QUESTION AND ANSWER BOX

(Conducted by Auntie Sue.)

Q. Dear Auntie Sue: Will you please answer the following question to settle an argument? In case of a man and a woman, who is the man, would he be eligible to be crown king of England?—Bill.

A. Always afraid to, just me. "The Blind and the Lame" was written by Christian Fichtelberg (Gilbert) "The Tenth Boy" by Ann S. Stephens and "Four Little Blossoms" in an anonymous.

Q. Dear Auntie Sue: This is the first time I have ever written you. I hope I am welcome. Can you please tell me what aviator has received the greatest benefit in an airplane? Think you an advance—Capt. Kid.

A. This writer's record is 34200 feet, made by Lieutenant J. A. MacCreedy, Dayton, O., September 28, 1921. You are very welcome.

Q. Dear Auntie Sue: I have come to drink of your knowledge. Auntie Sue, I have a French coin, a penny, dated 1852. Is there any pretentious on it?—Write Elmer S. Sarr, dealer in New York, Swanton, Mass.

A. Dear Auntie Sue: Can you please tell me how to get rid of my crazy corner? Will washing your silk hose before wearing them for the first time help them to last longer?—Blue Eyes.

A. Always room for one more. Blue Eyes, those should never be worn without washing. Soak them in cold water for one hour and dry them as usual. If silk hose is soaked for a few minutes in very cold water each night, the wear will be prolonged.

The widow, who has been his inspiration, works at a pitiful wage in a store; lives in a drafty boarding house. The doctor, saying that he loves her but that he understands she loves the man who is dead and always will, gets her to marry him in order that she may share the comforts his money will buy. He never loves by word or deed to make her to love. Among the many under obligations to the doctor is a young man who has the freedom of his house. This man makes love to the doctor's wife, tells her that the doctor is sick of his bargain, and she really falling in love with the man who is her husband in name only, rather than force the compliance of a bargain that has never been a fair one decides to leave. The doctor comes upon her as she is "in the state of mind and the young man frankly admits that he loves his friend's wife and states that she loves him. For the first time the doctor realizes that, if his friend can make love to the woman, he also can and that, as a matter of fact, the thing he has got to fight is not the memory of a dead loved one but a man who is very much alive. So he settles down, makes love to his own wife and wins out in the end.

PRINCESS IS GIVEN DOUBLE CEREMONY

Beautiful Italian Princess Married in Morning at 10 A. M. One Ceremony Was Performed in the Civil Chapel and the Other in the Catholic Chapel by Special Dispensation.

ROME, April 9.—Princess Yolanda, eldest daughter of King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena, married today in Rome Count Di Bolognino, an Italian countess.

The ceremony was civil one in the Quirinal palace in which Premier Mussolini acted as clerk and religious ceremony in the quantity of the chapel made available by special dispensation of the pope, were performed.

Guests and members of the royal family assembled in the great hall of the Quirinal shortly before 10 o'clock this morning.

Before them came the princess, in the arm of her dashing fiancé, Yolanda's striking pallor and raven tresses made her a vivid study in contrast, which a faint tint of pink in her cheeks, the ceremony was interrupted.

The bridegroom, who is in his uniform as a cavalry trooper, wore the medals he won in Verdun during the war.

After the bride and groom followed King Victor and Queen Elena and Queen Margherita, the queen mother, present. Members of the Court of the Assamblato, the civil Italian order whose members are "knights of the king," senate and chamber dignitaries, and the bridegroom's family were in the hall.

The civil service lasted only a few minutes.

Premier Mussolini, acting as civil clerk, read the instrument regarding the marriage, which was then signed by General Diaz and Admiral Tonduer, chiefs of Italy's army and navy, as witnesses.

Signor Tittoni, president of the senate, was official recorder for the bride and groom.

The royal procession formed after the civil ceremony and proceeded to the Pauline chapel. This time it was in reverse order from that which approached the Quirinal ceremony. Count Macchi, master of ceremonies, led the way, followed by the Commissioner of Rome and Cremonesi, president of the provincial council (Dini), president of the provincial deputations Barcelli and officials of different categories, according to the order of precedence.

The Pauline chapel was simply and richly decorated, tall velvet hangings concealing the walls. Pope Pius, from Turin, was hung near the altar, while red velvet hangings covered the kneeling seats.

As the wedding procession entered the choir rendered a sixteenth century duet without accompaniment. The bride, strikingly beautiful in a pure white wedding gown, her only ornament a brilliant sapphire engagement ring given her by the count, knelt beside her fiancé in front of the altar.

Monseigneur Baracci, assisted by four prelates and four military chaplains, performed the marriage ceremony.

When the all-important question was asked the princess, she answered "yes" in a firm, musical voice heard throughout the chapel. Things were exchanged and the ceremony was over.

The princess, who is 23 years of age, is famed as a horsewoman and for her dark, Slavonian beauty. Her husband is one of the best riders in the army, a captain in the crack cavalry. He is 14 years older than his bride. In marrying Count Di Bolognino, Yolanda relinquished her rank—but gained the enthusiastic affection of her countrymen, especially the fascists, who hail the princess' choice of an Italian over royal foreigners who might have had, as an ultimate triumph of Italian nationalism.

MARKETS

CHICAGO, April 9.—Grain prices for the 1923 crop moved to new high levels on the Chicago Board of Trade today with the outlook for production this year becoming more gloomy due to the unseasonable weather.

Snowfall again over the northwest today holding up spring work now long past due. Some experts here declared talk of wheat acreage reduction was ridiculous in view of the pessimistic crop prospects and low stocks everywhere. In the country's warehouses and elevator stocks have seldom been as low as at this time. Cereal bugs were doing considerable damage to winter wheat in Illinois and Indiana, while green loam was in southeastern fields. About one million bushels of wheat were sold for export, with some unfilled orders that England and France had circulated a few small orders. The visible supply of wheat decreased 47,000 bushels. The Canadian visible supply decreased 22,000 bushels.

Corn was strong throughout the day. Feeders bought heavily due to the continued cold weather and lack of pastureage which mainly is ready by April 1. Stocks were decreasing rapidly. The visible supply dropped 1,273,000 bushels for the week. About 200,000 bushels of corn were sold for export.

Oats was also bought freely for the winter pastures. A few small orders were apparent. Provisions were higher.

MORE THRILLING than a Jules Verne romance were the adventures of Warrant Officer H. B. Smith on the famous Sub Chaser "Seneca," which left him almost a physical wreck. He gives Tanlac full credit for complete restoration.

HUGH B. SMITH

The many deeds of daring and heroism during the war and afterwards, I was also about fifteen years ago, I was almost a physical wreck. I was also about fifteen years ago, I was almost a physical wreck. I was also about fifteen years ago, I was almost a physical wreck.

When I got back to God's country, the reaction set in and I broke down completely. I was terribly nervous and irritable, had no appetite, and could not sleep except when I was exhausted. I was also about fifteen years ago, I was almost a physical wreck. I was also about fifteen years ago, I was almost a physical wreck.

Scene from Vaugens and Kemper Production of "THE BAT" by Mary Haberts, Hiltchbart and Avery Hopwood, at the Lavering Theatre, Monday, April 16th.

Twin Falls has some splendid high school debaters as evidenced by the success of its teams in last week's triangular contests. Debates should not always be measured by whether the teams all win. The success of a debate or oratorical contest should be measured by the degree of success those who participate attain.

The success or failure of the American Falls dam election will have more of a bearing on the proposed railroad to Wells than the average individual would believe. If the dam election wins then the railroad will most be sure to follow but if the dam election fails then the chances for a railroad south will be diminished just that much. We were pleased with the interest the Union Pacific officials are taking in this project and the roads to Nevada and we feel sure that within a few years both will be built and we will have builded here a mighty empire.

Shad L. Hodgkin was elected mayor recently because the majority of the people of this city felt that he would bring harmony out of chaos in the city of Twin Falls. We believe that the people are realizing more fully than they have before realized that co-operation and harmony are absolutely necessary to bring back the "Twin Falls" spirit. Unless we do this we will never have much of a city here nor much business. We can become the greatest city of Idaho within a few years by stern co-operation and harmony but if we pull apart as we have in the past few years there is no future for us on the map of the Gem State. A second suggestion like upon the first is: "Let's have co-operation with our city commissioners." Mr. Hodgkin can do very little if we elect him who is not in harmony and sympathy with the ideas and plans which he wishes to put over. Think it over before the second election rolls around.

A symphony orchestra of unusual merit will be staged tonight at the Orpheum theatre under the direction of one of our local musicians. Some of us do not comprehend as fully as we would like perhaps, the technique of classical music, yet the program to be presented this evening will be sufficiently varied that we can comprehend all or at least a majority of the splendid music here which will be presented. An excellent orchestra of local musicians as referred by Boise and Salt Lake talent will furnish the orchestration and in addition some splendid soloists will be heard. Twin Falls has good reason to be proud of the high class musical talent which is found here and we feel sure that the public will show its full appreciation at this concert tonight. It has caused a lot of hard work and expense but the success should not be measured in dollars and cents, but rather in the success of the evening's musical program. As far as possible we urge as many as can to attend.

NATIONAL GARDEN WEEK

It has long been said, and aptly, that gardening is a social activity, notwithstanding that gardening is a thing in which the individual may work alone and in seclusion; for there is with it an introduction to a craft, fellowship, the like of which is not met in any other hobby or avocation of the human animal.

And now a nation-wide celebration in the things belonging to and branching out from the garden has been formally launched under the direction of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, a movement which is designed to carry the inspiration of the garden to every community and club group throughout the United States. That such a national concentration of energy and co-operative interest in the garden and all that it means, not only from the point of view of utility but also of esthetics and ethics, should have been launched at all is an arresting testimony to the present day wide spread and ever extending garden interest in our country. This National Garden week, April 22-28, is an event that is underlined with much significance and many possibilities of national betterment, for the community that is possessed of the greatest number of well-kept gardens boasts on its roll the greatest proportion of solid and stable citizens.

The country as a whole has arrived at the stage when the people lean to "garden finely," and of all human activities there is none other that is so keyed up to graceful and interesting association with one's fellows in an interpretation of the ways and methods of nature. Well indeed was it said four hundred years ago that "art itself is nature," and hence it has such an appealing hold on those who once get an introduction to its abundances.

National Garden week adopted by the General Federation of Women's Clubs at the suggestion of The Garden Magazine, looks for the simultaneous concentration on the affairs of the garden during this one selected week. All communities are not in one climatic region, but garden affairs can be talked about even when they cannot be practiced, and sometimes the interchange of ideas and the use of reminiscence have a value and stimulating effect that bear good fruit. The generally adaptable program which has been accepted looks for a concentration of thoughts and activities on each day of the selected week beginning in the churches on April 22. Each community will, of course, select those topics which best fit its own conditions, and possibilities. To the nurseryman, the seedman, to the civic authorities, even to the dilettante and the literature the appeal comes with force. In song and story, in folk lore, and in art, the garden with its flowers and fruits has been sung of old.

It is suggested that each community take the skeleton program, filling in with such features as may be possible from local association and talent. All associated organizations can be invited to cooperate in this as in other national movements, and once started, let National Garden Week be an annual stimulus when the minds of the whole community shall turn instinctively to that greatest and purest of human pleasures.

Let each individual garden magazine reader or group of readers at once organize a community committee to start the preliminaries in such activities, for representing the keenest gardening minds, their individual cooperation will be doubly welcomed in the concerted movements of the local units of the federated clubs.

Some things you can do:

Ask your board of trade, commerce, school or health board to help out. Get your local banks or largest business houses to offer prizes for gardens or beauty spots.

Ask some local club to offer free seeds to children. Get your florist to offer surplus plants and roots; and write to the federal department of agriculture at Washington for bulletins on flowers, gardens, soils, etc.

Write the commissioner of education at Washington for bulletins on school gardens.

Get in touch with your nearest state agricultural college. If you do not know the address of this institution, write to the Garden Magazine and you will at once be put in touch with it.

Ask the college to send you a canning demonstrator to teach you how to can the surplus vegetables of your garden. These workers will come to you without charge.

Get your local newspaper to aid you in arousing interest in your work. Get public spirited citizens to take up this matter with you.

There is no community without men and women vitally concerned in the things that are for the good of that community; get them interested!

Get speakers to give talks. Arrange flower shows, pageants, parades.

Change your waste places into beauty spots, clean up the rubbish piles. This is of interest to every fire commissioner and health officer.

If you desire to earnestly and purposefully conduct a garden week in your town, there are many aids that you can have for the asking.

Get your own town to adopt some flower as its own and then stress the cultivation of this.

ANNOUNCEMENT
Kimberly Nurseries are now located in their new home on the State Highway in the vicinity of Kimberly. Sincerely believing in the Twin Falls tract and surrounding country, we have made a considerable investment in land, for the production of high quality nursery stock, and a splendid new building used for offices and packing house, which enables us to handle our business to the satisfaction of our thousands of well-satisfied customers. We cordially invite our friends and customers to call and look over our complete stock of fruit and ornamental trees, flowering shrubs, roses and perennial plants. We have Idaho grown and acclimated, and much superior to shipped-in nursery stock. We will be open evenings for your convenience, but not on Sundays.
