SIX TEAMS VIE TO WIN FIRST

Race for Entry Into the World Series Is Growing More Keen Each Day

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—The baseball race for entry into the World Series is growing more keen each day. To six teams in the major leagues, striving for a successful finish, the chances can be either good humored or arduous.

These are the days when luck—good or bad—will furnish material for the entire winter league season. A muffed fly now, a strained tendon or a home run may change the complexion of the race.

One of the first serious tilts of the season was timed yesterday at the Cleveland club when that clever shortstop, Ray Chapman, was beset by Carl Spillane of the Yanks on later play. The tragedy puts it up to the Clevelanders to win a new infield into the machine he had not working so well.

Despite the fact world series reservations are being accepted by Cleveland, there probably will be many anxious moments before the reservations are validated. There is no telling now how the sad accident will affect the later playing of Ray's mate.

FRONT OF 200 MILLS ABLE WITH WARFARE (Continued from page 1) are scurrying over the fields by the score. In this branch of the fighting the Poles have all the honor of it. The armored boats have done their best to cross the river. Their crews, tiring from both up and down the stream rendered attempts at Polish building almost suicidal.

Break led lines The Polish communication also came from the southern front, where they had executed bravely, falling back toward the river. East of Chelm on the southern front Polish troops broke through the enemy line and captured Beresin and Szydlow. The statement said. These operations are not in the Warsaw zone.

300,000 People Homeless A dispatch from Moscow declared the marching Poles had pillaged and burned nearly every village through which they passed. There are "tens of thousands of victims of the pogroms," the message said. Three hundred thousand homeless people were reported seeking shelter in the wake of the fighting. The displaced persons in the Polish hospital, were described as "appalling" as the Poles have not sufficient anesthetics for their own wounded.

New Classes called The Polish classes of 1885 to 1890 have been called to the colors, according to a dispatch from Warsaw where many of the Polish officials have gone. The same message reported that 10 Polish soldiers court-martialed for cowardice, had been executed.

There was no direct word from the Russian negotiations at Minsk. An intercepted Moscow wireless, however, indicated the Soviet plenipotentiary in Warsaw, M. Litvinov, include in the peace terms a "demanding that the Polish plenipotentiary be armed so their rights would be guaranteed."

It is not only our duty to make the right known but to make it prevalent.—EDMUND BURKE.

HARDING AS AN EDITOR

The following, written by E. McCormick, gives a close-up view of Mr. Harding. Mr. McCormick is a member of the staff of Mr. Harding's paper, the Marion Star. The article was written in response to a request to present the republican nominee as an editor, and is as follows:

"It is somewhat difficult to write of Mr. Harding under the caption of 'The loss as an editor,' for the reason that every worker on the Star realizes how distasteful the word 'loss' is to him when applied to himself in connection with members of The Star force.

The young workers on The Star think and speak of him as Mr. Harding; the older think of him and love him as 'W. G.'.

We take it that you wish to know Mr. Harding, the editor, rather than the editorial writer. Perhaps I can give you the best light on him as the former by giving you the little talk he makes to a new desk man coming to The Star. It is not always in the same language, of course, but the substance practically is the same. Here it is:

"Remember, there are two sides to every question. Get both. Be truthful. Get the facts. Mistakes are inevitable, but strive for accuracy. I would rather lose one story exactly right than a hundred half wrong. Be decent, be fair, be generous; never vindictive; boast; don't knock. There's good in everybody. Bring out the good. Never needlessly hurt the feelings of anybody. In reporting political gatherings, give the facts. Tell the story as it is, not as you would like to have it. Treat all parties alike. If there is any politics to be played, we will handle it in our editorial columns. Treat all religious matters reverently. If it can possibly be avoided, never bring ignominy to an innocent woman or child in telling of their misdeeds or misfortune of a relative. Don't want to be abused, but do it without the abusing. And, above all, be clean. Never let a dirty word or a suggestive story get into type. I want this paper so conducted that it can go into any home without destroying the innocence of any child."

THE SUICIDE TOLL

The annual report of the Coroner of the City and County of San Francisco shows that 149 persons committed suicide in the City during the fiscal year ending June 30, last. Thirty-one of the suicides were women and 109 men; 58 were widows and 91 unknown.

Of the total 47 were prompted by illness, 37 temporary insanity, 3 unrequited love, 2 unemployment, 13 financial troubles and 8 domestic difficulties.

The classification of causes no doubt is inaccurate. Perhaps the most significant phase of it is the number placed at 13, who died by their own hand because of financial difficulties. That untold number may rightly be well-nigh include the deaths resulting from unemployment and domestic difficulties. It might not be going too far to add some of the 17 who were prompted by illness to end their lives.

Lack of means to finance the sick and employment period of to take care of unemployment would put those cases under the heading of "financial troubles" while common knowledge that many domestic difficulties are due to impaired finances would lead one to believe, perhaps some of the "domestic" difficulties amounted to finding more or less than poverty.

It is this sort of thing that the Thrift movement fostered by the United States Government is aimed at. It is a movement intended to convince every man and woman that he or she should put aside a certain amount from each pay check during the earning years to provide against indigence in later life.

Folks are apt to forget that the Thrift and War Savings Stamp of our Government, which are still on sale at Post Offices and Banks, really present an unequalled opportunity to the wage earner to invest small sums at a good rate of interest with perfect security. As the people awake to their true interests and the post war hysteria of extravagance dissipates itself, we may look to this war born Thrift movement to flower into a great institution involving the lives and happiness of hundreds of thousands of persons economically independent with years of savings invested in the securities of their Government.

It will cut down the number of suicides. It will build men's houses and educate families. It will teach men that saving is more important than earning.

"Governor Cox Arrested for Speeding?" Probably thinking that if he didn't fancy someone might move the Whitehouse.

A communique from Warsaw is far from being comic.

The only wages that men have no desire to draw are the wages of sin.

There are two sides to every question but that's no reason the other fellow should always be on the wrong side.

When Villa becomes a farmer we wonder what kind of an offensive he's going to wage against the potato bugs.

"You can't," says Hurta. "Can't," says Lower California.

STOCK DIVIDENDS

No decision of the Supreme court of the United States in recent years has been of greater importance to the financial interests of the country than that handed down on March 8, 1920, in the case of Elliott v. Blythe. This decision has given rise to numerous inquiries to just what stock dividends are for the purpose of the Internal Revenue Service, and how they are determined and treated, and distinguished from other dividends.

The following ruling, embodied in Treasury decision 2022, covers the questions which will most frequently arise and which are of widest interest to corporations and taxpayers generally.

Where a corporation being authorized to do by the laws of the state in which it is incorporated, distributes a portion of its surplus to capital account, issues new stock representing the amount of the surplus to transferees and distributes such new stock, the stock holders incur no liability for income tax by reason of its receipt.

Where a corporation, being therewith lawfully authorized, increases its capital stock and simultaneously declares a cash dividend in amount to be the same as the increase in capital stock and gives to its stockholders a portion either to keep the money for their own or to reinvest it in new shares of the same class, the stock holders whether they reinvest it in new shares or not:

Where a corporation which is not permitted under the laws of the state in which it is incorporated to issue a cash dividend, increases its capital stock and at the same time declares a cash dividend under an agreement with the stock holders to reinvest the amount of the cash dividend in new shares of capital stock, such dividend is subject to tax as income to the stock holder.

Where a corporation having a surplus accumulated in part prior to March 1, 1913, and being therewith lawfully authorized, transfers to its capital account a portion of its surplus, issues new stock representing the amount so transferred to the capital account and then declares a dividend payable in part in cash and in part in shares of the new issue of stock, that portion of the dividend which will be deemed to have been paid out of the surplus accumulated since March 1, 1913, and is subject, to tax, but the portion of the dividend which is deemed to have been paid out of the surplus accumulated prior to March 1, 1913, and is subject to tax as income.

A dividend paid in stock of another corporation being a part of the assets of the corporation paying the dividend, is held to be income to the stockholder at the time and the same is available for distribution to the full amount of the then market value of such stock. This ruling is based upon the decision of the supreme court of the United States in Franklin State Bank v. Blythe (247 U. S. 347) which was not modified by the case of Elliott v. Blythe. If such stock is subsequently sold by the stockholder, the difference between its market value at date of receipt and the price for which it is sold is additional income or loss to him as the case may be.

The profit derived by a stockholder upon the sale of stock received as a dividend is income to the stockholder and taxable as such even though the stock itself was not income at the time of its receipt by the stockholder. For the purpose of determining the amount of gain or loss derived from the sale of stock received as a dividend or of the stock with respect to which such dividend was paid, the cost of such shares of stock (provided both the dividend stock and the stock with respect to which it is issued have the same rights and preferences) is the quotient of the cost of the old stock or its fair market value as of March 1, 1913, if acquired prior to that date) divided by the total number of shares of the old and new stock.

FINDS NO PROFITEERING
NEW YORK, Aug. 17. A verdict of four guilty was ordered in federal court here by Judge Holmes in the case against Boulton, Becker & Co., Incorporated, and Andrew Boulton, as an individual, charged with profiteering in sugar.

Justice Holmes ruled that an entire sugar transaction, involving 200 tons bought by the Boulton concern in October, 1919, should be considered rather than smaller transactions which had also figured in the trial. The justice said that concerning the sugar deal as a whole, he found no evidence of unfair or unreasonable profit.

WHAT THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE IS DOING

Co-operative farmers' associations in the northern and western states, whose organization was promoted by equity agents, last year effected a saving to the members of $2,424,000, according to reports made to the States Relations Service, United States Department of Agriculture. The governing principle in all activities in the part of equity agents sharing in co-operative movements has been not to act as the direct business agent of the farmer or an organized group, but to assist farmers in determining what form of local organization is desirable and to secure expert assistance, when available, in organization methods. The equity agent also helps guard the community against over-organization, and wherever practical advocates the use of existing methods. The equity agent includes co-operative elevators, creameries, and live-stock selling associations.

On the Trail of Misbranders
Calcium arsenate is the best poison to control the cotton boll weevil. It must be just right or it will kill the cotton. Last year a great deal of poor calcium arsenate was on the market. Some of it contained so much water soluble arsenate that it would kill the cotton and some of it would do little arsenate that it would not kill the weevils. This year the United States Department of Agriculture, acting under authority of the insecticide act of 1910, is bending every effort to check up all shipments of calcium arsenate for use in control of the boll weevil. The insecticide and fungicide board has sent into the south all inspectors who can reasonably be spared from other work and it is their duty to collect samples and send them to the United States at once in the secure of all shipments.

SEARCH OUT THE GERMS OF RHEUMATISM

Find Out What Causes Your Suffering and Go After It.
Some forms of this disease have been found to come from tiny germs in the blood, which get up their colony in the muscles, joints and begin to multiply by the million. You can easily understand, therefore, that the only intelligent method of treating such cases is through the blood.

What are found by the board to be injurious to cotton or are ineffective or otherwise adulterated or misbranded. Not only is the shipper subject to loss of his goods by seizure, but he is also subject to criminal prosecution for adulteration or misbranding. Seizure proceedings are conducted in the courts, where the goods are seized, and the criminal proceedings are brought at the point from which the goods are shipped. The inspectors have the aid of various other branches of the department of agriculture, in (judging the truth of dangerous or inefficient calcium arsenate. The county agents are on the lookout for it. The best weevil laboratory at Tallahassee, Fla. asks all farmers who buy calcium arsenate to send a sample to the laboratory, where it is analyzed. If it is found to be "off color," the nearest inspector is notified and immediately begins preparations for seizure. The event that the defect is serious enough to constitute a violation of the insecticide act.

The system of controlling the weevil by poison has been worked out by years of research, and no effort will be spared to keep it from getting a "black eye" by the use of misbranded, ineffective poison. Experts study Alaska's Animals
A first hand study of Alaskan reindeer and last far-bearing animals is now being made by Dr. K. W. Nelson, chief of the Biological Survey, United States Department of Agriculture, and several specialists belonging to the staff of the bureau. Dr. Nelson will spend from two to three months in Alaska, while the other specialists will be in Alaska under special appointment, acquiring information which will be valuable in the administration of new duties assigned to the department of agriculture by recent acts of congress, namely, the improvement of reindeer herds as a source of meat in the territory, for breeding and protection of land fur-bearing animals, and the control of the one accompanying Dr. Nelson—Dr. Seymour Ludewig—was formerly connected with the health of animals branch of the Canadian department of agriculture. He and a new member of the staff, formerly connected with the Alaska Reindeer Service of the Department of the Interior, are devoting their attention to the disease among the reindeer. Two other members of the party, formerly game examiners with the forest service are investigating the grazing habits of Alaska to determine the regions best suited to the reindeer.

Perhaps You Are, Too

A friend of mine was worn out running around trying to buy a particular something-or-other. Hours had been spent, also strength and temper, and the desired article had not been found.

I asked if a try had been made at such and such a store.

The reply was "No, of course not, they don't carry such things." I disagreed. We went together and found what was wanted.

My friend said: "How did you know?"
"Easy," I replied. "They advertised them last week."

Without seeing the joke, she said: "I never have time to read advertisements. I'm too busy."

Perhaps you are, too. Many people are too busy to take time to save time, trouble, and money. They buy by chance—and hard work.

Reading advertisements is more than a time-saver; it's a good safe investment in information concerning the best thing the market offers you.

YANKS GLEEFUL OVER OUTCOME

Showing Made in Antwerp Races Yesterday Encourage Boys to Do Their Utmost

ANTWERP, Aug. 17.—Encouraged by their impressive showing in the finals of the four hundred metre hurdles and the 100 metre dash, the Americans in the Antwerp international contest were at high tide today.

The fact that Frank Lewis, Chicago clipped a whole second from the previous world record in the 100 metre dash caused the committee to again increase the track. They found it a few inches short of standard. Coach Jack Stockley declared that the same amount was also required of the Americans and was confident they would hang up some more records before the contest was over.

Joe Gray, long distance runner who strained his leg muscles in training on the grass, was better today.

Walker Smith, who was injured by the same amount was also injured and was expected to start in the hurdles.

Bob Butler, the major jumper of Dubuque was hurt in his 100 metre jump today. He strained a tendon in the left leg and was carried off the field. He probably will be unable to compete.

J. B. Pearson of New York finished second in the first heat of the trials for the 10,000 metre walk today. In the second heat he was beaten by New York finished third and W. Plant of New York fourth.

Huller was eliminated in the trials of the broad jump as a result of his injuries. H. L. Tompkins of San Francisco qualified for the American team. Butler's injury was a severe blow to the chances of the Americans in this event. Carl Johnson of the University of Michigan also qualified for the Americans.

Pat McDonald, the New York runner, took most place in the trials for the shot put. McDonald was throwing with his left hand because of a result of an accident to his right hand while practicing in his native city of Antwerp. His throw was 72 feet, 7 inches under that of Nicklander who took first in the trials.

H. Livermore, the navy's short putter, also qualified for the Americans. H. G. Cann of New York, and G. H. Bidman of San Francisco were eliminated.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—A declaration of what he termed "Chicago women reformers" wanted on Frank Lee, Cook county judge, today and demanded he prohibit the smoking of cigarettes by women prisoners.

"I told them the laws were equal for men and women and that I couldn't see why I should interfere," Lee said after the conference.

There are at least 10 women prisoners in Cook county's jail. More than a score of these smoke in their cells, it was reported.

"I am not going to discriminate among prisoners," Lee said.

BRIEF NOTES OF SPORT INTEREST

Should an international yacht race take place between Canada and the United States, it would at least provide a contest in which the challenging "Canadian" team to be built heavy enough to cross the ocean. Under these circumstances, we might have a real race, and for these reasons, there are many yachtsmen who would like to see a Canadian challenger.

Certainly the eyes of the tennis world are focused on William Tilden and William Johnston and there is a mighty lot of interest as to how the two men will come out and Johnston to win either when the national singles championships are played. Tilden went over to Europe practically as a second string man to Johnston, and returned with the Canadian's scalp hanging to his belt, indicating the tennis sensation of the year.

There was considerable shaking of heads among those who know something of conditions in athletics when it was announced that the Dutch was back in the game the day following the news that he had strained his knee while sliding into second base. Confused and puzzled as all very well, but no athlete can afford to ignore nature. Nature demands just as much time to heal a wound or a bruise as Johnston, and with nothing more than the required measure. Many an athlete has ruined a promising future by trying to rush the old game.

Immediately following the request of Frank Behler, promoter of the Ad Standard boxing association, held in San Francisco for the light-heavyweight title of the world, that patrons of the game refrain from betting on the event for the good of the sport, the Greeks began phoning heavily on the chances of their countryman, London. All of which goes to show—nothing you choose. There is considerable difference, however, between two friends risking a wager on the chances of their favorite, and the downright criminal aspect taken on by the professional gambler who throws all honor and decency to the winds in order to have a sure thing proposition. An old college professor used to say that the fellow who gambled on a certainty was a thief and the fellow who gambled on an uncertainty was a fool. Take your choice.

There is considerable shuffling of positions in the Coast league going on, all of which is getting a different aspect on the race as compared to what was going on less than two weeks ago. Shortstop in the Pacific Coast league and the indications at the moment are that several are likely to be sprung in the course of the next couple of weeks.

No matter ones confronted any baseball officials than the one now facing the Pacific Coast league. It is difficult to tell what the outcome of it all will be, but one thing seems to be certain, the hit has been kicked off and the next of fate revealed. And like rats it remains to be seen if any of them are trapped as they will scamper under cover. At least it will break up the nest.

Former lightweight champion Al Voltag said: "I want all my friends to know that I am the old Al Voltag." We know it Al, not only old, but finished abjectly for all time.

Take just four names among the big league pitchers of today and you have touched the high hills. They are Alexander, Walter Johnson, Clarence and Vaughn. Then compare it to the flock that was the most notable decade ago. Christy Mathewson, Stoney Brown, Lester, Philip, McSherry, Jack Flaherty, Frank, Algie, Joe, Denny, Ed Walsh, Billie, Nick Altrock, Chesney, Waddell, Combs, Bernhard, Bill Donovan, Gus, By, Hoades and others, all of whom pitched here and there and shoudered the bunch of today.

All of which reminds us that the hero of today will be forgotten tomorrow. Wonder how many baseball fans there are who could tell what became of the individual members of
