JEROME AND BOISE WILL TANGLE SUN.

Jerome—Boise—Hayes to Lissi, up from the Champion Mountainers. Coach Will Aver in Jerome.

Strengthened by the services of Fred Leach, a Jacksonville man who has just joined the club, the team will meet with the Rockford club of the International League, a class AA organization, in a three team exhibition which may happen Sunday.

Huggins, the hard-hearted landlord, was back at the ranch Saturday night, and he and his four hunky sheriffs, Bush, Jones, Hoyt and Shawkey, were here.

"We have sent the old homestead for honest Jawz McDowell."

The Indians made out the top half of the trip this weekend.

The Indians had their first real game, their pupil lineup which is formidable enough to laurel even game.

Willie Williams, the star pitcher for Boise when "play day" is called, and Williams, the ballhawk and efficient.

A fenced park and ample seating accommodations should be an incentive to hundreds of legal tourists to make the trip to Jerome.

Leach shot up the Yanks with four hits and little the margin.

Exit Huggins and the sheriffs. The Indians are set for two o'clock in the second round of the first which will probably be around four o'clock.

IN TIGHT BATTLE—FRIDAY

OAKLEY, Oct. 6.—Oakley and Hubert相遇 in a hard fought football contest yesterday, Oakley winning 7-0. Hubert scored first on Nelson's touch down, but Oakley's Frank O'Keeley made his touchdown in the first quarter. Quarterback, Westerner, was the star of the game, converting several passes. Hubert tried to win in the late stages with a serial attack but was unsuccessful.

RAILROAD SITUATION

The Salt Lake City Chamber of Commerce Thursday night adopted resolution favoring the grouping of the Southern Pacific and the Central Pacific. This was done after both sides had been heard.

The arguments in favor of such grouping are ably set forth in an editorial in the Salt Lake Tribune of Friday. Everything that the Tribune says in regard to the necessity for competition will apply to the railroad situation on the Twin Falls trail. It is not through any feeling of malice toward the Union Pacific that the people here are saying "God speed" to Wally, or to anyone else who may secure a competing line to California; whether he may represent an independent concern, or the Southern Pacific or the Western Pacific. They believe that a new line is warranted by conditions and that it is for their business interests to have it constructed.

The Tribune editorial follows:

The Salt Lake Chamber club and Chamber of Commerce has announced officially its conclusion that the Southern Pacific Railroad company should be allowed to retain its control and management of the Central Pacific road. This decision was reached by a special committee consisting of 25 representative citizens, after they had held a series of hearings in which arguments were presented by representatives of both the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific. A detailed report by the traffic bureau, employed by the club, was an important factor in the decision.

This controversy, if control of the Central Pacific has been in progress for several years, since the United States supreme court, in a suit brought under the Sherman antitrust act, ordered the separation of the Southern Pacific and the Central Pacific. This action had been pending in the supreme court for several years and did not take into consideration the transportation act passed along after the suit had been instituted, and which, in effect, gives the interstate commerce commission the authority to nullify provisions of the anti-trust act, inasmuch as that body is authorized to group together competing lines, when, in the public interest to do.

The Commercial club committee has worked patiently over a considerable period and obviously its conclusions are entitled to respect and acceptance. Last week the commercial organizations of Utah county went on record as favoring Southern Pacific control.

The principal reasons for those expressions of opinion are set forth in the resolution adopted by the Salt Lake Commercial club. One of them is a desire to prevent the domination of this state by any single transportation agency. The Union Pacific already occupies an advantageous position in this territory, and it is feared that, should one road control all of the outlets to the Pacific coast, the growth and development of the intermountain country would be greatly retarded. While it is not the belief that the present officials of the Union Pacific, understanding the needs of Utah as they do, would arrogantly and unjustly use their power, there is, nevertheless, a feeling that in the future a less friendly policy might be adopted by their successors.

The business men of Salt Lake and other cities and towns of the state desire competition in the markets of Utah between the east and the west. This is regarded as of supreme importance by the Salt Lake Commercial club's committee. Upon this point the resolution adopted at Wednesday's meeting says: "The Southern Pacific system, being independent of any railroad east of Utah, is concerned with building up new markets for Utah products and in encouraging the purchase of supplies for Utah from western sources, and in self-interest will foster a scheme of rates to achieve this purpose against a similar scheme of rates between Utah and eastern points which other lines must initiate and maintain to build up eastern traffic."

The Union Pacific, the pioneer transcontinental railway, has served the people of the intermountain country for more than half a century, and it will continue to serve them in the years to come. Under the present able and efficient management, great progress has been made, and it goes without saying that the business men of Utah were very reluctant to take part in the controversy over the control of the Central Pacific and put themselves in the position of antagonizing an expressed wish of the Union Pacific, which they have long known, and in the main, liked well. The issue was forced upon them, however, and personal considerations were not allowed to stand in the way of a just decision. A business matter has been decided in a businesslike manner. There has been no display of rancor or bitterness. Should the interstate commerce commission accept the reasoning of the Commercial club committee, which we believe, represents the business views of the people of the community, the Union Pacific will have lost nothing, for it has no moral claim to the Central Pacific, while the Southern Pacific, remaining in ownership and control of the Central Pacific, will be left in position to be an important competitor for the business of this state. Even the blindest of men can perceive the advantages that have come to Utah in the past few months, due to the competitive bidding for business here by these two roads. It is reasonable to assume that in the future, with two powerful railroad systems in competition within the state, manufacturing industries of raw materials, as well as oilier shippers, will prosper in even a greater degree.

THE SHEIK'S WIFE—SCENES OF ARABIA

"The Sheik's Wife," one of the bigest French human picture productions ever made, will be shown at the Orpheum theater Monday.

The picture was produced in Arabic, "The Sheik's Wife" is regarded as the very cream of the foreign productions now available for American audiences.

"The Sheik's Wife," by its very nature, would have been next to impossible to produce in America, but in this country, A troupe of players and technical men made the voyage to Arabia and, then made the journeys through the desert interior by caravan. There a countless number of distinctly beautiful scenes were made.

Pictorially ruined by an audience who did not understand the meaning of the picture, the film was a great success, a real gem of art in a setting of compelling realism.

BLAMES BLACK BEETLE

The field inspector for the Leprosy Control Commission, who came here last Sunday and sold us had a fine lettuce crop and said that we would get 100 ears from the first crop. There was no water available so he suggested that the lettuce be distilled with "burn marks." Upon peeling the heads he found that the heads were imbedded in the lettuce and as this was found in each of the heads with the inner marks, I am going to assume that the beetles have caused the trouble as it attacks the young as well as the old lettuce and I would greatly appreciate it if someone could suggest a remedy.

Most of the beetles are dead now and those that are still alive are trouble and troubled with such symptoms as redness, swelling, etc., and the like.
