Wife Dinner—Another delightful dinner was served Thursday at the "Wednesday" afternoon social meeting from one home to another for the girls. Mrs. Zeta North, the third and main course at the home of Mrs. Oliver Hartman, Mrs. John Blodgett, Mrs. Lee Lagan, as hostesses; also, the last was served by Mrs. Joda W. D. Smith at her home on Elkhorn Avenue, past where the girls had been to the "Wednesday" card. The copies who enjoyed this pleasant dinner were Mr. and Mrs. North, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. John Hartman, and Mrs. Charles Macaulay, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Hartman and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Smith.

Easterly at Luncheon—Mrs. Geo. Easterly entertained guests most delightfully at a 1 o'clock luncheon which was served at the Ruggendorf where the holiday colors predominated on the beautifully appointed tables. Small cake and red cup added to the table decorations. Covers were laid for twenty-six, and after the luncheon the girls had time to visit the home of the hostess on Eighth Avenue, with bridge, Mrs. Leonard Smith, won the prize for high score and Mrs. E. S. Larned received the consolation favor.

Morning Ride Club—Old Wednesday afternoon Mrs. F. H. Gifford entertained the members of Morning Ride club with twelve members and two guests present. The guests were Mrs. A. Erdolph and Mrs. Carrie Fuller. After the ride there was an interesting program and a book review. Mrs. Lee was awarded by Mrs. Fuller for serving refreshments.

BEAUTIFUL HAIR
IN A MOMENT

A Gleamy Mass of Soft, Luxuriant Hair.

At once! You can transform even plumb dull, flat hair. You can—have all the softness, all the luster, all the life! Just add a 25-cent bottle of "Dandarine" at any drug store. Then mold a soft cloth with the "Dandarine" and draw this through your hair. After a few moments you will have a smooth, straight and shiny hair. Instantly, yes, immediately, you have doubled the beauty of your hair. It will be a "mass" of soft, shiny hair and all the oil is removed. Let "Dandarine" put new life, color and brightness in your hair. Take a few drops of "Dandarine" on your scalp, check dandruff and falling hair and help your hair to grow long, thick, strong and beautiful.

NEWS OF THE SPORT WORLD

SWIMMING RECORDS LOWERED

Illinois Athletic Club Lowered Two World Records Last Night.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—Two—what's swimming marks were lowered in the Illinois Athletic club open tank meet here last night.

John Watzmacher, world's 220-yard free style champion, lowered his own record of 2:18.2 by a .25 second, and also lowered the record in the butterfly by Oliver Horn of the I. A. C., who swam the course in 2:14 flat.

Black Howell, school boy "distator," swam the 100 yards freestyle championship with the record time of 6:03.45.

SPORT TABS

CHICAGO.—Fathio, with a twelfth straight win, did not meet in the Tropicana on January 15. The scheduled go was called off by Vilho's manager, who said his charge was forced to withdraw from the contest because he had injured his right in his boat with Terry Martin and Battling Murry.

CHICAGO.—Duke Schantz, former world champion billiard player, made a run of 49 in predicting for the 1934 U. S. Open. He and his wife and son, Roger, French champion.

CHICAGO.—Joe Falcari, temple wiz-ard, 900 miles from Jimmie Wilson, world boxing champion in a forty game match here beginning Monday.

NEW YORK.—The next Army-Navy annual gridiron battle will be held in this city on November 23, 1934, at the Polo grounds. It was announced today.

WASHINGTON.—John W. Heiserman, former head coach of the University of Pennsylvania, has been chosen this year coach of the Naval Academy at Washington and Baltimore.

PARIS.—Miss Elizabeth Ryan, California tennis star, has been forced to withdraw from the women's singles tournament here with a bilateral hand.

FAVOR FLUSHING EWE FLOCK

Big Advantage to Have Lambs Dropped Within Springtime

We have fine flock, is going in this rather than lambing at the breeding season; they will come in heat more nearly at the same time and should breed within three or four weeks. This is a big advantage in the spring, as the ewes can be put up and down with a comparatively short period and careful attention can probably be given, the flock at that time. When ewes are in a galant condition they do not twin twice. They have now come after times of the winter range where the lamb crop is largely determined by conditions at the breeding season.

With the beginning of cool weather, healthy ewes will have a better appetite and will probably gain weight. Ten days before the ram is to be turned into the sheep the ewes should be given a little grain—about half a pound a day. They also have the benefit of a pasture. Chopped grain and rape-seed meal especially stimulating feeds at this season.

GROWING SWINE ON ALFALFA

No One but a Greenhorn Would Attempt to Raise Hogcorn Corn Alone—Green Needed.

The feeding of corn to hogs is a custom as old and well established that no Midwestern farmer would think of raising hogs without it. The cost of all corn, white corn is the best and cheapest grain for fattening hogs, no corn but a greenhorn would attempt to raise pigs on corn exclusively.

Fattening Green Hogs.

Proper feeding will accomplish much where growing hogs are concerned. It is well known to give a liberal diet of corn, but never tell how the plains ones may develop or how they may turn out if well fed.

Hogs are Most Impudent.

Hogs are among the most impudent animals to be found on the farm for meat or for profit, and his farm is complete unless some are kept to aid in the modern method of farming.

Average Boars.

The record average boars last for a week in August, 1850.

WORLD'S FAIR COINS.

Upchase, a large collection in the world is the property of Forrest Zeile, internationally famous expert on rare coins. It is a piece of stamped copper plate, 10 inches square, and would sell for $1000 if presented in that value. The date was "the coin of varying value used in Sweden around the year 1730."

Avoid Exaggeration.

Exaggeration is a dangerous mistake to make and nearly as blamable.

We understand that there are many applications going into Washington from Twin Falls for a place on the federal beer testing commission.

That Chicago chief who advocates capitalization for habitual criminals has hit a very salient point in our civilization. It has been proven by hereditary studies that criminals are born and not developed.² The case of the Jukes family is the best example of this study in criminology.

Reports from House would indicate that anxiety in that section of the country are heartily in favor of the American Falls project. This is the report which speakers have brought back with them, but perhaps they judged largely by the oratorical effort put forth rather than the effect which some may have had. When you are for a thing strong it is easy to think the other fellow is with you but when he comes to vote he may change his mind.

Residents of Southern Idaho might well thank their stars that they are not living in New York city these days when the streets of Gotham are blocked with snow and lives are being lost on account of this storm. We have heard a great deal about California's climate and how mild it is in certain western states, but generally speaking, we think that Idaho will stand up as favorably as the rest of the nation in climatic comparisons.

Idaho's new governor will be congratulated generally for the use of the ax upon the constabulary and also for doing away with needless offices in the capital at Boise. There is a strong demand for reorganization in all departments of government and any official which hears this cry of the public will grow in favor. The state never needed a constabulary in our opinion and if it did it certainly does not need one now.

CRIMES IN AMERICA

Sir Basil Thomson, former head of Scotland Yard, now enroute to the United States, has been making some investigations of crimes and criminal courts in this country, submitting some thoughts not complimentary to the people of the United States.

Pointing out that from cradle to tottering old age, from sky-scraper to prairie and canyon, fate during the coming year will pursue one person out of each 12,000 in the United States and mark him for the murderer's bullet or knife, Sir Basil makes some comparisons. For instance, he says that over in England, where the law's vengeance is more swift and certain than it is in the United States, death by the murderer's hand will come to only one in each 42,000.

The former British detective's figures are taken from official statistics relating to crimes and their punishment, and may be accepted as trustworthy. Crime, Sir Basil declares, flourishes here because of the uncertainty of punishment. "Certainty of punishment, he says is a deterrent. It lessens crime. The length of the sentence, if imprisonment, does not matter; it is the fact that it is swift and certain that counts."

The Englishman is not the first man to point out our weaknesses in methods of dealing with criminal elements. The American Bar Association has spoken quite as vigorously and has called for a more rigid enforcement of deterrent laws and deployed action taken by pardon boards and executives tending to mitigate the work of the criminal courts. One does not need to go to England for examples of the salutary influence of swift and sure justice in the cases of murderers and other criminals. Murder in Canada is so rare that when it occurs it makes a newspaper feature; in the United States murder is so common that reports of killings are grouped in newspaper accounts. Only a particularly atrocious slaying engages more than curiosity.

Sir Basil has something to say of the American parole system. "Your paroles and indeterminate sentences," he goes on to tell a New York gathering, "in my opinion tend to increase murders and other crimes. In England we do not have those systems. We do not allow more than one appeal and the prisoner must stay in jail pending that appeal. You can also amend a faulty indictment during a trial. That is not possible in the United States." Take away the gun from Englishmen, as well as policemen, and murders would decline, in the opinion of the former Scotland Yard official. English policemen are unarmed, so the English in Canada; their truncheons or nightsticks are their only weapons. Only the Royal Mounted police in the dominion are permitted to carry guns; the reasons for this are obvious.

New York State has what is known as the Sullivan law, making it a criminal act to sell guns without police permit and under the severest restrictions. Extension of that law to other states unquestionably would tend to reduce the appalling murder list which annually takes such a heavy toll of American civilization. Police statistics show that the proportion of gun murders in this country is four to one, of any other kind. Sir Basil declares that murders in England were lessened when it was made a criminal offense to carry a gun without a license. Few licenses are given in any case, none at all to private citizens. In the United States ownership of a deadly weapon entails only the trouble to purchase and money enough to buy.

The shocking frequency of murders in the United States is a reproach to the American people and constitutes an indictment of the nation's vaunted boast of obedience to the laws. The number of murderers caught is out of all proportion to the number of murders committed; and where these players are caught and tried and sentenced there are agencies which frequently step in to nullify convictions. The devious ways of paid lawyers, sentimental and easily influenced juries, the reluctance to convict if the murderer is done by a woman—all these elements enter into the record which writes a bloody chapter annually to the criminal history of the United States. There are, too, the chances of clemency by executives, by courts, and by pardon boards.

Sir Basil Thomson has told the American public nothing that it did not know long before he began his study of the manner of dealing with criminals in the United States. The bar association has thundered against the lax enforcement of law and loose methods in dealing with the criminal elements. The daily newspapers contribute without ceasing to accounts of violent deaths at the hands of gunmen, bandits, persons with a vendetta to settle, cold-blooded men in feuds, trifling entanglements and the like. England and Canada have shown that it is possible to make murder comparatively infrequent. What is possible in those countries should not be impossible in the United States.

HIGH SCHOOL

Yesterday evening the three boys resulted in the selection of the following for the 1923 team which will represent the high school in the debates this year: Aframe, George; Clegg, Arthur; and Arthur Toliver; negative; Edmund Becher, Alfred Dean and Marshall Somerville. Next Monday a preliminary debate with a 10-minute speech and a rebuttal of five minutes. The work thus far and the tryouts were under the supervision of Mr. Nichols and Mr. Mitchell.

The Dramatic club resumed work yesterday evening on a production which will be given soon for audience.

This evening there will be a high school dance after the basketball game with Jerome. The Jerome boys will be the guitars of the high school, and the girls will act out a scene and faculty are invited to attend.

The TATTOOED LARM

Isabel Ostrander, So You Can't

BEHIND HERE TODAY

The young man had been recently accused of having beaten his wife, and he had been arrested.

FRANCIS MICHAELDY, known as "the tattooed detective sergeant," and his colleagues, have been on the scene of the trouble.

ROSEMARY DRAKE, daughter of the youngest brother, is the girl who has been accused.

HOOTIE DRAKE, a Wall Street character, has been identified as the man who is appearing in the town square, and is the author of a most interesting situation.

JOHN WALTERS, the man who is accused of having beaten his wife, is employed at the home, and on his arrival he was met by his brothers, Hootie and Francis.

ANDREW, who has recently come from Europe, by means of a bus and Andrew, by means of a bus and Andrew, by means of a bus and Andrew, is extremely fond of his wife and going to endure it? Miles heaving and sure to burst.

"I think I do, sir," he smiled slightly.

"Are you all right?" Hootie clapped him on the shoulders. "There won't be any immediate power, but he'll be all right."

"I'll give you five dollars if you'll take a note to the young boy up there, telling him to get his gun and get it quickly. Do you understand?"

In a quick dash of mystery Miles reached his coat and took his place in the parlour and his chair, young folk patted on his back and fell on the floor.

"He blazed it wide with a gesture of horror and Andrew responded:

"More sensitive optimism, I suppose?" Throw it all in the fire, old man, don't bring your head up again."

Potter's entrance created a break

WILLIAM, DO YOU KNOW HOW TO DRIVE A CART?

The tawdry touches of the carriage in started, continued, but his expression was bland until he reached the shelter of the party to which he had been invited.

When he risked a quick look of alarm, his host, Francis, turned to his father, only to exclaim in amazement and alarm.

"What's the matter?" he asked.

GUY Miles Drake was silent, but her eyes were wide with burning interest, and the simple country boy, who had been a member of the family for eight years, was silent.

Miles' face was pale, his hands were bright red, his clothes were bright red, his hair was bright red, his eyes were bright red.

"Trouble enough," he repeated hoarsely.

"Trouble enough—We each man for himself, and the last man standing wins."

He had just stepped from the room with his open letter still in his hand and then heard the library door close behind him.

Oberto Drake, his son, was waiting when he had reached the dining room.

"It's time to eat, Oberto," he chattered.

He had finished his meal and then started for the back stairs.

When Miles Drake had gone up the stairs he had closed the door to the kitchen.

He had the opportunity presented to him to send the printed wire to the telephone.

"The telephone, Oberto?" he asked.

"Miles, when you call to the telephone, will you tell him I'm not at home?"

"All right, Oberto," he replied.

"Oberto, when you call to the telephone, will you tell him I'm not at home?"

Tom Is Kept Very Busy

The return of the jewel sun is reflected by all, especially in the eyes of the children. The jewel sun, however, falls almost to the hem of the skirt and is trimmed with silk buttons. The two pieces of the jewel sun are joined together at the left side seam. Pockets are inserted at each side and straps of self fabric are required to fasten the jewel sun to the skirt.

Pattern Review jacket No. 3633

DOINGS OF THE DUFFS

THIS BUSINESS OF FIRING

TWO FURNACES IS NO CINCH!

I'VE GOT TO KEEP A FIRE IN

THE NEW HOUSE TO DRY IT

OUT BEFORE WE MOVE IN,

AND KEEP THIS ONE GOING

UNTIL WE MOVE A LOT OF WORK AND A LOT OF COAL!

—TOM, NOW WHAT?

PUT THE PHONES IN THE NEW HOUSE?

IT'S IN NOW!

THEY DO IT TOMORROW!
