EAST AND WEST PLAY TIE GAME

Navy and Washington Play To Football Game on New Year's Day Before 50,000 Spectators; Score Was 14 to 14.

PATRIOTIC (Cal., Jan. 2)—A question has been raised as to whether the game between Navy and Cal was as fair as it could be. It was the result of the two teams meeting at the University of California, where the spectators before a crowd of 52,000 persons.

The first period went Wilson, 14 to 0, but the second period was a tie game, 14 to 14.

But on the first day of the second period a forward pass by Culver was ruled a touch-down, and the ball was batted for a Navy touch-down.

Only a few minutes later Washington got the score when Wilson ran across the field and then leaped across the Navy line.

The Navy came back after the end of the first half and then again put the ball on Washington's 18-yard line, and then went three times down to it across for a second touch-down.

Georgia Light-Heavy Proves Self Good Battler in Ring

NEW YORK, N. Y., Jan. 5—Quinton, with his whole family (2 grown sons, a young daughter, and his mother), young Stripling, the Georgia light heavyweight, did it overhandly, but he was beaten by the 10-year-old David Davis, of New York, in the middleweight championship bout at Madison Square Garden.

It was the third time in the last four months that Quinton, who had won the title from the 10-year-old

"We just wanted to show you all our boy could do," said the world champion. "He is a good boy, but like all boys don't know what he wants."

His mother, Mrs. Birthright, said after the bout: "I am very sorry for my son, but he is a lot of trouble when he starts, but the crowd gave him a great reception when he jumped out and ran across the ring. He is a good boy and I am glad he is home again."

The 10-year-old boy so completely defeated Rosevear that the crowd was willing to believe that he could not be beaten.

Only the strength of the 10-year-old boys they fought some time ago in Georgia.

Only by the strength of a little spirit, however, did he win. He had been given one round in the 12, and he had, hardly enough in that, one round in the 13.

The Striplings and brother, Herbert were in the corner working with White.

Stripling is his wife's, that fighting showed were only those of youngest who hasn't had enough experience to know how to fight.

DEMSEY WILL DEFEND TITLE
DURING YEAR

—By JESSE L. FARNER

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Jack Dempsey wants to defend his heavyweight title three times this year. He has little time to rest, however, because of his 100th day, Independence day, and Labor day.

Use your own judgment," was the only advice that Dempsey was able to get out of the champion about the heavyweights he wanted to work with.

Dempsey left yesterday to begin for Jacksonville, Fla., with Ted Lewis, his traveling companion and the champion ready for a strenuous day before leaving.

The champion said before leaving that the impression prevails here that the champion is not a good fighter.

It is agreed to pick a spot down south for a training camp to be used in getting ready for a strenuous day before leaving.

Dempsey had a long talk about his 1921 program, which pleased him.

Lee also wrote Tommy Gibbons, his first and third sons, and Gibbons agreed with the champion about Gibbons as a drawing card.

LEWIS—Tommy Gibbons, Dempsey's son, will be with him during his stay in Florida.

Gibbons will be a good addition to the light heavyweight competition.

Gibbons would not be a good card to play in the 1921 tour, but he can be used in the 1922 tour to get a house around here.

Levick, who is to return soon, will be with him, he believed, and final conditions will be such that a contest with White will be arranged.

Between himself and Paddy Mulligan, he said, he will be well prepared to meet the champion.

1924 DAWNED WITH 366 DAYS

Now it comes to pass that 1924 is a leap year. What are you going to do with the extra day? A curious question, perhaps, but well worth asking for the extra day emphasizes the importance of time in our lives, which are all too short.

It's wise to regard of good intentions and ambitions and start with New Year resolutions. Wiser still, to realize that EVERY DAY has to be New Year Day unless we want to fail behind the procession. The fine resolutions should be renewed, the high ambitions enlarged, every morning without exception. January 1 is the time to start. All start. Few finish.

LICENSING THE SCHOOL TRUCKS

There has been some discussion and speculation as to the constitutionality of the law or custom under which school districts have been paying licensees of trucks used in hauling children to and from school. From a cursory examination of the constitution of the state and the supreme court decision, the school boards of independent school districts might be justified in calling into question their liability in this matter. In fact, there is nothing money involved to justify the small expense that would be incurred in taking this question through the courts and at least having a final decision rendered by the supreme court.

If the future legislation is going to be similar to what we had in the last session, it is time to look to some other source for protection, from virtual confirmation in the way of taxes and license fees.

The republican party, perhaps unknowingly, at the last election became the tool of the Oregon Short Line Railroad company, the Boise Valley Tractor company, and the Idaho Power company, all of which are responsible for the change in the motor vehicle license law of the state. While the motor vehicle may, to some extent, control the revenue of these companies, it is to be recognized that body of men appointed to represent the interests of the whole people of the state would lead themselves as willing tools of these corporations to suppress honest competition, and this, herein lies the first step in that direction. It was not, they say, the ranks of the state are in such a depleted condition as to call for relief, and an enormous amount of money for maintenance purposes, or that no emergency exists for building new roads that this extortion measure was put through but to cut off all business and thus possible the competition that arises from the operation of trucks and state lines.

The necessities of the people is a wise argument to avoid dividends of any private corporation, but right here in Idaho we see the operation on a small scale of the old system of "privileges" and the acts of this last state administration demonstrate the influence that can be exerted by the money power through invisible legislation of the "third house."

These forces are more concerned in preventing the operation of automobiles and trucks than in building roads in the state, and if this operation cannot be stopped, then, at least, make the public pay a higher rate for such services as they render.

Hence, unless about ten thousand republican voters will vote their interests in big corporations, for the result of last election would indicate that number were financially interested in them, the people less fortunate will have to turn to some other source for protection.

Section 4 of Article 1 of the constitution provides that the property of the United States, the state, counties, towns, cities and other municipal corporations, shall be exempt from taxation. While the supreme court has said under section 5, of Article 1, that a school district is not a municipal corporation under this section, the case there referred to a public school and not an independent district. Section 80 of the act providing for the organization of independent school districts reads in part:

"The district so established is constituted a body corporate, and by its corporate name may: Make contracts, sue and be sued, have a corporate seal, etc." If there is any institution in the state that is entitled to all the benefits of the public school, and if we are to contribute an excessive amount of our school money to the state for other purposes than running schools, the old slogan of the politician "the greatness of our schools" will have nothing to live up to. Wilson's "democracy" does not mean a place of government under which they can afford to live - Exchange.

We do not assume here any responsibility as to the legal status of this matter, but under the dissenting opinion of Judge Albie in the 20th Idaho, page 108, we do claim the right of the citizen, and even of the law, failed in our contention in court, we might in the end save our school district considerable money, even by instituting our protest in this way. The death grip fastened upon the political pallid of this state, by the repose of the republican party, backed with money of the big corporations, will be hard to break and until political prejudice can be overcome by some sound reason, we doubt if even extortion, bankruptcy and the like will cause an change of heart in the extraterritorial to give the people a place of government under which they can afford to live - Exchange.
