SCHICK MYSTERY STILL UNSOLVED

Body of Missing Man Must Be Found Before More Can Be Done.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 24.—Officers investigating the disappearance of George E. Schick, broker, admittedly were reaching a point in their case today where they can do little more until the body of Schick—supposedly murdered—is found.

Questioning of persons who might throw some light on the case continued, but located the body was the main task.

It was reported that one of those questioned told officers of a violent quarrel having been had in the Schick home here the night of February 7, which was the date of Schick's disappearance.

Several clues to the possible location of the body have been followed but results thus far are indefinite.

Chemists have not finished their studies to determine whether bones found at the spot described but unearthed nothing of value in the case.

SPECULATE ON USE OF FUNDS

Expect Big Interests to Be Behind Republican Committee.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 24.—Speculation concerning the amount and the purpose of the big fund which the republican party is gathering for the forthcoming campaign includes a belief that the powerful interests now opposing the tariff will be among the most generous contributors.

It is expected that the republican national committee has undertaken a "drive" for a considerable sum of money.

With the certainty of a fight for a lowering of the tariff on many commodities—sugar, clothing, glass, etc.—when the next congress convenes, it is believed that the republican committee will have little difficulty in getting contributions.

It is pointed out that the financial interests will be necessary to support their projects maintained at the present high levels.

Democrat feel that their endeavor to reduce the tariff and thus lower the cost of living probably will help to swell the republican campaign fund by offering the special interests now profiting by excessive tolls on their products, but they are not sure of the result.

You see glazing teeth wherever you look today. They add enormously to beauty and to charm. Learn how people get them.

That dingy film

Your teeth are coated by a viscous film. You can feel it now. Under old brushing methods, much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy crusts. This is why so many teeth lose luster.

Many hold fast substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They will rot, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

That is why cloudy teeth, unhealthy teeth and gums, became so alarmingly common.

Dental science has now found ways to effectively fight that film. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. The other removes it without harmful scouring.

Many careful tests were made to prove these methods. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Peppodent.

Leading dentists everywhere began to urge its use. Now it has brought a new dental era to the homes of some 50 nations.

It does far more

GRID GAMES DRAW RECORD ATTENDANCE

Stands Packed at Five of the Big Contests; Coming Tills Expected to Fill Stadiums; Schedule Arranged Differently.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Attendance records for early season football games were established last Saturday when five big games on the schedule averaged almost 40,000 spectators each.

This is a manifestation of unusual interest in the popular college games for such early season games and it is due to the fact that games which in the past have been reserved for November features of the schedule are being played earlier.

New records will be made for the 1923 season and the attendance at the big games will increase just as much as the facilities are enlarged for the accommodation of the crowds.

Last Saturday's marks will be passed for a certainty next Saturday and on each succeeding week through the schedule.

Harvard and Dartmouth may draw sixty thousand at Cambridge and Boston will have enough surplus to contribute at least 25,000 to the Bienville-Boston College, a game that will bring the fine Niagara team to the east for the first time.

Centre and Pennsylvania will fill the new stadium at Franklin field for a capacity of 50,000. Brown and Yale should draw at least 35,000 to the Yale Bowl which is only half its capacity.

Penn State and West Virginia, two untested teams in line for the eastern championship may play before 35,000 or 40,000 in the Yankee stadium.

Princeton and the Navy play in Baltimore and the crowd may go beyond 40,000 in the first time these two teams have played there.

Georgia Tech and Notre Dame, turning one of the feature games of the middle west, are sure to draw a great throng and Iowa and Ohio State are almost sure to park the new Columbus stadium which has a capacity of about 70,000.

The east has already reached and the middle west and south if it already not known here, will find out that football has reached such a place that it is a question of how many will be turned away from the games and not the number that will watch the big tussles.

Yale athletic officials have already announced that all seats for the Yale game on November 3 have been disposed of "privately" and that tickets will be placed on public sale.

For several years no seats have been available for the public for the Yale three games and Harvard and Yale have reached the point where only one ticket can be awarded to a fan.

The army and navy engage in their annual game at the Polo grounds this year and it has been announced that the best that can be done for New York will be 25 that each newspaper can purchase.

How strong is our second line of defense? No stronger—than the army of boys which are coming on.

DISTRICT CHAMPIONSHIP TITLE IS IN BAD Muddle

Under Present Football Schedules Who Will Be the Winner of South Central District at Close of Season. If Winner Refuses to Play Champion of Twin Falls-Rupert Setto Then Who Will Be the Champion to Play for State Title?

What is the football situation on the Twin Falls track? All teams of this section have blacked out Twin Falls with the exception of Rupert, and while Twin Falls and Rupert are going along down country, the rest of the teams in this section are playing regular scheduled games, trying for first honors, and putting up a very good grade of football.

Now the question arises: Will the team that wins the biggest majority of games (with the exception of the Twin Falls and Rupert teams) play the winner of the Twin Falls-Rupert game which will be played the second week in November at Rupert? If they don't, will they have a right to play any other district without first having won the undisputed championship of this district with the undisputed championship without playing the winners of the Twin Falls-Rupert set, both of whom are bona fide members of the South Central Athletic association?

RICKS NORMAL TEAM ARRIVES FOR STRUGGLE

Both Elvens in Shape for Game Thursday; Larded Jenkins Will Not Play, Owing to Injury; Lineups Given.

The Ricks Normal team will see a real game tomorrow afternoon when the football team from the Ricks Academy of Rexburg tangles with the blue and white Elvens at Lincoln field.

Coach Evans is not in the best of humor these days, as he has a real mop to fill at left half, vacated by "Doc" Jenkins through injury.

Alford and Day have been alternating at this position during the week, with Cron playing quarter.

Evans will not doubt start Hodgkin and Munsell as ends if Day is used in the back field, while Hodgkin may be shifted to guard should Day play.

Christopherson is suffering with a bad knee and may not be able to get in the game tomorrow.

Holman is back at school, and may be used on the line. The rest of the team will line up in the same way, with Garrity shouldering the bulk of the work in the back field.

Coach Parker of the Ricks school has a team that will average 200 yards on the back field in a single week.

Ricks has played but one game so far this season, having defeated Ashton 30 to 0. Games have been arranged, however, with Brigham Young of Montana State Provo, and a game will be played with the Albion Normal team at Albion Saturday of this week.

Coach Parker and his gang of 15 warriors arrived on the noon train today and will take life easy during the night, and the late City during the remainder of the day.

The game tomorrow is scheduled to start at 2 o'clock and a large crowd is expected, as the fans will have their first opportunity of seeing the Twin Falls team perform against a better team.

Relative lineup for tomorrow's game:

A Halloween rally and field day will be staged by the Boy Scouts on Lincoln field Saturday afternoon weather permitting. Races, games, contests, stunts will occupy the afternoon. The rally will begin at 2 o'clock. All boys in Twin Falls eleven years of age and over, including fathers and other grown-up boys are welcome to participate in the fun. Youngsters are welcome to sit on the side lines.

A water-bolting contest for national record will be one of the most interesting events. Each entrant will be provided with a stick of wood and a quart pail filled with water and ten minutes will be taken to soak the water in a ball. Then, after inflating the ball, the boys will engage in the contest, and first and last row will be some of the acrobats.

Another event, skin the snake, one-legged race, Halloween hot air contest, etc., will provide further fun.

Every scout troop should hand in its list of entrants to the scout executive by time the rally begins. Boys were eleven and fifteen who do not usually participate in many of the contests. They should give in their names and ages to the officials on the grounds. No money or gift prizes will be awarded as such awards are forbidden to the scout executive. BUSINESS METHODS SUBJECT OF ROTARY

The Twin Falls Rotary club held a very interesting meeting tonight and the program consisted of a discussion of "Business Methods." The program was in charge of the business methods committee and A. J. Leavy headed the committee. Zenna Smith gave a fine review of an article which appeared in the History magazine recently, on "Why Men Strike." This article was a very strong presentation of this subject and brought forth some excellent ideas.

Prof. W. Bent gave a vocal solo which was greatly appreciated by the Rotary members.

TWIN FALLS BUSINESS MEN ARE IN MOVIES

Several of the merchants of Twin Falls are being featured this week at the Orpheum theatre under the caption of "Who's Who." These films were taken recently and show the various business men in front of their places of business. The majority of them are pretty good looking in the movies and the grin of many is worth while. Some are very well dressed but all in all, it is a very nice thing that the business houses and the men who run same.

In the passing contest which was carried on last week Mrs. Clarence Elliott won the first prize for looking like all the business celebrities by seeing only their backs. Mrs. Floyd Lyons was second, C. H. Cochran won third and M. Anderson fourth.

Lovers of the Kiddies will not fail to be on hand at the Rural Federation tea given at the Baptist bungalow Saturday afternoon between 3 and 6 o'clock. The cause is a worthy one.

In urging the most rigid enforcement of laws against running without lights in the city limits, Mayor Hodgkin is on the right track. There have been a great many arrests for violation of the ordinance regulating traffic within the past few months and the evidence shown has been quite commendable, but there must be no let up. An increase in energy, if anything, is required. It is largely carelessness that makes people run without lights.

Reports from Oklahoma indicate that while Jack Walton was running as candidate for the farmers and laborers as well as the Democrats, he was also standing in with some oil men, at least one would think so, judging by the size of the contributions given his campaign fund-tying them. It would, perhaps be enlightening to know from which oil group his committee got its contributions, since the big oil trust is now engaged in freezing out small producing companies and the latter are fighting. If the big affiliated companies were on one side, the smaller ones would naturally be on the other. But it would not be surprising to find the trusts on all sides, since they sometimes not only contribute to both oil parties but even finance new ones where one or other of the old ones seem too independent and inclined to try to remove trust privilege and enforce anti-trust laws. That Walton got oil money for his campaign is interesting news. If it could be shown how much of the same kind of money his enemies received, the story might be positively thrilling.

LAND ARMAMENTS

Capitals of Europe are agreed that there is little hope for a cut in land armaments at this time. While London is said to strongly favor such a step, she recognizes that the time for this action is not opportune. The continent is armed camp.

France, in her present situation, could ill afford to weaken to any appreciable extent her land forces. England, with the Turk experiment fresh in mind, would not hesitate before effecting drastic cuts in her armies. Russia, the colored man of the world, cannot be consulted because she is not a member of the family of nations. Italy, at the peak of a popular wave of territorial aggrandizement, is in no mood to pass by an advantage so easily gained. Greece would be foolish to economize. Only the United States is ready and willing for the step.

"The time is not opportune." It took a grim war and the loss to millions of lives to make the Washington naval cut possible. Must it take another such demonstration of barbarism before the land conference becomes a reality?

THE DAY OF THE ADVERTISEMENT

Is there not a distinct place in the American life of today for the man who regards honesty of statement as the prime essential of the most effective advertisement; who believes that the message of commerce may be written in a language that conforms with its best uses; who puts often the best that a careful education has given him into a pleading for patronage?

The human heart is, after all, the same, whether it belongs to the man who writes an epic or to him who writes an advertisement. Both are striving for the same end: to get their message across to those who read.

Because an advertisement is more commercial than the lyric, is there any reason why we should place less emphasis upon its construction? We ask of a novel, a play or a newspaper editorial that it shall have certain structural qualities, and by these standards we measure them.

Why not the advertisement, now that it is taking such a place in American economy?

In other words, why not take the advertisement more seriously, regard it from a new angle, and insist that it shall reach a certain standard? If we do this, as in fact we are already beginning unconsciously to do, then how about the creator of the advertisement?

The world rewards the man who writes a poem or a book, or who paints a picture, in other ways than with the financial return which it brings to him. The beginning and end of life are, after all, not the material. The recognition of our fellow men is very sweet to our senses. Nothing is more honestly stimulating to higher endeavor; no reward is quite so satisfying.

If the industry may say "Well done," to the writer of the editorial, the book, the poem, the play, would it not do much for the encouragement of another side of literature if the same encouragement were given to the writer of the advertisement?—Atlantic Monthly.

Mrs. Holland Offers Strongest of Proof

"My whole outlook on life has changed since I took the Tanlac treatment, for I've gained 15 pounds in weight and feel like a new person," said Mrs. E. Holland, 1306 E. Duane, near Seattle, Washington. "Several years' suffering from indigestion, palpitation of the heart, dizzy spells and loss of appetite, sapped my strength and energy until I was in an awful condition. Nothing I ate agreed with me and life was a burden. I felt tired and worn out all the time and was so distressed and uncomfortable days dragged until they seemed months. "After I had taken two bottles of Tanlac I began to feel better. My appetite improved I began to enjoy my meals as I hadn't for years, and soon my health began to improve. I stored and I can hardly realize I am the same woman. Tanlac has won my health back and I am feeling grateful." "Tanlac is safe by all good druggists, for sale by all good druggists. Over 57 million bottles sold."

... AT THE ... THEATRES

AT THE IDAHO
The day for the vibrant race was set. Thousands of Idahans sat in the big Coliseum awaiting the contest. Nightly it began to snow. The first figure appeared in a beautifully arranged chariot drawn by four black horses. The driver, a cowboy, wore a horned blured and Buster Keaton was announced. The big gates swung open and the action began. The crowd began to laugh now, for you'll never forget laughing when you see Howlford's antics. When the actor, who appeared in "Three Aces" at the Idaho theatre, begins tomorrow.

COMING TO THE ORPHEUM 3 DAYS BEGINNING TOMORROW

Never in the annals of motion picture history has a film been so successful as this universal appropriation and achieved such a nationwide success as has "The Bohemian Girl." The Metropolitan Corporation's magnificent production of the palatial romance directed by Vicente Blinn, the celebrated Spanish composer of "The Four Horses and "Blood and Sand" fame, brought to the screen at a cost of more than $1,000,000 and embellished with a wealth of beauty that surpasses any ever put into the making of a photograph. "Bohemian Girl" has been acclaimed by critics and public alike wherever it has been presented as a masterpiece of cinematography.

Southern Pacific Says Wheat Cut Helps Farmers

Twain Falls Daily Times.
"Twain Falls, Idaho, Gentlemen: We have noted with interest an article published in your paper, under subject, "Wheat Cut Harsh to Producers," which appeared in your paper August 22. In order that you may have correct understanding of the matter, we wish to state that the same rates are being published in San Francisco and Oakland, effective September 10, that have been published in Los Angeles, that to accomplish these reductions to northern California rates to be changed that the originating line publishing the tariff was not able to make them effective on the same date as the rate to southern California. However, these rates to northern California were published September 10, and are very beneficial to shippers of grain in your territory, which has already been demonstrated by the fact that a number of cars have moved to northern California, and is accounted for by the reduction in rates, which varied in different amounts up to as high as 74 cents per hundred. Think this particular feature should be corrected through your paper. With kindest regards, we are, Yours truly, P. HANCOCK, P. The Times gladly publishes the statement of the Southern Pacific, but not as a copy, because Mr. Hancock does not in any way directly or indirectly deny any statement contained in the same, story of August 22, after the heading referred to. The "Times" referred to in the contents of Senator Frank R. Condit, that the effect of the reduction made up to that time, August 22, was purely nominal, and added "The new rate to California does not include San Francisco." That this was entirely correct is shown by Mr. Hancock's own statement which says, "The same rates are being published in San Francisco and Oakland effective September 10th that have been published in Los Angeles" and his added explanation as to why they could not be made effective at the same time in northern California as in southern California, which seems very reasonable. That rates published and put into effect on August 22, were purely nominal, and added to the cost of the grain, is shown by the fact that the same rates were published in San Francisco and Oakland effective September 10, and are very beneficial to shippers of grain in your territory, which has already been demonstrated by the fact that a number of cars have moved to northern California, and is accounted for by the reduction in rates, which varied in different amounts up to as high as 74 cents per hundred. How a Single Industry Spreads Prosperity

A most significant fact about an industry is the large number of people who benefit from it. Take the cement industry, as an example: The mills used 9,000,000 tons of coal last year. This meant 9,000 coal miners steadily employed—their families, numbering not less than 25,000, maintained—and along with them tradesmen and other people enough to supply the needs of a town of over 50,000.

That is, of course, saying nothing of the business created for coal operators and transportation lines. Sacks are not so large an item in the cement industry as coal, yet 50,000,000 new sacks, representing 50,000 bales of cotton, had to be bought last year for replacements alone. Back of this were cotton planters, plantation workers, mill owners, mill operatives and so on—thousands altogether.

And consider these other requirements of the industry last year:

- 3,700,000 barrels of fuel oil
- 3,400,000 cubic feet of gas
- 15,000,000 pounds of explosives
- 32,000,000 pounds of greases and oils
- 1,700,000 linear feet of belting
- 4,500,000 firebrick for relining kilns
- 7,000,000 pounds of paper for bags
- 600,000 tons of gypsum

In addition the industry bought quantities of heavy grinding and burning machinery, locomotives, cars, rails, electrical and other necessary equipment.

In this way a single industry spreads prosperity to many others.

LITVIN'S STORY VARIES LITTLE FROM HIS FIRST

Accused Car Dealer Makes Cool Witness in His Own Defense. Explains Several Transactions. Fewer Cars Bought from Hannah Than at First Thought.

David Litvin, who took the stand last evening was the first witness in his own behalf and returned to the stand today, varied his testimony but little from that given at the first trial, the most striking variation, being with reference to the number of cars purchased from Hannah.

On his first trial Litvin declared that his best recollection was that he bought 14 cars, all told, of which he bought 11 in 1922. On the stand today he said that this was a mistake as he had discovered on checking up and refreshing his recollection that he had purchased only a total of a dozen, of which nine were bought this year.

Litvin appeared at ease on the stand and answered questions readily.

The witness said that he had been connected with the auto business in various ways about nine years. He had run a taxi in Houston for four or five years and had been engaged in the business of selling second hand cars in this city for three years. During that time he had never heard the expression "hot car" used to designate a car that had been stolen. He denied that Hannah had at one time used it with reference to a car purchased.

Taylor Cross-Examined.

Prosecuting Attorney J. W. Taylor subjected Litvin to a rigid cross-examination during which it developed that the case of the L. H. Hitchcock car, Litvin had bought from Hannah, whose name he signed to the application for a license, was David Litvin's sister, Hilda, and that she had asked the postmaster at Boise to forward the mail of L. H. Hitchcock to Litvin, where it had been.

Kimmey Marches

Grocers and Bean Shippers Since 1901
Twin Falls Idaho

that he had made a mistake regarding the postoffice of L. H. Hitchcock.

Litvin said that Hannah used the same license on all the cars brought in from Utah and then took the license back and brought it in the next car. "He said that on one occasion, when Hannah instead of Litvin got the license, he suggested that H. S. Parker to the application. Litvin said that he asked Hannah why she had done this and Hannah said that it was because he had bought the car from a man named H. S. Parker and had gotten it in the next car. In that name, Litvin said that he did not notice that Hannah had said in that application that the car was from Missouri. He said that he did not think much of it at the time and accepted the explanation of Hannah in regard to it, but it occurred to him when Chief P. O. Herriman of the police came to him about Hannah and Parker and told him that Hannah had been arrested. Asked if he had not heard the chief testify that he had not told the defendant about the arrest of Hannah, Litvin said he did not but that Herriman was mistaken. He said that it occurred to him then that Hannah might have stolen the car, and he did not want all the purchasers coming in to him at once. He said he did not know Hannah. He told the officers later that he had bought three or four cars because he wanted to meet those whose cars had been stolen a few at a time so that he could settle without ruining his business.

Asked if licenses from cars from other states had been put on cars to sell and if cars bought from Hannah and sold to B. Gibbs and David Bark did not have a Texas and Missouri license, respectively, Litvin said he did not recall whether this was true or not.

The case will go to the jury this evening in the opinion of attorneys, as the case is rapidly drawing to a close.

SEARCH FOR DAVE VAUGHN, ALLEGED KILLER, STILL ON

Officers Hunt in Utah for Nevada Man Who Is Charged with the Murder of Mexican About Loss of Field Glasses.

Search for Dave Vaughn, a Nevada man, sought for the alleged killing of a Mexican Sunday although a vigorous search is being conducted, Vaughn is said to be armed and is reported to have left word that he would shoot anyone.

At 2 o'clock Tuesday morning Sheriff J. Harter of Elko telephoned to Sheriff M. E. Finch asking him to send out a man quietly to assist in the hunt as a man was believed to have killed a Mexican near the Idaho line and it takes the presence of an Idaho officer might be desirable. No statement was given until the return last evening of Deputy Sheriff J. W. Gabbard, who had been detailed. The search through the snow revealed nothing. It is said that Vaughn held up a herder and got matches which he thought to injure that he expects to remain in the mountains for some time.

It is said that he accused the dead Mexican of stealing his field glasses and that while under the influence of liquor he got a rifle and forced a Mexican named "Little Joe" to accompany him. Later the horse Vaughn is described as being about 45 years of age, six feet tall, weighing about 175 pounds, with light brown hair slightly gray and wearing a beard and mustache. It is said that he wore a black leather coat, black hat and blue overalls and was mounted on a blackish gray horse.

Some had a front light out and one had parked today, but the tail light told the dark and crowsome tale for most of the two dozen who were halted into court this morning.

Acting Police Judge W. S. Malloy had a hand filled business, separating culprits from the lawless tales told of the flicker tail light were various in detail but centered around the one idea that they told the same thing was unlawful. Some were rural, some were sad, some were laughing and some were mad at the city treasury is all the richer on account of the big rail.
