

CONVENTION

Convention Is Now to Choose His Running Mate

LONG DEADLOCK IS FINALLY BROKEN ON 44TH ROLL CALL DURING EARLY MORNING

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULES IS CARRIED AND THE NOMINATION OF OHIOAN IS DECLARED UNANIMOUS

NOMINATIONS BEGUN
SAN FRANCISCO, July 6.—Much of the preliminary business conducted Chairman Robinson at 1:13 p. m. called for nominations for the vice presidency and ordered a roll call of states. Robinson announced the nominating speeches would be limited to 10 minutes, and according speeches to two, or five minutes each. Alabama yielded to Tennessee. General Hervey H. Hinson, of Tennessee, then placed in nomination the name of General L. D. Tyson also of Tennessee.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 6.—Governor James Cox of Ohio was nominated democratic candidate for president of the United States at 1:45 a. m. The nomination came during the 44th roll call. Samuel H. Amidon, Kansas national committee man and a McAdoo leader, seeing the roll sweeping toward Cox, moved that the rules be suspended, and he declared the unanimous choice of the convention. Amidon exciting confusion and with hundreds of delegations cheering and yelling the motion was carried with a thundering sound of eyes.

Chairman Robinson's voice could be scarcely heard as he roared the question. The roll-mentally lifted the room. Thereafter confusion reigned.

Today's Session Slow
AFTERNOON, San Francisco, July 6.—The opening of today's session of the democratic national convention was delayed because Chairman Robinson could not find his gavel. During previous sessions three or four of the wooden mallets usually lay on the speaker's table.

"Now, if one of you gentlemen will just hurry around and find one of those goods, we'll get down to business," the senator told other officials.

A searching party was sent out. Souvenir hunters were held responsible for the travel shortage.

J. Ham Doesn't Want It
Former Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois was not to be present formally to the convention in Chicago. He said that Lewis, subordinating his own ambitions to the good of the party, felt the vice presidential nominee should come from farther west.

At least six nominating speeches are expected for tomorrow, before balloting starts.

PRESIDENT TO GIVE COX AID

Definite Assurances Given at the White House That Willson to Help Campaign

By Herbert W. Walker, United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, July 6.—Definite assurances were given at the White House today that President Wilson plans to take an active part in the campaign to elect Governor Cox as his running mate.

It was indicated that if his health permitted the president would assume active speeches for the Ohioan and otherwise will use all his influence as head of the party to win a decisive victory in November. An early conference between Wilson and Cox probably will be arranged.

McAdoo Was Frazzled
Although these hopes to the administration several times during the last week have indicated that Cox would not be unworkable, there is little doubt that the White House favored the nomination of McAdoo. Cox was not the first choice of virtually all the cabinet officers at the convention and the same feeling has permeated the White House offices during the voting.

Cox is considered here to be a warm admirer of the president and has been a frequent visitor at the White House from the first. It is believed that Cox's views on this issue are fairly well expressed by the treaty plank in the platform.

Annihilation of 18 Regiments Reported

LONDON, July 6, (U.P.)—General Wrangel, anti-Bolshevik leader in Russia, surrounded and annihilated 18 regiments of Bolshevik cavalry and took 30,000 prisoners, the British war office announced today.

Only 150 men of the entire Bolshevik force escaped, the anti-Bolshevik war office said. The Bolshevik cavalry corps was captured with its commander.

Tammany Chiefs Well Pleased With Choice

SAN FRANCISCO, July 6.—Tammany chiefs here were jubilant over the selection of Governor Cox as the democratic nominee. Governor Smith of New York, who fought Blaine hard, said that he was exceedingly well satisfied with the convention's choice.

BULLETIN SERVICE OF THE TIMES RESUMED AT ALL CONVENTION NEWS

The Times maintained a bulletin service during the balloting for nominees as the democratic convention opened here at Twin Falls, Idaho, up to 1 o'clock this morning. Bulletin service was resumed at the Twin Falls office and wire and were placed in the window for the crowds to read. The crowd around the Times office was an interested one and every bulletin was scanned with great concern and many predictions were made on the outcome.

Organized Labor Is Pleased at Outcome

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Governor James M. Cox democratic presidential nominee, stands highly with organized labor in Ohio. Secretary Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor said today. Morrison and other labor leaders refused to make any further comment on Cox's nomination until Samuel Gompers reaches Washington. Gompers is now en route from San Francisco.

GREAT THROGS CHEER FOR COX

Crowds in Streets of San Francisco Hold Wild Demonstration Today

SAN FRANCISCO, July 6, (U.P.)—San Francisco's downtown district this morning was the scene of the wildest and most joyous demonstration ever seen following the nomination of Governor James M. Cox for the presidency by the democratic national convention.

Not content with merely trying to raise the roof of the auditorium when the long deadlock was broken at 1:45 a. m., cheering through of democratic delegates and parties, the business section of the city leading the Cox band from Plaza, Ohio.

Dry Ticket Will Be Placed in the Field

(U.P.)—The nomination of Governor Cox as the democratic presidential nominee, makes it possible to place a named dry ticket in the field, according to a statement here today by Virgil H. Hinchey, national committee man.

The run forces have certainly maneuvered well to secure nomination to their liking by both old parties. The champion of the seven year clause in the eighteenth amendment, elected by the vote, in hope of defeating H. and Cox, the temperance and abhorred enemy of the dry forces of the country.

If Diggins had returned with his inter and searched the country over he could not have found one better adapted to the fulfillment of the purpose of no liquor element than Cox, said Hinchey.

Colonel Amidon a Picturesque Man

TOPERA, July 6, (U.P.)—Sam H. Amidon, who has been mentioned to make the vice presidential nomination, is one of the most picturesque figures in Kansas politics. More than 65 tall, he is a striking figure in any crowd.

In Kansas politics, he is known as a man who stands by his convictions, and does not allow the voice of public opinion to sway him when he is in any crowd.

Colonel Amidon has practiced law in Wichita for more than 25 years and considered one of the ablest lawyers in the state. He has always been a bitter political opponent of Governor Henry J. Allen.

Democratic Dries Not to Hinder Cox Race

WASHINGTON, July 6, (U.P.)—Indications that the democratic dries are not hindering the race of Governor Cox because of reported anti-prohibition beliefs, were today noted by Senator Sheppard, Texas, dry leader in the senate approved his nomination.

"Hearty congratulations on your nomination and I prefer your election by an overwhelming majority," Sheppard wired Cox.

"There is no question about where Cox stands on the prohibition issue," said E. H. Oberling, secretary of the anti-liquor league, of the anti-Saloon league, it is a wet.

The league's campaign plans will be made public, shortly, he said.

It is not only our duty to make the right known but to make it prevalent.—EDMUND BURKE.

"BECAUSE OF THE WAR"

CANADA, war-torn Canada, the other day sent across the American line a little lesson in self-respect. It comes in something more valuable than words or oratory. It came in the shape of 5,000,000 pounds of good, clean sugar, bottled to wholesalers at 5 and 7 1/2 cents a pound, to be sold at retail for not more than 11 cents a pound. And, of course, there is to be an inquiry as to whether there has been profiteering in sugar by Americans—with the result that, well, that profiteering probably will continue until there was torn countries through the process of active-competition, force the prices down.

America has glouted a great deal over the part that it played in the war. America has cause to be proud of certain things—of the young men who gave their all that the name of America might be carried as the greatest fighting nation of the world, fighting the cause of right.

But, while that reputation was being gained for America as a friend of the oppressed, by a strange paradox a name also was being gained for it as an oppressor, through the machinations of money mad profifiers who sought to squeeze out the last drop of blood in tribute for the commodities they had cornered.

The war is over now, and has been over for more than a year—everywhere except in the United States. Sugar is scarce—because of the war. Common, ordinary potatoes are in the class of luxuries—because of the war. Clothing is almost beyond reach—because of the war. Look for physical evidences of this all-consuming war in America, and you will fall to find it. Go to buy the food that sustains life and you will face war in its most savage form; the attack upon the necessities of existence.

This is in America. And in the face of such terrible conditions, isn't strange that a country that suffered far more than America can sell sugar—and 5,000,000 pounds at that—for 9 cents a pound, when the greatest nation in the world, and the nation which suffered the least, is charging as high as 25 cents in some quarters—"because of the war"? You cannot buy American potatoes for much less than 10 cents a pound. But you can buy Canadian potatoes—and there are few that are better—for 4 cents.

And the same is true of every other commodity. In little, stricken Belgium, where the path of the Hun still bears the bloodstains of innocent victims, the wheels of industry are humming, and necessities are cheaper in many ways, than in America, where wheels are stalled by some malignant influence which seems to have locked them until the limit of price gouging can be attained. Prices have fallen in France. England, raided by aircraft, bombed by Zeppelins; the ranks of her manhood torn and scarred by the ravages of war, is striving her best to come back to pre-war standards and pre-war economies. But America remains the same as it was a year ago, a land of inflated prices, of profiteer and money maniacs—"because of the war."

It's a sad commentary on this country, supposedly the beacon light of the world. It points to a plain, frank, brutal fact that America is losing its self-respect in the dazzling lure of the dollar.

And it's time that such conditions ceased. If Canada, stripped of her man power, lowered in vitality and economic strength, can lower prices, so can the United States. And it is time that inquiries did something more than "inquire."

Germany will refuse any terms which she thinks her people cannot fulfill; for other words it seems that Germany is anxious to make her own terms, probably thinking she has won the war.

Right in the midst of the balloting at the democratic convention, President Wilson in Washington went for an auto ride. Maybe he was trying to forget it.

NIGHT SESSION WAS STORMY ONE

just as solid for Palmer as ever. At 9 o'clock, when the Cox was showing strength the McAdoo people came tumbling to the Palmer people to aid.

When McAdoo showed a spirit, the Cox people shouted "hold on" to the Palmerites. The Cox people were each other out with the idea of Palmer stopping in over the two hours out there.

Chairman Robinson called the convention to order at 8 p. m. ready to start the thirty-seventh ballot for a presidential candidate.

The Cox leaders seemed agreeable to the program of getting together on a compromise candidate, but asked for at least one night. The Cox governor another day for the honor. This was granted. John W. Davis was said to be favored by a number of the McAdoo and Palmer leaders as a dark horse. Tammany was said to be opposed to him.

McAdoo still led on the 37th ballot, the expected Palmer drive having failed to develop. McAdoo was back over the 400 mark again with 400 and Cox was close behind with 386. Palmer had dropped from 400 back to 203 1/2. Tennessee having deserted him.

O'DOWD TRIMS GORDON M'KAY

Pocastello Middleweight Gives Up After Two Rounds of Good Milling

POCASTELLO, July 6.—Mike O'Dowd of St. Paul still holds his former place in local affairs. Following his defeat upon his ring career by Gordon McKay, the Pocastello boxer, before a crowd of 5,000 people at the arena yesterday. They had fought twelve of their fifteen rounds when McKay decided he had had enough. He did not appear for the untidy thirteenth.

McKay, a middleweight champion of the Northwest, had plenty of moral backing from the home crowd, and managed to get the edge in two rounds. He also holding the former world champion even in three others, but O'Dowd had a margin in seven rounds and was clearly the master of the situation at the close, applying grinding punishment to the abdomen as the final round came. Showed unafraid chivalry with an educated left, did the business. As long as he could force Mike to arms length, McKay had a chance, but the veteran kept boring in and got inside the local man's defenses.

It was in the demonstration of the ex-champion's prowess, and strengthened the belief among those who saw the fight that Mike is still the peer of all middleweights, notwithstanding his somewhat flimsy defeat by Johnny Wilson recently.

The preliminaries resulted as follows: "Spick" Myers, Pocastello, won from Jack Doster of New York. In four rounds. Ed Moran, Idaho Falls, fought with Ed Moran, Idaho Falls, winning in four rounds. George Jordan, of Idaho Falls, won from Ed Moran, Idaho Falls, in four rounds. Helvie Kelly, Bate Lightweight, won from Able Mishkin, Salt Lake, in 8 rounds. Billy Eastman and Young Jennings, Pocastello paperweights, fought a four round draw.

Palmer's action was announced by F. C. Carlin, his manager, after the 25th ballot, when the deadlock continued with no indication of being broken.

Carlin made the announcement from the rostrum. It threw the convention into an uproar. The Georgia and Pennsylvania standards, marking the location of the delegates who have stood faithfully for Palmer, were centers of great excitement. The crowds surged around them.

Carlin announced he was requested by Palmer to express to those delegates who have supported him his sincere gratitude and to advise the convention that he is unwilling to delay the deliberations longer.

It became known that Secretary Daniels, Secretary Meredith and Attorney General Palmer were in conference when the decision for Palmer to release his delegates was made. Many observers believe, instead of definitely that Palmer's action was part of a pre-arranged plan whereby McAdoo, as an administrative candidate would get the bulk of the Palmer vote. Cox backers, however, protest that they are not sure of a fair share of the spoils.

The Pennsylvania delegation was in conference when the 29 ballots specified for the recess expired. Pennsylvania had the largest block of Palmer votes, ranging above 70 in the convention. Cox enthusiasts were claiming practically all of these votes, though their claims were vehemently denied by McAdoo leaders.

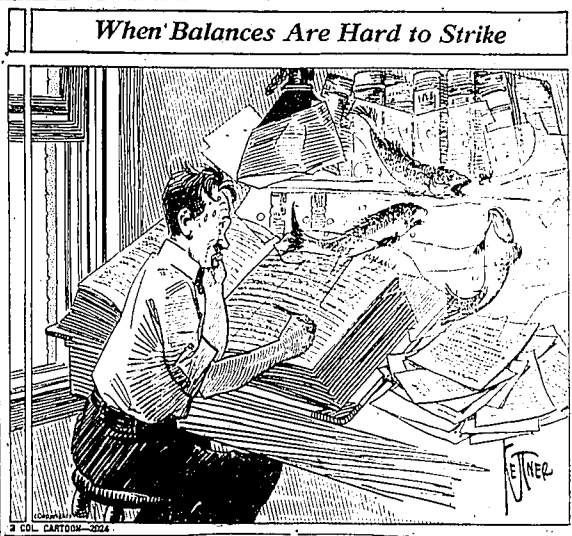

The Georgia delegation voted to ballot unanimously for McAdoo, news of which were informed after that state's caucus.

At an announcement of Massachusetts' strength for Cox, a demonstration started. Delegates, dancing and playing ran around the states, waving their state standards. Hats were tossed wildly in the air. Delegates stood on chairs, yelling madly. Up in the galleries the Cox band paraded, thumping out "We'll nominate Cox or any other reason why our country perched on a cross bar on top of a pole was borne through the riotous throng, lowering perilously on his shaking foothold. The man with the pointer was F. C. Caldwell, Belmont, California. A photograph of Cox, attached to a walking stick, was carried in the procession. Far spitting: There's one up again and again, above the brazen ball of the band.

Hooster in Parade
The rooster, typping Cox, was lifted on its perch to the rostrum, while the loudest cry in history reared out in concert from the lungs of thousands of half-drunken delegates and spectators in a "Cock-a-doodle-do" that split the roof. Their voices resounded like mere husks, the delegates strained every nerve time and again and brought the noisy blast to its death repeatedly, despite the rapid throte. It was the Cox opportunity and his men were trying with a last effort to get through.

Cox Jumps Into Lead
Cox jumped into the lead on the 37th ballot. He received a total of 484 as against McAdoo's 440. The division on the 38th ballot, after the Pennsylvania vote had been pooled showed a virtual deadlock between McAdoo with 467 votes and Cox with 480.

The 40th ballot increased McAdoo's total from 467 to 487 and that of Cox from 484 to 490. The total votes in the convention, there being two unvoted ballots, adds to the total polled by Cox and McAdoo, was but

On the 41st ballot, Cox picked up the votes to a total of 497, and McAdoo had 7, slipping back from 467 to 460.

Delegate Lindebaugh of Oklahoma named an administrative candidate to attack New York morning.

McAdoo demanded a roll call and it was ordered.

The motion to adjourn was laid though the McAdoo forces cast a roll call vote to disperse.

RESOLUTE WILL DEFEND TITLE

Deflection of Bloop to Meet Chal- lenger Seen as Foregone Conclusion

(By Franklin B. Morse.) Pacific Sports Service. The selection of the American defender of the title in the International yacht race against Thomas Lipton's challenger, Shamrock IV, practically was a foregone conclusion and an accepted fact at the slightest surmise. The fleet showed herself to be the superior in the Vanille in the trial races two years ago and, in many, it seemed most an unnecessary procedure to go on with the trials again this year. It is enough to admit that the changes made in the Vanille resulted in improving her performance over the case of 1914.

From now on, interest will center in the exact amount of the allowance which the Shamrock will have to allow the smaller American boat. It will not be definitely known until all the measurements of the two competing yachts are officially taken. As early as can be foreseen, Shamrock IV will be forced to allow the Resolute 7 minutes and 30 seconds.

On paper this handicap seems to enable her to perform as well as she, but when it is remembered that the boats will sail over a course of 100 miles which will include 100 sea hours in a good, sailing breeze, it is not surprising that the Resolute is not so sure of her ability to win. It is an un- doubted fact that the Resolute has been fully raced during her home trials in close order with the Resolute and she has shown a square feet of canvas to the Resolute of her design and was in all ways equal to her.

It is noted that she will sail even more when the time comes to square away against the Resolute on July 12 for the first race of the series. This means a possibility of approximately 12,000 square feet.

When it is understood that the canvas carried by the Resolute amounts to only 12,000 square feet, the layman can begin to appreciate why the challenger is called on to give the Resolute something in the way of a allowance.

With the Resolute only two weeks before the great International Yacht classic is on, both yachts are hauled out of the water and the Resolute thoroughly scrapped so there will not be even the hint of rust on her hull. It is expected that the Resolute will tend to hold the lead, but she will not be able to do so.

The Resolute makes no secret of the fact that they believe that Thomas Lipton has the best boat she has ever had. She has the right to "lift" the cup and that the Resolute is a better boat than any she has ever had.

The Resolute's cup hunter has shown herself to be fast in light air, to blow very little and to be almost capable of spinning around on her own axis, three attributes which she would not concede her capable hull they were forced to admit by actual demonstration.

THREE NEVADA COUNTIES TO BE MERGED INTO NEW DISTRICT
 BROKEN HILLS, Nev., July 5.—Governor H. E. Baker of Nevada today, after a personal examination of the new mining district here, stated that he was convinced all of the territory of the Broken Hills silver operation and all adjoining property situated in Mineral County, Nevada, it is possible that a portion of the same, but only a portion, is situated in Nye County or Churchill.

Gov. Baker of Nye County, who has been a few days, stated that he believed the entire mining camp in Nye County.

Churchill County has already expressed the belief that the silver camp is in Churchill.

Each of these counties is arranging independent surveys to determine the exact boundary with a view to collecting tuition taxes and other taxes in the new district.

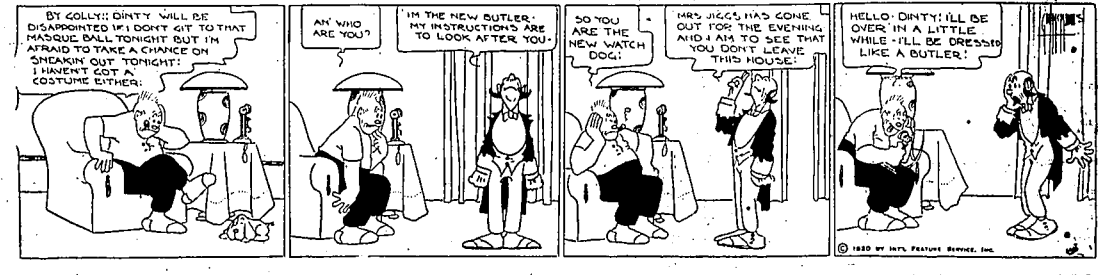

Governor Baker of Mineral County has ordered a preliminary survey to be made immediately. Nevada will follow suit.

YOUNGER MEN WIN PLACE IN TRIALS AT PASADENA; FORMER CHAMPS LOSE

(By William Nunnick.) Pacific Sports Service. Two former national champions had to bow to the adage "youth will be served" in the coast trials held at Pasadena last Saturday. Incidentally one of them Alvin Richards is also the Olympic champion high jump champion of 1912. The other is Clinton Larson and both are members of the Golden Athletic Club. Both men failed to make a place in their high jump specialty at the trials, the places being taken by three younger jumpers of the present day. That however does not mean these athletes are out of the running as they will have a final test at Boston July 12 and if they make good there will be of course a chance for the American team. The trials produced a number of athletes who up to Saturday were only known to fame in their own section. Their performances at Pasadena made them national characters in their events. One particularly notable instance in this is the case of Charlie Hunt of San Francisco who broke the American 200-meter record. Another good instance is E. S. Irving of the University of Idaho falling from Ripport, Idaho. Though Irving failed to take first place he captured third in the shot put and javelin throw and his performances were of such a caliber that he has a good chance of final landing on the American team.

United States has awarded the women's national 400 yard race to the Neptune Beach Swimming Club at Alameda to be decided July 18.

The race is open to any girl swimmer in the country, and the Alameda Neptune Club is endeavoring to get the best swimmers of the country to enter.

July 4th will be a busy day for swimmers. All over the western states championships are to be decided. At Coronado Tent City in San Diego County there will be a series of Southern championships which have attracted the best swimmers. At Stockton, Cal., the women's Pacific Coast 225 yard and 1000 yard breast stroke titles will be decided. At Long Beach, Cal., other races are scheduled. At Los Angeles, Oregon and Seattle, Wash., swimming events are being held.

start the football season with a new coach. He is H. B. Rutherford formerly of the University of Washington and has a record behind him as a coach and expert in physical education that should prove valuable to the Oregon Aggies. Rutherford will not only be the football coach but has been named director of the Physical Education department of the college.

Mrs. Tom Dandy, formerly May Sutton is going to try a come back at the national tennis championships at Philadelphia September 12. She will be accompanied cast by her other famous tennis sisters, Mrs. Ethel Bruce and this duet will be joined in New York by Helen Baker the Pacific Coast present singles champion and Eleanor Tennant of Los Angeles. This is the strongest quartet of western players that have ever gone east to represent the west.
