Senators Have Warm Debate About Treaty

Democrat Charges Republicans Have Nerve to Criticize Wilson's Failure

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—A charge by Senator Hitchcock, administration leader, that the republican side sought to destroy the treaty and hamper the efforts of the president to bring about world peace, at the peace conference, plunged the senate into a stormy debate this afternoon.

The statement issued by the bureau of internal revenue was as follows: "The bureau of internal revenue is charged with the enforcement of the national prohibition, which definitely prohibits the manufacture and sale for beverage purposes of all liquors containing one-half per cent or more of alcohol."

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Feb. 28.—More than 100 signatures to petitions signed in behalf of the 1918 senatorial campaign of James W. Howell, alleged to have been a forger, were identified as forgeries from the pen of Richard Fletcher, a Newberry Democrat, at today's session of the Newberry trial.

Several witnesses did the identifying, but the most important testimony was given by Ernest H. Courtney, handwriting expert of Detroit, who analyzed the signatures from the witness stand and pronounced them as having been written by Fletcher.

Gem Lands

I have good news for you if you are looking for some of the very best lands in Idaho—a long growing season, free from frosts, and it is not uncommon for the farmers to produce 7, 8 and even 10 tons of alfalfa hay to the acre. On account of the deposits of nitrate in this soil, it will produce the largest crops of anything you wish to grow. The finest watermelons and cantaloupes grown in the state are raised here. Early potatoes you can put on the market nearly one month earlier than you could in many other sections. There is no limit to the depth of this soil, and is free from rock and lays fine in most every case. This is the finest beet land in the state, and the Sugar Company is contracting for beets on this tract, and whether you want to raise beets or not, there is one thing sure—wherever a sugar factory has gone in, it has in most cases doubled the price of farm lands, and it will do it on the Gem Tract. Compare the prices of lands here before the sugar factory came and now. Now, then, if you want to get the benefit of a rapid advance in the most productive lands in Idaho, you will have to get in before all the improvements that are sure to come in the near future.

Do not let anyone throw you off the track, but come and see the map and get direct information.

The altitude on the Gem tract is 2260 feet. We expect to go by auto with land buyers in a few days, and will furnish free transportation to land buyers.

Below are a few of the best buys we have.

- 40 acres, cleared, but no improvements otherwise; free water this year. A very small payment down and very easy terms on balance. Priced $75 per acre.
- 40 acres, all in alfalfa, fenced; has small house and is a nice 40. Price $150 per acre. Good terms.
- 40 acres—a beautiful 40—improved, near school and loading station. Another bargain at $150 per acre.
- 40 acres—one of the prettiest you ever saw; quite well improved; has deep well and gas engine to pump good water. I can rent this land for $40 per acre this year. Price $225 per acre. Very good terms. Free water this year.
- 80 acres, most all in hay, two sets of buildings, and is a fine piece of land all ready to begin to take the cream. Price $145 per acre.

80 acres. There will be a townsite on this 80, and now has school and store adjoining; land 30 minutes from Caldwell by auto; 3 1-2 miles from electric line; a beautiful piece of land; all has been in hay; has plastered and painted house; stable, deep well and windmill. This is a real bargain at $150. per acre, and a $3000 cash payment will handle.

160 acres, all in hay, producing immense crops. Price $125 per acre.

All of the above lands are on the Gem Tract. Let us tell you the real facts about these lands and then go with us and see them for yourself.

Here Is One Listing We Have of 80 Acres on the Deer Flat.

80 acres, fine, smooth land, no rock or coules; right on electric line; fair house, deep well, etc. One of the good bargains at $260.

Remember what I have told you—when sugar factory is built, railroads and electric lines and bridges are in, the Gem lands are going to double.

HOW 27 TRAITORS FACED FIRING SQUAD

PARIS, Feb. 26.—"Father" Hollin, the man who led 1000 Parisians, the dancer, Maria Harl, and twenty-five other traitors to the stake on the desolate Vincennes Parade Ground for execution by a firing party, had allowed his tongue to wag now that the piping lines of peace have returned.

"Paris, whose official title is 'Municipality of Material of Engineers of Port Vincennes' is a worthy and respectable old Frenchman, who confesses that the new titles assigned him when the war broke out nauseated him.

"But I got used to it," he said, pulling at a stumpy clay pipe. "I saw twenty-seven fall under the balls of the platoon of police-Greks, Spaniards, Germans, Austrians, Italians, even French and English, an 'two names."

"The stake is a dead tree stump of branch.

"Each victim gets a fresh stake," explained Hollin, "for it is often shot away or bloodstained.

"That's the rope," which bound Lenoir, said the old man picking up a bloodstained cord a yard and a half long. "There was a lot of gossip about his execution, but it was a poor affair, for I've still got nearly the whole rope."

"Pure Hollin evidently gauges the interest in the various executions by the demand for souvenirs in the shape of pieces of the rope which tied the condemned man.

"Bla's end," he continued, "was more sensational. Every pull of the firing party had to get a bit of rope, and I've only two inches left."

"This demand for souvenirs was a regular source of income to Pere Hollin. "They didn't take 100," he chuckled.

"There was a big sergeant of Blue Devils in the firing party. "I was to win the Hollin's brains out. Every time this sergeant was in a firing party the traitor got a bullet through the brain."

"Hollin's death was a source of satisfaction to very French fighter," he added. "Full cartridge was used and the bullets were examined afterwards. If any man didn't fire he got fifteen days in prison."

"The man who told the Germans where the Big Bertha shells fell by sending notes to Spain in particular notified their dramatic fashion; he threw his cap in the air and shouted: 'Go out! Fire right at the heart!'"

Hollin also told how Maria Harl, the Japanese dancer, once the pet of Paris during the war, met her fate.

"She didn't think they would kill her," she had been told by her partner that it was only going to be a make-believe execution. That was why she seemed so full of courage. But the girls were well charged; I can assure you."

"Asked if she kept the wooden statue, Pure Hollin answered disdainfully: "Keep them. What for? To open museum? No! Burn them! Would rather keep warm—and wood is dead."

ALPINE REPUBLIC FOR REFUGE

GENEVA, Feb. 28.—Switzerland, the playground of Europe, has become since the armistice the refuge of royalties belonging to the beaten Central Powers. It is known now that it was only a loss whether the ex-kaiser should take refuge in Holland or Switzerland, while the ex-Crown Prince, who spent many winters before the war at St. Moritz for the sports, finally favored the latter country, and was overruled.

The ex-king of Bavaria, who celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday a week ago with all the members of his family at Locarno, crossed the Swiss frontier a few days after the armistice had been signed, and has not returned to Germany since. He spends most of his time residing about the beautiful lake of Lugano. It is stated that he is suffering from heredity insanity, which always existed in the family—and in any case he is always accompanied by a Munich mental expert. His nephew, Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, makes frequent visits to Davos, traveling incognito.

The Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, who has spent most of her time since the war in Geneva, recently told me that during the last five years she had received few letters from her daughter, the ex-queen, Princess of Germany, and attributed the fact to the influence of the ex-kaiser, with whom the Grand Duchess acknowledged, smiling, that she never was persona grata, nor with her son-in-law of whom she has a poor opinion. Hence the rumor that her daughter intends seeking a divorce. The Grand Duchess further told me that she considered the Allies made a mistake in not entering Germany after the war and dividing the country into its original form of confederated States.

The Friend of the People

As a general rule the Swiss Government informs its royal guests in diplomatic language, that any political propaganda on Swiss soil would not be tolerated, but this rule has been frequently flagrantly broken by the first royal refugees, King and Sophie of Greece, who still hope to return to the throne of Athens. In fact, the present Greek Minister at Bern, M. Alexandri, publicly accused them in the Swiss press of being the instigators and accomplices of the recent plot to assassinate M. Vassilov. The couple spent most of their time in Geneva, and were the only private persons in Switzerland during the war permitted to run a car, much to the indignation of the Swiss, whose cars were commandeered by the military authorities.

Austria-Hungary has also sent its contingent of royal refugees to Switzerland on the breaking up of the empire. Accompanied by British officers in a special train, which left Vienna secretly, ex-emperor Karl and ex-empress Zita, with their family, whose lives were in great danger in the capital, were rushed across the Swiss frontier, nearly a year ago, and have since been residing at the beautiful historic chateau at Prangins, near Geneva. The chateau was formerly the property of Prince Jerome Bonaparte—what a freakish trick played by time!—and now belongs to Mrs. Helen Clarke, of New York. Karl spends most of the day shooting, fishing and boating and Zita has much to do with the welfare of her five children. I met the couple dressed as ordinary tourists, in the flower market a few days ago on a shopping excursion from Prangins. They were unaccompanied, and Karl was loaded with parcels, but nobody took any notice of them.

The Grand Duchess Adelaide of Luxembourg, after her outercast abdication—as she was considered too Germanophile by her people—has been staying in retirement at Monreux, receiving few visitors and rarely leaving her villa. It would take much space to give the names of the numerous German, Austrian and Hungarian Ministers who in their time had played important parts in European politics and who are now wisely "resting" in Switzerland.

There's No Driver's Seat in Belgium

In Belgium cold necessity has brushed aside false barriers and forced the people into co-operation. The employer and the employed work side by side and in accord. Cold necessity has shown them the ruinous effect of discordant bickerings while the country starves. In Belgium there is no "pulling and hauling." Everyone is pulling. All are in the harness, working for the rebuilding of their country.

We in Twin Falls are not "rebuilding" our city, but it is obvious that we should rebuild some of our ideas and practices. We are not rebuilding our city, but we are still building on it and must not allow false principles to be erected on the splendid natural foundation with which we are favored. Cold necessity has not yet touched us, but why should that prevent drawing a moral from the Belgium lesson in team work?

It is well to urge labor to its fullest productive capacity. It is all right to speak of getting a full day's work for a full day's pay, but while we are watching so closely to see that we get the full day's work let us not lose sight of the full day's wage.

It is well to deplore strikes as inimical to industry and to public comfort. But in seeking to place the blame, why not look on both sides of the controversy to find what is responsible for the strike? Why not get at the root of the matter, rather than follow the first thoughtless impulse of blaming the striker? Such a policy is much like drugging a pain instead of getting to the cause and curing it.

The laboring man has his rights, but they were not given to him freely. They were won only through long years of stubborn strife and by means of organization.

Today the non-union man is enjoying good wages only because the unions won it for him. He is living on the fruits of organized labor. There are none who will dispute that organization is responsible for improved working conditions and wages, as organization is responsible for advancement in any other field. No progress can be made except through organization.

Knowing that his welfare depends upon organization, can the union man therefore be blamed for defending it? Knowing the bitter fight in the past, can he help viewing with suspicion any effort to break his organization? Would it be good business for him to abandon organization? He may be told that no harm is intended, but would it be good business for him to believe? The spoken word isn't trusted very far in business, and it doesn't stand in law.

Would it not, then, be wise and fair to let the laboring man alone and devote the energy that has been directed against him to the business of building up Twin Falls? Cold necessity has forced Belgium into co-operation. Let us not await that extremity here. Twin Falls has the most brilliant future of any city in the state. It would be shameful to spoil that future, by senseless industrial strife. And the aggressor in that strife need not attempt to avoid public sentiment and censure by trying to burden the opposed element with blame. Whether it be the employer or the employee that takes the offensive in obstructive and destructive tactics, public opinion will strike quick and sure.

There's no driver's seat in Belgium. The people of Twin Falls are watching to see that none be established here. Let us have team work. Let us all work, work for Twin Falls.

BAD ENGINEERING

At the engineers' convention in New York, Herbert Hoover attracted the attention of the delegates to the coal industry as one "immediately busy from an engineering, and consequently from an economic and human, standpoint."

He referred to the fact that, owing to the irregularity of production, seasonal and local, the industry has been "equipped to a peak load of 25 or 30 per cent over the average load," and "has been provided with a 25 or 30 per cent larger labor complement than it would require if continuous operation could be brought about." This is merely a technical way of saying what every miner knows and what the public is now familiar with—that the mines are idle at least one-fourth of the time, and have to speed up accordingly the rest of the time, and so have to carry the extra equipment and labor to make such speeding possible.

The speaker remarked on the economic loss to the community of having in this industry 100,000 more workers than it needs, and the fact that if they could be applied to other production and the remainder employed steadily, the cost of coal could be reduced to the consumer and the coal miners would all be better off.

Menly a case of bad engineering! It leads to speculation as to how much bad engineering there is in our other industries. It serves as a reminder that though this has been termed "the age of engineering," the putting of engineering principles into operation is yet far from complete. While departments of our life have hardly been touched yet. Take government, for example. Legislation and administration could stand a lot of modern engineering.

THE TREATY IN THE CAMPAIGN

It begins to appear that, after all, the treaty will be thrown into the campaign. That may happen from failure to ratify it. Or an ease ratification is accomplished before the party conventions, it may happen from the de-termination of the bitter-enders to repeal it. Senator Johnson has already served notice that in a certain contingency he will go before the country on a platform demanding that the United States give immediate notice of withdrawal from the League of Nations.

Perhaps, after all, that would be the best way out of it. Few people want the treaty issue debated during the campaign—the public is sick of it, and there are many vital domestic issues that ought to have a free field. Still, there would be some advantages. With the treaty issue formally ratified, the powers that won the war could proceed to liquidate the victory with more authority and success. And then, the question of whether or not the United States should withdraw from the league, though sprung prematurely, would give occasion for a referendum showing how the public really stands on the League question.

Most friends of the League would probably welcome such a test. And while it would hardly sound the campaign, the question might be settled so decisively that the consequent peace and certainty would make it worth while.

A FAIR AWARD

A California board of arbitration, dealing with a woman's strike, made its award both a rebuke and a justification of the strikers. The street car men had gone on strike contrary to an agreement and to a strike until certain remedies had been exhausted. The board decided that they should be penalized for this, and so ruled that the new wage scale should not be retroactive to October, as was at first intended, but should become effective in January.

This seems like a mild enough penalty. The public, during 1918, was many times un sympathetic with strikers whose demands seemed justified, simply because they struck before they had tried other offered means of securing justice.

On the other hand, the board decided that the company must pay the men a "minimum living wage" in spite of the company's assertion that its financial condition would not permit the increase involved. This, too, seems a fair decision. There is surely something fundamentally wrong or inefficient in the administration of a business which cannot pay a living wage to its employees and at the same time make its own reasonable profits and give the service it offers.

The same old solemn farce is on again in Washington. Just when the nation expected action on the treaty at last, Republicans and Democrats start once more blaming each other about the treaty delay, and thus continuing the delay.

JUBILANT MYSTIC SHRINERS DEPART FOR BURLEY TO BE PRESENT AT BIG CONVENTION

Joyous Festivities in Store for Visiting Lodge-men—Burley Prepared to Greet Shriners Today

Program to enjoy themselves to the utmost and bubble over with joy, about 75 members of the local Mystic Shrine departed for Burley today for the annual convention of the organization will take place.

This will undoubtedly be one of the largest gatherings of men ever presided by Burley and the festive city has made elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the guests. Burley has arranged a remarkable program for entertainment, lectures, and the visitors will be given a royal welcome and a "hot" good time.

The grand reception today was fully decorated with the insignia of the order. All nobles wore the fee, the order's badge, so that there would be no mistake in identity.

The Twin Falls contingent was the largest going from the county, although Burley will also be well represented. The Shriners feature will sport a band to announce the arrival of the contingent. The visitors are planning to take a picnic first in the convention grounds.

Arrangements have been made by the host city of care for the ladies accompanying the men. There will be a luncheon at the Arcadia of which ladies will be present and other fetes are being planned in their honor. Many of the wives of the Shriners are planning to attend. Dancing and games will be enjoyed by the female visitors in the afternoon.

All of the important Idaho cities will be well represented. Those planning to attend the convention will also send a large delegation with Blackfoot, Idaho Falls and other organized places.

The day will be arranged full of social, dining, and business and there are many novel features of entertainment for the visiting lodge members.

While most of those going travel on the train several auto loads hit the midway road for the convention city. The latter, of course, left last evening so that the condition of the roads, and possible engine trouble or tire trouble would not prevent them from arriving in time for the festivities.

The following program has been prepared for the day:

7:30 p. m.—Arrival of El Comandante, 11:30 a. m.—Luncheon at the Arcadia. (Bring ladies with you for the luncheon.)

1:30 p. m.—Arrival of the local Shriners Club Special.

3:15 p. m.—Grand parade.

Fire of unknown origin practically razed the residence of J. E. Pohlman at 222 Howe lakes boulevard yesterday afternoon. When the conflagration began the entire family was away but Mr. Pohlman believes it might have started just as he was departing.

The phone and most of the furniture was removed at once but insurance men for the entire upper floor was soon wrapped in flames. It spread continually and even after the department had arrived it took some time to control them.

The Pohlman family came to Twin Falls recently from Hollister, where they had resided for some time.

About three hundred yards quick gathered upon the scene. As the fire broke, the home greatly damaged, the upper part was still smoldering and the roof was completely ruined.

INCOME TAX RETURNS DUE

Business Men, Farmers and Wage Workers Must File Schedules of Income for 1919.

MARCH 15 LAST FILING DATE.

Net incomes of $1,000 or Over, if single; or $2,000 or Over if Married, Must Be Reported.

The Income Tax imposed by Act of Congress on earnings of the year 1919 is now being collected.

Returns under each must be made on or before March 15, by every citizen and resident who had a net income for 1919 amounting to: $1,000 or over, if single; or if married and living apart from wife (or husband); or if widowed or divorced, $2,000 or over, if married and living with wife (or husband).

The status of the person on the last day of the year fixes the status for the year with respect to the above requirements.

Under any of these circumstances a return must be made, even though no tax is due.

Husband and wife must consider the income of both, plus that of dependent minor children. In preparing this return, it is sufficient to require a return, all items must be shown in a joint return or to separate returns of husband and wife.

A single person with minor dependents must include the income of such dependents.

A widow who has a net income of $1,000 or more is not considered a dependent, and must file a separate return.

Personal returns should be made on Form 1040-A, unless the net income exceeds $5,000, in which case Form 1040 should be used.

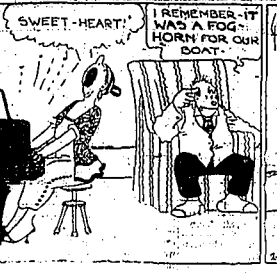

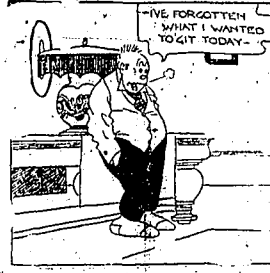

Residents of Idaho should file their returns with, and make payments of income tax to, the collector of Internal Revenue, Boise, Idaho.

How to Figure Income.
The best way to find out whether one must file a return is to get a Form 1040-A and follow the instructions printed on it. That form will show a remainder of every item of income, and if a return is due it tells how to prepare and file it.

Other Return Due.
Every partnership doing business in the United States must file a return on Form 1065. If any partner is a partner in a partnership which is a corporation must file a similar return.

Trustees, executors, administrators and other acting in a fiduciary capacity are required to file returns. In some cases, Form 1041 is used; in others, Form 1040; and still others, Form 1065. Each requires a separate return. Form 1099, and 1000, must be filed by every organization, firm or person who paid, during 1919, an amount of $100 or more, salary, wages, interest, rent, or other fixed or determinable income to another person or to a partnership, service corporation or fiduciary. These information returns should be forwarded directly to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue (posting address), Washington, D. C.

RULES NOT ABLE TO KILL BALL TRICKS

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—No matter what the baseball rules committee does today, abolishing the pitching at the Chicago meeting. It is a fact that some other unannounced item will be heard from next season. Not a few baseball men are inclined to the belief that the so-called "shiner" is more of a myth than anything else, and that the crutch of the season and has been the cause for all other pitchers who are reputed to have mastered the "shiner" or its tricks. The spitball, of course, is a substantial reality. Abolition of it will be a hardship on a good many hurlers.

According to McCann a pitcher with a fast curve ball and a usable bunt can bluff about seventy-five per cent of his pitchers he faces into believing that he is a fast ball pitcher. McCann says that it is not a bluff, and he is not alone. McCann says that the "shiner" is a myth, and he is not alone. McCann says that the "shiner" is a myth, and he is not alone. BLOOD USED TO AID IN COLLEGE CAMPAIGN

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Feb. 27.—Giving first blood in this school is being used to introduce by students of the International Y. M. C. A. College here. The college is now engaged in their campaign to raise an endowment of $2,000,000.

At $20 and $25 a pint, established prices in this region, many gallons of the essential life fluid will be offered for transfusion purposes to hospitals throughout New England by a voluntary association of sixty-two husky students. Their earnings from this source will help to build a dispensary and science laboratory, raise professors' salaries, pay off the college's $400,000 debt and found a $1,000,000 endowment.

Although employment of the "blood transfused squad" as an auxiliary in the college fund-raising effort by the college department, the squad itself was organized several months ago when, purely for humanitarian purposes, seventy-five members of a student body of 3,500 volunteered their services to act as blood "donors" in Springfield and other western New England hospitals wherever patients of the institutions required transfusion operations.

In subsequent scientific tests of the sixty-two of the seventy-five came up to the high standard of blood quality required by pathologists for transfusion. This is regarded as a remarkable showing and is believed to result from the treatment of physical fitness made by the college on all of its entering students who are preparing themselves to be Y. M. C. A. secretaries and physical directors for the Y. M. C. A. playgrounds, schools, and colleges, industrial plants, and recreation programmes, and to forth already the services of squad members who have been called on have brought about the saving of a dozen or more lives in hospitals in and near Springfield.

Earnings help along the endowment campaign came last week when it was learned that the student body was to be asked to contribute. With exception the students of the college are wholly or partially self-supporting during the four years' course, and, as the stable fund earned from blood "donations" are more or less in the nature of "extra" it was felt that this source of income could be tapped more readily than others.

Generally speaking, owing to their prime physical condition, students consider "blood money" easier to earn than almost any other kind.

"Our men are so fit all the time that most of them do not notice any sensation at all from the loss of a pint of blood," Dean Frank N. Beeley, himself a doctor of medicine and recently.

"At the most, a man experiences a slight feeling of dizziness and lassitude for an hour or so, but with our exceptional men have gone through the operation—have stood a stiff march parade the next day without inconvenience."

BLUE AND WHITE HOOP TEAMS END WEEK WITH 3 WINS AND 1 DEFEAT

First Team Wins at Heyburn and Loses at Oakley—Second Blue and White Quintet Trims Kimberly—Girls Beat Heyburn

Twin Falls high school basketball team ended the week with 3 victories and one defeat for a percentage of 750 figured on the scale of 1000.

Thursday evening the Twin Falls varsity quintet trounced the Heyburns five to the tune of 30-19. This game was rather easy for the locals, who regarded it as a practice contest. Last evening the first team went down to defeat at Oakley by the close score of 39-31. This contest was a fight from start to finish and although the Blue and White emerged from the fray with the short end of the score, they intend to even up matters when the academic players come here for the tournament.

Boys going on the trip were Walter Kronge, Kenneth Volen, "Specie" Newman, Clarence Taylor, Ward Carter, Duane Hertz and Bob Putzer. E. P. Nafziger, coach of the squad, accompanied the team.

Last evening the second high school team romped away with the Kimberly high first aggregation by a margin of several points, the exact score not having been learned. The local lad found the Kimberly boys no match for them.

Those making the trip to Kimberly were: Harold Becker, Cleve Shelby, Clifford Fin, Phillip King, Bert Bailey, Jack Phillips, Jean Tammer, B. A. Hiles, local high school teacher, accompanied the boys.

Yesterday morning the Twin Falls girls team won from the Heyburn ladies to the tune of 27-17. According to word reaching here the local had no trouble in sustaining their reputation.

This is the first time in several years that the local girls team has played away from home, all of the games for some time taking place on the home floor. Those making the trip to Heyburn were Lois Baylor, Lola Metracken, Ida Laird, Pamela Hammyer, Marjorie Stevens and Stella Dower.

Superintendents Called Autocrats

CLEVELAND, Feb. 27.—The educators' convention here was threatened with a break at the closing session today when charges of autocratic rule in the superintendents' department were hurled at the officers by insurgents.

The charges were made by Fred Hunter, superintendent of schools, Oakland, Cal., in a resolution which he introduced. He urged that the officers be chosen by the convention rather than by the nominating committee.

However, the flare up was futile, as the convention adopted the committee's representative, clearing all officers.

FATE OF BALL TEAM WILL BE DETERMINED AT MASS MEETING

A meeting of all interested in placing a ball team in the southern Idaho league this year will take place within a day or two according to the civic bureau of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce which met yesterday to consider the matter.

"There was a large warm interest among the Twin Falls business men relative to placing a team in the league," said Newell S. Wright, secretary of the Chamber this morning. "If we are to have a ball team the people will have to be awakened for there has been little interest shown in the enterprise to date."

Merchant Marine Policy Is Heard

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Hearings on the legislation proposed for the formulation of a policy for the American merchant marine, are virtually completed, according to an announcement made today by Senator Jones, republican of Washington, chairman of the senate commerce committee.

The committee will conclude the hearings in a few days. Jones announced, "at which time a sub-committee will be appointed to draft a bill which will aim to insure the re-employment of the present United States merchant fleet under the flag of the United States, and provide for a means of supervising the operation of this fleet."

The sub-committee will not start work, however, until the conference committee on the water power bill has completed its deliberations, Senator Jones announced. This will take but a short time, he said.
