Volunteer Army of Britain May Fight The Reds

England Considers Calling for Enlistments to Meet the Bolshevik Peril

LONDON, Aug. 5. (UPI)—The government has considered calling for volunteers to fight the Bolsheviks in Poland, the Evening News declared this afternoon.

POLES DEFEATED

LONDON, Aug. 5. (UPI)—The Polish army has been defeated in a new battle 65 miles northeast of Warsaw, according to the news today. The state department received this information by wireless from Moscow.

The refugees include Arthur Prince, Detroit, a corporal in the 2nd United States Infantry; Jean King, Cleveland, a member of the 10th Cavalry; Richard W. Van, New York, and Mrs. Emily Sartman (name garbled and initials not certain), of New York.

These refugees are now at Teriberka, Uralia. They are being aided by the American Red Cross.

Polish forces, numbering 10,000, were annihilated in the vicinity of Archiduchy on March 1, 1919, while a member of the American expeditionary force was present. Although he was wounded twice, the Bolshevik paid attention to his injury. It was said he had fought gallantly.

Marshall said he expects to take command of the democratic nation's campaign.

He will go to Gherde National park from Portland and then will start east.

Official efforts were frankly worried, the state department said, over the development on the Polish front.

Neither officials nor experts say what steps, if any, were contemplated by the British government.

The state department had no comment on the reported summoning of the council of ambassadors to take on the Polish campaign. The communists said that no instructions have yet been given to Hugh Wallace, American ambassador at Paris and a member of the council.

Reports Not Confirmed

In advices from the American legation at Warsaw it was said there was no reliable news at Warsaw on August 4 regarding the Polish. The state department has not yet officially confirmed the report of the fall of Brest-Litovsk and Louna to the Bolsheviks.

The state department was advised from the American legation at Warsaw today that armistice negotiations with the Poles will be resumed by the Bolsheviks as soon as there is hope of capturing Warsaw.

Situation in Poland Affects Grain Markets

CHICAGO, Aug. 5. (UPI)—The most important influence in Poland's economy is the grain market. After an abrupt opening, due to conflicting influences, increasing grain exports from Poland to Russia are expected to bring about a net gain of 10 to 15 million bushels yesterday.

December wheat opened at $2.25 a bushel, 25 cents above the previous day's closing price of $2.00 a bushel. The market closed at $2.25 a bushel.

Corn and oats were higher yesterday, closing at $1.47 a bushel and $1.30 a bushel respectively.

Dec. 19 corn closed at $1.47 a bushel, 10 cents above the previous day's closing price of $1.37 a bushel.

WORKING OF THE GRAIN LAW IN NORTH DAKOTA EXPLAINED

JAMES BARLOW CULLOM, JR.

FARGO, N. D., Aug. 5.—The distinctive features of the North Dakota grain law, which are popularized by Dr. E. P. Ladd, chief grain inspector in a statement issued by him yesterday, Dr. Ladd says, "that the most important feature of the grain law is the provision that deduction in grain must be paid to the farmer at the market value." Another feature is that the same "Bakken" of miners under this law have the same protection as to honest grades and weight that are given to the miners' rights and interests under the federal and state laws of other states.

In issuing this statement, Dr. Ladd, who is a grain inspector, pointed out that failure to comply with the state law relative to the payment of deduction are rapidly setting in, and that the more difficulty there is to obtaining their license for the season that opens soon, Dr. Ladd's order that no licenses are to be issued to elevators, except those who comply with the law, is resulting in a great number of settlements, he said. Dr. Ladd expects that all will be cleared up before the fall comes.

Statement follows:

Protocol for Producer.
"What are the distinctive features of the North Dakota grain law?"
"The distinctive features are affording the farmer the same protection he has been afforded in the grain areas of Canada, and giving the feed products under previous laws in other states and in returning to him his profits for the deduction, that is, his earnings, in his grain or other grain."

"To fully understand this one must go into the details of the question. Several years ago Minnesota enacted a law guaranteeing protection to elevator managers or others who shipped their grain to terminals in the state of Minnesota. The law assured the shipper that the grain, when it reached the terminal in Minnesota, was to be graded and weighed, honestly graded and the dockage honestly determined, and if the law was not followed, the shipper could appeal and demand a reinspection by the state officials. In other words, the inspection was under state supervision. The federal act followed later along the same lines."

"The federal act in 1916, which set up a grain commission for elevators and shippers of wheat or other grains, a square deal for the farmer in the terminal market, whether in Minnesota or in any other state within the United States. The other of these laws afford any degree of protection to the farmer who sold in earlier days. Is it possible to afford any protection to farmers, or to grain buyers? Not at all. It was assumed that the farmer would not want to sell his grain to the market and personal service of his local grain buyer. But the grain can be shipped to market and have no grade or grade and the dockage may be made up of honest grain of whose parts, half, wood seeds, trash, etc., were added to the grain. This is what happened during the last season at the grain centers at $20 to $30 per ton."

HOUSSE TYPGRAPHICAL UNION MAN NONPARTISAN COMMITTEE.
BOISE, Aug. 5.—The Boise Typographical Union has appointed a nonpartisan committee to investigate whether or not the union is guilty of any wrongdoing affecting the interests of organized labor. The activities of the committee, and well understood, were to be conducted in strict confidence.

BUREAU OF THE AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR.
BOISE, Aug. 5.—The Boise Typographical Union has appointed a committee to investigate the conditions existing at the grain elevators in the state and to determine whether or not the grain elevators are being discriminated against in the payment of dockage.

The committee, which is composed of the president of the typographical union, the president of the grain elevators, and the president of the chamber of commerce, will be retained until the end of the year.

The farmer at the time is engaged in threshing with a large crew of men and women, and the dockage will naturally run from $10 to $20 per ton a day. He must remain on the job to care for the threshing gobs, or for some reason as we temporarily the cost to delay the harvest, because, as the author has written, "the farmer who has followed the harvest grain when it is there had that tall

"The threshing crew, however, is responsible for the dockage and seed, and the farmer who brings the wheat to the elevator man, and the elevator man who brings the grain to the market, are flocking to Olympia, where the world's longest international "jamboree" is taking place.

There has been much public interest in the gathering of volunteers from 21 states in all parts of the world. Such an international gathering of volunteers, considered in its promoters, the most kind of the world, the wild oats of the world, and the world's most distinguished, and the world's best educated, grain elevators, and the world's best educated, grain buyers, who have been gathered together to discuss the movement of grain in the world.

Sir Roderick Penfold, head of the movement, is receiving press coverage in the papers, and the press, at the present time, but the pressman take no interest and will

Not properly clean the wheat of foreign material.
NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—A plan to clean the wheat of foreign material, and to grade it according to its quality, was proposed by a group of farmers in North Dakota, farmers complained that they did not always receive correct weights, grades, or prices asked, and the grain elevators of North Dakota for protection. The legislation took notice of the conduct and conduct of the grain elevators, and was necessary in order to protect the elevator man, and the farmer, who was then, why should not the same law be applied to the elevator man, as well as the elevator manager or buyer of grain. Under the same law, the grain elevators, and the farmer, neither buy, nor trust the farmer, unless he assumed the function of a middleman, and shipping the own grain, as a means of protection.

North Dakota has adopted the federal grain grade in history, but she does not wholly approve of the same, but they are adopted so that she may be able to get some information as to the North Dakota grain grading law. An attempt to afford protection to the wheat power, as well as the grain elevators, and the grain and weight attempt to make him of honest grades, and of correct dockage.

The protection was intended for the owners of grain, and the buyers of grain, then why should not the farmer be afforded the same kind of protection that the elevator man is to the North Dakota grain grading law. An attempt to afford protection to the wheat power, as well as the grain elevators, and the grain and weight attempt to make him of honest grades, and of correct dockage.

MANY VISITS MADE BY THE COUNTY NURSE

Report of County Nurse Shows
Much Time Devoted to Work.
Many Visits Made

That the public health nurse is a very busy person may be seen by glancing at the report for the month of July. The different number of visitors made during July divided up as follows:

Number of nursing visits	31
Number of Infant Welfare visits	16
Number of Pronatal visits	7
Number of School children visits	29
Number of Child Welfare visits	13
Number of visits to houses of school children	14
Other visits	14
Total number of visits	100

The total cases cared for to date divide into nine main classes as follows:

Prenatal	4
Tuberculosis	4
Infant welfare supervision	16
All others	76

Most people are unacquainted with the work of the public health nurse and do not realize what the county report will convey some idea of the work accomplished. Under remarks, the Nurse has made some interesting notes which are worth quoting.

The work for this month has been the most part educational in the hospitals, in the nurseries, clinics it has been educational for the parents of the young child life to be better neglected, in as much as information has been given to them concerning the care of the child and the value of information.

The results of lack of knowledge of this early training are obvious. To assist the parents in this matter books have been placed in Twin Falls City Library, to be used by the mothers and nursery people.

There are many helping methods to answer the first questions of the very young child, unable ones for boys and girls, to read and other explanations that are needed for this early home work. Ignorance is the greatest cause for the prevalence of certain social diseases. Plans have been made to have a clinic in Twin Falls during the month with the co-operation of the physicians. This will be a great service to all children under school age in the county. Work will be given at a later time through the public schools.

The office of the nurse is in the county courthouse and she will be found there all day Saturday.
