

DREAM OF RAIL LINE TO COAST MAY COME TRUE

Construction of Road from Kansas City to Topolobampo, Mex., Will Be Resumed In 18-Year Old Scheme of Arthur Hillwell Is Carried Out as Expected

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 20.—The eighteen year old dream of Arthur Hillwell—the construction of the longest rail line from Kansas City to the Orient—may become a reality, according to a statement received here today.

The plan of the Orient hangs in the balance, dependent upon the bill introduced in congress by Representative Hechler, of Kansas, for a loan of three and a half million dollars to the line and delayed payment of the present debt of two million dollars.

The construction of the road was started in 1905. From Kansas City to Topolobampo, the materialization of the Orient continued until 1912 when the outbreak of the Mexican revolution in Mexico halted construction on the southern branch.

Turkey's proposal to submit the question of Mosul to President Harding for arbitration is said not to have been officially made to Great Britain...

CITY ORGAN IS RIDICULOUS

The city administration's organ demands in effect an immediate refutation of any errors that may be in the audit or the admission that the audit is correct. Which is ridiculous, Wolfenden and an assistant spent months getting up 26 pages of matter that cost the city over $4,000.

Of course, should there be as big an error in favor of the city as was discovered in favor of the road district, it might be a profitable investment for the city to hire Yau Deussen to make another audit for $2,000, but may be there is no error this time in the figures.

"GOOD READING"

Only 6864 new books were published last year in America. You wonder why the "only." It seems a lot. But in 1921 the total was 10,310.

Figures along this line mean much to any one trying to watch the activity of the American brain in its alternating cycles of stimulation and decay.

A falling-off of a third in the number of new books published, however, doesn't necessarily reveal the amount of reading being done by the public.

The public unquestionably read more books last year than the year before. That might not show up in the total number of volumes sold, for at least five times as many people borrow books as buy new copies.

The drop in the number of new books issued last year does mean that publishers are selecting manuscripts more carefully before putting their money and sales organizations back of them.

Fewer new works of fiction are being published than in 1892. The movies explain that. They supply fiction without the bother of reading through 35c.

The poets and dramatists seem to be getting a larger audience. Last year 680 new works of verse and drama were published, compared with 269 in 1892.

Geography and travel, in the matter of new books, has shown very little change in the last 20 years. Biography has fallen off a third; we get our great men in the daily news.

The World war has made many of us interested in original causes. Which probably explains why 518 different works of history were published last year, compared with 165 in 1892.

When you observe that 17,173 new books were published in our country during the last two years, you realize how few books out of the total the average person has time to read.

Considering that very few of the total are really worth reading, it's all for the best that readers are pressed for time. The trouble is that, in the labyrinth of new books, a reader is rather dazed about which few to peruse.

WASHINGTON BIRTHDAY PROGRAMS THIS WEEK

The birthday of the "Father of His Country" will be manifested in many social and school events this week. The first evidence of the great annual event, was shown at Washington dinner of the Christian church Saturday night at the old Wright & Sons stand on Main avenue north.

Everyone connected with the affair wore the costume of the colonial period and worked together with the spirit of the Continental. Between 400 and 500 took dinner which was welcomed by the guests with as much interest and avidity as the French officers showed at the banquet at the Hotel Hancock reception in Boston during the Revolutionary war. A great sum was realized for the church fund.

Very interesting and pleasing effect on the fellow guests. The dancing of Jig and the chorus girls was far above the average. In fact this was the best of the show.

"Maggie" looked the part as portrayed by George McManus and "Jiggs" lived up his success as a good sport and a much abused husband. The singing of Fred Roberts in the part of the colored Butler as "Sawdust" was the talk of the town. His remarkable changes of voice and impersonations were splendid.

The costume of the show is indicative of the expense to which this company has gone in making this production. The troop travel in a special car and carry a large amount of scenery and stage props.

Another Happy Collection
Versatile Vandeville coming to the Orpheum tomorrow.

If there is anything in connection with up-to-date vaudeville with which you are not entirely familiar among those present at this popular amusement resort on vaudeville night, and receive some humorous and interesting information. The "Three Aliburns" in a "Pantomime Absurdity" includes three European comedians. Their novel ideas in gymnastic feats and comedy capers establish the fact that different and more amusing than all others to their line. Frank Holman the versatile entertainer that wins admiration with his pleasing songs, dances and popping numbers and his best novel dancing is a treat in itself. Holman & Excia in a military comedy in "Camp" show their ability in which comedy, patter and singing alternate in a most entertaining manner. May & Brown in strolling music and witty repartee, good voices, excellent music and attractive costumes. This is another of those entertaining bills that have won favor in this city and tends to establish permanency for unexcelled vaudeville.

The picture is one of Marshall Nelson's very latest entitled "Bols First" adapted from the famous Greenleaf Post story. Amazing in dramatic, swift in action, punch and pop from first reel to last. Great cast, too.

Jiggs and Maggie is a Good Road Show and Worth the Price

The presentation of "Bringing Up Father on His Vacation" as staged last evening at the Lavering theatre was a good show. Everyone who went was not tickled to death with the production but it is impossible to please everybody. The chorus singing and the stage setting was above the average for road shows and we are of the opinion that all who attended got value received and greatly enjoyed the evening. At least this is the opinion that your humble critic would offer on the production which was presented last evening and appears again tonight at the Lavering. An abundance of music is intermingled with the acts and makes a
