LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16.—Madeline Oberhansle and Arthur C. Hurch, who will be tried together, also will be defended by one corps of attorneys, headed by Ralph Osgood, sometime law partner of the late Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, who was originally retained as Mrs. Oberhansle's counsel, it was revealed here today.

It was disclosed that the defense bar, originally stipulated that he would not take the case unless Madeline and Hurch were tried together.

The defense plan, which was to have been adopted by the defense bar, for both sides today, included Attorney John Curran, who has been representing Hurch in the defense, and it was decided to merge the trials.

Davis claimed that he

ELECTRICS ARE WINNERS OVER I. D. S. OUTFIT

Kromel Holds Losses to Three Wins; Darkness Closes Game in Sixth

The Electricians gave the I. D. team

one field, the score being 8-10-1, thus providing another of the two most dramatic football games of the season.

The wins started out with a kick-off, and although they were not the best, they were the best at the most unexpected moment. They played with pep and speed last night and won.

Kromel took the lead, and had the "steam" going out of his hands to play and answer the three losses.

The game was called in the sixth account of darkness, so we don't know what would have been if it had been, had they started it, but the umpire thought that it was too dark to continue the play of the players and ended the safety.

Browne threw for the I. D. and was very good, but when he did, the team made a record behind him. Every member of the Electric made one or more hits excepting Lewis.

It was the fact that the fans were still rooting all after the Sunday game at Butte.

Chairman Lasker of the shipping board asked Congress for $125,000,000 to meet deficits for the next five months. The congressional committee to which that plan was referred, is calling for cutting $125,000,000 to $43,000,000. That's a good start toward economy in shipping board operation, providing it isn't just talk. But Congress and its committees have the bad habit of talking highly about economy and their quickly making extravagant appropriations. If all the money that Congress has talked about saving during the past few months were actually saved, nobody would have to worry much about taxes.

The only bird that lives in a hut in the ocean—and he doesn't amount to much. This bit of wisdom is dropped by E. K. Corrigan, president of the National Builders' Supply Association, who is urging people to build their own houses. He insists you can build a house cheaper this year than you can next year. Of course this argument might be taken with a grain of salt from man in his fits of "business" fat, he adds the interesting comment: "A home isn't a money investment. It's an investment in happiness, comfort and good citizenship. You really can't feel like a family unless you live under your own roof." And anyone by land which and sacrifice can acquire a home somewhere.

Come the days when many young men and women of Twin Falls must finally whether they will spend four years or more in college. A recent issue of the national journal of a great college fraternity "recently" voted for its scholarship, fraternized, as customary, with members who had died. Most notable of these was that of the late Champ Clark who rose to be speaker of the house and narrowly missed the presidency. Also it carried an item that "averted" customer found more than 200 fraternity pins in a New York pawnshop where they had been brought by college men who had failed. The fact is, a college can't make brains. It merely can train them. It usually makes a smart man sharper; a fool the bigger fool.

PUTTING NEW MEN TO WORK

"The old-fashioned city" was always slow to recognize new men. If a fellow moved into a place, it was felt he should take a walk back for several years." Older residents felt jealous when a young man joined my society. He was supposed to keep him for a time and let others have the honors.

In business organizations today the tendency is to push ahead the new members, and new residents in the city and get them to work for the community as quickly as possible. In the Lincoln, Neb., chamber of commerce, for instance, when a new member is elected he is at once put on the membership committee. As a result of the huddle displayed by these new members, this organization secured 180 obligations in four months.

Communities that put new residents to work promptly are apt to develop a bunch of hustlers. After a fellow has lived in a place for a time and has an assured social and business position, he is apt to be reluctant to take up public work. When he first starts in and desires to make friends, he is in the mood to do good community work. Let us give our new people Twin Falls every chance to show what they can do.

THE GROWTH OF ADVERTISING

The way multitudes of business houses have gone to work and fortune through the pathway of advertising would make a volume equal to the most glowing fiction.

A large manufacturer or food specialties had used magazine advertising for some time, and found a little distribution everywhere, but his line was not much of a factor in any place. In Chicago 250 grocers were handling his product in 1919. A newspaper campaign was planned, and the salesmen went from store to store telling them of the product and of the way the thing was going to be advertised in that city. More than 1000 dealers were sold an aggregate of 25,000 cases of the goods before the advertising began to bear fruit. Then came the staff advertising, they knew from experience what could be done by such a advertising campaign. They knew the public would call for the advertised product, and they did not want to confess themselves behind the game by not having it.

The advertising manager of the Ford Motor company says that an announcement occupying 300 lines of advertising in 118 newspapers, costing the company less than $1000, was the big factor in selling 338,771 automobiles.

The Chevrolet Motor company estimates that it received returns worth $20,000 from an inside-page advertisement in a San Francisco newspaper. A newspaper advertisement costing $25 brought the Western Motor Car company of Los Angeles sales of 205 cars worth $96,115.

Human nature is precisely the same in Twin Falls as in Chicago or New York or San Francisco. If you have a good thing to sell, you must advertise. Whether it is a story, a poem, a picture, a song, a speech, a book, a play, a drama, a musical comedy, a big automobile or food product, business or a retail store,

THE OLD HOME TOWN

THERE WAS A STAMPEDE AT THE NOTION STORE TODAY—WHEN A MOUSE JUMPED OUT OF A BOLT OF CALICO.

DRAWING THE LINE

Oh, every mortal sin has had its grip on me, and I've known what a pall mein' What's taking honest men. In Troy I had to leave, in Kansas I had mumps, and here in San Diego neurosis. I'm not a gambler, but I'm a gambler. I'm not a drunkard, but I'm a drunkard. I'm not a glutton, but I'm a glutton, and that confound' I might seize, but everywhere I wander I have some new Gleam. In Major I had the shingles, in Illinois the ergot, and when I wrote my jingle they were not worth a whoop. And all throughgut the nation the surges—would my door, and said, "An operation will make you half the man you are, let's carry you off to the hospital." And when I went to the hospital to wash a bone, a doctor and friends and neighbors told me to try the surgeon's knife, but I refelct, "Behold me—I'm still as large as life!" And when King Death rebukes my soul from this tomb truck, I still not die in peace—I'll perish in one chunk."

The surgeon stills are howling for every known disease and over the hand they're screwing the rawdell heads and knest; they boast their earning rate, and off I wonder why, for invinty they are pretty sure to die.

The world is a drawing room, and the world is a drawing room, but I'm a drawing room, and the world is a drawing room.

GRACEFUL AND SIMPLE

Fashion's last word for the development of figure-consciousness is said in this year's designs. The slender, trim, girl who was being seen today was reported to have been the first to appear in the first degree. She is a survivor of Lance Poole, following the shooting of Mrs. Poole, which was murder instead of his wife. She was once her companion as an automobile. Mrs. Poole appeared extremely weak though. Edgar died to death from his injuries, and the coroner said there were no other blows inflicted on him.
