ORGANIZATIONS TAKE COMMENDABLE ACTION

The action of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs in uniting for the purpose of pushing through the Idaho Central railroad in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce is commendable. It is right and proper that the people should know what the movement for the road amounts to and this information can only be obtained through the public utility commissions of the states interested. It does not make much who builds the connecting road to the south, so long as it is built. If the Idaho Central Railroad company has the means of constructing it within a reasonable time and can produce evidence of that fact, it naturally has precedence over others. The important thing is to get the road.

TAFT MAKES GOOD SUGGESTION

Promptness and simplicity in judicial proceedings, urged by Chief Justice Taft, when speaking on the subject before the American Bar Association, is altogether commendable.

Commenting on the proposed "teamwork between Judges," plan, Taft said:

"The proposed bill would end an absurd condition which has hitherto prevailed, under which each district judge has had to decide his own case. This one judge has broken himself down in attempting to get through an impossible docket, while another lets the arrears grow, in a calm, philosophical contemplation as an inevitable necessity that need not cause him to remain awake nights."

"Appeals should be frowned on whenever possible as they delay justice and impose an unfair burden on the poor litigant. The costs have been made very heavy and that puts the privilege of appealing and frequently delaying justice within the reach of the longer wits."

Taft suggested that lower federal courts might be relieved of cases based on diverse citizenship, where the defendant lives in one state, and the plaintiff in another. A theory has been advanced, Taft said, that citizens of one state no longer encounter prejudices in the courts of another state so there is no longer any reason for going to the federal courts with cases of this kind.

WESTERN EXECUTIVES' PATRIOTIC STAND

(JAMES D. WHELAN.)

"Railroad executives believed hopelessly divided on the plan of President Harding to refer the seniority rights of the striking shopmen to the United States railroad labor board met here today to agree on a reply to the president."

L. F. Lorce, president of the Delaware and Hudson railroad led the 'Older end' contingent of executives who went into the conference room to turn down the administration's latest project for ending the rail strike.

"Other executives, it was believed, were in favor of drawing up a counter proposal. Many western executives subscribed to this plan."

So reads the early United Press dispatch from New York today. So far the eastern railroad executives have dominated the situation and have forced the issue in such a way that immediate governmental control under conditions most favorable to the roads seems at hand. The western men appear to be between two fires. If they go it alone and reach a settlement as certain coal operators seem about to do, they cannot make connections should the eastern railroads fail to function. Hence, their very evident hesitancy in fully agreeing to the Harding conditions. It remains to be seen how far they can affect the situation, by declining to concede what the eastern executives seem determined to demand.

Dairy and Cheese Men Leaving Praising Twin Falls and Country

The dairy and cheese men, with their wives and families, officials and a corps of newspapermen left yesterday afternoon, after bivouacking night and day, for the coast to the south and its surroundings. Three of the newspapermen visited the Times of course, and were invited to relieve the editor of his burden of news, the force and volunteer to give the paper a "writing of the year." Some of the attaches, gave the editor a "handy book" telling him that the impeding looking gentlemen who presided at the Roosevelt hotel lunch hour, were the best men in the country, and he reluctantly accepted the mistaken information. Shad L. Hodges, president of the chamber of commerce, accompanied the delegation.

The delegation was accompanied to this city by J. P. Morgan, Jr., Lee Eastman, Dr. Cunningham, Mr. Barker, Mr. H. H. Brooks, Mr. F. C. Peck, H. H. Brooks and J. G. Adams.

worth, North Dakota; Thomas W. Wilson, Virginia.

HAN PHANICO, Aug. 11—Complaints of the service occupied a large part of the day's session of the annual meeting of the American Bar association, in session here. The reported reports were delivered by Alexander W. Macmillan, Justice of the Supreme Court of Minnesota; Frederick E. Wachana, Change of State of Plaintiff, Insurance, Commercial Law; George H. Foster, Internal Revenue Law and its Method of Collection; Charles Henry Davis, Aviation Laws Prepared.

The committee on the Law of Aviation, like its predecessor of last year, has temporarily and perhaps permanently decided against amending the Constitution of the United States to prohibit the jurisdiction over aeronautics to the federal government.

The committee declared that the association would cooperate with federal and state authorities "to the end that governmental action may result which will bring about a general system of airmail in the United States, thereby contributing to our national preparation for the strengthening of national defense."

The committee pointed out that the association would oppose any amendment to the constitution with reference to airmail.

The committee also voted to the necessity of amending laws by changing the name of the law to "Aviation Law."

"In its judgment, the question was whether the proposed amendment was in accordance with the spirit of the federal legislation," with reference to employment, liability, when airmail became payable, or whether it would interfere with the Patent and Trademark Considered.

The association is preparing drafts of bills to be introduced in Congress to change the present chaotic state of patent, trademark and copyright laws.

On aeronautics, the committee was made by a special committee investigating the law.

The study of the law has taken two years.

The committee also voted that it efforts to have salaries of patent office employees raised had been successful.

An attempt will be made to codify and revise the Patent and Trademark laws.

The committee also voted that the proposed bill is to be introduced in a particular chaotic state.

The present federal statutory law of trademarks is considered to be a number of acts of Congress which are difficult to find. Anyone who had occasion to refer to some statute on trademarks will find it difficult to do so.

In an attempt to learn what they mean, one reads the cases and the statutes and finds that they are piled, bewildered. It is increased because there is no reconciling, the documents.

The committee voted that a trading establishment can have, and trademarks are not to be registered, unless it is used with the committee declared. Trade marks are the essence of competition, because they mark products as the property of the trader.

Trade marks are to be registered by the buyer. Trade marks announce the maintenance of quality by securing to the producer the benefit of a good reputation which excellence creates. To protect trade-marks, therefore, it is necessary to register them and to secure the business community the advantages of reputation and good will.

Those who have created them to those who have not. This is the end to which the proposed bill will be directed.

RADIO CONCERT SUCCESSFUL.

The second radio concert, broadcast by the station of troops 4 of the city park last evening was a huge success. The first attempt to render a concert was a failure but last evening's entertainment was a complete success, a large crowd of local people, who had been unable to get to the broadcasting stations on the coast relayed by radio to the audience.

Especially, the radio static interference and the static noise which plagued the radio, were aided by A. Deppen, the Idaho Power company operator.
