JAMES J. CORBETT IS GIVEN CREDIT FOR BRINGING ABOUT REFORMS IN PUGILISM

Jim Corbett.

Tommy Ryan, the erstwhile welterweight champion, paid an extraordinary but not unappreciated tribute to James J. Corbett.

Corbett's reform in pugilism brought as great a change in ring tactics as came about when electric light succeeded gas for illuminating purposes.

"The ring game owes more to Corbett than it does to any living man," said Ryan, "and I say that in full knowledge of the fact that John Sullivan helped to popularize the ring pugilism and that a hundred other great men entered the last forty years have boosted the game from a one-time burlesque diversion to a clean, scientific and manly art."

"I don't think that any greater commendation was ever caused than that which Corbett received on the night that he fought Sullivan. Only the old timers will remember that fighters thirty and forty years ago were fellows who made a specialty of looking at rings and as tight as they could. They wanted to, by personal appearance, live up to their reputation as fighters."

"That on the night that Jim Corbett, the 'Aide from the Pacific coast,' took on Sullivan, he nearly knocked dead a thousand or more of the veterans who saw him as he walked toward his dressing room. The youngster, touted as a special conqueror of the 'in-salable Sullivan,' was a suit of 'ice cream clothes, natty straw hat, a silk shirt, necktie that must have set him back $2 at the very least, a pair of fashionable tan shoes and silk socks to match—and he carried a cane. That was the climax—the end. Those who saw it and Corbett gasped at first and then when they recovered their voices, exclaimed: 'Huh, a fighter! Why, Sullivan will scare that fellow with one look.' But those familiar with ring history know to the contrary."

"Prior to Corbett's time the so-called 'box' people thought that boxing was a brutal and vulgar sport. They were right. But Corbett changed these ideas by changing the manner of boxing—and the manners of boxer. He made it into a manly and clean sport. Soon the highroads took it up and boxing boomed all over the country."

Star for a Day—Happy Felch.

The Senators went on a hitting rampage against the Browns, Judge got the longest hit, a homer, but Milton Guthrie and Harry made triples. Milton got four hits.

Te. Cub's base home against the Athletics and his bases hammered out a one-sided victory for Detroit.

A triple by Stencels, a wild pitch by Pitcher Johnson gave the Phillies the game with the Cards.

MAN BEGINS SPEECH WHEN HIS TEEETH ARE PULLED

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, May 19.—The story of how the extraction of two teeth resulted in reversion of John H. Huppert's speech and of the use of the muscles in his face and left arm is told here as follows:

For three years an invalid as the result of a stroke of paralysis, causing the loss of his speech and paralyzing the left side of his face and left arm, John H. Huppert of Mohican, Pa., is rapidly recovering, following the extraction of two molar teeth by local dentists.

Three-quarters of an hour after Huppert had been in the dentist's chair the doctors' assistant noticed him blinking his left eye and that his crooked mouth was growing straighter. He was making an effort to talk. The doctor was called and immediately went, through words with surprise in his eyes.

When Huppert uttered his name, for the first time in three years, both doctor and patient shed tears of joy.

The two molar teeth had been healing upon certain nerves, causing paralysis of the upper lip, left eye, left arm and loss of speech. Huppert's speech is now normal. His crooked mouth has returned and he is slowly regaining strength in his left arm.

HOW EUROPE CAN ESCAPE COLLAPSE

We Must Aid by Extending Credit, Says Davison.

GRAVE MENACE TO U. S. A.

European Ruin Would Involve America—Starvation and Disease Rampant.

Dr. Molnes, Iowa, speaking before the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, Henry P. Davis, chairman of the board of governors of the League of Red Cross societies, said:

As chairman of the convention of the Red Cross societies, composed of representatives of twenty-seven nations that recently met in London, I am anxious to authorize my report to you, a body of people living in Eastern Europe.

One of the most terrible tragedies in the history of the human race is being enacted in the broad belt of territory between the Baltic and the Black and Adriatic seas.

This area includes the new Baltic states—Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia, Ukraine, Rumania, Montenegro, Albania and Serbia.

The reports which come to us make it clear that in these countries, widespread starvation is being suffered, disease is rampant, and the people are dying in thousands, and over vast areas there is no food to eat.

Men, women and children are dying by thousands, and over vast areas there is no food to eat.

What a starvation is threatened in Poland this summer unless she can procure food supplies in large quantities from the United States.

Twenty-five million people are dependent on the United States for their food.

In the Ukraine, we are told, typhus and influenza have affected most of the population.

A report from Vienna, dated February 12, said: "There are typhus for three weeks; death strikes in the streets of Vienna and takes unhindered toll."

Budapest, according to our information, is one vast city of misery, and there is a lack of food.

In Serbia typhus has broken out again and there are 200 physicians to minister to the needs of that entire country.

In Montenegro, where food is running short, there are but five physicians for a population of 200,000.

Returning to the United States a few weeks ago with all these horrors ringing in my ears, I found myself once more in a land whose mountains were overflowing, where life and plenty abounded and where life and sugar enterprise were in the full flow.

I ask myself: what if the plague and famine were here in the great territory between the Atlantic seaboard and the Mississippi valley, which roughly parallels the extent of these European countries, and that 60,000,000 of our people depended to live on the basis of raw material and whose fields had been devastated by invasion and famine were racked by starvation and poverty and if we had lifted up our voices and invoked the attention of our brothers in Europe to our own deep miseries?

There are only three ways by which these stricken lands can receive supplies from the outside world.

One is by payment, one by credit, and the third is exchange of commodities.

If these people tried to buy material and supplies in America at present market rates of their currencies, America would have to pay forty times the original cost, Germany fifteen times, Greece ten times, Czechoslovakia three times, Poland fifty times.

These figures are official and are a true index of the economical plight of these countries.

It is clear, therefore, that they can not give us gold for the things they must have, nor have they either products or securities to offer in return.

One half of the world may not eat while the other half starves. How long do you believe the scheme of typhus that is taking a hideous toll in Estonia and Poland and the Ukraine and eating stung the straggle of Germany and Czechoslovakia will continue to take these remote lands.

Omaha Dealers Slash Goods 20 to 35 Percent, Swamping Stores

OMAHA, Neb., May 10.—New records for business in Omaha retail stores was predicted early today by many of the four largest retail concerns here which have slashed prices from 20 to 35 per cent. Three large retail establishments Sunday announced a reduction of 20 per cent on all articles in stock. This was followed by competing stores with a reduction of 30 per cent. The stores first to announce price slashing came back today with further reductions amounting in some instances as high as 35 per cent.

"War on manufacturers to make them reduce prices," said the manager of one of the largest stores today. "It is the only reason for our reduction."

George Brandeis, head of the largest store in Omaha, said he was clearing the way for new stocks at lower prices. Several smaller stores today announced similar price reductions.

Traffic was blocked in front of retail stores when they opened today. Show cases were broken and clerks swarmed by buyers. All the Omaha stores are advertising for additional clerks to help them handle the trade.

LIVERYMAN GOES TO TRIAL ON CHARGE OF MURDER

LYNDON, Kan., May 10.—The most sensational murder trial in the history of Osage county, and perhaps recent years in Kansas, is scheduled to open here today when Lure King, livery owner of Maple Hill, Kansas, will go on trial for murder. King is charged with having murdered three men and to have buried them underneath his livery barn at Maple Hill.

King's trial has been postponed three times, and was transferred from Maple Hill to this place in order to secure a fair trial. King was arrested in Colorado last August, shortly after the skeletons were found, but denied his guilt. A month ago, after being held in jail for months, he was released on bond. His release was due to the efforts of his wife, who spent months in raising the bond.
