Several hundred club women will gather here next week to join with the club women of Twin Falls in the celebration of Centennial day. These progressive women will discuss many plans and methods of bettering conditions in their own respective communities. They will also discuss cooperation between all parts of the county, and how to get all the various forces to work together for a better community.

Some of the merchants had some very clever stunts in their windows for the attraction of the public on Window Shopping night. This may have seemed like considerable expense, but they will reap their reward in additional sales today and all the days to come. There are many people in Twin Falls who like to look around without being obliged to buy and if the stores could put on "inspection days" we believe it would have a good effect. On this date, perhaps a dull day in the week, the clerks in all of the stores should be instructed to sell whenever the individual desired a purchase but otherwise show the goods plainly without any notion of selling and allow the prospective customer just to look and compare to their heart's content. We believe that such a day would really develop more business for the Merc Co.

A certain publication ceased yesterday, according to announcement and we hardly think there will be any individual in all Southern Idaho but who will rejoice that the thing born for the primary purpose of belittling everybody and everything has gone. This publication was not constructive in its nature but rather destructive. It has done much to cause the finger of shame to be pointed toward Twin Falls and give this city a blackeye generally. A newspaper is the most potent force for good in the world if handled properly but it may also become the greatest power for evil when in the hands of the unscrupulous and the one who wishes to tear down. But now that the thing has taken its departure let us be careful that we shall in the future do nothing to encourage such publications. In the next place let's get busy and elect a set of men to office at the coming election who will not be dominated by such an organ and of whom we may well be proud, both at home and in surrounding cities of Idaho.

MOORE REFUTES BLACK; VINDICATES ALEXANDER

"Our watchword in the campaign and in our messages to the legislature emphasize economy," says Governor Moore in a public statement. "Our budget, as presented to the legislature, showed a saving of 25 per cent over the appropriations of two years ago. Figures before me today indicate that we have made good on this economy program and show an actual saving to the people of Idaho of more than $900,000 in comparison with the appropriations made for the past biennium."

"In addition to this there is also a saving of $800,000 made by eliminating the nine-tenths of a mill highway levy. This, of course, will be offset to some extent by the added tax upon gasoline. This saving has not been made at the expense of crippling state institutions, but on the contrary we have been able to give to the educational institutions of the state some badly needed buildings in which to care for the rapidly increasing number of our young people who are seeking higher education. Neither has it been made at the expense of our road program nor any other vital department of the state's business, but by trimming, paring, consolidating and rearranging we have been able to make reductions in keeping with the ability of the people to pay."

"There have been some reductions made which may hamper some departments in carrying on their activities in behalf of the citizens of the state, but we will operate to the best of our ability and give the people the best service possible under the appropriations allowed."

Assuming for the sake of argument that this statement of Governor Moore is true and that a legislature, the lower house of which was composed of a majority of democrats, progressives and anti-administration republicans, actually cut the expense of this state more than a million and a half dollars, it confirms all that the democrats charged during the campaign regarding past republican extravagance and possible economy.

Former Governor Alexander made his campaign on the ground that an economical administration of public affairs in Idaho would mean a saving of perhaps $2,000,000 for the biennium. What did the republicans do? Why they denied the statement and said Attorney General Roy L. Black out as the "best informed man in Idaho" but left the voters that it could not be done. "Why," said Black, "even if Alexander should cripple the organization of the state, he could not bring about a saving of more than 25 cents out of every $100 taxes collected. The total savings he could make would be out of expenditures that amount to only three-tenths of one per cent of the expense of the state government."

Black assumed that no saving was proposed in any part of state government except the general government and three-tenths of one per cent of that would amount to a cut of $250,000.

And to his credit as a campaigner he said, he made it stick. Now comes Governor Moore and says that a legislature, which the Stateman says was miswump, has saved about as much as Alexander said could be saved. If the minor cut Black mentioned would ruin the state, surely the thing Moore says happened must mean its destruction.

IDAHO SOLICITS CUT STATE TAX LEVY

11TH SESSION ADJOURNS WITH APPROPRIATIONS AT $126,614,611

The tax levy for Idaho will be approximately one-half mill less for 1922 than it was for 1921. A summary of the appropriation bills passed by the seventeenth session of the legislature which adjourned early this morning shows that appropriations totaling $126,614,611 were made and that the general state tax levy will amount to $200,750, less that year's levy under the Governor Davis administration for general state purposes (totalled $208,285, highway redemption levies waived and sinking the 18 mill levy for school building purposes and the capital sinking fund levy) will amount to slightly less than 1/2 mill less than last year. Decrease in valuations of 1921. Total decrease in valuations of approximately $2,000,000. Total of the levy slightly higher than last year if valuations had remained the same.

The tuberculosis hospital appropriation bill failed to come out in the last hours of the senate's session. The last bills to be passed by the senate included the bill to reduce the maximum county levy; a house bill adding 5 mills to school district levies for high school districts; a house measure requiring building a house in arrears to be paid in private ownership; $120,000 appropriation for vocational training for the blind; a tax bill, calling for $1,675,000.

Action of the house in its last hours will make a provision for an operative action between state, county and federal government, to build roads by the way of an experiment, measure allowing private judges to keep describing husbands and apply their wages to the support of their children.

The seventeenth session of the Idaho legislature adjourned sine die at 12:25 a. m. Saturday after the house had passed for its own adjournment. The senate bills and conference committee of both houses had been decided upon by the reduction of the D. P. Nash, state chairman of the D. P. republican party and land commissioner. The house last evening approved the land department's appropriation of $200,000 for the year 1922.

The senate refused to incur but finally passed by a narrow margin. Indefinite postponement of the deficiency bill also kept the upper house from acting when a battle was expected to bring the measure back from oblivion. This action was finally taken after the bill passed by a narrow margin. Counts of those who had filed for re-imbursment for travel expense to the legislature were taken. The measure was passed by a narrow margin. The measure was passed by a narrow margin.

GRAIN PRICES CLOSE HIGHER.

During the short session considerable work was worked for export. Sellers were extremely cautious following a report by leading cash interests that stocks in Chicago, Kansas and other small and medium grain elevators in the west had been predicted for over Sunday.
