BODY OF BABY BEING SOUGHT

Searchers Are Busy Today Seeking Place Where Coughlin Child Is Buried.

BOG HARBOR, N. J., Oct. 12 (UP).—Spurred early in the morning today marked the trail of the searchers for the body of Baby Blakely Coughlin, hastily buried four months ago by his kidnaper.

A grim little searching party hunted for hours around the place where Pasquale, according to his statement to Major Lynn G. Adams, placed the infant's body after he had accidentally smothered it by buttoning it under his coat while he fled from the Coughlin home at Narragansett, Pa.

George H. Coughlin, father of the baby, was the grimace of all the group. Stern and with a set expression, he stood close by while members of the Pennsylvania state constabulary spaded up the earth.

The searchers were handicapped by the fact that Pasquale's directions were vague. When they left the scene they planned to resume after getting better directions.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 12.—Major Lynn G. Adams of the state police, who announced yesterday that August Pasquale had confessed to accidentally smothering the kidnapped Coughlin baby and burying it, said today he would wait until after the findings of the body before revealing other portions of Pasquale's confession.

It was believed Pasquale implicated other persons in a "kidnaping ring." These persons, it was reported, are under surveillance.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 12 (UP).—Search for the body of Baby Blakely Coughlin may be shifted from Egg Harbor, N. J., to the vicinity of the Coughlin home at Narragansett, Pa., it was indicated at the offices of the Pennsylvania state constabulary today.

LEAGUE PARK, CLEVELAND, Oct. 12.—The Cleveland Indians are champions of the baseball world.

They were crowned on League park field this afternoon when they took the fourth straight game on the home ground, beating the Brooklyn Dodgers, a score of 3 to 0, making the series count five games to two in their favor.

Stanley Covelesko, the Dutch slugger, was a noble hero in a half of fame by pitching his third victory over the Dodgers and shutting them out with five hits. In his three games against the Indians Covelesko allowed a total of fifteen hits—five in each game—and permitted his opponents to cross the plate but twice.

When the game began thousands of fans swarmed to the front of the grand stand and staged one of the most remarkable demonstrations ever seen in baseball. The moment that Sewell and Wandy retired the last Brooklyn player for the final out of the series, Manager Tria Speaker dashed to the stand from his place in center field and embraced his erstwhile mother, who occupied a box. Mrs. Speaker threw her arms around the neck and they kissed each other while the thousands of fans who had swarmed in his wake broke into a frenzy of cheers.

Charles Ebbets, owner of the Brooklyn club, forced his way to the box and shook Mrs. Speaker's hand warmly. He then congratulated the leader of the club that had downed his hope, the big center on the field after thunderous cheers. Finally melted away.

"Treasure Island" Is at Idaho Today

The bold because of "Treasure Island" live again in Maurice Tourneur's remarkable photoplay production of the Stevenson classic, which opened today at the Idaho theatre. Mr. Tourneur is a master when it comes to turning great sea stories into motion pictures. He proved it in "The Little Prince" and "Conrad's Victory." "Treasure Island" confirms this conviction.

The federal government was represented by Dr. R. S. MacIver, director of foreign and domestic commerce, Washington, D. C., and Major J. M. Hitchcock, motor transport division, transportation service, Quartermaster's corps, Washington, D. C.

reproduced the old Benbow Tavern, where Fred young Jim Hawkins and his hunter, the coming of Bill Bone, the rascally sea captain, and later of the black dog, the fight over the chest and the capture of the chart showing the location of Capt. Flint's treasure by Jim; the expedition to seek the buried gold; the mutiny, the battles with the pirates at the stockade, and the final success—all the absorbing episodes that have made Stevenson's book a delight live vividly on the screen.

In the role of young Jim Hawkins, Shirley Mason gives a more charming performance than any boy actor could hope to offer. Lon Chanby is a master of malignity as Pew and Merry. Charles Ogle, Al Fison, and Sydney Dean do fine work. But the chief credit must go to Mr. Tourneur. He has made of this Paramount Artcraft production a picture no one screen lover or hat, can afford to miss.

MAN O' WAR, CHAMPION, AND SIR BARTON TO RACE FOR HONORS

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 12 (UP).—Man o' War proved his claim to the "horse of the century" here today when he defeated Sir Barton over a mile and a quarter track at肯特沃思 park. Clarence Kummer allied the great colt owned by Samuel Hiddle to victory while a crowd of 20,000 cheered wildly.

The race was for a purse of $75,000 and a $5,000 cup, all going to the winner. Man o' War won by seven lengths. Time 2:05.

WINDSOR, Ontario, Oct. 12 (UP).—The tub race in the sport of kings met here today to decide which is trump.

Man o' War, the champion three-year-old, and Sir Barton, four-year-old, met at肯特沃思 track for the largest purse ever offered for a horse race in any country—$75,000 and a $5,000 gold cup to the winner, and nothing to the loser. The race will be run to the post in the fourth race. The race starts at 1:20 o'clock, which will bring the fourth race up between 3 and 3:30.

A third entry in the race will be Wickford, carrying 125 pounds. Hauling home early today were the race would be run in a fast track. A heavy fog had settled over the park during the night, but at 8 o'clock today, conditions were that it would clear. No rain has fallen here for some time.

The race ranks in interest with the great events of history. Man o' War was favored in the betting, due to his wonderful record and the fact that Sir Barton will be carrying 125 pounds to Man o' War's 120.

The meeting of the champions at a mile and a quarter will really determine the thoroughbred championship of America. Extraneous to the only other horse which ranks with the two entries, showed best at a great distance.

A great crowd started flocking toward the track at dawn today. Although arrangements were made to accommodate many thousands, the crowds in Windsor and Detroit hotels last night indicated the track would be able to care for all who wished to see the race.

Both horses were bred in Kentucky. Man o' War by Tale Play-Make, who was unbeaten in nine starts as a three-year-old. He lost only once in nine starts as a two-year-old and that was due to a bad race. He holds three American and two world records for a mile or more. His earnings now total $162,650, and if he wins today's race, they will pass the $200,000 mark. Sir Barton, owned by Samuel D. Hiddle of Philadelphia.

Sir Barton, by Star Shoot-Lady Brenda, made no spectacular showing in his two-year-old. He won the Kentucky derby as a maiden and established his championship of the three-year-olds by winning the Preakness, Metropolitan, Withers, Belmont and Realization. His gross earnings were $89,000 last season. He is owned by the Canadian sportsman, J. K. L. Ross of Montreal.

Clarence Kummer, who has ridden Man o' War in all his three-year-old races except two when he was injured, will have a big up on the champion. Earle Sande, contract jockey with the Ross stable, will pilot Sir Barton.

The winning jockey will receive a special reward of $5,000 from the owner.

Huge sums were wagered on the result, the odds most quoted being 5 to 1 with Man o' War picked to win.

WOODEN SHIPS 100 YEARS OLD. NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Wooden ships do occasionally last a hundred years. Says a sea captain of Pennsylvania, in a recent letter to the Literary Digest. One of them, a schooner, he saw two years ago at a Danish port. It was owned by a former mate who said that he was dog-well with his more than one-hundred year old ship. The captain vouches also for another ship which sailed between Denmark and Greenland from 1801 to 1900. After his sailing days were over, it was used as a restaurant ship and later as a stationary training ship. The letter was written to uphold the claim that there are some century ships.

FIGHTING THE GREAT RED PLAGUE.

THE heavy loss in working days due to the ravages of the Great Red Plague will be one of the most important subjects to be discussed by the All-American Conference that will meet in Washington December 6 to 11 to consult on methods of combating the plague.

The extent of this loss to employers whose working force is depleted, to working men whose pay envelope it depletes, and to the country at large, whose production it reduces, was severely suspected until the army records of the millions of young men examined for the war were studied. Before then it was suspected to be great, but no one imagined that it was anything like so great as it has now been proved to be.

The records show that every thousand men in the army lost an average more than 300 days per year—1,600,000 days for five million soldiers in the prime of life, and the loss was so great among those subject to military discipline and under orders to seek immediate help, how great, it is now asked, must it be among the same men when in civil life no discipline is possible. The ravages of hookworm disease in certain parts of the country are a drop in the bucket compared to the ravages of the Great Red Plague.

Many possible methods of checking the plague in workshops and factories have been suggested and will be threshed out at the conference, which will be attended by the most experienced physicians and administrators that the nations of the three Americas can send. There is today no longer any doubt that medical science now possesses means that would enable it to conquer the Red Plague as completely as it has conquered smallpox and yellow fever if it were given free scope to apply them. The real trouble nowadays arises largely from ignorance and from the hesitation of so many sufferers to seek reliable medical aid until the disease has established itself and has become difficult to dislodge. With modern methods the Red Plague is now definitely curable.

The conditions now confronting the people of this country are somewhat similar to those that confront the British in their work of eradicating the bubonic (black) plague in India. There the first thought of the average native, when stricken by the disease, is to hide himself in the crowded Warrens of the city and to there "die" exposing to his disease every one within reach. With the British as with us the first problem is to induce the victims to come forward before it is too late.

Through the efforts of the U. S. Public Health Service and other agencies in combatting the Red Plague, many of the states in the country have begun to provide facilities where their victims can obtain adequate diagnosis and treatment, including the administration of 606 when required. Much still needs to be done in this direction and it will be one of the aims of the conference to arouse states and municipalities to a recognition of their responsibility to their people.

PROLONGING A CALAMITY.

In the spring of 1912 Col. Henry Watterson said of Woodrow Wilson: "His nomination would be a catastrophe and his election a calamity." The catastrophe happened, and the calamity continues. . . . Baseless charges concerning campaign funds and attacks on a non-existent "secret oligarchy" give no promise of getting the country out of the mess into which Mr. Wilson and his administration have landed it. The calamity that Colonel Watterson predicted will be prolonged by the election of Mr. Cox and the continuation of the Wilson policies. So the voters propose to end it by their ballots. This is the campaign up to date.—New York Tribune.

IS IT TRUE?

IS IT true that a certain prominent official in the customs service stored his household goods in a government building for several months? Is it true that certain government employees under his control were detailed to wrap and pack such household goods? Did they use paper and twine belonging to the government for such purpose? If they did perform such work, was it done when they were supposed to be on duty for the government, and did the government business suffer on account of their absence from official duty? Was such work, if it was performed, done under the supervision of a highly-paid government officer, not the owner of the goods?

ALFALFA WEEVIL IN IDAHO; ITS BEARING ON HAY MARKET

By Claude Wakefield Extension Entomologist, University of Idaho Extension Division.

Alfalfa weevil is known to occur in 22 counties in Idaho but only five of them has it become abundant enough to cause serious injury. While it is causing considerable financial loss to hay growers in a few localities the matter of greatest concern at present is the effect which the weevil has on the alfalfa hay crop.

"Since most of the western states have some sort of quarantine in effect against alfalfa weevil infested with alfalfa weevil, Idaho must look farther away for a hay market and be prepared to lose more hay at home."

It is generally concluded that quarantine will not prevent the ultimate spread of alfalfa weevil to states which are not now infested with the pest and at best they will serve only to retard the progress which it will make in the next year. However, states which are maintaining quarantine against Idaho and other states which are infested with alfalfa weevil are justified in their action if they intend to prevent the alfalfa weevil from even a year of two. In general these states have been reasonably successful in doing so with safety and have endeavored to cause as little hardship as possible to alfalfa weevil infested states. Thus alfalfa weevil has been kept out of Idaho quarantine to prevent their infested counties from shipping hay freely to the rest of the country. The shipping of alfalfa hay unrestricted to those counties known to be infested with alfalfa weevil.

California and the States of Arizona, Colorado, Colorado, Montana, Nevada, Oregon and Washington maintain quarantine against Idaho hay. All existing quarantine against Idaho hay is of California and Washington forbid the importation of Idaho hay in any form except through the regular channels. These two states have modified their quarantine to admit the shipment of alfalfa under various conditions and handled other states are now considering similar modifications. It is not improper to ship Idaho alfalfa to these states if shipped into all states maintaining quarantine against the weevil.

All western, southern and middle-western states will remain open to unrestricted shipping to those of alfalfa hay in any form. The value of alfalfa hay is high, however, is limited by the high freight charges. Quoting from the Weekly Market Bulletin of the Idaho Department of Agriculture for Sept. 24, the interstate commerce commission has raised the railroads a rate of 15 cents per hundred pounds for alfalfa hay to Kansas City and $22 per ton, baled and delivered. It can be seen that alfalfa hay shipped by rail from Idaho to middle western markets would no more than pay transportation and baling charges. Present prices of alfalfa hay in the same markets, the bulletin further states, being the Idaho farmer about $20 per ton from which would have to be deducted the cost of sacks and hauling.

When hay prices fall so that it will be profitable for the farmer to ship to markets farther away than in the immediate surrounding states there is a large surplus of hay in this state which may be offered for sale.

The question arises in the minds of many who are interested in alfalfa hay whether it can be shipped through a state maintaining a quarantine against alfalfa weevil to one which does not. For example, can hay raised in the state of Idaho be shipped through Colorado, which maintains a quarantine to Kansas, which does not? The opinion of the Idaho attorney general is that such shipments come under the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission and as such cannot be dealt with by states through whose shipments are being made and that if Kansas, for instance, is willing to accept hay from Idaho, Colorado cannot prevent the hay being transported across her domain.

WHO WILL FILL CRANE'S PLACE

Choice of Leader of Anti-Lodge Forces May Fall on Ex-Gov. John L. Bates.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 12.—Who will fill the mantle of Murray Crane fall as leader of the anti-Lodge forces in the league of nations? is the question asked in a dispatch to the New York Evening Post, in truth that to-day may mean the critical problem in Massachusetts. Crane's death leaves a void in the leadership of the party as a whole, and the question is asked in a dispatch to the New York Evening Post, in truth that to-day may mean the critical problem in Massachusetts. Crane's death leaves a void in the leadership of the party as a whole, and the question is asked in a dispatch to the New York Evening Post, in truth that to-day may mean the critical problem in Massachusetts.

But there was common understanding in the state that the two men were strongly opposed to each other upon every political question of national policy. No better illustration occurred than at the republican state convention in Worcester, Mass., where the anti-Lodge forces had an open brawl with Lodge, and the two were always on good terms personally, as far as the public knew.

Crane was briefly opposed to an endorsement by the convention of the pulley of Lodge and the other notable opponents of Crane in the state. Crane was a long and strenuous struggle behind closed doors. It ended in a victory for Crane. True to his ideal of progress, Crane is now in the hands of the public, Crane was a long and strenuous struggle behind closed doors. It ended in a victory for Crane. not understand and the extreme difficulty of making headway against Lodge. Crane was ready to meet his death and to cheer themselves hoarse for him at all times. His prestige in Massachusetts, considering the real sentiment and traditions of the state in respect of ideals which are not of Lodge's class, is inestimable. Hence, a quiet, modest and unassuming man like Crane, with his record of practical public work, has been seriously handicapped in making popular headway against Lodge. But he has done it. His personal character and record supported by the ideals in the minds of his friends, made him the successful outcome of the election.

Now comes the searching question: "Will Crane dead, have more influence than Crane living, and be persecuted by poor health?" Careful inquiry shows the death makes it certain that Crane will be supported in a wholly unobscured position. It is vital for the record of Massachusetts that an anti-Lodge leader be found to take Crane's place. For every superior knew, last year, when the two men sat side by side on the floor of the state convention, that Lodge, the eloquent, stirring, eloquent, and the victor was a man who said not a word. This year's convention, up to a certain point, duplicated last year's.

A man in sight is John L. Bates. He was lieutenant governor when Crane was governor and was an avowed ally of Crane's when he was in the house of representatives. He is well known to Crane's standards. Bates became governor after Crane retired from public work, and it was his duty of appointing a successor that Crane and Bates were in the position of the secretary and Crane was his appointee. How the appointment was Crane's subsequent election on his own merits and not as a result of Crane's government, was president of the constitutional convention, as the strong support of Crane's party.

This year Bates was the chairman of the constitutional convention and the republican state convention. As representative of Crane's position on the league of nations, he read the platform of the league and made a motion for its adoption in the senate during the last two years, a resolution which was passed by a large margin. His record in the senate during the last two years carried unanimously regarding the league.

It is evident that the anti-Lodge forces in the state are in a difficult position. It is so strong in the matter of the league that good judges of the state are in no doubt but that the league would have a repoblean majority if it could be separated from politics, even in the form in which it stands. Crane did not pursue the party. He was of the kind to hold the party together and fight out his differences inside the party. But he was so powerful that he carried his point and did not come to terms leaving his party or abandoning his principles. His death leaves a prodigious gap in the moral forces of Massachusetts.

DISCUS BRIGADION PROJECT. GOODING, Idaho, Oct. 12.—Meetings were held at Hildeth, Shoshone and Gooding to consider the best method of completing the Idaho irrigation project. The conference was participated in by H. J. Liffert, attorney general; W. O. Swenson, commissioner of the department of agriculture; and J. E. Hedley, county engineer.

The company and the writers were but requested by the engineers to find any settler had the right to discuss any matter not already included in the engineer's report, it is said. "It is the purpose of the state now, and finally, to secure all available information concerning the project, and then see that it is completed as far as the construction of the works is concerned. There has always been a shortage of water, but affairs will be somewhat better in some way, something definite may soon be accomplished," said Mr. Black.

ANNUAL CLASH TO DRAW CROWD

Idaho University's Football Squad Being Put Through Paces for Big Game.

MOSCOW, Oct. 12.—One of the largest crowds in the history of University of Idaho athletics is expected to greet Idaho's gridiron warriors and their opponents from Washington state at the annual football clash to appear on McLain field October 15 to begin their classic annual encounter.

Idaho alumni from every section of the Northwest already have signified their intentions of answering the summons which call out to meet the yearly struggle with W. S. C. C. always a potent magnet and the 1920 affair has been made particularly significant because the varsity squad will mark the first appearance of an Idaho eleven directed by Coach Thomas Kelley.

Football continues to dominate the undergraduate opinion on the Idaho campus despite an unbounded faith in the abilities of Coach Kelley and search of stellar material, particularly in the line, and the almost microscopic character of the varsity squad. It was principally rejoicing over the gloomy sentiments expressed in respect to run well over 50, the school has never numbered more than 35.

It was announced today that George B. Spang, sporting editor of the Spang Chronicle and leading local sportsman, will referee in the West. He will handle the Idaho-Washington game last season, after which he will referee in all of the important Pacific coast conference games. Various other referees in the Northwest are expected to be present. Harvard staged at Pasadena. Some little interest has been aroused by the imbroglio between the two freshmen and Lewiston high school, which has been planned as a trial pinner for the afternoon of the football event. Lewiston is said to be one of the ablest teams it has fielded for several seasons and the Idaho pressings are expected to be efficient machines. Their encounter is expected to be almost as well worth watching as the varsity battle. Idaho undergraduates are beginning their preparation for the bonfire and rally which traditionally precedes the great bonfire.

Stanley Coveleski, the Polish pitcher, winner of two of the Indians' four games, was looked upon as the deliverer today. He was the victor yesterday's one to nothing victory over the Indians convinced Cleveland fans they had the champion of the diamond in their hands. They feared the marauder southpaw, Sherry Smith. But they gave him the same dose others got. Smith's side on the job with the trial of Sunday's immortals. Elmer Smith, Bill Wambusch and Jim Dwyer. The Indian faithful have elected Smith, Mike and George Dwyer. The "Dwayer," a newcomer to the American league, shut out the Indians in a crucial game, and Brian, the ex-athlete, turned the tide with a double that several speakers with the only run of the day.

Sherry Smith pitched a game of ball that would put nine contests out of him. "Dwayer" Smith pitched one that would shut out ten and still win. Mike did not have an easy task. Captain Controne, coupled with confidence in their own pitching staff, had been from several tight places. His defense collapsed in the second inning and he found himself in hot water with the bases full and two outs.

"Dwayer" then proceeded to pitch a shut-out as a try to be successful. He pitched himself out. A trip back to Brighton tomorrow to watch the series is considered out of the question by the Indians and by the followers. They are sure of winning the fifth victory here this afternoon and bringing the second world championship in a row to Idaho.

Some prospects had at this morning. Coach Manning's assistant, Harry Morgan, has his star pitcher back in an effort to detour the supporters. They shared it with Margaret, of Monart.

CLEVELAND IS ALL READY TO RECEIVE FLAG

Indiana Are Certain That They Will Gather in World's Championship.

By Henry L. Farrell, Editor Press Staff Correspondent, CLEVELAND, Oct. 12.—This was "discovery day" in Cleveland. The Indian town stepped for the first time upon received ground. It found a noisy, clamorous, happy band of the Indians and their followers, ordered new silk for a world's first time. Perhaps it was done out of time that they've got a word in the book today who doubt that Trip Hooker and his Indians are just the kind of the diamond.

A few days of great wins on the home reservation, making the count by now four to Brooklyn's two, there was nothing but the thought of a final victory on the loom for that will finish the tie.

MEN ARE UNDER HARD PRACTICE

University of Idaho and Washington State College Meet on Gridiron Oct. 15.

MOSCOW, Oct. 12.—Strenuous practice scrimmages were the means by which the University of Idaho football team to hammer his men into condition for their opening game of the 1920 season, an affair with Washington state college to be played on Moscow Oct. 15.

Particular stress is being placed on the development of the Idaho line, Coach Kelley believing that his guards and tackles must be able to give a hard, smothering game if the Silver and Gold eleven is to make a creditable showing against Coach Welch's veteran Washington State team.

Reports from Pullman are thought to indicate that the W. S. C. eleven will be stronger this season than it was in 1919, when only a succession of injuries and unfortunate luck broke the record of the team.

Elaborate preparations are being made for entertaining the large crowd expected to overflow McLain field on the afternoon of October 15. Particular attention is being extended to the long established custom, will stand on masts, and Lewiston, Nez Percé, Orofino, Patlatka, Troy, Geneva, Grangeville and other towns in this section are expected to send substantial delegations.

Under present arrangements, the afternoon's curtain-raiser, a game between the university freshmen and

How We Care For Your Meat Cars... When you see a Swift Refrigerator Car going by in a train, it seems a simple thing that it should be carrying fresh meat up and down the country.

Like most of the packer activities which contribute to your welfare, you are so used to having this going on uninterrupted, day in, day out, throughout the year, that you are likely to take it as a matter of course.

When the car is thoroughly cleansed we put in 5,000 pounds of ice. But that is only preliminary. It only cools the car to the proper temperature.

Then the meat is hung on the sterilized hooks and the load of food is ready for its journey. It arrives as it leaves, clean, fresh, wholesome, appetizing and your meat supply goes on unaffected by seasons or weather.

Swift & Company, U. S. A. This is only a part of the service which Swift & Company furnishes, at a profit to itself so small—averaging a fraction of a cent per pound on all products over a period of years—that if the profit were handed on to the consumer, it would make a difference of less than a nickel a week in the meat bill of the average American family.
