EFFORTS TO CHECK YARD STRIKE FAIL BRITISH OPPOSITION TO FRENCH TROOPS IN RUHR BRINGS CRISIS

Lloyd George Precipitates Acute International Situation by Declaration—Says United States Also Opposes

WASHINGTON, April 9.—The statement of Lloyd George that the United States has agreed to oppose the French occupation of German cities in the neutral zone, is not based on any communication of recent date, but is based upon the final talks by the United States ten days ago that Germany might send troops into the Ruhr district, it was announced at the state department today.

LONDON, April 9.—The French, Japanese and Italian ambassadors conferred with Premier Lloyd George today on the German situation. Paul Cambon, French ambassador to England, explained that France has been acting with all sincerity in moving her troops forward into Germany, but Premier Lloyd George was understood to have expressed dissatisfaction to the British opinion.

The diplomatic situation which was created by Great Britain's opposition to the French advance was described in semi-official circles today as "critical."

Germany declared in its protest to France, April 7, against French occupation of Prussia, a summary of which is in the hands of the state department. Germany contended that the present action is one for the issue of Germany to settle.

The concert of the powers remains unbroken, but it is not clear, said the Chronicle. "The country will support the government, but it has the right to be heard and consulted on any anti-German act."

The attitude of the British government is difficult to understand, said the Morning Post. "The British of common sense tolerate the desertion of an ally at this critical moment? We have the right to ask the government why it proclaimed a rift in the entente cordiale."

The Daily News declared that it is necessary to leave the French in possession as possible, but that "it cannot be done by yielding to a minority of one."

It is the league of nations any power to function. The British merely for the allies to make a mockery of the League pact.

The Daily Express said: "We are bound to regard profoundly anxious the situation in Europe, which is the result of the French advance."

LEGION CONVENTION ENDS THIS EVENING WITH NEW OFFICERS

Delegates to the State American Legion convention assembled on the third and last day this morning at the Idaho hotel and listened to a report of the national executive committee meeting which was held recently. This report was very complete and covered all of the work done at the meeting.

The committee on budget and state dues of which John McEvers of Wallace is chairman, is expected to make a report today, as will the committee on resolutions. This morning the delegates accepted the report of the committee on by-laws. This report should have been given yesterday but owing to a large amount of unanticipated business and the fact that new problems presented themselves necessitated postponement until today.

The number of members of the executive committee as provided in the constitution was changed from 17 to 5 before the report of the committee on constitution was made. The committee on resolutions is expected to make a report today, as will the committee on by-laws. This report should have been given yesterday but owing to a large amount of unanticipated business and the fact that new problems presented themselves necessitated postponement until today.

TUNNEY AND MARTIN MAY BE MATCHED

CHICAGO, April 9.—If all goes well with George Tunney, the New York lightweight champion, and Martin May, the light middleweight champion in the A. E. F., the fight fans of any Western or mid-Western city may expect to see a battle royal between the two champions here during the summer.

Western promoters, believing that Tunney has the better chance of winning the prospect, Carpentier, Dempsey, are turning their attention to the Army heavyweight champion, who seems to be holding the fort here in line to Port Championship, and may even be held to be the champion of the world. Tunney has been in the ring since the summer of 1917, and has won a decision over Hob, and the reports on Tunney are not calculated to encourage the Martin sympathizer. In this, however, makes the proposed match between the two more attractive.

Although Martin is recognized as the heavyweight champion of the A. E. F., Tunney has been in the ring more than on any occasion. While in France, he met in a four-round bout at the Hotel Wagon and Tunney was awarded a decision. Tunney, however, Lewis, of Syracuse, was the referee.

Tunney was not for the title, so Lewis retained the title. Tunney, however, the rules of the A. E. F. championship tournament Tunney was not allowed to meet Martin for the heavyweight championship, as Tunney was in the light-heavyweight class.

Martin is a 200-pounder. He is a rather slow moving, follows with a good right hand. Despite the fact that Martin had a big advantage in weight over Tunney, Tunney handled him with confidence.

Since the boys got back from France, Tunney has progressed faster than any other, and has won a decision over all of which he won. O'Dowd was the only one to get the fight rounds with him. Tunney boxed a little better than he did in the Army, but in all he has had only fifteen professional bouts.

Martin is a big, intelligent fighter and a great student of boxing. That is why he has progressed so rapidly despite his handicap.

The one thing that has made Tunney stand out from the other boxers is his hitting ability, he was never weak either in the hands or feet. He learned how to hit by studying cause and effect. It did not come natural to him. It did to Jack Dempsey, who swung a heavy cut.

HARRI HUT GOLF BALL BEATPATES FRANK

MINNETONKA, Minn., April 9.—A freak accident of the golf links that has caused the interest of local golfers, resulted when Eddie Fitzgerald drove a ball which decapitated a robin. The bird was about one hundred yards from the tee, and the ball, which Tunney followed, struck the bird's head as clearly as with a knife.

GEORGE'S WARRIOR AS VIOLENT AS HIS PUNCHES

SIX MONTHS, April 9.—George Carpentier, the French heavyweight champion, may have a new opponent of punches in his two hands, but he may not be the fighter that his wardrobe it begins to look like for Mr. Dempsey.

George has a nice face in color, from a quality standpoint, anyway. When he and his bride arrived here several days ago their baggage consisted of thirty-two suitcases. There what George's outfit alone: Twenty-five suits of clothes, twenty-two pairs of shoes, one hundred and thirty-two, how you should see them.

PROHIBITION DRIVES BENCH HEIR TO BANKING BUSINESS

BRITISH SEAMEN PROTEST AGAINST CHINESE COULDER

LONDON, April 9.—Chinese coolies are displacing British seamen, and the latter are getting their hands up. Several seamen have obtained a petition to the Board of Trade, protesting out that they are being displaced by Chinese coolies.

The sailors have asked that the rate paid which stipulated that no more than 10 per cent of the crew of a British ship at a rate of pay less than the rate paid to British subjects be made operative at once.

THE CHALLENGER FROM FRANCE

Being the Story of the Career of Georges Carpentier, Europe's Boxing Idol, Who Has Invaded Our Shores to Seek the Fistic Title Held by Jack Dempsey

THIRD INSTALLMENT

By JACK VEIOCK, International News Service Sporting Editor.

The sporting element of Malbone, N. Y., and Georges. Most boxers would have been willing to rest and realize on the title so far. But not this stranger. Through his own efforts, Carpentier, the little man from a boy, was introduced to an audience of the world.

What chance had this pale young man of a hot with the sturdy little ball? Was he destined to be a champion? It was a question that was asked by many who saw him fight.

There was something peculiar about Carpentier's style. He was not a fighter in the usual sense of the word. He was a boxer, and he was a champion.

Before that round ended, the young challenger from the North had shown himself to be a fighter, and he was a champion.

At the close of the seventh round, Carpentier, still in the lead, was still going strong, and he was a champion.

George had a remarkably close fight at the time the name of Louis. This bit, with the name of Louis, was one of the best of his career.

Despite Gloria's cleverness Carpentier went around him like a cooper around a barrel. He brought through the first ten rounds and piled up a handsome lead on points. But it is not always the cleverest nor the best fighters who win. Day after day, they are the winners.

An inferior boxer, also, over a punch that compels his opponent to leave in the fatal count of ten.

This was the first real knockout ever scored against the clever Carpentier. And since that time he has knocked him out. "Once hit, twice shy" is an adage that applies to the French idol in a field, and it was Carpentier's hand which was the first of his stomach back in 1919 on his way to France.

It was not until he was in the ring with Salomon, and some six weeks later, that he really understood the game.

Carpentier's best opponent in the world was Louis. He was a champion, and he was a champion.

During the remainder of that year Carpentier engaged in eight bouts and had the satisfaction of knocking out Young Warner, who had fought him in the seventh round of their first meeting. His most notable bout was in the lightweight division, however, all came in 1911, for he was growing faster than ever.

"I have been suffering with chronic bronchitis for twenty-six years and every winter I would cough and become so hoarse I could not speak for six or eight weeks. I could get only ten or twelve words at a time. This winter I was taken with a cold and was in awful shape. A physician advised me to take P-B-U-N-A. By the time I had used three-fourths of a bottle, the hoarseness was gone, also that terrible feeling. I am on my second bottle. I feel better. P-B-U-N-A will be constantly in my house. It is the best medicine ever put up for the purpose."

For any disease due to catarrh or external conditions, P-B-U-N-A is especially dependable. ### STOP THE PROFITTEERING

Coal, sugar, meats and shoes are now to be made the subjects of congressional inquiries. The inquiries should be prompt and vigorous. Every one of these important commodities is under grave menace from profiteering already, with worse extortion to follow unless something drastic is done to prevent it.

There have been various illuminating sidelights lately on the meat and shoe industries, suggesting that perhaps the general suspicion regarding the prices the public is obliged to pay are well founded. With coal and sugar the danger is chiefly a future one. When government control of sugar expires, as it will on July 1, it is expected that prices will jump. Many retail dealers are warning their customers to order their coming sugar now, while present prices prevail, because, though high, they will seem cheap a few months hence. There are rumors of "thirty-cent sugar."

As for fuel, it is well known that soft coal prices have increased lately in many cities $1 to $2 a ton, in celebration of the lapse of federal control on April 1, and in pretense of "passing on" the miners' wage increase. Miners insist their new wage scale cannot increase the cost of production more than 25 to 50 cents a ton.

The public, already exploited and enduring, is in no mood to endure further impositions. Congress has done too little in the way of protecting consumers from the rapacity of profiteers. It is time for action. If action is not forthcoming, the negligent legislatures will be held responsible when they stand at the bar of judgment next November.

BILLBOARD ART

Spring, along with its buds and flowers, is bringing a new crop of billboard art, and from a cursory glance it seems rather worse than equal. It is crude, garish, and for the most part ugly. A leading illustrator declares that signboards represent the American ideal of art. If so, American taste must be indeed at a low ebb. There are large numbers of people, of course, with good taste; but the average citizen either has very rudimentary notions of pictorial beauty, or else he is wonderfully tolerant.

Why is it that with so many good poster artists in the country, and men available who are good judges of art, billboard advertisers continue to employ artists and advertising men capable of perpetrating so many artistic monstrosities? Almost every highway and every natural beauty spot is marred by them. Commercial billboard advertising at best is unnecessary. If it is to be inflicted on the traveling public at all, it should be as unobtrusive as possible. If the standard does not improve, one of these days the whole business will be forbidden as a nuisance.

It isn't the run for the money, but the money for the run, which is to be the object of pitiless publicity in this campaign. Could campaign money be classed as "the substance of things hoped for?"

Levine wants raw materials for Russia. Why not try some of his own stuff!

CONNECTICUT WOMAN'S AID TO DEMOCRATS

WASHINGTON, April 9.—There is a great gap between a fashionable city's leading school and political leadership, but Miss Caroline Huntz-Rees has bridged that gap. Despite the fact that she is founder of Woman's Aid, a famous girls' school at Greenwich, Conn., Miss Huntz-Rees is also a member of the executive committee of the Connecticut National Committee. Hardly seems credible, does it?

Her own school, like Miss Huntz-Rees, and she has all the indications of being just as thorough a politician. She was born in England, but came to the United States when young, and was educated in Philadelphia.

How times have changed. It is hard to realize women are in politics, but imagine a political leader with a degree of LL. B. from St. Louis, and a law degree from Columbia of M. A., and also a degree of Ph. D. from the same institution. Then add to that a "Mellin" record as a student of Elve Tinsler of the London Daily Mail. There you have the woman who is now in politics. It is possible a greater intellect in the political game than ever before, it seems.

All of the energy of Miss Huntz-Rees has not been devoted to study and research. She is a woman who likes to become one of the foremost suffragists of Connecticut and she has served with great ability on the Executive Council of National Defense during the war. Miss Huntz-Rees is serious, always. Her aim is to do her best for her nation. She is unique, however, for she admits she came to this country in 1882 when a young girl. Guess for yourself.

SAYS NAVY WAS IN FINE SHAPE

Admiral Wilson Disputes Preparedness Charges of Admiral Sims

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The active vessels of the fleet were better prepared for war in 1917 than they had ever been before, Admiral Henry B. Wilson, now commanding the Atlantic fleet, declared today before a Senate subcommittee investigating Rear Admiral Sims' charges of unpreparedness for war.

"I have no hesitation in saying on matters upon which I am sure," he declared, "that the fleet was more ready prepared for battle than was the fleet to which I was attached and which spent the winters of 1917-18 in southern waters," Admiral Wilson declared. "And I feel sure that if this fleet had engaged an enemy on any day north in the spring of 1917 the victory would have been ours."

"Not only were the ships ready," Admiral Wilson declared, "but the fleet's complete plans had been drawn up to meet the enemy in case he made our coast."

"From the moment war was declared the navy's departments as well as the fleet entered into the prosecution of the war with the greatest energy and its accomplishments in that connection," the commendation of the action.

Admiral Wilson pointed out that within four days after the declaration of war the department sent with the accredited representatives of the British and French admiralties that in 24 hours they made their needs known, "immediate and effective steps were taken to send our available ships overseas."

The allies' communications, Admiral Wilson said, "did not express any need for help or great urgency for help."

"When we consider what it did do, the things it did do, the mistakes it made are so relatively unimportant that they are hardly worth consideration in comparison," he said. "Naturally individuals may discover many things that may have been done better but results are what count."
