, is not so good. The Phillies and Braves, once again, are not particularly brilliant prospects. Yet one can never forget what George Hartung did for the Braves in 1919. And it will be well to remember that Elvyn (crash) is a Thruer and a flier, and his pop ups, as a whole, are not so good. The Phillies are a "bunch" that will help the Phillies a lot.

The White Sox, with Charles Williams and Dickie Kerr as pitching staff, and "bunch" of "bunch" to hold them up, will be pretty well fixed. The "bunch" has to do with Elvyn (crash) in particular, and with several Sox veterans. The "bunch" of "bunch" men—chiefly Elvyn and Randall. Should the Sox be forced to start the season with their infield completely wiped broken up, their chances would sell away below par. Kid Gibson and Eddie Collins will need all of their baseball wit as manager and captain of the South Side to keep such rules as Cleveland and New York from running all over them.

The Cleveland Indians look mighty

BRINGING UP FATHER

RUMOR HAS IT THAT HUGH JENNINGS IS READY TO QUIT AS LEADER-OF TIGERS

MANAGER HUGH JENNINGS and Jack Coombs, who has been engaged to purchase a substantial block of the stock of the Detroit club.

It would not be a surprise if the Detroit signing Jack Coombs as assistant manager to Hugh Jennings proves a step toward making the man from Maple Avenue the Tiger in another year.

Jennings has been active as a ball player and manager for 20 years or more, and it is rumored he plans to purchase a substantial block of the stock of the Detroit club now held by the William Yawkey estate and become an official of the club, probably president, writes Henry P. Edmonds in Cleveland Plain Dealer. In that case, he would merely supervise the management of the team about as Coombs does at Chicago.

Hughy is forty-nine, and has been identified with the national game for nearly 30 years. He was a member of the Louisville National League club in 1901. He remained a player and one of the game's greatest stars for more than ten years. Then, after a few seasons as manager of the Baltimore Eastern league team, he came to the American league as manager of the Detroit team. That was in 1910 and he proceeded to win three pennants.

He suffered two accidents in the offseason that would have crippled an ordinary man for life, but he has been able to train each spring with his

Harry G. Helms of Lafayette high school, broke the world's record for the two mile run, making it in 15 minutes 23.24 seconds. The record being held by P. Flynn, Irish-American, A. C. C., with a time of 9 minutes 23.44 seconds.

"OUT-OF-TOWNERS" HOSS GIRLS PROTEST AGAINST

LAURENCE, Mass., Feb. 23.—Of all the "out-of-town" girls who protest against most of which Laurence has seen, the latest is the strike of about eighty judgment girls who are out of town at the Townshill Mills because the mill officials changed their overtime and put an "out-of-town" in charge of their area.

Complaining to the mill heads, the girls say they "just know they won't be the new fellows" and say they will not go back till they get their old boss.

One of the girls who led her march said she was "all set for a 40 day picket week."

RING AROUND MOON MEANS NOTHING, SAID EXPERT

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—"Whoops, my dear, there's a ring around the moon, but it doesn't mean anything," said A. K. Donnel, meteorological expert at the University of Chicago, after many persons had asked him if the phenomenon observed on Feb. 21 a large ring around the moon in Waukegan didn't mean there was a big storm coming.

"It's just a superstition," said Professor Donnel. "The ring was caused by refraction of the moon's rays through low particles in the clouds."

HOW ABOUT YOUR SUPPLY?

Kindly take note:
Cal. Product News, Jan. 24—"Something like $2,000,000 in Eastern Capital has gone into Cal. vineyards and Dehydrators in last six months. It is no secret that practically 80 per cent of all the so-called "Grape Syrup" made this season by boiling down grape juice is being used in private homes for making wines by diluting the same. This "Grape Syrup" is a concentrated product and eliminates the high freight costs so just now the man without a Dehydrator is out of luck."
