

SENIOR CLASS OF TWIN FALLS HIGH SCHOOL

The largest class in the history of the Twin Falls high school will get their diplomas tomorrow evening. The papers of these students average and the class is regarded not alone in numbers, but in intellectual development as a body of young men and women of which any community might be proud. There is much praise given to the high school faculty, which, under the leadership of Superintendent M. O. Mitchell and Principal A. B. Barnes, guided the destinies of the large class successfully over the arduous examinations to diploma harbor. The address tomorrow night will be delivered by Dr. E. A. Bryan, state commissioner of education. The following are the members of the Senior class. (Continued on Page 4)

We are proud of our telephone team which won over the balance of the district in the contest held here the other evening and the grade made was well up toward the 100 per cent mark. This team will compete again Saturday for state honors. Eighteen teams competed from this part of Idaho and the contest was a warm one from start to finish.

The radio fans of Twin Falls will tune up and listen in for the address to be given in Chicago Thursday evening by National Board of Health on Tuberculosis. This will be broadcasted by a powerful radio machine from the Drake hotel to all parts of the United States. It is the first time that such a feat has been undertaken by radio and the event will be watched with keen interest by the public generally. The Times will give a special report from the Twin Falls radio instruments tomorrow.

Assurance by a representative of eastern capitalists that the carrying of the bonds in this county would mean the erection within a year of eight factories for canning green peas within the county, placing it on a level with the famous Cache valley of Utah, was given to The Times Saturday by Bert Wright of Logan, Utah, who was instrumental in starting the industry in the Utah district. This is another step toward diversification. According to Mr. Wright, short hauls and quick action for a limited period are necessary to successfully handle this crop in the best way in a short time.

The eyes of the Intermountain region are turning toward the Twin Falls country very rapidly. In fact, not only the folks of the Intermountain country but as far east as our national capital are looking this way. In this section of Idaho will be constructed one of the greatest irrigation projects in all the world. Many of the prominent officials of our nation will be coming this way within the next few years on business connected with this gigantic project. Thousands of home-seekers will turn their faces toward the Twin Falls country in search of new homes and places to make their future dwelling place.

The statement of Engineer H. T. Henderson on the Times Tuesday that San Francisco capitalists are ready to finance the Murtaugh irrigation district now that the bonds have carried, is another indication that the victory for the bonds Saturday is a step toward a greater southern Idaho. Some weeks ago the project was approved by the state engineer, after the matter had been presented to him by Attorney S. L. Hodgins, but mere approval by an engineer does not necessarily mean that money is procurable. Even if it might have been procured, it would not have been on such favorable terms as will now be the case. The addition of 37,000 acres to Twin Falls county's irrigated land is something worth while.

SPEED AND TRAGEDY

Speed and tragedy are boon companions in these days of rapid transportation and the marvel of it all is that those who speed their automobiles beyond a safety zone do not seem to realize that their ever present passenger is grim tragedy.

The automobile accident in this city Thursday when two cars collided at Idaho and Fifth streets with such force that the impact threw the lighter car a distance of fifty feet, clear of the pavement and onto the sidewalk at the intersection, while the larger car was flung against the curb and the occupant of the smaller machine was thrown out and run over; clearly illustrates how tragically stable when speed prevails. One man was killed and both automobiles were badly damaged. But it is not the damaged automobiles we are thinking of, but of the human life that was so uselessly sacrificed. Nor are we attempting to cast blame upon anyone. The testimony given at the coroner's inquest indicates beyond question of doubt, and it is corroborated by the positions of the two machines, that the two drivers were going faster than they should. They met at an intersection. A collision was inevitable, and as is often the case a life was unnecessarily taken. The driver of the larger machine was held by the grand jury as careless and negligent. He testified to the jury that he was traveling at the rate of 15 miles an hour and that the man who was killed was traveling 30 miles an hour.

The positions of the cars and the position in which the dead man was found, is ample evidence as to the rate of speed the two cars were going. Not only was the smaller car all but demolished but the larger car was damaged and the man who was killed was thrown some distance, pinned beneath the axle of the larger car, his head, neck and chest mangled, two bones driven in his skull by bolts, and the skin ground almost entirely off his face. This was his life snuffed out.

The accident cannot be said to have been unavoidable. No accident is unavoidable if the parties to it had taken proper precautions. But accidents will happen and those who are driving automobiles will find by experience they are never sure of anything when they abandon precautionary measures and attempt to violate the speed laws or the rules of the road. Their mistakes may always cost the life or seriously injure someone else. Capital News.

Bible Thought for Today

TEACHING TRANSUBSTANTIATION.—Restore unto me the joy of thy salvation; and uphold me with thy free spirit. Then will I obey thy voice; for thy ways, and sinners shall be converted unto thee.—Psalm 51:12, 13.

MARKETS

CHICAGO, May 16.—Further damage from recent cold weather and super abundance of moisture in the Ohio valley and parts of the southwest caused grain to strengthen and the market closed higher today.

Following the early dip, wheat prices firmed and made good advances. Advice from the southwest told of damage to the winter crop by freezing weather.

Retarded planting operations and the high prices paid for the cash product caused strength in corn.

Kansas City reported bids of 91c for No. 1 yellow corn. Receipts continued light.

Oats advanced with other grains. The overnight crop reports showed favorable conditions.

Center of Speech.—A distinguished authority in such matters recently described the inherent nature of right-handedness in man. He also made some very interesting comments about the location in the brain of the center of speech. In all right-handed persons this center is on the left side of the brain. But in left-handed persons the speech is shifted to the other side, so that, as this scientist says, "the left-handed speak from the right brain."

Quick Quaker Oats

Cooks to perfection in 3 to 5 minutes

Ready at 7:05

Before the eggs or coffee

Now our experts have perfected a Quick Quaker Oats—the quickest-cooking oats in the world. Your grocer now has it as well as the regular.

Quick Quaker cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. The cooking is perfect—experts testify to that.

The same exquisite flavor

The fame of Quaker Oats is due to super-flavor. We flake the queen grains only—just rich, plump, lustrous oats. We scrub ten pounds from a bushel.

All the world over Quaker Oats dominates, because people love that flavor and Quaker will always have it.

Quick Quaker is made from the same queen oats. The flavor is identical. But we cut the grains before flaking. Then we roll them thin and partly cook.

So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small, thin flakes cook quickly.

Now you have a double reason for selecting Quaker Oats. You get that exquisite flavor. And you get, if you wish, flakes that cook almost instantly. In either respect, there is no other oat dish in existence that compares.

Regular Quaker Oats... Come in package at left—the style you have always known.

Quick Quaker Oats... Come in package at right, with the "Quick" label. Your grocer has both. Be sure to get the style you want.
