

WOMAN WORTH 3-4 OF MAN

LONDON, Mar. 2.—A departmental committee of the House of Commons recently decided that women were worth three-quarters of a man.

English women declare if they had looked for a job they would have found the missing quarter. Now they are waiting anxiously to see whether Lady Astor's motion for full equality in her due as member of the House of Commons—or whether she will have to content herself with 3/4.

In discussing the matter of dress for women M. P.'s, Lady Astor declared she intended to wear only what is suitable for a woman and afford to wear. The question now arises whether she was counting her eggs before they were hatched, whether she meant to "do equal work" principles will induce the House of Commons to pay up and look pleasant.

Only the day before Lady Astor was elected to Parliament, another committee, appointed by the president of the board of education, had to make a similar decision. This decision that a single man, on leaving his training college and entering the ranks of the army, should have 1400 a week, while a woman leaving her training college for the same profession was to have 1050 a year.

The general opinion is that Lady Astor will be able to continue to dress according to the means of a 2,000-a-year woman.

English women are not perplexed themselves much about it. They think their fair representation will be more than made to the state. An accident is warmly welcomed as one in which she can establish a precedent of the principle of equal pay for equal work, according to individual and not to sex.

HAYS TROUBLE IS FOMENTING IN GUATEMALA

BOSTON, March 2.—Reports of a political uprising in Guatemala, Central America, through the formation of a "Union" reached here with the arrival of a Guatemalan aviator, Mr. Hays, chief of the aviation school here.

"These Guatemalans," stated Mr. Hays, "are not only organized and equipped with arms, but also with a high degree of political administration, the latter being the main inducement to the people. Dr. Manuel Estrada Cabrera, president of Guatemala, has been in power for the past twenty years, and his administration is probably the most popular in the history of Guatemala. For this reason, as well as because business men and investors fear that a new party's success would plunge the country in the chaotic state in which it was previous to Cabrera's rule, the Unionists are meeting with denunciation on all sides.

The Unionists have claimed that they have the sympathy and backing of the United States and in order to correct this false impression the administration has appealed through its envoy to the State Department at Washington for statement, which may be transmitted to the people of Guatemala showing that the country is not interested in the aims of the Unionists. Thousands of business men and professional men, including Francisco Figueres, one of the biggest financial powers of the republic, have signed a proclamation declaring in favor of the Cabrera regime.

American business men are taking more than a passing interest in the political situation because of the vast American interests in the republic which they wish to safeguard against insurrection and its effects. Railroads, fruit companies, mines, farms, and electrical plants are owned and operated by American interests, and these have prospered as never before under the tranquility which President Cabrera has maintained.

Since the earthquake, Guatemala has progressed wonderfully. The new capital, occupying about four acres, will be completed in September, 1921, at a cost of $2,500,000. There are now twenty-three public schools in operation, a military academy with 800 students, and the Estrada Cabrera University, named in honor of the president, has greatly increased its enrollment.

In addition, also, my country is making great strides. There are at present fifty-two students studying to be pilots and the population is aviation crazy. Both American and French planes are in use, and the flight of an airplane has long since ceased to excite the marvellous awe of the most ignorant countryman.

The government is selling coffee at auction. All the sugar and coffee plantations belong to the Germans who were confiscated early in the war, as was an electrical plant owned by German interests.

With the country in such a prosperous and such a progressive state the far seeking people are joining hands with the commercial interests to promote the peace of Central America.

English women are not perplexed themselves much about it. They think their fair representation will be more than made to the state. An accident is warmly welcomed as one in which she can establish a precedent of the principle of equal pay for equal work, according to individual and not to sex.

Must Keep Hammering At It

ONCE BUSTLING CITY IS NOW A DESERTED VILLAGE

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., March 2.—When the bank closed its doors a year ago, the post-office was abandoned and the few remaining inhabitants, exiled by the rural route carriers, the patient and ever hopeful publisher of the weekly newspaper, loaded his press and type into a box car and departed for more inviting fields, the merchants in most instances following his example and now the region will probably never be again.

All over Illinois are the sites of cities that have been abandoned. Clarksville was one of the "future greats" during the era of the pioneer. The railroads were laid out to the east and west of Clarksville ten to twenty miles away and this proved a death blow.

Parsons of the present generation undauntedly plow the field that once was churned by the hoofs of horses and the feet of oxen. There is nothing left to mark the site of antebellum glories or of the days when Illinois was young. The process of attrition is the same in all cases.

Desire To Affix Seal His Age from Girls Causes Arrest

TALEQUAH, Okla., Mar. 2.—A desire to keep the girls from knowing that he was getting old will, it is believed here, make Hugh Simpson of this place before the grand jury on a charge of failure to register for the draft.

For several years, it is said, Simpson had given his age to the County Assessor as twenty-seven—to girls, but when the grand jury came to registering for the draft Simpson it is alleged, decided that he was thirty-two.

THE FARMER IN POLITICS

"Though not an extreme radical," the farmer "has sometimes felt impelled to support forward looking movements or to ally himself with parties of protest when conditions became intolerable," says a writer in The New Republic, discussing the farmer in politics and reviewing some of the abuses that are heaped upon his head, for presenting to ask a voice in government. Well indeed are Twin Falls county farmers acquainted with the situation which the writer describes. Referring to the farmer, he says:

"It has been the determining and dominating influence in third parties which disappeared only when the older parties became impressed with the necessity of giving greater heed to the problems of social politics. But in their day they were the target for filthy slurs and nasty epithets. The most casual student of political history will have no difficulty in remembering the ribald wrath caused by the callithumpian farmers of Kansas, whose only crimes were being poor and voting the greenback ticket. To the journalistic humorists of the time there was something exasperatingly funny about the Populist farmers, whose crops were short one year by the hot winds and eaten by the grasshoppers and chinch bugs the next.

"No farmers' organization ever has aroused more bitter opposition than the Nonpartisan League, to which the writer does not happen to belong. The charges against it have been almost innumerable, the most serious of which is that it was disloyal to the government during the war. Yet the barest facts are that it has brought into existence to redress a real wrong from which the farmers of North Dakota were suffering, which robbed them of millions of dollars a year, and from which they could obtain relief in no other way. That the Nonpartisan League has made mistakes is quite certain. That a great body of farmers, smarting under a cruel wrong and unskilled in statecraft should sometimes blunder is not so surprising as it would be if their blunders had been the first made by any political party.

"That some of its members should be disloyal is not so astonishing as it would be if 39 disloyal persons could be found in other organizations, supposedly of good repute. All good Americans respect their government. So true is such a statement that persons of feeling prefer to let their actions only speak for them. A continual harping on one's patriotism, one's devotion to the flag, one's red-blooded Americanism goes far to arouse suspicion that a snake-skin of noble virtues is being put over to hide some sort of devilry. The Nonpartisan League is not hated, denounced and spat upon by its opponents because they believe it to be disloyal to the government. The groans and hisses, hoots and cat-calls, noons of pain and threats of mob vengeance are not the sweat of loyalty, exuding from the pores of persons whose skins are over-tight with outraged patriotism. The hundreds of thousands of farmers of North Dakota and other states who are members of the League may be chafing moonbeams, but they have no desire to embarrass or overthrow their government. The League has been hated and feared because it is a farmers' movement which outside influences cannot control. The farmer still has to establish his right to the usages of civilized warfare. Where and when the farmers have joined their strength and raised their hands against a foe it has been the signal for the savage foray and the midnight massacre. Shouts of course ridicule have done work of howl and arrow; charges of stupidity, malice, dishonesty, Bolshevism and anarchy have been the tankards and war clubs, causing the deadly embargo, lies and vilification the implements of torture.

"Not that the farmer asks mercy or immunity from danger—he does not. Not that he does not welcome the battle—he does. He asks only that the brass knuckles, the sling shot and the strangling cord be thrown away. So long as the door of the lodge is left open he is the petted darling of the gods. Politicians fawn upon him; business organizations take him by the hand, put his back and pledge him their undying love; and all the poor demagogues of the world, who must eke out a living from him, pinch his cheek, rump and hair and whisper sweet nothings in his ear. But when he pulls in the latchstring—when the tyler is at the wicket and requests the wayfarer to make himself known, ah, that is another matter.

"What has been written here has been to show that the farmer has yet to establish his right to unite at all in any real sense of the word, and that he has been driven to the point where he is going to establish it in the near future. One of the first things which he should do to gain that right is to limit memberships in his farm organizations to himself and his kind. If he does not he will have his Achilles heel to his enemies and invited his own destruction.

DEFENDS SPIRITUALISM

On Sunday evening, February 22nd, 1920, I went to hear a lecture advertised as "Mr. Oliver speaks on Spiritualism." The lecture (as usual by an orthodox preacher) was not very much related to his subject regarding "modern spiritualism." Why did the preacher not relate something that Sir Oliver had said, and that the people could judge for themselves whether Sir Oliver's lecture was really an insult to his hearers or not. I remember there were some different opinions.

The learned preacher then touched very lightly on three passages in the Scriptures relating to spirits: Dent. 18 ver. 1-16; Samt. ver 16; and Matt. 17: 1-14. He did not read a Bible further in Dent. to the account of the raising up of a prophet from the dead among the people and the prophecy of Sam was fulfilled; also in Matt.; the solemn promise given by the disciples to Jesus, to keep secret what had been revealed until after the resurrection.

The reverend gentleman might have given many references; a few for instance: Gen. 38, 1; 32-24; 3-8; 2 Chron. 21: 12; 1 Cor. 12, especially; Acts 14, 9-10; 2 Tim. 3: 6. The Bible is full of teaching with Spiritual knowledge if anyone will look for it and instead of Spiritualism being a "moral opiate" as was stated, it is a moral stimulant, as even any unbiased reader would know, who studied any of the teachings of Spiritualism.

It is especially worthy of note to bore remark that when Spiritualism comes into its own, as it must, because with the moral code we are so high and so real, that there will be less of the "moral opiate" like the one mentioned on Sunday evening last. For reforms, as it teaches the law of compensation, and as we now (good or evil) an shall we also reap.

I take it that that our learned man did not know much about Modern Spiritualism, as he spoke more of Spiritualism than he knew. There is quite a difference between Spiritualism and Spiritism, and England is not the only place where there is a great Spiritual upsurge by any means, as right here in the United States—from east to west and north to south the people are coming to know more of Spiritualism, and the evidence of spirit return.

The reverend quite feebly acknowledged that there is spirit return, but what reason did he give that only demons have this power? surely as light is might, the good must have power to return as well as the evil. What about the Holy Ghost (spirit) descending on Jesus at His baptism, was it evil and what of His promises of the spirit comfort, as related in St. John 14? Christ's promises of spirit return and manifestations are to be carried by demons, what a terrible thing to contemplate, a person would be more comfortable without those promises.

As to the mediums, what are the orthodox clergymen but mediums, they officiate or mediate between their flock and the Master, or at least, they profess to, and are there not frauds amongst them also?

Any fraud discovered by the spiritualists in their ranks or by anyone else is denounced, as they have a very high standard, such as would make a sincere investigator to live the highest and best attainable. As Frank Wandrell says in The Progressive Thinker of February 28, 1920, "Spiritualism has been severely blackballed by so many irresponsible, mischievous and devilish natures using the name and office as a cloak for counterfeiting real spiritualism." As the Master said, "I will send you the Holy Ghost (spirit), the Comforter, who shall receive of mine, and show you things to come," also "Beloved, believe not every spirit, but try the spirits and see whether they be of God." "Where two or three are gathered together in my name there will I be with them in all degree of representation) in their midst. Spiritualism is loyal to its ideal. It will not be drawn seaward, for it is greater than the world; but it will overcome the world and draw it heavenward. Then shall the worship of Truth become respectable and the worship of Mammon extinct, but that. Spiritualism is the only movement of any importance which takes this stand" (quoted from P. T. Nov. 22, 1919.)

should read the Progressive Thinker of February 21, 1920, in which he will see that Mrs. Curran of St. Louis has taken up the challenge of Joseph Rinn in such manner that he will either retract or stand to lose fifty $5,000. In the same issue also in an account of the wonderful powers of Professor Bert Resse, who accompanied Thomas Edison. "Ask and ye shall find, knock and it shall be opened unto you."

"For to be carnally minded is sinful, but to be spiritually minded is life eternal." Spiritualism teaches personal responsibility; it removes all fear of the spirit world. It is God's message to mortals declaring that "There is no death," that all who have passed on still live; that there is hope in the life beyond for the most sinned, and that every soul will progress through the ages until it reaches the goal of perfection where God is LOVE AND LOVE IS GOD.

Taking the Chase Out of Purchase

Advertising benefits the man who buys as well as the man who sells. It is part of the Golden Rule of Business and it works both ways.

Don't miss the advertisements in this newspaper. Many of them are interesting just because of their news and educational value alone.

But more than that—Advertisements take the chase out of purchase and make every penny do its full duty. This last statement is one particularly to be remembered when common-sense economy is not only a national duty, but an individual necessity.

COULD BE MORE USEFUL SQUAD IS LARGE

NEW YORK, Mar. 3.—Cornelius McGillicuddy is trying to come back. The famous, ex-professional manager of the Philadelphia Athletics has a big squad of ball players in training at Lake Charles, La., and hopes to pull a winning combination from their number.

Comie is through selling star players. The war-time boom in retirement having passed, he has settled down to the difficult task of building up another winning team for Philadelphia, and he has one of the largest squads of players ever taken to the sunny Southland for Spring training.

The Athletics were the first ball losers to get under way for Dixie the ballgame season. McGillicuddy, whether or not they will be first in the coming pennant race is something else again. "Our paper" they do not like a cut in their pay, but they are strong to carry them to a pennant. But they may prove to be a thorn in the side of some opposing team during the coming Summer, for under Mack's tutelage young players are apt to show a remarkable knowledge of baseball most any old-timer would.

Mack will have a comparatively young team.

Many baseball critics who have followed Mack's career are of the opinion that the lanky Philadelphia pilot will have to wait a long while before he ever has another opportunity of young players to work with such as he had in the good old days. McGillicuddy has a number of the day's champions. The Harry Dakers, Collins, McInnes, to say nothing of the Flunks, Coombs and McInnes are some of the names that are far between. Perhaps Mack has realized it long ago. Perhaps he has a number of stars in the making. The natural ability of his one-time stars had more to do with leading them to stardom than his tutoring. But for all of it, McGillicuddy is a good manager. Given the talent he will get as much out of it as any other manager in the big leagues.

Mack is looking his players over mightily carefully this year. He is going to split up his squad into two teams and see what part of his time with each of them.

In selecting his 1929 regulars Mack will have trouble in filling a number of positions. There is no doubt that Cy Perkins, battery mate of Scotty Foy, will be his first string catcher. The other catcher to be selected, Mack has Walker, secured from Des Moines, in the Western League. By the way, Walker is from Alabama University and the Atlanta club, and Myatt, from Houston, Tex., who was purchased along with Fletcher Hite. This battery, by the way, was considered the best turned out in the Texas League for a number of seasons.

Mack took a young army of pitchers South this year. Scott Perry is his big star, and Scott is said to be in the best shape of his life. McGillicuddy and Mack have pitched up their row and are good friends again.

Kimberly, a promising young first baseman who showed good form last season, will probably get a regular meal ticket. Navar is another who has had experience about making him ripe for a good season, while Martin secured from the Birmingham club of interest. Lewis is one of the best in the big Eastern minors, and is expected to make good in the American League.

Walker and Wingo will fight it out for left field. Walker is still a first-class player, has the experience and looks forward to a great year.

Amos Burkard and Frank Welsh, the latter secured from the Virginia League, will battle it out for center field. Amos is looking forward to one of his best years and his position appears to be safe enough.

George Burns, who formerly played first base, will play right field. Charles High, a St. Louis boy, and Whitey Witt, an all-around player, will battle it out for utility jobs.

The team is being coached by Captain Harry Davis and Danny Murphy, who belong to the young players. Both of them are as good as sure things. Both of them are as good as sure things. Both of them are as good as sure things.

McGillicuddy is trying to come back. The famous, ex-professional manager of the Philadelphia Athletics has a big squad of ball players in training at Lake Charles, La., and hopes to pull a winning combination from their number.

Comie is through selling star players. The war-time boom in retirement having passed, he has settled down to the difficult task of building up another winning team for Philadelphia, and he has one of the largest squads of players ever taken to the sunny Southland for Spring training.

The Athletics were the first ball losers to get under way for Dixie the ballgame season. McGillicuddy, whether or not they will be first in the coming pennant race is something else again. "Our paper" they do not like a cut in their pay, but they are strong to carry them to a pennant. But they may prove to be a thorn in the side of some opposing team during the coming Summer, for under Mack's tutelage young players are apt to show a remarkable knowledge of baseball most any old-timer would.

Mack will have a comparatively young team.

Many baseball critics who have followed Mack's career are of the opinion that the lanky Philadelphia pilot will have to wait a long while before he ever has another opportunity of young players to work with such as he had in the good old days. McGillicuddy has a number of the day's champions. The Harry Dakers, Collins, McInnes, to say nothing of the Flunks, Coombs and McInnes are some of the names that are far between. Perhaps Mack has realized it long ago. Perhaps he has a number of stars in the making. The natural ability of his one-time stars had more to do with leading them to stardom than his tutoring. But for all of it, McGillicuddy is a good manager. Given the talent he will get as much out of it as any other manager in the big leagues.

Mack is looking his players over mightily carefully this year. He is going to split up his squad into two teams and see what part of his time with each of them.

In selecting his 1929 regulars Mack will have trouble in filling a number of positions. There is no doubt that Cy Perkins, battery mate of Scotty Foy, will be his first string catcher. The other catcher to be selected, Mack has Walker, secured from Des Moines, in the Western League. By the way, Walker is from Alabama University and the Atlanta club, and Myatt, from Houston, Tex., who was purchased along with Fletcher Hite. This battery, by the way, was considered the best turned out in the Texas League for a number of seasons.

Mack took a young army of pitchers South this year. Scott Perry is his big star, and Scott is said to be in the best shape of his life. McGillicuddy and Mack have pitched up their row and are good friends again.

Kimberly, a promising young first baseman who showed good form last season, will probably get a regular meal ticket. Navar is another who has had experience about making him ripe for a good season, while Martin secured from the Birmingham club of interest. Lewis is one of the best in the big Eastern minors, and is expected to make good in the American League.

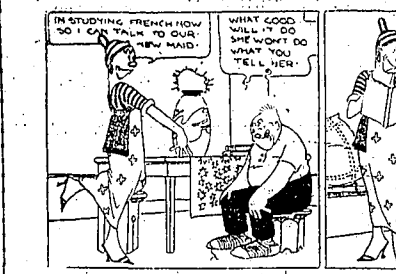

Walker and Wingo will fight it out for left field. Walker is still a first-class player, has the experience and looks forward to a great year.

Amos Burkard and Frank Welsh, the latter secured from the Virginia League, will battle it out for center field. Amos is looking forward to one of his best years and his position appears to be safe enough.

George Burns, who formerly played first base, will play right field. Charles High, a St. Louis boy, and Whitey Witt, an all-around player, will battle it out for utility jobs.

The team is being coached by Captain Harry Davis and Danny Murphy, who belong to the young players. Both of them are as good as sure things. Both of them are as good as sure things. Both of them are as good as sure things.

PLAN BOXING AND WRESTLING CONTESTS WITH BOISE HIGH SCHOOL EARLY IN MARCH

Capital City Is Said to Be Developing Some Good Men—Much Interest Shown in Coming Matches

Arrangements for wrestling and boxing matches between a team of Boise high school boys and a like number of local high school athletes will probably take place here March 10, according to D. E. Hobb, of the local high school who was in Boise Saturday making arrangements for the matches. The weights of the contestants will be 105, 115, 125, 155, 145 and probably 160 if two men of that weight can be found.

Later in the year it is expected that a Twin Falls team will go to the capital city for a return engagement.

Cliff Lewis, local middleweight, plans to stage an exhibition contest with some other wrestler. Lewis is said to be a clever athlete but has had trouble in getting matches during the past few weeks.

The Twin Falls high school boys are taking great interest in wrestling and boxing, according to Mr. Rigby, who has charge of those branches of athletics, and some good matches are being developed.

For several years the local business has taken practically no interest in these sports. There always have been a few who were interested in them but never a sufficient number to warrant serious contests.

The matches put on between halves in the basketball games this year have aroused much dormant interest in the sports and it is said that many Twin Falls men are lately "itching" for some good matches. At any rate, Mr. Rigby believes there is an interest enough to stage some boxing, wrestling or high schools. The students have shown a willingness to take up boxing and wrestling.

TWIN SECONDS MEET KIMBERLY HERE TOMORROW

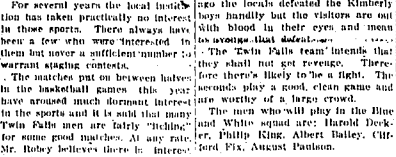

Visitors Out to Avenged Defeat Inflicted Upon Them a Short Time Ago

The Twin Falls high school second basketball team will play the Kimberly first aggregation on the local floor tomorrow afternoon. A few days ago the locals defeated the Kimberly boys handsily but the visitors are out with blood in their eyes and mean to avenging that defeat.

The Twin Falls team intends that they shall not get revenge. Therefore there's likely to be a tight, hot seconds play a good, clean game and worth of a large crowd.

The men who will play in the Blue and White squad are: Harold Clifford, Philip Kirk, Albert Bailey, Clifford Fix, August Paston.

DAD! YOUR HAIR IS FALLING FAST

Two Brothers Are Athletic Champions

NEW YORK, Mar. 3.—The well known bearded brothers are the couch-potato box arena's America's only pair of natural ones.

Ever since the day of Knock-out Cain and Hittling Abel, athletic talent has a marked tendency to run in families. Like father, like son, hasn't been established to any great extent but the chapters of sport history are crammed with "brother acts."

Walter Camp, one of Yale's greatest football players, had the tradition of the name upheld by a son on the gridiron but most of the monarchs of the old game, especially the fighters, failed to produce chips of the old block as was recently proved in the slugging of young Ed Fitzsimmons.

The brothers, however, seem to be here.

Ranking next youngsters, perhaps, as the best known modern example of the Athletics about, are the much better slugging than, Fred Thomson, former national all-around athletic champion, and his

ALL READY FOR BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT SCHEDULED FOR FRIDAY AND SATURDAY HERE

Much Interest Manifested in Colossal Sport Event of Year at High School

All in readiness for the coming basketball tournament Friday and Saturday. All of the main teams in this section are planning to compete and there is certain to be some stiff battles between them.

Judging by this year's record Twin Falls seems to have the best chance for securing the honors. According to word reaching here two of the best Harley loop stars will be out for the games through injury recently received and Oakley, one of the other Twin Falls conquerors is expected to meet them.

As the local handsily won from them here early in the season, Gooding high school defeated the locals but they were easily trimmed here a few weeks ago.

All in all Twin Falls seems to stand more than any ever chance to win the silver cup. The stiffest competition will undoubtedly be Gooding, Harley and Oakley and these teams are not greatly to be feared.

Scott E. P. Nafziger is putting his men through regular practice and reports that they are in the pink of condition. The outlook for the Blue and White is exceedingly rosy. The

SANTEL MAY MEET LEWIS

Local Man Is Scheduled for Bout With Well-Known Wrestler

SanTel, light heavy weight wrestling champion of the world, is willing to meet Cliff Lewis, local middleweight, some time in the near future, according to D. E. Hobb, local high school wrestling instructor, who recently returned from Boise where he started negotiations for a contest between the Boise and Twin Falls high school boxing and wrestling teams.

SanTel would agree to throw Lewis three times in 30 minutes, Nick Cook, the well known Boise promoter, is instituting the negotiations.

SanTel would be required to throw Lewis three times during that time on account of his superior weight. Lewis only weighs about 160 pounds while SanTel wrestles at 175.

Final arrangements have not been made but it is believed the match will be staged. It is said that SanTel has consented to the bout.

The players who will battle the infield positions are Griffin at first base from the Atlantic Club, and who made a remarkable showing in the games in which he took part during the middle of the past season. Harold Smith also did a splendid job. He was purchased from the Columbia, S. C. club as a left-hand batter and thrower, rather erratic in fielding, but a very nice batsman and a hard man to keep off the team.

Second base will be looked after by Dugan and Dykes. Dykes, who is a big fielder and looks like a ball player, is also a fair batsman. Dykes, from Atlanta, is a wonderful flyer, but up to this time has not shown himself to be strong enough at the bat to take the position away from a player of Dugan's ability.

Galloway, also from Atlanta, and McCain, purchased from Butok, will be the contenders for the short-stop position. Galloway is a splendid show-off with the Athletics last Fall. McCain is a player of much promise, both at the bat and in the field.

For the third base Thomas and Brazill will fight it out. Thomas is experienced and a first-class fielder, but was not up to his usual batting form last year. Brazill, a player of short experience, is a right-hand batsman

ALLIES BOND AS BONUS TO SERVICE MEN

Congressman Has Plan to Make Debtors Repay Veterans With Our Money

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Plans by which the bonus proposed for ex-service men would be paid by the federal government now enormously indebted to the United States were put forward today by Representative McFadden, republican, of Pennsylvania, as a way out of the bonus legislation difficulty now confronting congress.

His plan suggested repaying the loan of the bonus against the foreign indebtedness to the United States. These bonds would be distributed to the ex-soldiers and sailors as bonus, doing away with a new loan against the credit of the United States which he held said would weaken the country's financial standing.

"The United States," said Representative McFadden, "now holds 1.0, 1.5 from these foreign governments. By provision of an agreement with them they would pay us the same rate of interest we are forced to pay on the last bond issue floated here. This would give the boys bonds bearing 4 1/4%.

"The people of the United States already have subscribed the money which we have loaned to foreign governments. It would be a distribution of a fund already raised, and it would insure the payment of the bonds by our former allies. As it is now we are not certain we shall ever get the money we have invested.

"Harley Wilcox, an English economist, is already advocating 'marking off' fifty per cent of the debt to the United States. If held by ex-service men I will leave it to the former service men to see if any country will fall to pay the interest on the principle when due."

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Failure of congress to provide a bonus or other recognition for the former service was classed today as one of the "iniquities of republics," by Edward L. Hale, representative of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States before the house ways and means committee in charge of the bonus legislation.

"Inequities given to us when we returned from France now stand out in their capriciousness," Hale declared.

Hale secured three opposing grants of a bonus, on the grounds that the careers of such self appointed subscribers of patriotism and common sense are usually filled with patriotic patriotism which did not prompt them to go overseas.

"In considering this legislation must consider a man who went overseas did not get the high war salaries which makes it possible for those who remained in civil life to have their far finer earnings and diversify while the service men are still wearing their service overcoats to keep warm."

Two plans for bonus were outlined by Hale. They were:

1.—Opportunity to purchase a home money lent by the government at a proper interest rate and secured by the property purchased.

"You cannot pay the veterans of the world war for what they did. We ask you to recompense them in some measure for what they did," he explained.

Charges that Franklin D. Roosevelt, commander of the American legion, "instituted laws" to the committee were made by Hale.

The remarks caused a storm of protest among the members of the committee which was discontinued only when Chairman Forney declared "order must be maintained or we will quit these hearings."

Hale said the erroneous statement made by the committee was not contradicted.

Representative Treadway, republican of Massachusetts, declared the committee should not permit criticism of the American legion members of "trivially existing between the various organizations."

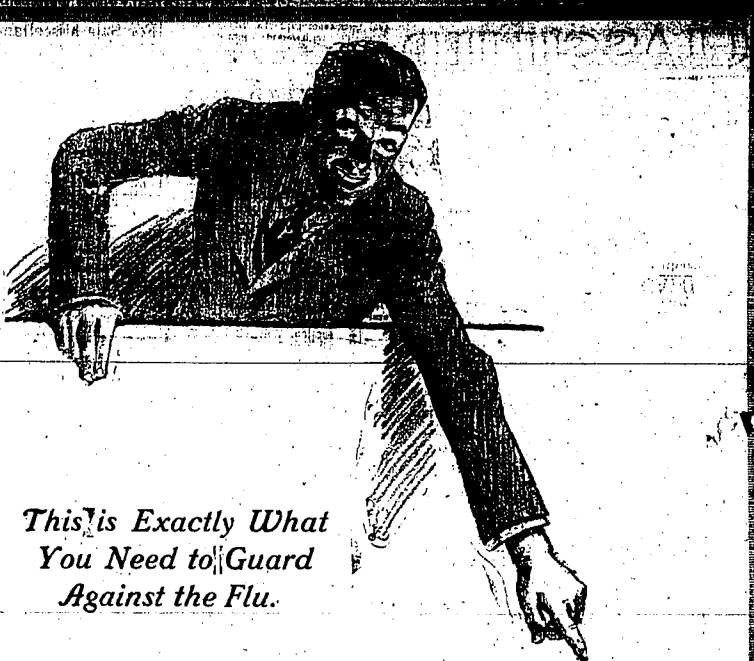

"We must permit criticism if we are to get anywhere," Representative Garner, democrat, of Texas, declared.

The argument caused several committee members to leave the room. They were recalled by Chairman Forney and order was restored.

Hale suggested a tax of two per cent on incomes of $50,000 and graduated to 7 per cent for incomes of $100,000 and over as a means to raise the money to meet the bonus.

Representative Longworth, republican of Ohio, asked if the Foreign War Veterans Association was for a flat 4 1/2 a month with no additional grant for foreign service.

"I would recommend a $100 additional bonus for overseas service and exempt men who served less than two months from the provisions of the act because they have received 300," Hale explained. "I would fix the minimum grant of $240."

CUPID DIVIDES NOTED FORTUNE

NEW YORK, March 3.—Cupid is playing hob with the fortune left by Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, founder of the Vanderbilt family. Every time Cupid's arrow pierces the heart of a member of the Vanderbilt family it knocks another chip off the hundred million dollar estate left behind when Commodore Vanderbilt died in 1877.

One recent marriage and the announcement of two engagements of descendants of Commodore Vanderbilt have served to emphasize the fact that romance is breaking up one of the greatest fortunes ever accumulated in America. Inevitable marriages have divided and subdivided the original fortune, but despite this it still adheres in sufficient amount to make the Vanderbilt heirs desirable matrimonial catches, both in this country and abroad.

The marriage in London recently of the Marquis of Blandford, eldest son of the Duchess of Marlborough, who is the daughter of W. W. Vanderbilt, to the Honorable Mary Cadogan, is assurance that a large part of the Vanderbilt fortune will remain permanently abroad. The Marquis of Blandford is the first to marry of the great-grandchildren of the original Cornelius Vanderbilt. There are 29 of them living.

Following closely on the announcement of the Marquis of Blandford's engagement, young Cornelius Vanderbilt, son of Brigadier General and Mrs. Vanderbilt, started the same day by announcing his engagement to Rachel Littleton, younger sister of Martin W. Littleton, the well-known lawyer.

While Miss Littleton had lived in New York for a number of years, she was particularly well known in the Vanderbilt set, and her engagement to the future head of the Vanderbilt family upset the carefully laid plans of several match-making mothers of marriageable daughters.

On top of all this came the announcement that Ploy Stanton Whitney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, was to become the bride of Herbert Tower, a son of the Charlemagne Tower, of Philadelphia.

Miss Whitney's mother was formerly Gertrude Vanderbilt, a daughter of the late Cornelius Vanderbilt, and she will at some future time inherit a considerable portion of the family fortune, in addition to that which will come to her from the estate of her paternal grandfather, the late William C. Whitney.

The Honorable Mary Cadogan, who will some day be Duchess of Marlborough, is the fourth daughter of the Viscount Chelsea and Lady Meux. She is a stepdaughter of Admiral Sir Hewitt Meux, who is in command of the battleship USS Pennsylvania, and who played a prominent part in the relief of Ladysmith, in the Boer war, about 20 years ago.

The bride is a granddaughter of Dowager Queen Alexandra. Her three sisters, all noted for their beauty, are Lady Hillingdon, Lady Stanley and Mrs. Humphrey de Trafford.
