Now is the time to write to your friends and invite them to celebrate the Fourth of July in Twin Falls. There will be some doing here worth while that day and your friends will enjoy looking over the best little city in the west.

The banquet given last evening in honor of Miss Georgia Maxwell was a fitting tribute to her splendid work here as superintendent of the Twin Falls county hospital. She conducted this institution in an up-to-date fashion and during the years to come many a former patient will sing her praises to the skies. Generally speaking we are never appreciated until we pass on to another field of endeavor.

It has been computed that one who possesses a United States $5 bank note could exchange it for Moscow rubles, secure a license to marry, make an application for divorce, change his name, change his place of residence, change his citizenship, and buy two pounds of butter and have more than one-fourth of his stock of paper money remaining.

Generally speaking, during these loan years the number of candidates for political office is exceedingly large, but it seems that this year there is quite a dearth of candidates on both sides. The American people are drifting away from political office and there's a reason. The majority of these positions do not pay as much as a mediocre man can earn on the outside and there is no way to take all the kicks and curses of the public because you are holding a position of public trust.

People were greatly pleased with the announcement in The Times yesterday afternoon to the effect that the Amalgamated Sugar company would make their usual run this fall. This will mean that about $200,000 will be paid out in Twin Falls county for beefs, labor, etc. Such payrolls are not trifled with and we are glad that the managers of the Amalgamated Sugar company are enabled to secure enough beefs to eat. The acreage is rather small we understand in this vicinity but we are at least glad it is as large as it is.

An American syndicate has just purchased the "Meatless" of the ex-Kaiser for $250,000, and plans to publish them to the world. Think of it; the greatest criminal in the world since the days of Bolshevik and yet his memoirs bring the magnificent sum of a quarter of a million dollars. The congress of the United States should prohibit such junk to pass through the mails and why, any one thinks that the innocent people of this nation should wish to read such a story is more than this little papa can figure out. Why your congressman and senator today and urge them to see that this book is prohibited from the mails.

AIRPLANE WILL REVOLUTIONIZE

NEXT AGE

In cleaning house this spring, maybe you ran across the old family album. If so, you had a laugh at the peculiar clothing styles and sordid expressions on the faces of former generations.

Did it ever occur to you that our photographs are going to get the "merry ha-ha" when future generations discover them in some obscure nook of the airship houses that will be in use 50 or 100 years from now?

The marvels of today will be laughably old-fashioned later on. It is hard for us to believe this. That has always been the way. Vanity being eternal, each generation—while laughing at the past—is cock-sure that the present is "the real thing."

You have read Mark Twain's satire, "A Connecticut Yankee at King Arthur's Court." Its film version moves much subtler than the illusory effect of a modern American transposed back into time 1400 years, unbowing armored knights with a lasso and knocking them down like nine-pins, with a bliven.

The stately dignity of the ancients, in farce, front the 1822 viewpoint.

At lumber mills, teams used to haul boards to box cars, where they were leisurely transferred by ronabots.

At a modern mill, the lumber is carried out to the box car on a long conveyor belt, a sort of endless moving platform. The lumber comes in a steady stream. An efficiency expert has calculated how fast the loader at the ear should work, and the belt is geared accordingly. The loader works at a set speed or gets buried under incoming boards.

We regard this arrangement solemnly. But, having all the elements of humor, it will make future generations howl.

In the future, automatic machinery and inventions will free man from industrial slavery. Cheap, fast-flying airplanes will enable all to live in the country. Cities at night, will be deserted groups of factory buildings.

Very temporarily imprisoned in cramped apartments or small houses, we shall seek to our descendants. Daily we go to work in our prison cells, to pound typewriter keys, push a pen or perform monotonous operations with machinery—when we might all be free in the outdoors of a farmland.

Will the future consider us laughable, pathetic or crazy? It's a good thing the average person's sense of humor is not highly developed. Otherwise we might either revolt against the stupidity of civilization—or laugh ourselves to death at our dignified solemnity.

MURPHY GUILTY OF ATTEMPT AT EXTORTION CHARGE

Man Who Tried to Get $200 from Van Cost Admits Effort to Blackmail in Related Court—Will Be Sentenced Monday.

Dawson Murphy, at noon today entered a plea of guilty to the charge of attempting to extort $200 from Van Cost, president of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, by means of two threatening letters which were sent at different dates, giving dire warning that he would expose the secret of his association with Van Cost if he were not paid.

After the plea was received, Mr. Barker and Attorney W. H. Green of the office of the District Attorney and lawyer of American Falls spoke. Mr. Miller retorted, condoning the position of the defense and eliciting a point of view.

Other people who were met by the Twin Falls committee promised active support.

New Possibilities Mentioned in the Political Field

Following the appearance of the "Twin City yesterday," relative to candidates, prospective, discussed or in the hands of their friends, several persons in the community said that had "been mentioned" etc., various others. These included Captain E. L. Ladd, for county auditor; Charles K. Goss, for state auditor; Dan Connor of Plier for representative; and also for nomination attorney for that place; James A. Duran, three-times county surveyor, for the same position again. These names were mentioned because they were recently strongly urged for the position of state auditor but declined.

Judge Cleve D. Birtles of Plier was in the lead, according to the report.

Second "leader" was received, telling Dr. Van Cost to place the money up "so he could not sell it there" on Feb. 15, he said.

A second letter was deposited and the sheriff forced again to file. Early this morning, Murphy, who had been getting the letter, while reading it, was approached by Deputy Sheriff S. H. Hanchett. On seeing the offer of $200, Murphy agreed to give him $100 on the understanding that he would not prosecute him.

Hanchett, upon receiving the information, telephoned the office of the attorney general, who advised him to withdraw the letter.

Murphy's wife and little child, Murphy has no wife and little child. He pleaded lack of money as a reason for his act.

AMUSEMENT SCHEDULE IS ENDORSED BY THE COUNTY FAIR BOARD

Men Look Back and Fall Into Clutches
of Deputy Ormaby

Because they looked back, not will long the wife of the man who was last night arrested and placed in jail, Frank Wilson, of Plier, was forced into his pillar and held a company to do a larger business than that. Mail orders promptly filled those mail boxes were now on the way to the home of the man who did right. That is why we do the business.

Dr. Van Cost brought them their car, and the nation of liquid refreshment into the city.

He was up Rock Creek looking for a spot for yesterday afternoon when he saw a man in a yellow coat, drove into a little yellow car. They looked back with some evidence of alarm, which aroused the interest of the man who was the man to whom he had given his car.
