Writer in London Paper Says Serious Situation Prevails in Nippon

LONDON, April 12.—Behind the curtain of censorship and cable restriction Japan is passing through a crisis comparable in gravity to that of 1925, in the opinion of Hugh Wood, a writer in the Daily News. The revolutionary movement which unfolded in the Meiji epoch—the period of "enlightened rule," began in 1868 and marked the death of feudalism in Japan.

"It would, of course, be safer to say," the article says, "that we are not parallel to the conditions existing today, but there are certain significant points of resemblance. In the first place the workers have been deeply stirred by the victories of labor in the western world. Secondly, not only the workers but the middle class as well, have been exploited shamelessly by profiteers. And thirdly, aside by side with this ferment, the present of the war and contemporary happenings, there exists an agitation of longer standing—the demand for universal suffrage. It is necessary to look at the situation as a whole if the true importance of what is going on in the present is to be grasped. The Diet and the Imperial Yawata Ironworks is to be mentioned.

The immediate trouble, however, is probably economic rather than political or social, that for the excesses of capitalism. Students of Japanese history would have to refer to a considerable spread of Socialistic doctrines almost unthinkable among a people holding the views in such secular reverence. As it is the translations of Karl Marx have been published in Tokyo in an many months and organized into a learning report, despite persecution, a steady growth of membership. It was not until 1918, however, that the great majority of the people were ripe for a revolution in the Russian or even the German sense. Opposing parties, like the two students leagues, one of which is progressive and the other avowedly reactionary, are pitted against each other in sweeping the capitalist class aside, but the Emperor has hitherto been held free from blame for the whole of the time. The Emperor has now for and in what direction the Imperial rescript dissolving the Diet will modify.

"When the curtain is lifted on current events, it is expected to find three things playing important roles in the drama. First, there will be the Yawata, the Socialist league, a well-known figure in the Imperial International. Then there will be the Imperial rescript, the most influential of the organizations formed for the betterment of the workers' lot. The third will be the Oka, the head of the Yawata police system and a man of iron, who has long been making ready to die to the death any attempt at a revolt or general strike, and whose methods have been widely criticized."

NO SUGAR RELIEF
WASHINGTON, April 10.—No relief from the prevailing high prices for sugar may be expected in the near future, according to a cablegram received here by Senator McNary, Republican of Oregon, from President Menocal, of Cuba.

"The sugar market yesterday," Menocal said, "is in a state of panic. The price including all sales. The April price is 10.50, for Cuba B153. Cane will be largely reduced by continued lack of rain."

The average price for last year, April Cuban sugar was about 12 cents.

COMMANDER NAVY OIL
WASHINGTON, April 10.—Secretary of the Navy, Duff-Post, has estimated strongly that immediate steps will be taken to commandeer all oil used for the navy for the coming year.

Possibility of the repeal of the way time legislation which gives the navy power to commandeer has forced Secretary Daniels to act.

"The situation is serious and I expect information will be given in a base action," he declares. "The report indicated that bids for oil and coal to have been unsatisfactory."

vention will eventually be forced to accept the terms of the proposed settlement—for the strike or against it. If it comes out against the strikers it is probable some means of taking disciplinary measures against them will be adopted.

There is a decided feeling here against the federal authorities whose delay in appointing a wage adjustment board is alleged to be responsible for the present difficulty.

The American Federation of Labor stands by the contract, said Wharton. "The affiliated organizations will take no part in unauthorized strikes. It is understood that the railroad workers will see to it that these obligations to fulfill them.

CHICAGO, April 12.—The backbone of the switchmen's strike in Chicago has broken, it was reported today by C. B. Greer, vice-president of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, where the strike started last week. The freight and passenger trains are now running.

Other railroad leaders joined with Mr. Greer in his assertion that the strike situation is approaching the beginning of the end of the strike throughout the country.

"We expect to have freight traffic resumed by early 1929," he asserted today. "At the Chicago stock exchange, the strike receipts showed a decided rally. The selling was resumed by the packers."

SALT LAKE, April 12.—The "out" will be called upon today to either return to work or state their position, according to rumors and if the men persisted in remaining on strike, the strikers would be made to fill the vacancies. Salt Lake switchmen are asking for an increase of 5 1/2 per cent for all classes of service involved, time and a half for overtime and double time for Sundays and holidays.

The hundred top craftsmen may not light to discuss the local strike situation. They endorsed the "white" strike action and voted their financial aid for the movement. The telegram to R. M. Jewell, president of the railway department of the American Federation of Labor demanding immediate action.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—While virtually full service back at work at several important junction points, the railroads are still in a state of confusion. The strike leaders, however, claimed that they had received information from their ranks that there had been desertion over Sunday.

In a statement today the strikers said that the "out" was a protest against "unreasonable" terms of action on the wage demands of the railroad workers.

PORTLAND, Ore., April 12.—Slight improvement in the local situation caused by the "reel" strike of switchmen is announced by railway officials this morning. The newly formed yardmen's association of America promptly denied any improvement, asserting that the men were still not even fully interested in to remain away from work until their demands were granted.

of the railroad labor adjustment board. It is understood that several members of the board are expected to have the labor stationed to Washington and said he was positive with the appointment of the board that the strike situation would be brought to a head when protest were heard. A meeting of the interstate commerce commission was held today. The secretary stated the investigation of the strike will proceed until the labor board is appointed.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The government today was preparing to move against the nation-wide railroad strike.

Attorney General Palmer, returning from a campaign tour through Georgia, was to take up the case and direct the government activities to safeguard the transportation of the nation.

The attorney general was expected at the White House to accept the viewpoint of the president as to the course to be followed.

Strong pressure was being brought to bear upon the president for immediate action to quell the strike. Both Congress and military leaders wired from many cities that food supplies are being threatened.

Attorney General Palmer arrived at Chicago today to meet the railroad strikers. He then went to conference with Judge C. H. Hanford, chief of the attorney general's office in charge of the strike situation.

Palmer has given indication that he does not intend to move without careful consideration and it is understood that whatever action is taken will be the result of a report submitted upon reports of investigations made by United States district attorneys in the strike situation.

Two courses are open to the attorney general. One call for injunction proceedings under the Lever law and the other calls for direct action against the strikers for interfering with the interstate commerce. Officials are in the fight between the "outlaws" and brotherhood leaders.

"There is no action you heard can get up to adjust the matter," Hanford said.

RAILROADS NEED EQUIPMENT
CHICAGO, April 10.—Railroads of the country are in need of new equipment to the extent of approximately $100,000,000, reports were made today at a meeting of the Association of Railway Executives here.

Called for the minimum 1200 requirements of the carriers included 100,000 freight cars, 3000 passenger cars and 1000 locomotives. Aside from equipment necessary for improvements and additions for the roads will amount to several hundred million dollars. It is stated that the funds will be provided out of the $200,000,000 appropriation in the new commerce act, part from the railroad resources and part from the

THE CHALLENGER FROM FRANCE

Being the Story of the Career of Georges Carpentier, Europe's Boxing Idol, Who Has Invaded Our Shores to Seek the Fistic Title Held by Jack Dempsey

FIFTH INSTALLMENT
By JACK VELOCK,
International News Service Sporting Editor.

There is a man that tells us how could do to keep out of Paris, was not only a man, it was a man himself. From the tenth to the ninth long ago. That history contains the names of comparatively few youthful heroes became national heroes at the hopeful age of eighteen.

Georges Carpentier was an exception. He was not only a champion fighter, but a sportsman of France as far back as 1912, and his victory over Harry Lewis made his something of a national hero. Fame came to him hand in hand with fortune, too, for he was both the pleasant plump into the realm of the masses and the earnings were counted by thousands. He toured France, meeting many local champions and scoring a long succession of unimpressive victories.

Following his fight with Harry Lewis his next bout of importance was fought against a colored middleweight by the name of George Gunther, who landed France with quite a reputation. Gunther, a field, also was a national hero in America as well as in France. He was known as "The Flashy Fighter" and he was a champion of his own race. Jack Lewis, the champion of the world, was on the point of a twenty-round bout and on the strength of his record he challenged Carpentier. Just before the fight Carpentier had stepped two English latters—Jesse Smith and Seaman Parron—into the ring. Carpentier had obtained a twenty-round draw with C. Curran. At the outset Desamps refused to listen to Gunther's challenge, but eventually he consented to Carpentier meet the Australian middleweight and the bout was staged in Paris on April 12, 1918. Gunther carried a stubborn fight, but about going the limit of twenty rounds, but at the end Georges had a comfortable lead on his opponent.

Some months later, at Nice, this same Jack met for a second time, and Carpentier and his position in the victory was well earned by beating Gunther decisively in fifteen rounds. Following his first bout with Gunther, the French look on Harry Lewis as a former heavyweight champion of France. He was sent down for the second time by the French. The bout served as a training outfit for Carpentier for his bout with Willie Lewis.

His bout with Willie Lewis was one of the main reasons for his popularity in the United States. He was a powerful, muscular man, and he was a tough customer, and if there was a bit of the trade he did not know that trick was not worth remembering. Carpentier came to Paris to meet Moreau, Carpentier's rival, Moreau scored Papke in the first round of their scheduled twenty-round bout and had all the better of him during the first ten sessions. Then Papke came from behind and forced Moreau to quit in the eleventh round.

Among the spectators was Carpentier. When the bout was over Carpentier was so pleased that he considered an insulting offer that he started to pull off his coat and throw it at the ring. This little incident, by the way, created bad feeling between the two boys, and they showed open contempt for each other when they met a short time later.

considerable punishment whenever Papke got in close to him.

Carpentier wanted to continue. His aim came to blow with Desamps, but Desamps was so out for the eighteenth round, but as was argued the case, Desamps was the winner of the great Practicum into his record as a victim.

The bout with Papke occurred in October, 1912. The following January Carpentier was matched with his greatest rival, Marcel Moreau, and his record shows that he disposed of Moreau in eight rounds. Handman, Moreau, Cretet Smith and George Guire were met and knocked out by the champion from Paris during the early months of 1913, and then Desamps legion printing him for the greatest effort of his career—his first bout with Handman Moreau. (To be continued.)
