NEWS OF THE SPORT WORLD

TRANSFER OF GIANT TEAM IS RUMORED

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
U. P. Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, May 24.—Change in the ownership of the Giants many times reported and denied during the last winter is considered almost a certainty now in baseball circles here. Charles A. Stenheim is expected to retire as the president and chief stockholder in the club within the next time, though John McEwain no doubt will retain his interest and continue his active management of the team. Commissioner Landis has been in town several days and he has been no under cover that his interest is obviously important.

Landis, it was learned from a responsible authority today, is very interested in the club. He has been in the interest of Col. Huston in buying Stenheim's interest in the Giants. Huston has just disposed of his holdings in the New York Yankees.

The Colonel at one time was a great basketball fan and he is expected to buy a half interest in the New York American League club he used to travel around the circuit with the Giants. The terms under which he disposed of his Yankee stock will not prevent him from buying the ownership of the Brooklyn club if he should want to.

The Giants have been drawing very poorly this season at the Polo ground. Considering that McGraw has one of the best teams in the game and that New York always wants a winner, the cool feeling toward the world's champions is hard to explain.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

Four hits and a run in the fourth inning gave the Giants four runs and a four to one victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. Two hits in the fifth pushed over the lone run for the Cardinals.

McNamara relieved Ellington in the third inning after the Cubs had been hit, and bowled out the hitters, winning, 4 to 1.

Webby's support in three tight places spoiled some fine pitching by Shantz, and the Indians lost to the Red Sox, 4 to 3.

Brooklyn made it three straight and headed up into the first division by beating the Reds, 7 to 1.

The Hansen butte irrigation plan, given final legal approval Tuesday evening by the judgment of Judge W. A. Babcock, is another thing which has become an actuality after floating in the air as a dream for years. It means the addition of nearly 10,000 acres more of irrigated land to the county. The thing has been under consideration for more than a decade.

Announcement yesterday that Twin Falls would be made the headquarters of the Southern Idaho district of the Idaho Auto association, is another illustration of the fact that "nothing succeeds like success" which is another way of saying that it "never rains but it pours." The big dam, the railroad and the auto track lines draw other things this way. Perhaps the "other railroad" will be drawn higher also.

Premier Baldwin of England, former chancellor of the British exchequer, solved a knotty problem when he made the agreement regarding the British war debt to America. But he is indeed a "Lucky Baldwin" to be called to hand such a simple proposition as the British foreign policy rather than straightening out the Twin Falls exchequer.

The persistency of the report of oil in the southern part of this country equals persistency with which reports of railroad construction prevailed in the past. It is quite certain that big interests are prospecting near here for oil, and have been for several years. Like the railroad report, the oil dream will be apt to come true.

Even those among the sportsmen in Southern Idaho who charged that Otto Jones, ex game warden, was an egotist too loyal to some of his deputies, will give him the glad hand as secretary and active leader of the Idaho Automobile association. The energy and personal integrity of Mr. Jones have never been questioned, and he knows the country as few men do. Moreover, he has the instinct of a trained reporter for the exploring of possibilities of a country. Co-operating with men like Ralph Walsh, R. W. Adams and W. A. Bartlett, the campaign for the association is certain to have plenty of ginger.

FAMOUS SALESMEN

Napoleon in his youth was a book salesman. Early in his career he found his lieutenant's pay too meager. To provide himself with extra money, he canvassed from house to house, taking orders for a book, "L'Histoire de la Revolution."

When you visit the Louvre in Paris, make inquiries and you will be shown Napoleon's book selling outfit, including a list with 200 names of subscribers who were obliged to sign on the dotted line by Napoleon's eloquence.

You picture young Napoleon, slender, with burning eyes, knocking at a door in Paris. The housewife meets him with a scowl. Her poodle barks at the salesman destined to be the future master of Europe.

It was nearly a hard to sell some of those books as to win victories later on the battlefield, Napoleon made good as a salesman. He "hid the stuff in him"—the fighting spirit.

George Washington also was a book salesman, canvassing from house to house in his early days. At 20 he sold a volume, "Blydell's 'American Savage.'" It cost him $2 a copy and he sold it for $3. His sales, as recorded in his diary, totaled over 500 copies.

Washington had to make his own deliveries, galloping long distances with the books in his saddle-bags.

For these salesmanship angles on Napoleon and Washington, we are indebted to a speech by R. S. Branch of Chicago, before a convention of subscription book publishers.

Branch's comments cannot be improved upon: "As a book salesman, Washington learned the lessons every house-to-house salesman learns today: courage, determination, patience and resourcefulness, that helped him in after life to win battles, and achieve the independence of the American colonies."

"There were lessons in selling books, even for Napoleon. He learned what every subscription book salesman learns today: courage, determination, patience, resourcefulness and skill in dealing with men and problems. The 4 qualities do not always make a Napoleon, but they are the foundation steps of success in every line of work."

All of us should find new courage and inspiration as we ponder these two famous book agents. Washington was an aristocrat, but he did not think the work beneath him. Napoleon was a genius, with ambitions for world power, but he was sensible enough to make the most of every opportunity for advancement, however small, as it came.

Future Napoleons and George Washingtons, now in 1923 are also struggling for a start—selling books, clerking, keeping accounts, studying at night " " in short, toiling at the humble tasks of life. Whether we later will fringe a bigger job to handle depends to large extent on how well we handle the present job. Every job can be made a stepping stone to better things.

The Screen

A HAND BARGAIN
Two hundred inches of easy Say, that's going to be a clean picture, all right.

The salesman of a soap house was talking to the production department of the Golden Sun Studio. The salesman had never had an order like that from a motion picture studio. It stunned him.

"A Hand Bargain" is the picture for which this unprecedented soap order was given. It will come to the Idaho theatre for three days commencing today. When the soap is projected onto the screen, it will be in the form of white foam and radiant bubbles, in one of the most impressive attractions ever seen on film. Beautiful background in the foam.

"JAZZMANIA" AN ELABORATE FILM

"Jazzmania" is the title of the latest photoplay in which (Robert Z. Leonard will present Mae Murray, and it is her peculiar way has more opportunities for histrionic and costume display than has yet taken to her lot in the picture she has made. The new Metro photoplay is scheduled for presentation today at the Grandview theatre, where it will bring a run of three days.

Wonderful Results from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Bellet, Wis.—"My female troubles were brought on by overwork. I had worked so much that I had a nervous and had to do heavier work than my strength could stand, and had to lie on my feet most of the time. Finally I had to give up the work entirely and stay at home. Doctor's medicines did not give me much relief, and my doctor wanted me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took a couple of bottles and thought I did not help me much and should not give up trying something else. Nothing I took helped me much, so I finally decided to give the Vegetable Compound another trial and to take enough of it to make sure it would help me. I have taken it over a year now and it has brought wonderful results. I have gained from 25 to 30 pounds and am keeping my house now. My friends all notice the change in my health. I will be glad to answer all letters that women write to me about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. W. G. Steveson, 1415 Park Ave., Bellet, Wis.

Mrs. Munson is willing to write to any woman suffering from such trouble.

ACHIEVING Through Co-operation

TODAY the great electrical system of the Idaho Power Company with ten power plants, serving sixty towns and communities comprising 38,000 customers, is a reality.

The waters from a thousand springs and rushing rivers have been harnessed and converted into power and light which contributes to the health, wealth and happiness of every citizen within the broad territory served by this company.

This accomplishment has been achieved by the courage and vision of the men who have developed this public service enterprise and by those who have co-operated by furnishing the money with which to build power plants, install giant generators, and erect thousands of miles of transmission and distribution lines.

FIRING SQUAD TO AVENGE SLAYING

SALT LAKE CITY, May 24.—George Gardner, who shot and killed Gordon Stuart, a deputy sheriff, and Joseph W. Irvine, near Wehly, Utah, on April 16, 1932, will meet the same fate tomorrow morning at sunrise.

Gardner shot the deputy when he arrived with Irvine to serve attachment papers on Gardner's ranch. Stuart entered the house and Gardner killed him with a shotgun.

He then mounted a horse and pursued Irvine, at whose request the papers were served. He overtook Irvine in a canyon and shot him in the back of the same gun. Both men died within a short time.

Gardner's last howl vanished yesterday when the state board of pardons denied his application for commutation of sentence to life imprisonment. Martha Gardner, who was present at the shooting, is out on bonds. She was allowed to have urged her husband to pursue and kill Irvine, her brother-in-law.

The firing squad has been rehearsing for two weeks. There are five men who will take their places behind a blind folding Gardner who will be strapped into a chair. Four of the five will be loaded. This means that one will not know which gun contains the blank.

In Utah a condemned man has his choice of being shot or hanged. There has been only one instance in Utah since statehood that a man chose hanging. This man, Robert Murrin, who killed two men while occupying from a pawn shop which he had robbed. Murrin declared that he would choose hanging as it caused the most expense to the state.

LITTLE TALKS OF THIEF

By S. W. STRAUS.

President American Society for Thrift.

It is unfortunate that many persons look on thrift merely as a rather miserly attitude toward life. It is deplorable that this false and harmful conception of thrift is often given encouragement by those who mean well but who are unaware of the ill effects of such teaching.

It is well to bear these things in mind, particularly at this time when one hears occasional references to a "buyers strike."

Huskin's famous analysis of economy is apropos: "Economy is more than saving money." He wrote: "It is wisely spending money; it is the administration of a house; it is stewardship; spending or saving, whether money or time, or anything else, in the best possible manner."

This is advice that can well be taken at this time. Economy always results, but only harmful effects can result from a system of economy that merges into miserliness.

The question of correct spending as well as correct saving is one of far-reaching importance, because while the elimination of waste and extravagance are always desirable, the general cutting down of legitimate expenditures to the point where the general business of the country would be adversely affected, the whole of industry stopped and unemployment precipitated, would most assuredly be a false example of thrift.

Huskin's analysis correctly places as much importance on correct spending as on correct saving. Success and progress are not the results of parsimonious practices.

True thrift is progress. Hence those who are truly thrifty love business on the go because they spend wisely as well as save carefully. The money which they bring into their hands does not lie dormant; neither does it go for purposes that are not uplifting.

DOWN among the hills of Fairfield County, Ohio, lies the little city of Lancaster. And in this city is located the plant that produces Lancaster Cord and Fabric Tires.

The motoring world hasn't "beaten a path to the door" of this home of better tires. Nor was any such merchandising miracle hoped for. The makers of Lancaster realized that good tires were not a rarity.

Therefore they "graded their own" highways of distribution. Believing that the Lancaster Line offered the motorist more for his money, they started "to tell the world" about the superior quality of their products.

They told us. And their story—their samples—their performance-records carried conviction. Now we know that Lancaster do wear longer. We know they are the best tires for us to sell—because they are the safest tire investment you can make.

Why Sars Are "Colored."
The North sea is green partly because of its clearness and partly because of its sandy bottom. The green hue comes from the tiny weed-like growth, called sars, which seems to cover the surface. The yellow hue of the sea is caused by the sars being so named because of its mud, but its color is derived from a multitude of minute living organisms.
