Mexican President Has No Loyal Backing Against Rebels

REPORT STATES HE IS READY TO FLEE

ADOLFO PRIETA, SONORA, Mex., May 1.—When the first rebel battle begins between the federal forces and the secessionist armies of the revolution, President Carranza will learn that there is little loyalty to him throughout the Mexican republic.

General Villarreal has been in conference for two days here with General P. Flores Gallo, commander in chief of the Liberal Constitutional army, discussing plans of campaign against the Carranza stronghold at Mexico City.

General Villarreal, who has been identified with revolutionary movements in Mexico since 1910, is a prominent figure in the revolution.

Palmer's Uprising Consists of Lone Man in Massachusetts Who Rises Up to Make Cutting Remark About Coolidge—Tenants Fight

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Early reports to the department of justice today indicated that the threatened May day demonstrations by extremists will not result in any concentrated attempt at violence.

There were reports that meetings and gatherings were to be held in many of the office building centers today, but indications were that those meetings would be only for the purpose of speech making.

Disclosure was made by Mr. Garvan that several members of congress, three federal judges and a federal attorney had been marked for assault.

While hundreds of die dwellers piled their belongings into vans and moved to quiet quarters, still others "dressed tight" in their apartments and refused to budge, despite the efforts of distracted landlords to oust them.

The result in many sections of the city was that vans stood at curbs for hours, while new tenants and landlords threatened, flattered and cajoled the rebel die dwellers in attempts to oust them.

It was declared by Major H. H. Standish, head of the Tenants Protective League, that at least 10,000 die dwellers defied their landlords in such fashion.

At once, everybody sympathized with the landlord! More than one hundred state guardsmen were sent to Hartford today to prevent any possible May day bomb plots.

G. O. P. Bosses Seem Worried by Votes for Californian

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The badly colored political situation confronting the republican party in respect to the contest for the nomination of a presidential candidate is being discussed today in the corridors of the senate chamber at Philadelphia.

Supporters here of the presidential nomination of Senator Johnson say he has given them and likewise much to think and talk about in having announced that he would accept the nomination of the old guard.

It was reported that Senator Johnson had received 100 votes in the caucus at Philadelphia.

PINK PJAMAS FOR SHIRT

Mail Order Houses Find It Easy to Make Substitutions Because of the Cost of Making Exchanges.

(Copyright)
It was a famous American showman who declared that the American people love to be humbugged. That saying is many years old, now but sometimes it seems that there is about as much truth in it now as there was when it was first uttered.

People as a rule do not like the idea of having "something put over" on them, but from the way in which the great mail order houses in the big cities flourish it seems that a great many people do mind it and it is. The business man, who, when he gets a call for an article which he has not in stock attempts to substitute some other article of a similar nature without telling the buyer of the substitution, is "putting something over" on his customer. Few retail merchants nowadays attempt to do a thing of this kind. The great majority of merchants do not do this for two reasons. One reason is that they wouldn't do it if they could and the other is that they couldn't do it if they would. The man who buys an article over the counter and sees what he is buying before he pays for it, is pretty sure to get what he wants.

Ordered Shirt, Got Pajamas.
But there is another class of merchant, of which the same thing cannot be said. A man who has been closely connected with some of the big mail order houses is authority for the statement that the bulk of the retail merchandise departments of many mail order houses have standing orders to substitute with the nearest thing they have if the articles ordered are not in stock and available for delivery. It is related that in one instance as a result of these instructions, a man who ordered a dress shirt from a mail order house received a pair of pink pajamas.

It is easy for the mail order house to get away with this substitution of one article for the one that is ordered for the reason that to exchange an article received from a catalogue house is a costly undertaking.

TRAINING FOR PUBLIC LIFE Dr. Charles Austin Beard of the School of Social Research of New York City wants courses of instruction in high school and colleges to prepare citizens definitely for municipal, state and national offices.

The only remarkable thing about this suggestion is that it should appear a novelty. Public service is as distinct a profession as any other, and certainly as important as any other. There are plenty of educational courses provided to train doctors, lawyers, engineers, etc. Why, then, are there no courses to train men for the difficult and vital work of mayors, governors, congressmen and other administrative and legislative positions?

The American theory seems to be that any citizen is qualified for any office, whether he has ever had any special training for it or not. Candidates are often, perhaps usually, elected on that basis. They may make good, they may not. The wonder is that so many of them do make good, despite their lack of preparation. Even the successful ones, however, generally have to learn their jobs at the expense of the public. And then, just as they become accustomed to the work, and proficient in it, they are likely to be swept out of office by a partisan landslide or some other political catastrophe.

"It would seem today," says Dr. Beard, "that we believe brains are, under Providence, geographically distributed. A public official who may lose out in a reelection has no chance of using his knowledge in another place unless after long residence in some other locality."

The English system, whereby a capable member of Parliament or of the cabinet who loses in his own district may stand as a candidate in some other district seems more logical. It certainly results in keeping good men in office longer, and encouraging public service as a life career.

Americans, with all their interests in politics and public affairs, do not take public office seriously enough.

MOVIE CENSORSHIP In most of the talk on motion picture censorship and in the work done by censorship boards in localities where there is such supervision of films, the idea seems to be to pass judgment only on the completed picture. All the expensive processes of producing the picture have been gone through with. The whole picture-making group—scenario writer, actors, camera men, director and all the rest—have done their work before the censor is called in to condemn or approve the picture.

The suggestion has been made that if censorship is to be both fair and effective, it should be used before the making of the picture has begun. That takes it into the offices that handle scenarios and into the studios of producers. But censorship would be quite likely to fail there, too, if it were applied with the same lack of judgment, taste, dramatic appreciation and constructive criticism which is sometimes found in established censorship boards.

SEED BUYING Seed stores report that the demand for seeds this year is just less than last year. It is feared that a loss of interest in home gardening is largely responsible. This year of all years the amateur gardener cannot afford to lose his share of interest. Industrial conditions already have done great damage to crop production for the coming season. The last strike in itself, by delaying shipments of farm machinery, and interfering with transportation generally, will have a marked effect upon the food market for months to come. The home gardener need suffer less from these setbacks than any other person, if he will study his soil and bring to his gardening the same intelligent effort which he injects into his other pursuits.

The main thing is not to attempt too large a garden. The man who must do his gardening before and after business hours cannot handle any large space successfully. To attempt it is to reap disappointment instead of vegetables. But a very small plot of ground carefully prepared and tended will play a respectable part in the reduction of family food bills.

THE RIVER'S END'S GREAT DRAMA

John Keith peered out of the little log hut at the snow waste that stretched miles and miles to the horizon. He had been there for three years he had seen nothing but arctic snow, no one but Indians—no one but those who had been placed here by an officer of the United States army who had sworn that he would hang for murder.

Now the chaos was at an end; his pursuers were dead of a frost-bitten lung, and buried under the floor of the cabin, where the wolves would not find him. And John Keith was dead in the dead man's clothes, the uniform of the Royal Mounted.

As his captor lay dying, John Keith had won his confidence; he had convinced him that he was innocent, or, at least, in the killing of which he was accused. To Win, or Lose.

It was the day when he bore a remarkable resemblance to Keith, who had urged him to return to civilization under the name of John Keith. "You will win or lose, when the Chief looks your eyes on you."

Would he win or lose? Keith again raised his eyes to the snow wastes, and knew that in that direction lay the only chance of escape. He had tortured brain for torturing for a while, but Keith knew that eventually a white man in "his name" would find him.

Keith took his inspection and the questioning of the keen eyed chief without flinching. In the end, to his own death; he had passed the critical stage, for he was not recognized. As a consequence, the chief was called, he went to the dead man's cabin, but there a surprise awaited him.

For a moment, the chief looked at him, and then he turned and looked down at the snow. "You are not John Keith," he said. "You are a white man in 'his name'."

Keith looked at him, and then he turned and looked down at the snow. "You are not John Keith," he said. "You are a white man in 'his name'."

Keith looked at him, and then he turned and looked down at the snow. "You are not John Keith," he said. "You are a white man in 'his name'."

AMERICANIZATION

The third of the series by J. L. Allen dealing with the subject of Americanization, a study again on the subject of the Americanization of the foreign born, and so it is with a person. Many a noble mind has failed to catch the spirit of the Americanization movement.

The world is now confronted with great problems and great responsibilities. It is this great world which is the product of the Americanization movement.

Today is a day of reconstruction and of new beginnings. It is a day when the conditions of the universe are being re-created and re-organized.

The future is bright and the future is ours. We have the power to create a better world for ourselves and for our children.

Wins Pentathlon at Penn Relays

Working Taking a First—More Events Today

FRANKLIN FIELD, PHILADELPHIA, May 1.—The May day opening at Franklin field was well controlled by squads of five called "varsity" afternoon as thousands of athletic fans gathered here for the last day's training of the classic Penn relays.

A brisk breeze and warm sun dried up the soft spots on the cinder track and weather conditions were ideal as the games got under way. Attendance was estimated at 25,000.

Today's program opened with the special 120 yard hurdles. Walt of Cornell, who broke the world's yard hurdle record last Friday, was entered in this race.

John of Oxford, W. Smith of Cornell, Edson of Nebraska, Joseph of Nebraska, Russell of Pennsylvania and several other high stars were among the starters.

The 100 yard dash, with more than three score of the fastest sprinters in the country scheduled to face the starter, promised to be one of the most spectacular events of the day.

The Hartford high school relay team won from a host of seven starters in the special high school relay, 2:40. Trenton, N. J., high was second and Atlantic City third.

The 400 yard dash, with more than three score of the fastest sprinters in the country scheduled to face the starter, promised to be one of the most spectacular events of the day.

Delaware Poly Institute won Philadelphia Northeast in 3:45.4. The high school and college relay teams were all for one mile and the teams were grouped according to the districts they represent.

Delaware Friends school won relay event No. 41, in 3:45.4. Franklin and Marshall, and Delaware and Marlborough academy third.

TWIN TRIMS RUPERT 14-7

Minidokans Are No Match for Fast Blue and White Team—Twin District Champs

REPERT, May 1. (Special to The Times).—By the score of 14-7 the blue team took to the Twin Falls high school here yesterday in one of the most hotly contested games ever seen in this district. The Ruperts were far outclassed, made many errors and were very few hits. The Twin Falls boys' performance before in the first contest is over.

TAD'S TID-BITS

If he breaks into the Detroit lineup as a regular while Donie Bush is still tearing up the dirt around the bases he will be a great asset for the Blue in the matter of running the bases. He is a great athlete, fast and a heady base runner. Last Summer, in the Coast League he pitched 27 games.

SPRAGUE TIRES

Like the century-old missions, SPRAGUE TIRES are built to endure. Into the SPRAGUE there goes the best fabric that money can buy. And not a little of this fabric, but one more ply than in any other and two more than most others!

With these extra plies of better fabric there is used more rubber. The SPRAGUE tread is 88 per cent, and the sidewalls, cushion and friction are 94 per cent pure rubber. There are no weak parts.

So well built, and of such splendid materials, are these tires that we expect every one to far exceed its

7,500-Mile Guarantee

This shows the difference in number of plies of fabric used by various tire builders:

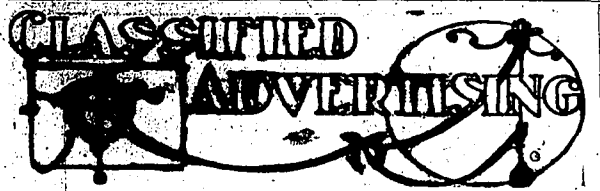

| Size       | Ply in SPRAGUE Tires | Ply in Other Tires |
|------------|----------------------|--------------------|
| 31-inch    | 6                    | 4-5                |
| 4-inch     | 7                    | 5-6                |
| 4 1/2-inch | 8                    | 6                  |
| 5-inch     | 8                    | 7                  |

—and every SPRAGUE ply is 17-1/2 oz. fabric, the strongest known, and not generally used by other tire manufacturers.

Endurance Lies Within the Piles

Come in and let us show you a SPRAGUE, the kind of material it's made from, straight, and how. We are proud of these better tires, for we know they will please you.

INSURE! Before it's too late

A Personal Message

THESE days we hear a great deal about cutting out the middle-man's profit and reducing the cost by operating a larger business. That's precisely what I am doing. To be frank with you, I can, by reducing my own compensation, save you over one-quarter of the cost of your disability insurance after the first year, and will prove beyond any doubt that I can give you at a reduction in cost better protection against accidents and sickness than you could possibly secure elsewhere.

This is a business proposition you cannot afford to postpone until later—for full particulars call, write, telegraph or telephone.

PIERS AGENT KIDNAP
CHICAGO, May 1.—While slouching about Chicago's loop district for a woman burglar, Detective Harry DeWolfe observed in a signmobile with no license tag approaching him. In it rode a fashionably garbed woman, drawing a revolver, the detective forced the chauffeur to drive to the curb.
"Who are you?" the detective asked the woman.
"I am Mrs. Archibald Roosevelt," replied the latter.
"Detective of Teddy, I suppose," queried the detective sarcastically.
"The daughter," was the reply.
The detective, however, remained skeptical, and it was not until the chauffeur had been given a grilling in the office of the chief of police that the identity of Mrs. Roosevelt was established. Then there were profuse apologies and Mrs. Roosevelt departed for the Twentieth Century Limited, on her way to New York and Panama.
