FREE EUROPE OF AMERICAN GRIP ON FOOD PREMIER PLAN

Dependence of Foreign Countries Bothers Supreme Council

FAVOR OPENING GERMAN TRADING

Russia is Also Looked Upon With Encouragement by Allies

LONDON, March 2.—Freeing Europe from its dependence upon the United States for food supplies and other commercial relations between allied Europe and Germany were outlined this afternoon by two of the broad principals upon which the supreme council (composed of premier) is conducting its discussions upon the acute international economic situation.

An European solidarity is the only answer to this problem the allies debated the widening of trade channels toward Russia and the granting of economic privileges to Germany.

The suggestion was made during the preliminary deliberations that the reparations demanded from Germany should be made in kind.

In view of the closeness of American proposals made to these overboard the idea of building down German trade. In this same connection, it was strongly suggested that the allies allocate Germany necessary quota of necessary supplies.

Railroad Unions Accept Tribunal Plan Under Protest--Shoppers Are Expected to Proceed With Strike

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 2.—"We have substituted the power of a Kaiser in America and have created a horrid class of security holders," said Glenn E. Plumb, sponsor of the "Plumb Plan" for operation of railroads on the passage of the Cummings-Esch bill, in an interview here today.

Plumb declared that further rate increases sought by the railroads would not decrease deficits, but on the contrary, would increase them.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Representatives of 15 railroad unions today agreed to accept under protest Plumb's offer to appoint a bipartisan tribunal which will try to work out a wage issue program between the roads and their employees.

The election was made by the Hungarian national assembly.

Feminine Headgear Will Include Horsehair

CINCINNATI, O., March 2.—Time shows change.

The headdress of femininity in America this spring will include horsehair. Time was when horsehair used horsehair as a permanent for self-inflicted poisons.

"It's the Jazz which has gotten into spring millinery," was the explanation offered when the discovery was made at a local exhibition of spring hats that some of the new hats have an irregular, or jagged, outline.

Some of the new millinery is fashioned from celluloid which has been made into a fireproof, shiny substance called celophane.

One model consisted of celophane combined with black making something like a millinery pot, the coming season will be a shiny one.

Great quantities of jet will be used, as well as beads with a metallic surface, and a glossy variety of trimmed "kawaii" or glycerine stick.

Believe Mexican Murderer Is Dead

WASHINGTON, Mar. 2.—The Mexican bandit who murdered August Morrell, the aged ex-American consul near Mazatlan, is himself believed to have suffered death as a penalty, the state department was advised today. A notorious bandit Cacho was found hanged near the scene of the slaying of Morrell, state department advices say that he probably was hanged by order of Cipriano Coronel, leader of the bandits in Colima. Coronel is believed to have killed Morrell.

Advices have been received from Mexican federal officials, along the border that every effort will be made to get the bandits who shot up the general store and postoffice of the frontier town of Babay, Ariz., killing A. J. Praeler and wounding his brother.

HOW

The Paraffine Companies Inc. helped develop the oil and asphalt industry of California

The tremendous growth of the oil and asphalt industry of California was due in a measure to The Paraffine Companies, Inc. How?

"Black Paraffine" Apparently Worthless

In the early days, oil experts from the Pennsylvania fields, thought that the black viscous residue left after the lighter oils had been distilled from California petroleum was "black paraffine." But it was not like the paraffine they knew, and they considered it worthless.

For a long time the oil industry was handicapped by the large quantity of this black residue.

Its Great Value Discovered

Then came Beardley, an Eastern oil expert, and Pierce, a chemist, who resolved to find a use for it. They experimented ceaselessly without result, until one day by accident they discovered that this "black paraffine" would dissolve readily in that evil-smelling liquid known as carbon bisulphide. Their search was at an end. They had made a product which dried quickly and withstood the action of acids and alkalis.

As a result of this discovery The Paraffine Paint Company was formed to manufacture the now famous "P & B" paints and a small plant was established in Oakland in 1884.

Oil Was Distilled to Get the Asphalt

During the early life of The Paraffine Paint Company there was difficulty in securing enough "black paraffine" or what was later discovered to be asphalt. The oil companies had trouble in supplying it, because it forced them to distill a large quantity of the lighter oils in order to get the residue. And they stated there was little or no market for the distilled products. Thus, for a time, asphalt was the main product and the lighter oils the by-product.

THE TURKISH SURRENDER

The American public, having lost interest in European affairs for a while, has been sitting up and taking notice again as a result of some of the recent acts of the allied coalition. Chief among them in its power to touch the American mind is the decision to leave the Turks in possession of Constantinople.

Your typical American cares very little about Constantinople—certainly not enough to induce him to accept a mandate to rule it. But he does care about the Turks jostling them with honest fervor and earnestly desiring that they shall get what is coming to them for all their massing, looting and other abominations, past and present. He expects a million of course that the Turks would be expelled from Constantinople.

The fact is, of course, that British and French imperialists want to plant the Turks in hope thereby of clinching the loyalty of the Mohammedans in their colonial possessions. There is probably little real basis to such hopes; the Turks do not stand high in the estimation of non-Turkish Mohammedans who form the great majority of adherents to their faith. Hundreds of thousands of Mohammedans fought with the British against the Turks. The religious power of the Sultan is now almost negligible, like his political power. But so far as there is anything in it, Americans will hardly endorse any such shameful surrender. The British people themselves are very indignant about it.

With British and American sentiment against this iniquitous settlement, the little circle of statesmen responsible for it will probably have to reverse itself.

NEW YORK BETS FORESTRY PACE

What can be done in constructive forestry by any interested and public-spirited community is being done by eight counties in the northern part of New York. These counties have united in the adoption of a reforestation policy which will be put into effective operation during the present year. They intend to plant many municipal forests.

These forests are to be a public asset from which each community will receive a substantial financial income in the future. It is recognized that private concerns cannot afford to wait half a century for returns on investment, but a far-sighted community will find its forest income well worth waiting for.

The state college of forestry is helping the work, giving advice and field assistants. In one county it has already completed plans for 24 township forests. Other counties will probably adopt similar plans.

The work of these eight counties, and other plans now under consideration for the whole state, point the way for the rest of the country. A few of the different ideas are:—The checker-board question have united in New York state for the sake of immediate action. Private owners of forest lands are being urged to join in the general campaign and to take measures for the protection and future development of their forests. The Empire state's example ought to give new impetus to forestry projects in every state in the union.

WOOD SEEKS ILLINOIS DELEGATION

NEW YORK, March 2.—Announcement was made today at the headquarters of General Leonard Wood, candidate for the republican nomination for president, that he would make a fight to secure the Illinois delegation to the national convention. The announcement definitely set at rest reports that General Wood would concede the seat to Governor Lowden as a "favorite son."

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Holding that certain lands in Montana surrendered by the Crow Indians to the United States in trust for the Indians, the supreme court today decided that the War Department could not sell these lands as though they were public lands.

Actresses Have No Regrets at Not Being Boys

LONDON, March 2.—The world was along, and woman daily proved that she is "made of sterner stuff" than her brother. She has not only proved her courage in the face of death, but she has also proved her courage in the face of the "other sex." The principal boys in these various pantomimes have been asked if they like to be boys.

"Good heavens, no. Not for worlds will I change," says Miss Mirella, who is playing "The Girl Who Came to Supper." "I would rather be a girl than a boy."

"I once wanted to be a boy. From childhood I coveted boys, their freedom, their responsibility. I do not think that way now. Why? Well you see, I'm married now. Were I a boy I should be denied the little pettings and caresses that my husband lavishes on me."

"From Liverpool Miss Doreen, who plays "Jack" at the Olympia, admits: "I do like to wear the trousers at times. The very notion does not bother me, but I much prefer being called to ruffling."

Miss Charles Mayne, who plays at the Royal, Birmingham, says: "I do not like to be a boy. It is not to be imagined. A woman's life is nearly all happiness, at least mine is. What she does get more pleasure. Then why change?"

Against those and other similar notes, Miss Jeanie Reason takes the other side—cautioning: "Yes," she says, "there is one kind of a boy I should like to be—the male of my parents' eyes."

"But only a little boy always," she admitted, "and I should like to be a girl, I should always be getting into scrapes, and I'm afraid I should be up to the latest 'movements,' but to be a healthy, cheerful, but would be fine—the ideal existence."

"To grow up and be a man would be the very best thing a girl could do. A man's life is dull."

WILD FIRE CHECKED IN STATE

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Mar. 2.—Towers of conflagration in "hazy" performance.

The notice have discovered many substitutes for "old Red Eye" slugs, instead of slugs and this very wet town dry, but a patrolman on a Twelfth street beat found the slugs when he encountered an early morning horse owner descending his way merely along.

"Where did you see that load?" queried the custodian of the law, with victims of a good food of bootleggers.

"He a drug a lie a store," answered the one.

Then the law's enforcer caught a whiff of the merry one's breath—a whiff of Arabian nights, month have been and wild ones. Questioning revealed, the inebriate merry-maker had partaken of a "Wild Rose cocktail" composed of perfume with a dash of patent medicine and a "sick" of wood alcohol.

EMIL WANTS LOOKING FOR TROUBLE, JUST HIS GLASS EYE

CHICAGO, Mar. 2.—From the lounge, home town of one Emil O'Brien there resounded at midnight a series of loud thumps made by the forceful application of a shoe against the wooden partition, leading to the room three bouncers gathered at Emil without preliminary parley, and for ten minutes thereafter such a battle as Hans of Iceland fought in Paddy's Father's boarding house was staged.

It ended by two the bouncers sitting on Emil's chest. The third, glancing about the floor, saw an eye staring at him from a corner.

"We give it to us gay too rough," said the bouncer to his fellows. "Somebody gouged his eye out."

"That done by his eye," panted Emil as best he could. "If you have not much fighting helps Ay tell you just by now. A young man with a show to get somebody else to find it."

SHINNY WINDS UP QUILITY AS EVIDENCE IN FIGUR

HAYTON, Wis., Mar. 2.—Insurance Favor Friday granted some bottles and boxes of Darktown the privileges of the courtroom for dancing purposes, and with the court attendance the colored method of "shimmying." The dance was an unqualified success, after which small lines were leveled against the dancers.

The dance interrupted the monotony of the recorder's Court. The negroes engaged in it wanted the court to know just how the trouble started which wound up in a free-for-all fight. Starting at the beginning, the defendants enacted the causes leading up to the fight, and they entered so heartily into it that the police finally had to pull them apart to keep them from carrying out the actual battle.

Friends of Society Rivals in Politics

CHICAGO, Mar. 2.—Two of Chicago's best-known society and club women who for years have been collaborators and who still are of the same political faith now are active in the campaign work in the interest of rival political candidates. They are Miss Harriet Vinton and Mrs. Fletcher Dobson.

Miss Vinton has been named to manage the women workers in Illinois who will seek to make successful the campaign of Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, who also is a Republican Presidential aspirant, and will direct the work of the Lowden forces among the women of Illinois.

Both Mrs. Dobson and Miss Vinton have been active in the campaign for equal suffrage and have been among the leaders in the suffrage movement in Illinois and throughout the nation. On the suffrage issue they have worked shoulder to shoulder. They also have been active in the same social circles.

Although politics has not severed their social relations it has interrupted them temporarily and both women have cancelled all social engagements and plunged with vigor into the work in behalf of their rival candidates. Each has opened headquarters here and is waging a vigorous campaign to line up the Republican women voters of Illinois in support of the candidate also favored.

STEAMER IN DISTRESS

BOSTON, Mar. 2.—United States shipping board steamer Davidson county is in distress 200 miles off the Azores, said a wireless received here today. The Davidson County, built from Foyal, Azores, to Hampton Roads, Va., drifted half way across the Atlantic in December when she broke down and the steamer West Coast failed in an attempt to tow her into Halifax, N. S.

REV. MOORE TO GIVE DECISION ON PULPIT CALL

Will Tell Congregation Next Sunday Whether or Not He Will Remain

Rev. W. A. Moore announced Sunday that he would speak next Sunday morning on the matter of his leaving the pastorate of the Twin Falls Christian church and would give his congregation a definite statement at that time.

"As a matter of fact," said the pastor, "it is rather up to the congregation than to me. I will tell the congregation the reasons why it is no difficult to establish a strong church in Twin Falls."

Moore stated that he has some of the reasons in advance Mr. Moore said, "Three things stand out above others. First, the lack of good fellowship among all Christians in Twin Falls; second, the need of more consecrated teachers of the word of God, and third, the amusement craze that is sweeping Twin Falls people, young and old, off their feet." The pastor will place his resignation in the hands of the chairman of the church board before preaching and at the close of the sermon will urge the acceptance of the resignation or the beginning of a determined effort to correct the evils.

Moore stated that he is ready to go the limit for Twin Falls if my people will unanimously give their consent to the task," said Mr. Moore, "otherwise the task seems hopeless."

More than a hundred people were unable to gain admission to the Christian church Sunday night.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Sarah Ann (Bradley) Lowry was born in Canada June 16, 1878, and died at her home three miles northwest of this city February 28, aged 80 years, 8 months and 12 days. She was married September 4, 1900, at Madrid, N. Y., to Alonzo W. Lowry, surviving her six children, three sons and four daughters, John, Frank and Lewis residing northwest of this city. Mrs. Lowry was a Christian member, loved by her children and held in high esteem by neighbors.

Mrs. Lowry's husband died in 1921. After a time they came to Idaho, settling near Idaho and moving to the present home about six years ago. Several of the sons are still living at LLOYD.

LLOYD GEORGE MOST HATED MAN IN ENGLAND

Twenty-five years ago Lloyd George was the most hated man in England—just because he told the English people the truth. Many times he was mobbed and narrowly escaped with his life. Today he is the most powerful man in all Europe. You will understand why if you hear his nephew, Arthur Evans, at the Lavington tonight.

JO-SAN.

It was when police messengers found that Jo San had been taken from the hill overlooking a harbor where great ocean liners nose in from the Pacific, lived the Suicide Lady of Kolu. Her real name is Mrs. Jo, or Jo San, as she is respectfully called by the Japanese and foreigners who know her. It was only during the past year that the San Jo name the Suicide Lady. Her husband was a Christian pastor. For sixteen years after his death Jo San worked as a little woman among her people, opening her home to those who were in distress and her heart to all who were in touch.

Her crossing into the Suicide Lady concerns a certain rail road crossing at Suwa and a last Japanese tendency to get the idea of life in order of trying to organize them. Suwa became a popular suicide resort. Men and women came from many parts of Japan to end their lives by jumping into the sea, or by throwing themselves under the wheels of passing trains. Police stationed at the railroad crossing managed to prevent some of the suicides, but the number of deaths remained large.

money. Unappreciated in her quiet gray-haired woman turned her steps toward the Mrs. of Suwa. Jo-San's singularly carried the message of hope to her and it was that the woman who had sought peace for two years in the holy house of Buddha found it at last in the gospel of Jesus.

Lack of health or occupation, strained family relations, and far-temperate husbands started the large family of the woman on the hill. Through the life was more than she could endure, she had no other way out for the law of God, but she had her faith in the Lord who put her in it. She was his wife, and therefore bound to make the will of her first concern.

Perhaps this under-education in the days of the first to move to a care, she would not have had the only "Suwa" in to open her home to those who need a haven during the days of readjustment. It was the hand and not the foot, the unkind father, to find an interperate husband, to find em-

Ex-SERVICE Man Drunk—Released On His Promise to Go to Work

A returned soldier man, whose name was not given out for publication, was arrested last night by Chief of Police William Taylor for being drunk and brought before Police Magistrate this morning. He was released on the promise to go to work. He stated that he had a wife working in a laundry and that it was his duty to earn money because of the situation. He said he was receiving money from the local Red Cross. According to Taylor, the young man was drunk at a local pool hall and was ordered out by the owner. Upon his refusal to leave the owner put him out or attempted to do so. A fight ensued which led to the arrest.

WOULD PERMIT COUPLES TO SPOON IN CHURCHES

CHICAGO, Mar. 2.—A Pittsburgh preacher's suggestion that young couples be permitted to spoon in churches, as an ecclesiastical encouragement to matrimony, has divided opinion here. Some say they approve of the suggested loosening this proposal, but others believe that churches should not be turned into "spooning parlors," and from especially on the Pittsburgh pastor's added suggestion that dim lights be introduced for the benefit of new lovers.

SOUND-PROOF ROOM ASKED FOR REDDIP HYSKIN'S

BIDDEFORD N. Y., Mar. 2.—The annual report of the State reformatory for women has been forwarded to the Legislature by the State Board of Prisoners, of which William G. Barnett is president. It was drawn up previously to the recent investigation of charges of cruelty in the institution. It is recommended that a sound proof room be provided in the hospital building at the reformatory. It is suggested that the State board of prisoners, and a physician, be assigned to examine the health of the women when admitted and separate from the single cell. It is also suggested that the State board of prisoners be organized to examine the health of the women when admitted and separate from the single cell.

ONE DOLLAR A MILE FINE FOR AUTO SPEEDERS

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Mar. 2.—A fine of $1 a mile will be assessed on speeding autos.

This is the latest announcement made by Police Judge Vandeman.

All that speeding autos need to do now is to look at their speedometers and they will know what to do. What fine will be if they are caught.

In keeping with this policy, Judge Vandeman has fined Alfred Miller, of this city, $40 and took the fine being based upon $1 a mile, following conviction of exceeding a speed of 25 miles an hour.

HENRY SEURK-HIS DAILY CALLER SCRATCHES UP DOOR

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Mar. 2.—The door of the Seurk's garage, but dare-devilry work with skunk is about forty times as strenuous. Marie Seurk is a Seurk, however, if a man of real courage, according to his own story he has the skunk scratching at his back door to get in. For a week he has been scratching at his back door to get in. He had the skunk scratch at his back door. Finally the skunk became so accustomed to the ration that he promptly at the stroke of 11 emerged and called the opening of the back door. If he was late, Mr. Seurk says, the little fellow would scratch on the skunk's door.

HAS NOVEL METHOD FOR TEACHING INST-YEAR PUPILS

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Mar. 2.—A novel method of developing the minds of first-year pupils has been evolved by a Cincinnati public school teacher. "No anything you please, but do something."

This is the rule upon which the activities of first-grade children are kept busy, even during playtime, under the direction of Miss Viola Hall, "Shitless, habitually not grow" declared Miss Hall.

"If you don't do something you like, you're got to do something," the teacher wants you to do, is the principle. "You don't put into school what you don't put into school."

As a result, an idle, empty boy is kept busy during play hours in a play, Miss Hall claims that her plan stimulates inventiveness, initiative and co-operation and kills selfishness.

GERMAN MINERS STRIKE

BERLIN, March 2.—Government officials were alarmed today over the situation in the Ruhr coal fields, where miners are on strike against the government. The government fears the strike will lower the coal deliveries to France which were promised under the treaty. France recently sent a warning to Berlin that a blockade would be established unless the promised coal deliveries were made as pledged.
